Seeming somewhat to reflect upon the Earl of Nottingham's Conduct, as endeavoring rather to Court the Count de Carasena Governor of Galicia, than to be Courted by Him.
6. A Lettre to the same, written from the Groyne, 27 April 1605. fol. 12. b.
Upon Occasion of the Incident which had happened by the Decease of an English-man, whom the Spaniards would not permitt to be Buried in their Ground: whom, notwithstanding, the Earl of Nottingham had caused to be buried there privately.
7. A Lettre to the Earl of Northampton from Valledolid, 29 May 1605. fol. 14.
Importing that the Constable of Castile had not hitherto shewn him much Courtelie or Respect. That the Spaniards spake honorably of His Lordship, the Lord Cranbourne, & the Earl of Suffolk: that he desired his Lordship to be a meane to continue him in the Lord Cranbournes good Opinion: and hinting as if his Allowance was too short in a Dear Countrey, especially while he continued in Debt.
8. To the Lords of the Councell, written from Valledolid, 31 May 1605. fol. 16.
Describing the Public Entry which the Earl of Nottingham, his Majesties Ambassador Extraordinary made into that City; and the Reception they both had from the King & Queen of Spain & Constable of Castile, &c. The Conference with

- the Conde de Olivarez, and the Reasons he gave why it would not be Convenient that his King should swear to the performance of the Treaty in his Chappell; and why they could not be admitted to Dine with Him, which was an Honor he had always refused not only to Ambassadors, but to Cardinals, & Popes Nuncios being Cardinals; nay, even to the Duke of Savoy a Sovereign Prince & his near Kinsman. An Account of the Dinner of Honor they had at the Duke of Lerma's (where the King & Queen saw all) and there were Two Marquisses & Two Earls (a Thing very extraordinary in Spaine) who waited at the Table: Of a Religious Procession whereat the King & Court assisted, and where there was a remarkable Mixture of Things Prophane with Sacred Matters. For in the same were seen Counterfeit Dragons, Giants, & disguised Moris-dancers who Danced & Sang within the Ranks of some of the Fryars. The Ceremony of the Kings taking the Oath abovementioned, & Signing the Treaty. How the King invited them to the Sight of the Jurgo de Torros, & the Jurgo de Canas; with other matters.*
9. To the Lord Ellesmer Lorde Chauncellour of England, from Villadolid 1 Jun. 1605. fol. 30. b.
 10. To the Lord Viscount Cranbourne Principal Secretarie to his Majestie, from Villadolid 1 June 1605. fol. 31. b.
Shewing how well the Earl of Nottingham had defended himself against the Duke of Lerma who had endeavored to Sift him; & complaining of the great Charge he was put to there.
 11. To the same, from Villadolid 2 Junij 1605. fol. 33. b.
Giving the Sum of what he had heard concerning the Spaniards being fond of the New-made Peace, and the Reason of it, viz. their Inability to continue the War two Years longer. That the Jesuits have been busy in Corrupting divers of their Followers. That the Spaniards were in fear of the Moors both within & without their Kingdome. That it was talked as if the King intended to go to the Low-Countries, & try if he could, by fair means, reduce the United Provinces to his Obedience. That the Dearth is so great, that he cannot support his Ordinary Charges there under 50 l. weekly.
 12. To the same, from Villadolid, 6 Junij 1605. fol. 38. b.
Concerning the great Honors done to the Earl of Nottingham at his Taking Leave of the Spanish Court; when the King gave him in Jewels to the Value of 20000 pounds. That his Lordship had deserved well of the Spanish People, to whom he had occasionally given about 3500 Pounds. And that the Spaniards began to expect the good Effects of their Treaty with England, in regard to the Hollanders.
 13. To the Lords of the Councell, from Villadolid, 9 Junij. fol. 40.
Concerning the State of the Spanish Court; & that the Council were well affected to the King of England; & respectful to himself; so that he hoped he should be able to procure redress to the Complaints of our Merchants. That the dilatoriness of the Spanish Counsels kindred them from laying hold on proper Oppertunities; and that their chiefest Virtue is their Secresie.

Num. 1875.

14. To His Majestie, from Villadolid, 9 Julij, 1605. fol. 42.
Giving a Character of the Spaniards, and of their good affection toward his Majesty. That there was a rumor as if the French endeavored to procure a Mariage between the Dolphin & the Infanta; and to play some game in Scotland.
15. To the Earle of Northampton, from Villadolid, 9 Julij 1605. fol. 44. b.
Shewing the Joy which the Spaniards took from the Kings being angry with the Dutch, who had been so insolent as to assault the Spaniards in his Port of Dover.
16. To the Lord Viscount Cranbourne Earle of Salisburie, Principal Secretarie to his Majestie, from Villadolid 9 Julij 1605. fol. 46.
Sending him a List of the Scots Nobility & Gentry who had Pensions from Spain; & promising another of the Irish in the same Circumstance. That some Scots there, had evil Intentions toward their own King & Countrey. That the Duke of Savoy having a design against Geneva, much desired the Service of one Captain Gray a verie cunning Engineer & an English man.
17. To Sir Henry Wotton His Majesties Ambassador Leiger in Venice, 11 Julij 1605. fol. 48. b.
Setting forth the Honors shewn in the Spanish Court to the Earl of Nottingham, & Respects to himself; with the daily apparent marks of the Spaniards Love & good Affection to our King.
18. To the Lords of the Councill, from Villadolid, 15 July 1605. fol. 49. b.
Pursuing what he before wrote to the King; that he is advertized that the French Ambassador had written to his Court by way of Complaint against Him; for which he had given no Occasion, unless it might be once in the Puntilio of a Ceremony. That a Marriage having been agreed upon between the Prince of Mantua & the Second Daughter of the Duke of Savoy, which might possibly produce somewhat prejudicial to the Spanish Interest in Italy; the King had written to the Duke :: (in a sort Mandatory) to relinquish the Treatie; which he took in verie evil part, since he might not Dispose of his own Children, or have leave to performe his Word. That one Captain Atkinson had been in Conference with the Conde de Villa-longa one of the Spanish Secretaries of State; and was willing to impart some projects unto them for Disturbing the Hollanders Fishing on our Coasts, if our King did not employ him; and that, in the mean time they had given him a Chaine of 160 pounds value.
19. To the Earle of Salisbury, from Villadolid 17 July 1605. fol. 53.
That by the Death of Sir Thomas Palmer (who had been reconciled to the Church of Rome before he died) a good Ward was come to his Lordship. And that he had assured unto him two several Persons in the Spanish Court, who had promised to give him Intelligence of Matters for the Reward of 200 Crowns apiece.
20. To the same. fol. 54. b.
Giving an Account of the tottering condition of the Spanish Monarchy. That many Pensions were given to English, Scots, & Irish, who yet would willingly get into their own Countreys, if they could. That a Spanish Lady had undertaken a journey to

Num. 1875.

England, in Order to convert the Queen. That if the King of Spain could be at Peace with the Hollanders, he would turn his whole force against the Moors of Africa. That himself had an Humour fallen into his Feet; and Lived at Excessive Charges.

21. To the Earle of Northampton, 27 Julij, 1605. fol. 58. b.

Referring to other Letters; in the Merchants Causes, complaineth at large of the Intricacy and Delays used in the Spanish Court; and returneth his Thanks for Favors received.

22. To the Earle of Salisbury, from Villadolid, 28 July 1605. fol. 16.

Relating several Projects of the Spaniards, in Order to a closer Amity with England; as calling a General Council, for settling all disputable points in Religion; Marrying the Prince of Wales to their Infanta, who might have part of the Low Countries to Her Portion; giving to the King an Yearly Pension of some Millions of Ducats, and security for it, &c. He also expatiates upon the Discommodities which may accrue unto England by a long Peace; as the Destruction of the Navy Royall, Loss of Masters, Pilots, Mariners, &c.

23. To the Lords of the Council, from Villadolid, 28 July, 1605. fol. 65. b.

Relating his Answer upon the Expostulation made unto him by the Kings Order, that He had English Prayers Read in his House, and the Calvinian Religion openly Preached there, to the Scandal of good Catholics, & the Endangering the Kings Subjects: as had been vehemently sett forth by a Dominican in his Sermon: with other Mercantile affairs.

24. To Sir Thomas Parey His Majesties Ambassadour Resident in Fraunce: from Villadolid, 5 August 1605. fol. 71.

Concerning the projected match of the Dauphin with the Infanta.

25. To the Lords of the Council: from Villadolid, 7 August 1605. fol. 72.

That the King of Spain intended to move the King of Denmark to forbid all Commerce with the Hollanders; & to recompence him the Loss to be sustained in His Customs thereby. That the French were endeavoring to have a Cardinals Hat & divers Episcopal Miters bestowed upon Englishmen; which was opposed by the English Jesuits, who desired rather to please & not to Offend his Majestie. That there was a Report as if the Younger Son of the Earl of Tyrone (then in Spain) bare a malignant Humour to our Nation. He complaineth much of the extreme delays & protraction of Time used by the Spaniards: and of the Dearth of Corne at Villadolid through the Idleness and Carelessness of the Government: and that the Jesuits keep a strict but Secret Correspondence with the Catholics in England.

26. To the Lords of the Council from Villadolid, 18 August, 1605. fol. 76. b.

That the Earl Bothwell & others were endeavoring to disturb Scotland; but that their Offers were rejected by the Spaniards. That the said Earl is like to be clapped up in the Inquisition, having lately brought his Concubine to the Church & there took the Sacrament with her, which act was deemed to proceed from Irreligion, or at least from Irreverence; that by dealing in Astrological matters, he had incurred the Suspicion of a Sorcerer.

Num. 1875.

27. To the Earle of Salisbury, from Villadolid, 18 August. fol. 78. b.

Concerning the Ill will of some Scotts; that the Conde de Villa-Moriana had created some distaste against himself, as not appearing to be so able a Polititian as he was thought to be. That some in his Houseould seemed somewhat inclined to Popery, being induced thereunto by the Pomp of their Ceremonies. Among others, he is in much fear of his own Chaplain, Mr. Wadsworth a Bachelor in Divinity of the University of Cambridge, & a Learned man; whom therefore he meaneth to send into England, where he may be well looked after. That his family is very Sickly; and among the rest, four have the Disease called Taberdilio.

28. To the same, from Villadolid, 20 August 1605. fol. 82.

Advertising him of the Arguments he used with the Spaniards, in Order to induce them to Redress the many Grievances complained of by our Merchants. That this might be furthered, if the Lords of the Council would write a Letter to Him, reprehending him as if he had been negligent in that Affair, &c.

29. To the Earle of Suffolke (Thomas Howard) Lord Chamberlaine to His Majestie. fol. 85.

A Letter of Compliment & Thanks.

30. To the Earle of Salisbury, from Villadolid 24 August 1605. fol. 85. b.

Complaining of Sir Thomas Southwells Ingratitude to Him. That the Spaniards still continue jealous of His Lordship, as if he was not well affected to Them. That the French labor much to procure a stricter Amity with the Spaniard. That Carre Brother to the Lord of Newbotle, is sending an Evil Instrument into Scotland, whom he will Endeavor to Intercept.

31. The Contents of a Lettre written to the Earle of Nottingham Lord High Admiral of England; from Villadolid 2 September 1605. fol. 88. b.

Concerning some reflecting Speeches which the Earl had used concerning Him; whereupon Sir Charles wrote, That his Lordship having, by Favour of the Prince he served, atteyned Tytles of Honor, would have in Memorie that He was borne onely Mr. Charles Howard, and that He was borne Charles Cornwallyes. That His Lordship was Extract of the most Noble House of Norfolk; and that it might be, He could prove himself was descended from the best Houses of England. That whereas his Lordship had proffered unto Him His Honorable Love & Favour, He accepted of the same. And whereas His Lordship had said that if His Majestie would not Lend unto Him the 5000 l. he desired, that Himself would: Sir Charles is willing to borrow 500 l. and give him Security for it.

32. To the Earle of Salisbury. fol. 90. b.

Concerning the Bearer (whom I suppose to be his Son) to whom He gave 200 Pounds per ann. upon his Mariage, and within Two Years after did pay all his Debts; who having Spent & Sold All; Sir Charles upon His Lordships Recommendation, doth now give Him 200 Pounds per ann. more, and a good Character.

33. To the same from Villadolid, 4 September 1605. fol. 93.

Num. 1875.

Complaining of the unwholesome Air, which hath brought the Countrey-Distemper upon him. Thanks his Lordship for procuring an Increase of his Allowance. Shewing that the Spaniards give good Words, but abuse our Merchants by their Delaies & other Injuries, to the Dishonor of our King. That the Conde de Villa-Longa spake largely of the Desire had there of a Marriage betweene the Prince of Wales & the Infanta; & wished Him neither to trust the French, nor Venetian Ambassadors; which Counsel Sir Charles imputeth to the Spanish Jealousie.

34. To the Lords of the Counsell, from Villadolid; 6 September 1605. fol. 98. b.

Sending the Answer of the K. of Spains Council to his. Two Memorials in Behalf of the English Merchants, whose Busines he begins to hope he may at length draw into some Conclusion, although not suitable to the Justice of their Cause. All this he imputeth to the Villany of the Spanish Officers, which is so exorbitant, that our Merchants had better bear with the loss of their Goods at the first, if not too great, than to lose more time & money, with the hazard of their Healths & Lives in seeking for Redress. He here giveth two Instances of the Spanish Injustice, one is, briefly, A Scots Ship & Cargo was Seized & Confiscated divers years since, as belonging to the English; Testimonies were produced from the Kings Council in Scotland, as also from His Majesty himself under his Seal, that no part thereof did belong to any Englishman, which Royal Testimony, by the Laws of Spain, ought to be received without exception. The Spaniards to evade the same, alledged that the King not being under the Obedience of the Pope, nor in the Union of the Catholick Church, no Credit could be given to his Testimony. However, the Advocate for the Scotsman urged, that this Exception was Invalid, since there was no Excommunication or other Public Denunciation against the King; He could do no good. That the Spaniards being advertized from England that some dislike had arisen between the King & the Parliament, and that His Treasury was exhausted; began to Settle less Value upon the Peace than before; but upon his Answers were brought into better Order.

35. Translation of the Memorial which Sir Charles Cornwallis sent unto the King of Spain by Mr. Ousley his Secretarie for the Spanish Tongue, at Burgos, in Behalf of the English Merchants Tradeinge into Spain; with the answer of that Kings Council apostilled. 14 September 1605. fol. 104. b.

36. The Contents of a Letter to the Earle of Salisbury, from Villadolid, 8 September 1605. fol. 110.

That upon Advertizement out of England that his Lordship is a great Enemy to Spaine, some of the Spanish Counsel wished there should be a present Denuntiation of his Malignant Humour to the King; and if therewith not amended; that then a shorter Course be taken with him. That the Duke of Lerma & Conde de Villa-Longa disliked those Motions, and would by no means there should be any Violent Course used. That Mr. Carre's sending his Man now into Scotland, is with no good Intent. That Secretary Prada hath promised him quicker Dispatch for the future. He, however, adviseth that by some general Musters, in themselves by reason of their long omission, not unnecessary; by preparation of Ships, or some other way, the Spaniards may be brought to muse, though not to Mistrust. That he found good use of Creswell Superior of the English Jesuits there, who although he be desirous to propagate his Religion, retaineth nevertheless a Faithful & Loving Disposition to our King and Countrey: That his Family holdeth firm to their Religion, except his Chaplain, of whom however he hopeth the best, since he hath sent no Message to the House of late. That Henry O'Neale Sonne to the Earle of Tyrone is designed for a Colonell to a Regiment of Irish in the Low-Countreys, which he misliketh, although the same O'Neal hath given proofs of his good affection to our Nation.

37. To the Earle of Southampton (Henry Wriothesley) from Villadolid. fol. 114.

Recommending his Son unto him, in the first place; & then, shewing how they both might get Money by Transporting Corn from England to Spain, where it was much wanted.

38. To Sir George Bucke Knt. from Villadolid. fol. 115. b.

Hinting as if the King of Spains not giving him a Medal, was occasioned by the Earl of Nottingham, against whom Sir Charles was somewhat Piqued; although he takes great Comfort that he hath ever avoided, as to all men, Revenging Resolutions. That since the Earls Departure from Spaine, God & Tyme hath made Paules Steeple knowne to be but a Steeple; and poore White-Chapel a Church; which though low & little, is yet in its Measure, not unfitt for the Use it is putt unto. He heareth not of any Book written of the Entertaynement of my Lord Admirall (i. e. the Earl of Nottingham) He came (says Sir Charles) He was here; He is gone; & so is his Memory, save onely in the Shoppes of this Cittie, where the Spanish Gallants, will continue it yet, for a Year or Two.

39. To the Lords of the Councell; from Villadolid.

That the King of Spain hath had the Flux, but is well; that the Queen hath laboured of the Dangerous Disease of the Taberdillio (which I take to be the same with Purples, or rather Plaguespots) and remains yet in Gods Balance; also, that there have been solemn Procession & Prayers for Her; Sir Charles & his Family praying at the same time for Her in his House. That the Indian Fleet came not well back, and, as it was said, brought but half a Million of Treasure. That 36 Ships are going from Lisbon to Holland. That it was Reported, as if the King of Spain was about to raise the Value of his Coin, whereby he would gain 15 Millions. Desireth further Directions how to proceed in the Merchants Affairs; and Advertizeth his Proceedings with Relation to the Contestable Articles of the Treaty, which he is afraid he shall not be able to go through without Bribes; For money was grown so scarce at Court, as it was said, that at the Kings last Remove, they had much ado to defray the Ordinarie Charge of his Journey.

40. To

Num. 1875.

40. To the Earle of Salisbury, from Villadolid, 15 September 1605. fol. 121. b.

That advertisement had come hither from England, that a Revolted Popish Priest had a Warant for Saying Prayers according to the Popish way (if I understand the Expressions aright) from the Archbishop of Canterbury & his Lordship. That there had been a working to remove the English Jesuits from thence to Salamanca; & that Parsons the Jesuit had a mind to come from Rome thither, & send Creswell to Rome in his stead; which Exchange Sir Charles liked not: That at Villadolid there is a Countrey-man of His one Walpole a Jesuit, a hot-headed Fellowe, & as full of Practize as he is of Learning: that he had laid some Baits for Him, to drawe his Tongue to Witnesse the Malice of his Heart; wherein if He could prevaile, he doubted not to obtain his Removal from thence. That his Chaplain had revolted; and as it was secretly said, was to go to Rome, and that the King had given him a Pension of 40 Duckets the Month. He desireth that his Poor Son may be no Step-child to the Kings Grace & Bounty, since a Matter of no Great Value would cleare the Estate to Him.

41. To the same, from Villadolid. fol. 124. b.

Gives his Lordship the Certain Number of Ships & Gallies, which went from Lisbon, under Command of Don Lewis de Flixado. That the Spaniards were again grown Stiffe, as to the Dispatch of our Merchants Suits, upon a false Report as if Justice had been denied to them here. But upon advertisement that our King had lately caused 3 or 4 Principal Pyrats to be Executed, their Minds are made somewhat more Benevolent, & they promise speedy Dispatch.

42. To the Lords of the Councell, from Valiodalid. fol. 126.

Advertiseth the Imprisonment of some Englishmen at St. Jehan de Luz, upon a false Accusation, as if they had design to take the Town of Bayonne. And that many Lying Rumours having been Spread as if the Kings of Great-Britain & Spain had a Design to attack France, he had a Conference with the French Ambassador thereupon, who had promised Satisfaction should be made to the King.

43. A Letre to the Duke of Lerma; mentioned in another to the Lords of the Councell, bearing Date the 15th of September; a Copie thereof being sent unto them. fol. 128.

Complaining of the grievous delays of the Spanish Courts, in Redressing the Wrongs committed by the Spaniards, Sicilians, & Portuguese upon the English; and tacitly threatening a Rupture between the two Crowns if Satisfaction were not soon made for what was past, and a Stop put to such Proceedings for the future.

Here followeth the Coppies of such Letres as were written to Sir Charles Cornwallies Knight, his Majesties Ambassadour-Leiger with the King of Spaine during the tyme of his Ambassage; both from England, and alsoe from His Majesties Ambassadors, vizt. of France, Venice, & Flaunders.

Num. 1875.

44. From the Lords of the Councell, 31 May 1605. fol. 133.

Requiring him to Sollicit the Causes of the Merchants who had suffered by the Spaniards; particularly that of John Eldred, &c. who had laded the Ship Tryal with Merchandize to the Value of 40000 Duckets. This Rich Ship was taken by the Vice-Roy of Sicilie's Ships or Gallies, upon Pretence that it was a Man of War, which had taken the Goods by Piracy. They Tortured therefore the Merchant, Master, & Purser, to make them Confess this pretended Piracy, so that they all died in Prison: and the meaner fellows, in Order to escape the like inhuman Treatment had Confessed what they knew to be false.

45. From Henry Howard Earl of Northampton & Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports. fol. 136.

Recommending the Cause of the Sicilian Merchants abovementioned; and exhorting him to transact the Affairs entrusted to Him, with Diligence & Dexterity.

46. From the Earl of Salisbury Principal Secretary of State. 20 June 1605. fol. 138.

Concerning the Hollanders attacking the Spaniards within the Limits of the Ports of Dover, where they were Defended by our Cannon. With Instructions how to Answer to all Demands of the Spaniards arising from that Accident; which seemed to have been (as to their coming into our Harbour) projected by themselves; who now also desired Our King to sett their Souldiers safely on shoar in Flaunders, out of danger from the Hollanders, &c.

47. From Sir Thomas Parry His Majesties Ambassadour in France.

48. From the Lord Thomas Howard of Effingham. fol. 146.

49. From Thomas Howard Earle of Suffolke, Lord Chamberleine. fol. 147.

This is a very kind Letter, and shewed the Heart of a truly noble Person.

50. From Charles Howard Earle of Nottingham, Lord High-Admiral of England.

Recommending the Cause of one George Strawyn a Scots-man, whose Ship & Lading to the Burthen of 140 Tons in the late War was Seized by the Spaniards, & divers of the Men cruelly Burned by the Inquisition. The Loss of the Goods amounted to 40000 Ducats.

51. From Sir Thomas Parrey His Majesties Ambassadour in France. fol. 148. b.

Recommending the Suit of Mr. Kadishe unto him.

52. From the Earle of Salisbury. fol. 149.

Concerning Sir Charles's Domestic Affairs, and desiring him to add to the Provision he had already made for his Son William. That the Spaniards here had so far Insisted upon Our Kings transporting their Souldiers from Dover to Flaunders, as that he had sent to desire the Dutch to give their Consent unto it.

53. From Sir Thomas Edmunds, His Majesties Ambassadour Resident with the Arch-Duke. fol. 153. b.

That the Dutch would not consent to our Kings transportation of the Spanish Souldiers remaining at Dover, to Flaunders. That the Lord Arundel of Wardour was expected to be Colonel of the English

CATALOGVS LIBRORVM MSS.

Num. 1875.

Regiment in the Service of the Arch-Duke, which was already encreased to 1500 men. That the Lord Humes Scotch Regiment was not yet come. And that the Marquis of Spinola went on prosperously against the Hollanders.

54. From the Earle of Northampton. fol. 156. b.

A long Letter; reflecting on the Pride, Ambition, & Deceitfulness of the Earl of Nottingham Lord High Admiral, his Kinsman, & the Contest between him & Sir Charles, whom he had not been able to hurt. That at a proper time He would stand Sir Charles's Friend, in the matter of augmenting his Allowance. He adviseth Sir Charles to cultivate the Amity so newly established between the two Crowns; and tacitly blameth Sir Francis Walsingham, who by inflaming Matters partly occasioned that Warre, which was then the Quintessence of his Delight, and is now the Torment of his Transgression. On this Occasion, the same Noble Earl proceedeth in a manner not unsuitable to these Times. Amongst other Toyes (saith He) we looke for some Straines in the Parliament for the renewing of a Warre; and the more Violent in respect of the late Reports of Scarcity, of Penurie, & weaknes in those parts. For though it be true that by Warre we were as Poore as they; that the Realme would give no more; the Revenue could afford noe more; and that the Queene sold Her Land by Lumpes: yet all are now perswaded that without a Peace, the King of Spaine would haue Resigned upp unto the Kings Hands his whole Dominion. Such is our aptnes to be puffed upp with Toyes, and to thinke all lost that is not undertaken out of Humour without Ground, according to the Proportions that are likewise holden in gravissimis by sundrey Persons in this State, whose Judgments are Distracted; and their Heads Distempered. He advertizeth also Sir Charles, that his unkind Brother Southwell had made many attempts to work him prejudice; both with the King & others: but that the Earl of Salisbury, Himself, &c. had baffled & disappointed the same; but that however, he would advise him to Settle his Estate, & make some good Allowance to his Son, whereupon he might subsist, untill the Kings Favor should be extended to him.

55. From Sir Henry Wotton, His Majesties Ambassadour Resident with the States of Venice. fol. 168. (October A. D. 1605.)

Desiring to Keep a Continued & Regular Correspondence with him, as well in Order to promote the Interest of the King their Master, as to improve their former Acquaintance. For which End he would (in his next) send Sir Charles a Cypher with some Abbreviations.

56. Sir Charles's Answer to the foregoing Letter, in very Civil & Frendly terms. Advertising him moreover of the departure of the Spanish Fleet. That it was thought that the Constable should presently be sent into Germany, to negotiate an Election of the King of the Romans; and that the Duke of Sessa should goe for an Ambassador Resident in Rome. He sendeth Sir Henry therewith a Discourse of that Dukes concerning the late stirring of Humours in Italy by the Counte of Fuentes; and writeth kindly of Mr. Wotton Nephew to Sir Henry, who was then with him in Spain.

57. A Discourse upon the Citation, by Order from the Governour of Millan, the first of July 1605. fol. 171. b.

This seemeth to be the Discourse mentioned in the last Letter; and striketh against the Judgment of those who were for the King of Spains reviving his Pretensions to many Places or Fiefs in Italy, and among the Grisons, &c.

58. A Letter from the Earle of Salisbury to Sir Charles, 12 Sept. 1605. fol. 176.

Advertising, that the King was returned safe from his Progress, and about a Month after the Terme, would hold a Parliament, in which Session, his Lordship hoped, those things would be concluded, which might bee an Occasion to deferre anie of those Assemblies, for some good Space; the two principal Propositions to be debated therein, being Matter of the Unyon & Subsidie. That although Spinola had gotten Reputation in the Netherlands; yet there was likely to be less alteration there, than either of the Contending parties had promised to themselves. That the Scots had spurned against his Majesties Design of Adorning that Kingdom with Bishops; & had in some parts of that Realme presumed to hold their General Assemblies contrarie to his Commandment. That Thereupon, divers Lords had been cyted before the Council, Censured, & sent to Prison. He answereth to divers of the advertisements sent formerly unto him by Sir Charles; and (amongst others) to that about his Chaplains turning Papist; that a Priest belonging to the Count de Villamediana here, is now become Converted, & defyeth all Romane Corruption: That his Majestie had approved his answer to Don Blasco, and had willed him to tell Him, that when it shall not be as free for Him (Sir Charles) using it as he had done, to receive the Comfortable Foode & Exercise of Prayer & Preaching in his Familie, as it is for the Spanish Ambassadour on this Side, He is resolved, without Dispute or Delay, to Revoke him home. That the Dutch had resolutely denied their Consent to the quiet Passage of the Spanish Souldiers in Dover, to Flanders, and therefore he directeth him how to answer those in Spain who should believe that Our King ought to have exerted himself further, with respect to the Hollanders, on that occasion. And that the Lord Arundel of Wardour, who had disobeyed his Majesties Command by going into Flanders in a manner contrary to his Pleasure, of which his Lordship had been apprised; was commanded, after the Campaign should be over, & the reparation of his Regiment seiled, to render his person before the Council, and soe to abide His Majesties farther Censure.

59. The Kings Letre or Discourse concerning the unlawful Assembly or Councell lately held by the Ministers of Scotland; sent into Spaine to my Lord Ambassadour Cornwallyes, by the Earle of Salisbury, with the former Letre A. D. 1605. fol. 186. b.

60. A Proposition made by Mr. Winwood from his Majestie unto the States of the Lowe-Countries touching the Transportation of the Spaniards that arrived for Succour at Dover, into Flanders: And the aunswere made from the States unto His Majestie. fol. 191. b. These Pieces are both in French; and the last beareth date, 2 August, 1605.

61. A Letter from Sir Thomas Edmondès His Majesties Ambassadour-Resident with the Arch-Duke in Flaunders, to Sir Charles Cornwalllyes 20 September 1605. fol. 198. b.
Of the ill Success attending the Enterprise of a French Officer named Monsieur de Terraile, who would needs attempt the taking of Bergben op Zoom by Surprise. That the Count de Villa-Mediana was arrived, very well Satisfied with his Reception at the Court of England; and that the Spaniards at Dover were resolved to Steal into Flanders by Night, in hope of passing thither undiscovered by the Dutch. Finally, that the Princes were newly returned from the Pilgrimage they had devoutly made to the Lady of Sichem (who had great Reputation there) in hopes of obteyning of Issue by Her means.
62. Sir Charles Cornwalllyes, to the Earle of Salisbury Principall Secretary to his Majesty, from Valiodalid, 18 October 1605. fol. 200. b.
Advertising, that Sir Anthony Shirley & Sir Edward Riche (who had shaped their Religion to the Spanish State, & to each of whom the K. of Spain giveth 200 Crowns a Month) being attended with Ten Servants had hired a Ship at Cales, to pass over into Barbary. That 17 young men were lately received into the College of the English Jesuits at Sevil. That the Spanish Councils were very intent upon some great Matter, and were extraordinarily assembled. That they were grown mighty uppish with respect to England, (from whence they had too many advertisements) and were resolved to amuse him with Hopes of Dispatch, & yet to do little or nothing in his Business. He wisheth therefore, that the Parliament would make some Motions, backed by sound Reasons, for Breaking the Peace, and supporting the King in a new War with them; which would surely bring them back to a better Temper.
63. Another, to the same: from Valiodalid. fol. 202. b.
Advertising, that the Spanish Ambassador in England being judged unapt for his Employ, it was proposed to send him an Assistant, whom some thought would be a Scot. He enlargeth much upon the Pride, Laziness, & dilatory Humor of the Spaniards, which had hitherto held them from doing any thing in the Causes of the English Merchants, who were almost ruined by the delay. That therefore he thinketh a short Course with them would have the best Effect, and probably awake them from their Lethargy. That when things have been Consulted upon & Determined in the Councils, all the Papers are sent to the Duke of Lerma; and if there be a Bird to be shot in the Woods, an Hare in the Field, or Rabbit in the Borow, they lie Dead, though they concerne the Life or Soule of the Poore, or the Greatest Good whatsoever of the Common. That he hopeth, by the next, to give His Majesty a good foundation of the Projects mentioned above at § 22. which have been since Considered by the Duke of Lerma, &c. and approved. That the Lord Wotton's Son was Dead, & honorably buried (Sir Charles laying down the Money, since the Young Gentleman had been disappointed of his fathers Remittances) but died a Papist, being Seduced by Walpoole the Jesuit.
64. To the Earle of Northampton, from Valiodalid. fol. 209.

Num. 1875.

- Complaining of the different Usage he meeteth with in Spain, from that given to the Spanish Ambassador in England; although he seeth that the Spaniards (notwithstanding the Earl of Nottingham's brow-beating him there) continued to shew Him a much better countenance than they did to others; and had promised to Compound with the greatest part of the Petitioning English Merchants. That his Majesties Gracious Usage of the Spanish Ambassador in England, only increaseth their Pride & Vanity, they attributing whatsoever is done to the merit of their Greatnes, & fear of their Power, their Humor being to over-value themselves & to abase others. Thus others can performe noe more than what is due to soe super-eminent a Monarchy; and what they did to the Lord Admiral, was (as they say) to shew their Greatness. That, for his part, he is very plain with them, and is the better esteemed for it; the general Rule for managing a Spaniard being to seeme to make some good Esteeme of a Mans selfe, & but little of them farther than Offices of Complement & Courtesie do require. That the Spaniards generally say that they will breake their Stile for noe man. This Stile, in short, is to doe onely what is pleasing to themselves, and that alsoe in their owne tymes & seasons. Hee that presseth them on too fast, makes them resty; he that Sollicits them not at all, makes himselfe forgotten. The best Course therefore, is to deale with them in their owne fashion; and if their Ambassador was not treated with so much Respect in England, and it were said that it was done so, in Imitation of the treatment He had in Spain, it would much avail the Suffering Merchants, and also Himself in the most important Negotiations. That to hasten their dull Spirits, He had entered into a more Streight Friendship & Familiaritie with the French & Venetian Ambassadors, of both whom the Spaniards are exceeding jealous; and adviseth that His Majestie for a while should shew a better Countenance than ordinary to the French Ambassador in England, which would make the Device worke the more strongly with them. That as to the Spanish Project of Giving our King a Pension, although they are much in Love with it, yet seeking to have their Wills & Punctualities observed, they would have it Moved by Him, which He holdeth not fit, unless his Majestie should so direct Him. Finally, he is of Opinion, that Somewhat Said & Done this Parliament to incite the King against Spain; and made known there, would much further him in his Service.*
65. To the Earle of Salisbury; from Valiodalid. fol. 213.
Shewing that he is continually labouring to bring the Spaniards to a reverend & high Regard of the Kings Person, Power, & Fortune; which can no sooner be Effected, than all is overthrowen by the Intelligencers from England. That he is certainly informed that there are of them very neere to the King; and some such, as daily Eate of His Bread, or else should oftentimes goe hungrie to Bed: and that one of them is That these Men give information of the present Weak State of our Kingdom; and of some things concerning the King which he knoweth to be false, and which if true, very ill becoming them to discover. He

- Complaineth of the greatnes of his Charges, by reason of the Extremitie of the Dearth; and desireth directions how he may gratifie those who inform him of the Spanish Counsels.*
66. To the Lords of the Council. fol. 215.
Shewing his Indignation at the Spaniards extreme delay in doing Justice to the English Merchants; and desiring that the King would lett them know that he wanted not Power to satisfie himself, if he should not be contented for the passed Injuries, & secured from the Like in time to come. But it appeareth, that upon cooler Thoughts, Sir Charles did not think fit to send it.
67. To Mr. Thomas Wilford, President of the Spanish Company of Merchants in London; from Valiodalid. fol. 217.
In answer to a Letter from the Company; wherein he cleareth himself from an Imputation laid upon him; and blameth their Negligence in their own Affaires.
68. To the Earl of Salisbury, from Valiodalid. fol. 219. b.
Desiring to have the Wardship of Young Mr. Marston (according to the dying Request of His Father) conferred upon him; at his Lordships own Price. And advertising, that the Spaniards are very fond of that part of their Project (mentioned above at § 22.) relating to the Mariage of the Prince of Wales with their Infanta; although they were not yet agreed who should make the first Motion of it in their Council.
69. To the Lords of the Councell; from Valiodalid. fol. 221. b.
That the Constable of Castile had been to Visitt him, in whose Company, among others, came one Sr. Andrew Wife, in Spain called the Priour of England, who had given many Testimonies of his good & dutifull Affection to his King and Countrey. That the Constable upon discourse about the Causes of the English Merchants, had promised a quick & satisfactory dispatch of all, except that of Hall & Eldred. As to this, he said, there had been an orderly & Judicial proceeding in Sicily, and that upon several proofs made that the Crew had excersised Piracie, a Sentence of Confiscation had passed against it, which could not be revoked by the Testimonies of any Witnesses Examined in England. That to these Speeches of the Constable, he had answered, that their Proofs amounted but to this, that a Rumor had been spread as if the Ship TRIAL had Exercised Piracy in the Years 1593 & 1598. and that the Masters Mate, &c. had Confessed that they had done divers unlawful Acts. That this could not be that Pirate-SHIP they meant, because it was not built until the Year 1601. that the pretended Confessions were extorted by Dureffe & Menaces, & retracted by the same Persons in England; that the Matter whereunto they were obliged to Subscribe, was invented & written by one of their own Scrivenors, and in divers Circumstances is consistent neither with Truth nor Probability. That the Course taken with our Ships, is what is used in no other Countrey in Christendome, for the Goods Confiscate are divided into Three parts; the First to the King (or to the Vice-roy) the Second to the Judge who tries the Cause; the Third to the Denuntiator & Informer who never wants Witnesses. That the Duke de Feria is the Con-

That the Spanish Merchants are neglectful of their Business; and those at Lisbon disorderly, by the means of a Puritan who had crept in among them. Desires that the King would thank the Conde de Pugno-Rostro for the good Offices done to his Subjects. That the Lady above-mentioned (at § 20.) whom Walpole the Jesuit had sent into England, in Order to Seduce some of her own Sex, was harboured by some Papists, who would willingly that she was in her own Countrey; she having had small Success. That the Discontents between the English Jesuites & Seculars continue, which he thinks may prove fatal to the former. That the Young Admiral of Castile had lately married the Daughter of the Duke of Sea, Son to the Duke of Lerma, to whom the Duke had given in Dowry 100000 Crownes, and the King by way of Addition a Crown-Rent in Sicily of 30000 Crowns per ann. That they hear no News of the Fleet which Sailed from Lisbon. That the King had added a Pension of 6000 Crownes to his former Largeffe bestowed upon the Constable; and that his Majesties continual Motions from place to place kindred all Business.*
70. To the Merchants & Factors at Lisbon; in answer of one of theirs. fol. 228. b.
Blaming them severely for their Inconstant, Neglectful, & Irregular Courses.
71. To Thomas Howard Earle of Suffolk, Lord Chamberlaine vnto his Majestie, from Valiodalid. fol. 231.
Signifying, that he is in good hopes of procuring satisfaction to the English Merchants, excepting only the Matter of Hall & Eldred, about which he finds nothing but Diffimulation, by reason of the allyance betweene the Duke of Feria & the Constable; and the promise of part of the Prey to some of the Great Ones there. Advertiseth his Lordship of the Practises which the Spaniards had almost begun to put in Execution against him (upon the Incitement of their Intelligencers) among whome some are of Quality & Discourse) but saith that now their humours are very much changed, they being in great hopes of gaining him. And that their Project mentioned in § 22. he believed they would in time propose to our King.
72. To the Earle of Salisbury, Principal Secretary to his Majestie. fol. 232. b.
Signifying, that he is in good hopes of procuring satisfaction to the English Merchants, excepting only the Matter of Hall & Eldred, about which he finds nothing but Diffimulation, by reason of the allyance betweene the Duke of Feria & the Constable; and the promise of part of the Prey to some of the Great Ones there. 73. From the Lords of the Councell in the Behalfe of one Joshua Havell Merchant of Plymouth, Dated 28 May 1605. fol. 235. b.
This Havell had his Ship & Goods unjustly taken by the Spaniards; and after much time & money spent; could get no manner of Redress or Satisfaction.

BIBLIOTHECÆ HARLEIANÆ.

Num. 1875.

77. From Sir Thomas Edmonds Lord Ambassador-Resident with the Arch-duke, dated the 21 October 1605. fol. 238. b.
That the Jesuites & their Confederates were continually practising, in all kinds, against England; of which, the Count de Villa-Mediana was sufficiently sensible before his departure from Flanders; that he was exceedingly troubled to prevent their passionate purposes; and did directly Cross them in some of their Chiefe Designs. That the Lord Arundell of Wardour had drawn the Kings Displeasure on him, in the manner as above related. Relateth the principal Actions that had happened this Campaign between Prince Maurice & Spinola. That there had been great Joy in those parts, upon the Report that his (Sir Charles's) Chaplain & Secretarie had turned Papists; and that the English Priests there, had been busie with some of his own Inferior Servants also, but he hoped he should withstand their purposes.
78. Concerning the Spanish Projects before-mentioned at § 22. and the Method taken by the Spaniards in imparting the same to Sir Charles; with what followed thereupon. fol. 243. b.
79. Translation of a Letter from the Duke of Lerma to Sir Charles, thanking him for the Discourse concerning the Reformation of Idle & Vagrant Persons; & of the Dearth of Victuals, which Sir Charles had drawn up, & Sent unto him by the Conde de Pugno-Rostro. fol. 246.
80. A Discourse drawn up by Sir Charles, & Translated into Spanish by the Nobleman last mentioned. fol. 246. b.
The purport of it is to shew what Commodities would accrew to Spain by a perfect Amitie with England; brought about by their Acting according to their Projects, so often abovementioned. This Discourse was read both to the Duke of Lerma, & to the King himself, who both liked it so well, as that it was sent to some select persons of the Council to be considered of.
81. To the Lords of the Councell, in England. fol. 251. b.
That he had brought the Merchants Affairs to a Conclusion, pretty much to their Satisfaction; and is of opinion that the Crosses & Delays therein, have rather growne out of the Confused Order of their many Councells, Exceeding Multitude of Officers, and the Ordinarie Slow Pace that they have accustomed themselves to in Matters of Justice, than to any Indisposition either in the King, or those of most power with him.
82. To the Earle of Salisbury. fol. 252. b.
This Letter is conceived in Termes somewhat obscure. But the GREAT BUSINESS seemeth to be the Spanish Projects so often before-mentioned, which they had desired him to communicate to the King; and which he accordingly sent by Mr. Hawkesworth his Secretary the Bearer of this Letter also; whom he had so Instructed, as that he was able to make an Orderly Relation of the whole Affair to His Majesty.

- into Obedience. To be delivered to His Majesty at his coming into England, whither the said Lord-Ambassador sent him with his Letter about that Negotiation. fol. 253. b.
84. To the Earle of Suffolke Lord Chamberlayne to His Majesty. fol. 261.
That he had attained to the desired Success in his Negotiations, & had sufficient Credit in the Spanish Court; yet he wished to be recalled from that Place, where the Objects of Sicknes and Death were hourly represented unto him, even in his own House.
85. To the Lord Ellesmere Lord Chancellor of England; from Valiodalid. fol. 261. b.
86. To the Earle of Salisbury, by a Merchaunt of Plymouth. fol. 262.
That he had brought the GREAT BUSINESS to a Head, the Honor whereof would always redound to His Majesty, since the Spaniards were the Offerers. That the Particularities being not fit for Paper, he had determined to send his Secretary Hawkesworth purposely to England to acquaint the King with the whole matter; but that he is now unfortunately fallen Sick. That the Spaniards were become in all things exceeding tractable, and had dispatched the English Merchants to their Contentment. He desires that the Spanish Ambassador in England may have some notice of this, and of His Majesties acceptance of the same. That Carre the Scot had sowne a Report, that in Scotland they would by no meanes yeeld either to the Kings desired Union, or his Replanting of Bishoppes in that Kingdome, with other Lies, against which he had wrought a Countermine. That he had lately soe endeared His Lordships worthynes to that State, as he that sits at the Helme of it exceedingly desireth His Lordship might understand his particular affection to joyne in a perfect Friendship & Correspondency with Him.
87. From the Earle of Salisbury; Dated the 14 October 1605. fol. 264.
Importing that the King had approved his Conduct with reference to the New Duties which the Spaniards had laid upon the Portuguese Wines & Oiles, in derogation of the late Treaty; and Instructing him how to proceed farther therein; as also in other Matters. That as to the Spanish Projects for a Straiter Alliance with His Majesty, & a General Peace in Christendome by his meanes, he thinks the Design is to engage his Majesty into a Warre for the reduction of the United Provinces: yet, if anie thing be delivered unto him authentically, he might doe the King Honor & Service by bringing it into his Election, either to take hold of it, or to let it alone. He thanketh him for the Discourse about the Benefit of Peace, which he finds more Malicious than Witty; and it reflecting on Him, he would know the Author. As to Fitz-James, he is not willing that he should have a particular Leave to return into Ireland. That His Majesty in Consideration of the Extraordinary Charges He is at, is willing to allow him an Increase of 40s. a Day by an extraordinary Warant, because it should not be drawne into a Precedent hereafter by others.

the Gunpowder-Treason Plot, more particular & exact than what is related by most of our Historians. For Example, Mr. Speed & others write, that K. James was the Person, who, upon bearing the Letter to the Lord Mount-Eagle read, guessed that the design was to destroy Himself & His Parliament by Gun-powder, & therefore Ordered the Cellars to be searched, &c. But this Earl of Salisbury writeth thus,—“ I imparted the L^re “ to the Earle of Suffolke Lord Chamberlaine, “ to the end I might receave his Opinion. “ Whereupon, perusinge the Wordes of the “ L^re, and observing the Writeing, THAT “ THE BLOW SHOULD COME WITHOUT KNOW- “ LEDGE WHOE HAD HURT THEM; we both “ conceived that it could not be more proper “ than the tyme of Parliament; nor by any “ other way like to be attempted then with “ Powder, whilst the King was sitting in th^e “ assembly. Of which the Lord-Chamber- “ lain (shewed?) the more probability, because “ there was a great Vault vnder the said “ Chamber which was never vsed for any “ thing but for some Wood & Cole belonginge “ to the Keeper of the Old Palace. In which “ Consideration, after we had imparted the “ same to the Lord Admirall, the Earle of “ Worcester, & the Earle of Northampton, “ and some others, We all thought fitt to “ forbear to impart it to the King, untill “ some three or fower dayes before the Session. “ At which tyme we shewed His Majestie the “ L^re, rather as a thing we would not Con- “ ceale (because it was of such a Nature) then “ any way perswadeing him to geve any fur- “ ther Credite to it, vntill the Place had bene “ visited. Wherevpon His Majestie (whoe “ hath a Naturall Habite to Contemne all “ false Feares, and a Judgment soe strong as “ never to doubt any thing which is not well “ warranted by Reason) concurred onely thus “ farre with us; that seeinge such a matter “ was possible, That should be donne which “ might prevent all danger, or ells nothing “ at all.” &c.

the Generality of the People apprehended the Advertisements concerning the Gunpowder-Treason Plot. And that their not fayninge in that matter hath much enclyned his owne Heart vnto them, and drawne him into a Beliefe that they will become fast & faithfull friends to His Majestie and our Countrey. They desire that the King would be more watchfull of himself for the future, and will not be perswaded but that the French had either an Hand or an Heart in that Most Devilish Purpose. That upon this News, the Duke of Lerma, & the most part of all the Councillours & Grantees of this State had Visited him, ad invidiam usque of the other Foreign Ministers. That even those who (in regard of their Places) were prohibited to Visit; or being Sick, could not; had sent their Sonnes. He thinks that as to the New Impositions, he shall be able to Moderate Matters so, as to bring them to a Reasonable pass. That the Hollanders may now, by our Kings Interposition, get the most advantageous Terms of Peace. That a Frier who had lately Preached before the King, is banished the Court & City, having vented words to this Effect, That Princes being the Heads & Substances of Commonwealths, were in these days become the Shadowes of some one Private man, who (according to his owne humor) Governed all things. That the King of Spaine hath neede of the King of Great Brittaines Arme, as our King (necessitated by meanes of his greate bounty to his ancient Subjects & Servants) hath good occasion to use the help of the King of Spaines Purse. That our Help to the Spaniards in recovering the Netherlands, will be like the lifting them out of a Quick-sand, wherein they still sink deeper. Commending his Capacity & Industry in the Affaires entrusted to him. And therefore giveth his Testimony in these Words, Yow deserve well, Yow have a Master that conceaves well, & friends that report well, and therefore all must end well. That they had been clearing the remnant of the Kings Estate, which had been much wasted by his Profusion, and His Majesty himselfe hath been Content to bind His owne Handes (which noe Mortall Man could doe) and by Entayle to make his Estate foe sure, as it neither neede to feare the facility of his Sweete Disposition, nor the Rapacitie & Greedynes of devouringe Cormorants.

103. To the Earle of Northampton. fol. 300. b.
That so far as his weake Eyes can discern into the Inwards of the Spanish State, they build their greatest Comforts & Hopes upon a perfect Conjunction with ours.

104. To Sir Henry Wotton Lord-Ambassador for His Majesty with the States of Venice. fol. 302.

That in the Spaniards are all Appearances of Desire to continue & encrease the Amity begunne with England.

105. To the Earle of Salisbury. 20 January 1605-6. S. V. fol. 302. b.

That the Spaniards are now brought to own in public, that Having Peace with the King of Great Britain, they need not feare the rest of all the whole World. That the other Foreign Ministers are become very Envious of the favor shewn to Himself & to the other English there; and that the Popes Nuntio was more especially picqued at it. That notwithstanding all this, the Spaniards are generally so greedy in their Natures, & inclined to Extortion, that he is continually pestered with the fresh complaints of our Merchants. That hereupon, he was resolved to shew how much herein the King suffereth in his Honor, and the whole Nation in their Fame, & also to endeavor to procure sharp Punishment to be inflicted upon some one or two of the Malefactors. That the late Order for not imbarqueing of our Shippes upon suspicion, and removing the Determining of Causes from the Ordinary Judges of the Place (who were to have a part of the Benefit) will deliver the Merchants & Himself of a great deal of Trouble. He hopes very shortly to procure the Merchants Privileges to be Confirmed. That the Matter of Hall & Eldred is to be removed from Sicily, thither. And the Duke of Lerma hath given his word, that upon Sentence given, the Money for the Goods Confiscate shall be paid, without further trouble.

106. The Names of such Prisoners as were delivered out of the King of Spaines Gallies at Lisbon at the Intercession of Sir Charles Cornwallies, delivered to John Rivett his Lordships Servant the 4th of January 1605. S. V. who had Order to receive them.

107. Concerning those who were in like manner delivered at St. Lucar, to one Nevill Davyes, who had Order for the receaveinge of them from his Lordshippe. ibid.

108. From the Earle of Salisbury; dated the 12th October 1605. fol. 306.

That his Majesty having all along observed the Spanish extreme Delay in doing Justice resolveth to deale very roundly & plainly with the Spanish Ambassador; and lett him knowe how sensible he is, in this pointe, both of His Honor, and of His Subjects grievous Complaints.

109. A Lre from the King, 8 October 1605. fol. 307.

Shewing His Acceptance of Sir Charles's Service, Commandeth Him to Sollicit all the Affaires of the Merchants either with the King of Spain or the Duke of Medina, as they should require, dealing all along in his Name.

110. Sir Charles Cornwallies to the King, in answer to the former. fol. 308. b.

111. To the Earle of Salisbury. fol. 311.

Thanking him for favors received. Advertising, that Creswell the Jesuite being sent for by his Superior to Rome; Walpole within a few days after, desired access unto Him. That at first, he insinuated a Signification of much grief for the late Traiterous Purpose in England, and a shewe of much Detestation of foe Inhuman & Horrible Intentions, especiallie in Men professing the Catholique Religion: to which Sir Charles replied, that he had great reason to be so grieved, for that Now it is growne to be a received Rule, that noe Erroneous Religion in the World (no not Paganisme itself) giveth such Libertie & Courage to Malefactors & Murtherers, as the Roman. He relateth other Controversial Discourse he had with this Jesuite, upon the Subject of Religion, which was Ended by the coming in of the Conde de Pugno-Rostro. That two days after, the same Jesuite came again, and began as before, saying, That the Traitors had done their Cause an infinite harme: For it was the Error of the Puritans, that (bold) that in Case of their Princes becoming of contrarie Religion, it was lawfull to take away their Lives. Of the Protestants, that were they of Power sufficient, they might Depose them. Of the Catholiques the Opinion was, that the Pope might denounce & Excommunicate them, and thereby discharge their Subjects of their Allegiance. He wished it might please the King to take Caution & Security of his Catholique Subjects (i. e. Oath, & Denuntiation of the Censures of the Church against the Disobedient) and so to suffer them to live in Peace. Upon Sir Charles's Reply that it would be more Safe for the King to suppress & restraints their Disobedience by his owne Providence, and by his Lawes: the Jesuit said, there would then be danger that their continual Cryings would drawe the Pope to proceede against the King with his Censures. Sir Charles shewed him that in the time of Queen Elizabeth they were no more harmfull then a painted Fire; also that he wondred they could think of proceeding in that course with the King, who was none of their Fold. Hee answered that he was within their Fold, for that he was baptised a Christian. Sir Charles asked him why therefore the Popes had not Excommunicated the Emperour of Russia, or those of the Greek Church, &c? His aunswere was, that They were without their power or possibility to revoke. To Conclude, he protested, that He & those of his Society would by all Meanes & Wayes possible become Impediments to any proceedings against the King; and would onely Labour by Prayer & Preaching (as by their Institution they were bound) to reduce those that were gone astraye; and so departed.

112. A Letter from the Duke of Lerma, translated. Dated 22 January. fol. 315. b.
That the King by Sir Charles's Intercession hath Graunted the Order of St. Jago vnto Don Juan Alonso de Villa Viceatia.

113. To the Earle of Salisburie. 27 January 1605. fol. 316.
That the Duke of Lerma much desireth His Lordships Friendship & Correspondence. That He endeavoreth to hold Him by the same Meanes that He won him, which was Playnes; and giving him to understand that he was not ignorant in what Estate the Spaniards stand; and how impossible it is to come to any End of their Intricacies without our Kings helpe. That this hath begot in them the best kinde of Love to Him; and he thinketh they deale not soe plainely & above-board with any Ambassador as with Himself. That the Duke always concludes with a Sigh, wishing that it might please God to drawe us to one Unity in Religion; for which cause he said, that the King his Master (if he knew it to agree with the King of Great-Britaines pleasure) would imploy all his forces to obtain a General Council in the most free manner that ever yet was held. That the Earle Bothwell had lately thrown a Spaniard out of a Window, and escaped to the House of the Emperors Ambassador: whereupon his Concubine was seized, and as it was thought, would hardly escape the Whip.

114. From Sir Thomas Edmonds, his Majesties Ambassador to the Arch-dukes. fol. 318. b.
That Owen, and Baldwyne a Jesuit, both resident at that Court, having been Principal dealers in the Gun-powder Treason, His Majesty had commanded him to require their apprehension, & delivery into his Handes. That as to Baldwyne it had been answered, that He was a Religious Man, and (by the Orders of the Church, which they must Obey) is to be Censured by his Superiors. And for Owen, they must attend the King of Spaine's Directions, he being a more immediate servant to that Crown than to the Arch-Dukes. That our King in his Letter to these Princes, had professed that He would either Verifie the Things alledged against those Persons, or forfeit his Credit towards the world. That although His Majestie had assured that they should be called in Question for no other Crime, than this last abhominable Treason of Powder, that they should in no wise be put to Torture, but proceeded against fairly in the Presence of their Ambassadour: they had been so disrespectfull as to desire a Copie of the Information. That the Princes had sent to the King of Spain for advise, and therefor Sir Thomas desires Sir Charles to use the proper Methods of Serving our King there. That in the Court of Brussells, they would not believe that such a Treason had been plotted, because the Catholiques were interessed therein; but sometimes would say it was an artifice of the Puritans; at other times, a Design of the Hollanders to reduce our State to the same Condition as theirs is, that is, a Commonwealth; but now they say it is a Worke of the Divels, expressly to Banish & Extirpate the Catholique Religion out of England. That Sir William Stanley being not so deeply charged with this last Treason as Owen & Baldwyn, although it was designed to have used him therein; his Majesty hath only moved to have him Secured, till farther matter be sent to charge him with. That Yong Tyrone had been with him, and assured him that the Council of Spain before they would give him his Colonel's Commission, procured our Kings Consent unto it.

115. Certaine Reasons given by my Lord Ambassador Cornwallies, to divers Counsellors of State and others in the Court of Spaine, to perswade the Deliverie of certain Traitors taken in Flanders: of whom mention is made in the precedent Letre. fol. 322.

116. To the Earle of Salisburie. fol. 325.
Relating his proceedings at the Spanish Court about Owen & Baldwyn, in whose behalf the Jesuites & the Popes Nuntio took great paines. That the King & the Duke of Lerma had a sincere desire to give our King Satisfaction, but were puzzled as to the manner wherein it should be done. That he had had a long Conference with the Duke upon this affair, who told him that it had been Resolved in the Council, that they themselves would punish Owen, and also procure Baldwyn to be punished by his Superiors in exemplary manner. That the Duke of Lerma did then sweare to him in a Solemn manner, that both His King & Himself did desire the Preservation & Good of Our King as much as that of any Prince in this World. That although the French King had used the help of the Court of Rome, & of other Princes in drawing them into an Alliance, They had absolutely denied to deliver an Eldest Daughter into France; and had purposed Her for England, whensoever his Majesties pleasure should be, upon Terms convenient, to treat of that matter. That the Venetian Ambassador had told him that their State stand in some feare of a Thunder-clap of the Pope, because they would not abrogate a certain Law antiently made, which was somewhat like to our Statute of Mortmain in England.

117. The Contents of another Letter to my Lord of Salisburie, 12 Febr. 1605-6. fol. 334.
That the English Merchants both at Lisbon & at Sevil, having no Consuls or other Officers to guide them, have given very great Offence by their intemperate Language about Religion, & other disorderly disorderly Behavior, for which they had been Called into the Inquisition, had it not been for the Respect had for our King, & Regard for Him His Ambassador. That the Satisfaction procured for the English Merchants had not been paid, through want of Money. That the King at that present time had no money, but what was reserved for Cases of Necessity. And that many Collects (or Praiers) both New & Old, are said for the Safe & Speedie Arrival of the Flota.

118. From the Earle of Salisbury, 3 January. fol.

That the Arraignment & Execution of the Gun-powder Traitors, was deferred till next Terme. That it was found that Owen & Baldwyn were not only furtherers & encouragers of the Gun-powder Treason, but with Sir William Stanley were chargeable of some other Treasons committed since his Majesties coming to the Crown of England: and relateth all the proceeding that had followed thereupon both in Brussels, & in London. That the Ministers of the Arch-dukes & of the King of Spain had made use of little Shifts in Order to ward off our Complaints. And that the French King had sent the Baron D'Entoure to Congratulate with his Majestie for his happy deliverance; for which Minister our King had conceived a particular Esteem, ever since he had been sent Ambassador to him in Scotland.

119. From Mr. Hawkesworth my Lords Secretarie, 20 January 1605-6. fol. 343.

That the Great Business is like to have Good Speed, as a thing conceived to be safe & profitable for all parties, although it could not be attended unto for the present, because the late Treasons did almost wholly employ the Ministry. That the Earle of Northampton had acknowledged that Sir Charles in managing the Affair so that the Spaniards had made their Applications to Our King, had done his Countrey great Service, and to Himself & other Friends (who had undertaken for His Worthines & Habilities) much Right & Honour, with other Noble Speeches in his Praise. And that the King had lately declared in public that He thought Sir Charles Cornwallies one of the best Servants that any Prince in Christendome was Master of.

120. To the Earle of Salisburie. fol. 344. b. (22 Febr. 1605-6.)

In answer to the last from his Lordship. He addeth also, that if there were in Spain Censors of Manners, as there are Inquisitors for Religion, the greater part of our Traders there would fall into their Hands, being people disordered, uncharitable, & unfriendly amongst themselves, & Scandalous to the Spaniards.

121. To Mr. Hawksworth. fol. 346.

In answer to his Letter abovementioned: and intimating, that if he should continue to serve him faithfully, as he had hitherto done, he would allow him a Gleaners Share of such Fortunes as should befall him.

122. To the Lords of the Councill, from Valladolid. fol. 346. b.

That the Flota was reported to be Scattered by a Tempest between Cartagena & the Havanna, & that a great Fleet of Hollanders was at Sea with purpose to encounter them. Also, that if it should not arrive safely, the General Want in that Kingdome would be greater than ever.

VOL. II.

Num. 1875.

That there is a general restraint of all Money payable by the King, by which the English & Scots Merchants who had spent their Meanes in soliciting for their Damages, were now all forced to live upon him. That findinge in the Young Princes of Savoy, & in the Marquis of Este who doth attend them at the Spanish Court, a more than ordinary affection towards our King, he was content to give unto Roncas Secretary to the Duke of Savoy & Ambassador there, the first Visit; which was kindly taken by the Ambassador himself & the Princes, as also by the King & State, and is advertized to the Duke in the amplest manner; who being very affectionate to our King, & possessing the backside of France, he thinketh that his Amity ought to be cultivated. That the late Order he had procured for our Merchants hath the desired Effect, and is obeyed much against the Wills of the hungry Judges & Officers, who are said to have purchased their Offices at great prices, upon Hope of prey among the Merchants. That all Provisions are at an exceeding high rate in Madrid.

123. To Sir Thomas Edmondes His Majesties Ambassador with the Arch-duke. fol. 359. b.

That although the Spanish Court had come to a resolution not to deliver up Owen & Baldwyn; they would take Care that they should be so punished as that our King should be satisfied. That the Spaniards generally detest all that they believe had either an Head or a Hand in the Gunpowder Treason; and in particular, doe laye a greate Calumnation upon the Jesuits, who (as an Inquisitor (Minister?) had lately observed to him) leaving the Order of their first Institution, doe now studdy to become Statists, and to put Fire into all Kingdomes where they Converse.

124. From Sir Thomas Edmondes. Dated 3 February 1605-6. fol. 350. b.

That much Expectation there is in the Court of Brussels, of the Resolution of the King of Spain touching Owen & Baldwyn. That a Proclamation had been Issued in England for apprehending three Jesuites detected to have beene dealers in the late Treason. That all matters touching the prosecution of the War against the Hollanders are at a Stand, till the Return of Spynola from Spain, where he had been sent to solicit Money for new Levies. And that the English Fugitives & Traitors were mightily Caresed at the Arch-dukes Court.

125. To the Earle of Salisburie. fol. 252. b.

Concerning the High Esteem which the King of Spain & the Duke of Lerma protest they have for our King, and the mean Opinion they have of the French Sincerity towards England.

126. To Sir Thomas Edmondes, His Majesties Ambassador with the Arch-duke. fol. 354.

127. To the Earle of Salisburie. fol. 355.

That there are many Reports of a Combination against his Lordship, and that five English Romanists should resolve his Death, whom they hold the Discoverer of all their unnaturall & destructive Inventions against their Prince & Countrey. That the learned Franciscans utterly mislike these Courses held with Princes by the Popes & Jesuites; and plainly say that the Popes have noe more to doe with the Crownes of Temporall Princes, than those Princes with the Hierarchyes that belongs to them. Relateth a Conference with a Spanish Jesuite, who was in England with the Constable, touching the modern practise of the Popes to fulminate their Censures on Princes who acknowledged not their Authority, thereby exposing them to the Treacheries & Violences of their own Subjects, wherein he brought the Jesuit over to his Opinion. That the arrival of the Flota was expected with the greatest Impatience, and the Kings Gallies were gone from Lisbon in Order to Convey the same, and that in the mean time the Marquis Spinola continued there.

128. To the Earle of Salisburie, from Valladolid. fol. 358. b.

That Don Belasco of Aragon desires to be recommended as affectionate to the Service of Our King, and therefore Sir Charles would have him taken notice of, although he hath hitherto had little Occasion to use his Power, or hath seen any great Effect of it. That the Spaniards shew a great Longing after the Alliance with our King, insomuch as the very Name of our Prince worketh a Change in the Countenance of that People, who continually throng to the Constables house that they may see his Picture; and that they affect him so much, as were it not for the difference in Religion, his Majesty would not be able to deny him in Mariage to their Princeesse. That there is again a great want of Bread, whereby many suffer extremely; and that there is a fresh report of the Expectance of the Indian Fleet furnished with at least 26 Millions. That the Source of our Merchants Complaints, is the Covetous & Cruel Disposition of the Spanish Judges & Officers, some of whom he will endeavour to have punished in an Exemplary manner. That he hath to do with a People of an Iron Heart, & Leaden Heels; with whom the Patience of Job himself will be found to want weight. Complaineth of his private Losses sustained at home during his absence, and therefore desireth to be recalled as soon as his Negotiations shall be brought to a Conclusion.

129. From Sir Henrie Wotton His Majesties Ambassador with the State of Venice. fol. 363.

That there is a Quarel grown between the Pope & that State, attributed to four Causes. 1. Denyal of Decimes & general Restitution of the Clergie. 2. Refusal to paie moneys that have been in necessitous tymes borrowed of Convents & Corporate Churches. 3. A Decree passed in Senate against Converting of any Landes to Holy Use, by Legacie or otherwise. 4. Laying of Secular hands upon some persons in Clericall profession & Habit. That there are but two wayes of Remedy in this busines, i. e. either to performe what the Pope desireth; or to give him sufficient Reason why they will not do it; but that the Venetians have from the very beginnunge resolved upon the Latter, notwithstanding one maligne Circumstance, which is, this, The Pope affecteth the Name of a great Canonist, and haveing proceeded soe farre already, will perhappes be loath to be overcome by Disputation. In the mean time, Sir Henry doubts, that this Affair will prove nothing but the farther enriching of the Popes Nephewe, or Brother, or some one or two of the Vehement Cardinalls.

These Factors, with their Ships, & Crew, & Merchandise, were taken by Don Luiz Firardo in America, who soon sold the Ships & Lading, Shaved the Crew's Heads & Sent them Slaves to the Gallies, keeping the Factors Prisoners in his Ship, where they lived in great Misery & Poverty.

134. To the Earle of Salisburie, from Valladolid, 28 Martij, Stilo antiquo 1605. fol. 371. b.

That Walpole the Jesuite had lately cast an abominable slander upon his Lordship, and advised his Destruction; saying that if He lived, he might see the End of others, who (his Lordship being taken awaie) might doe some good to the Church. He adviseth, or rather intreateth his Lordship to be very Careful & Wary of himself, and not to trust the Phisitian mentioned by Walpole to far. He relateth an odd Story of one John Draper, who Carried a Letter from Doctor Bagshott an English Priest, to a Capuchine in Orleans named Archangell, wherein it was specified that the Projects for England, were now revealed & prevented. That the Indian Fleet, although daily expected, remained at the Havana, for more forces to be taken on board for their safer conducting home; and that Spinola hath an Order for the weekly payment of 300000 Crownes, untill the End of August. That one of the Kings Councillors as honorable and honest man as any fitts among them, assured him several times that the King of Spain nourisheth and payeth within the Low Countreyes 600000 persons; which yet he would not believe.

HISPANIA, ANNO 1606.

Coppies of Lettres written to & received from Sir Charles Cornwallies Knight, in the Second yeere of his Ambassage in Spaine, with other his Negotiations and Observations.

137. To the Earle of Salisburie; sent by the way of . . . the Ordinarie of Italie, departing from Vallidolid the 5th of April, at night. fol. 379:

That one Saunderfon a Scott, a Gentleman by Birth, and of some good Value in his own Countrey, had been there long solliciting for Restitution of the Value of a Shipp of his imbarqued by the Kings Officers, & lost in his Service; as also for Wages during the tyme he served with her: and is, at last, promised Money when it comes out of the Indies. That the Spaniards are in hand with this Sanderfon to undertake the Building of Six small Pinnaces, such as they use to send between Spain & the Indies, upon Messages of Advice, offering so largely for the fabricature of them, that there will be at least 2000*l.* saved by the Bargaine. That he had advised him by no meanes to undertake the matter without the privy of his owne Sovereigne. That he purposed to build them in Ireland, three this yeare & three the next, and therefore Sir Charles desireth his Lordships directions in the matter.

138. Minute of a Letter written to Sir George Carewe his Majesties Ambassador in France, relating such occurrents as are expressed in the L^re following. fol. 380. b.

139. To the Lords of His Majesties most honorable privie Counsell; sent by th^r afforsaid meanes, and at the same tyme. ibid.

That Business is still at a Stand, by reason of the King & Queen's frequent motions. That there is no certain News of the Flota. That Spinola is gone laden with much Honour & Profit. That the Marques of Avilena now Ambassador in Rome, goeth for Vice-Roy into Sicilia. The Duke of Feria is imployed to the Emperor, and the Marques of Itona to Rome, by whom he is promised a true & unfeigned Correspondence in all things that shall there occur, which maie concerne our King; which is well agreeing with his Instructions. That they have commanded a Staie of all payments to Sir William Stanley, untill they shall see how it goes with him in England. That upon Receipt of their Lordships Letters in behalf of Hall & Eldred; he had sent Ouseley his Secretary to the Court, where he hath yet had no Audience. That this Cause will prove very difficult in regard of the Greatnes of the Duke of Feria, and of his owne wilfull Disposition: and that their Cause is made the more Desperate, by the fresh taking another of their Shippes (as also another of one Bromley) in America, whose Mariners are putt into the Gallies, the Factors Imprisoned, the Goods Confiscate, and a great part aliened, &c.

140. From Sir Henry Wotton his Majesties Ambassador in Venice; dated 11 Martij 1606. fol. 382. b.

That the Cavallier Dodo was gone to Rome well instructed with Replies, and in the meantime the Pope had sent a second Monitory Brief, importing that if their Ambassador were longer delayed, he would proceed to a full Excommunication; which Brief the Nuntio had been so imprudent as to communicate to the Senate just as the Cavalier aforesaid was supposed to be got to Rome. Hereby, he had much exasperated the State, and lost the Opinion of a Wise Servant. That they were in Expectation of a Chiaux from the Grand Signor, whose Business was Supposed to be either to Threaten, or to Borrow.

141. To Sir Henry Wotton his Majesties Ambassador in Venice. Sent by the aforesaid Ordinary. fol. 384.

That the long Staie of the West-India Fleet, breedes a general Sorrowe & Dismay among the Spaniards. That the Marquis Spinola, notwithstanding the generall Want, is now furnished with a certayne Order for a weekly receipt of 300000 Crownes to the End of August, for the Somer-service in the Low-Countries; where it was intended to keep two Armies in the Field, the One to attend Grave

Maurice; the other to proceede with their former Course in Frizeland. That the Marquis himself is made one of the Kings Counsell of Estate, & Grandee of Spaine. All other matters at a Stand, by reason of the King & Queens Absence, & want of Money.

142. To the Earle of Salisbury, by Collen Hay. fol. 385.

That some Sixteen of the principal of the English Merchants & Factors at Lisbon mett at a dynner in the house of one Rolles an Englishman, who had turned Papist and married in the Countrey; where, among other depraving Speeches, one ended with a Wish, "that They had the King of England and His Ambassadour fast Chayned in one of the Gallies, in the Haven." To which Rolles added. "That he might have the whipping of them, till the one had made a better peace, and the other procured more redresse in the Injuries, which in those parts were offered unto them." Sir Charles sheweth that he can forgive all that relateth unto him from those men who had never so much as given him Thanks for the services he had done them: but as to the King, he can by no meanes either tolerate or conceale their vndutifull and vnsufferable presumption, and therefore desireth present direction in the matter. That the Company of Merchants of England, in this Springtyme of the amitie betweene the two Princes, ought to have sent thither the most discrete & best tempered of their Servants, but the contrary did appear by their behaviour, both at Lisbon, and at Sevil.

143. To Sir George Carew his Majesties Ambassador in France; sent by Collen Hay from Valladolid. fol. 386. b.

144. To the Earle of Salisbury from Valladolid; by Collen Hay. 387.

That the Spaniards begin to change their Opinion of him; holding him to be too troublesome & importunate; and begin to receive with great distaste the Suites he maketh in behalf of our injured Merchants. That the King & Duke of Lerma are much discontented; and as he believeth, have heard some late evill Newes of their Indian Fleete. That their owne Confusions are so greates, as whosoever negotiateth with them must with a Sufferance beyond the boundes of all ordinary patience endure the length of tyme & intollerable delayes that their irresolute & distracted mindes breede in all their busynesses. That the Complaints sent in by the Lisbon Merchants are so generall, that neither He nor the Spaniards (who also Complain much of the English) can tell what to make of them. That Gurgeine is the man that wished the King & Him in the Gallies, &c.

145. The Contents of a Letter to the Earle of Salisbury, sent by Collen Hay, who departed from Valladolid, 30 Aprill 1606. Stilo novo. fol. 391.

That Walpole the Jesuite had acquainted him that Our King was much distracted with Col-ler, by reason of a Refusal in Parliament of performinge the Union; upon knowledge whereof, armes were taken in London, for which false Intelligence he had sharply rebuked him. That the Spanish Secretarie of State had told him, that their Ambassador had written from England, that our King was assaulted on Hunting & slightly hurt; whereon it was published that He was slayne, but immediatelic contradicted by a Message from the Queene. That the Pope & Princes of Italie do labour a League Offensive & Defensive betweene Spaine & France. That there hath been tendered to the Spaniards a Practise, from Ireland; but the Agents departed ill-satisfied, saying, This people entertayne noe Phisician longer than the fitt is upon them. And that for his owne perticuler, he findeth neither their Actions nor Wordes to agree with their former.

146. To the Lordes of his Majesties most honorable privie Counsell. Sent by meanes of Lisentia de Pardo an Agent for the Ambassador in England, from Vallidolid. fol. 392. b.

That the Spaniards are preparing a Fleete of at least 100 Sayle, which is to carry 40000 Soldiers, a Fleet inferior to that of 88. It is given out that they pretend only the freeinge their Coast of the Hollanders; but that it seemeth too greate a proportion for that Service.

147. From Sir Thomas Edmonds his Majesties Ambassador with the Archdukes. Dated the 23 Aprill 1606. fol. 393.

Concerning the Gun-powder Traitors Owen & Baldwyn, with regard to whom, the King of Spain & the Arch-Duke were disposed to give our King satisfaction, were it not for the pretended holy Jesuites. Among which Crew, he findeth none so viperously affected as those of our owne nation, who doe raise up all the practises against his Majesties State which they can by any meanes devise. That the Popes Nuntio in Spain hath written a very strange and reprehending Letter to the Nuntio at Brussels, because he did not more imploye himself in the behalf of those Traitors. But the latter being of a more temperate Spiritt, hath given the other a better reason for his forbearance & moderation, than he could pretend for the inconsiderate Passion which he hath shewed. That Sir William Stanley, & Bayley (Owen's Companion) are Sett at Libertie. That if Order be not taken for removeinge these Lewde Instruments from thence, there will be no end of their practising, to the imbroileing of the affaires between England & the Arch-duke. That all Matters are at a Stand till the return of the Marquis Spinola. That there hath been a Muteny in the English Regiment there, against the Lord Arondell the Colonell, by the instigation of Sir Thomas Studder the Sergeant-Major; wherein his Lordship would find it difficult to procure Satisfaction, because he is suspected by the faction of the Jesuites. That Capten James Blount of the same Regiment, (who was an inward Companion with Catesby & Sir Edward Baynham; & did partake in the knowlledge of the late practise) hath refused to obey his Majesties Command for his Repaire into England, and withdrawne himselfe out of those Countreys.

minde with Vexation about the excessive Charges of his Removal from Valladolid to Madrid; the same night that he arrived, fell into some distraction, and the next day into a Fever, whereof within five dayes he dyed, a man of greate wealth. That the sudden & vnexpected remove of the Court in so vnseasonable a tyme, and soe generall extreame want of money, hath bredd here a great Confusion & Discontent, which will not be reordered & removed till the Arrivall of the Indian Fleete, whereof there is now noe Newes at all. That the King came to Madrid from Floranicus, an house of Pleasure some seaven Leagues off. That the Duke of Lerma had been Sick of a Calenture, which upon bleeding was changed into a Tertian. That by reason of his Sickness, he cannot obtain accessse to the King; and all other business there was dead for a tyme.

Concerninge the Remayne of the Debt due by certaine Priests of Cales, for their Ransome in England, which now they would fain Shuffle off. Sir Charles is therefore required to sollicit the matter strongly, for saith the Earl, the Debt is just, and by the Articles of the Treatie direct Provision is made for the satisfyinge of such Debts. Which, if they goe about to delude or protract in this fashion as they doe, wee can have but little hope of the reall Observation of the greater points, more than it shall seeme profitable & advantageous vnto them.

That he was one of those few who were made acquainted with the Great Business brought by Mr. Hawkesworth, and with the return He carrieth back. His Lordship is not of the Opinion that the Spanish Court is sincere in this Matter, but rather that it is an Artifice to gain Time. That there are daily Threatenings by underhand Reports, that a Match betweene Spaine & France is industriously pursued on both partes; and that many Circumstances give Strength to the beleefe of more then likelihood of a Concluding Effect of this matter.

That our King after infinite Thanks to the King of Spain & his Ministers for the Consideration they had for him, will not Refuse but Delay Enttring into a League Offensive & Defensive; as he did before at making the Treaty of Amity; the same Reasons still subsisting. His Majesty excuseth himself from acting as Mediator between the King of Spain & the Hollanders; and yet in such a manner as not to disoblige.

Relating the Conference he had with the Earl of Villa-longa the Spanish Secretary of State, after Mr. Hawkesworthe's Returne, about the Great Business. That he can obtain noe accessse either to the King or the Duke of Lerma; which he imputeth to a desire in the Duke of wyunning tyme for Deliberation in what sorte to deale with him. That one Clifford doth publickly there deprave the Religion & Government of his Countrey. That Don Lewis Firardo hath lately beene abroad with his Navye, and (as 'tis said) had fortune only to meete with an English Pirate loaden with Spanyards, purposed to be Sould in Barbarie. That he is advertised from Siuile, that Firardo in his Voyage mett with certaine Shippes from London, laden with Corne, & bound for Siuile. That he tooke the Masters, & first sett their Neckes in the Stockes; after, removed them to the Admirall, & there with his owne handes did as much to their Legges, reviling & calling them Heretiques, Lutheranes, Doggs, & Enemyes of Christ, threatening to hang them, &c. riners, but is answered with a Shrinke of the Shoulder, & desired to have yet patience. That he hath not been able to procure the Restraine of Captain James Blount. That notwithstandinge he hath lately procured the Kings Lettres to be sent to all His Ports, with expresse Commandement of an especiall regard to the good vsadge of His Majesties Subjects; yet, in all places they receive as many grievances as ever, which he imputeth to the evill Dispositions of the Spaniards, or to some Conivence of the Court. He suggesteth therefore that some present Course be taken for the reliefe of the poore Merchants, that can procure noe Redresse by way of Mercy or Justice.

161. To the Earle of Salisbury, from Madrid, by the same. fol. 431.

That he hath been with the Conde de Villa-longa, about Sir Henry Carye, whose Answer was good: & he hopeth when he can get accessse to the Duke of Lerma, to procure a good End to that affair. That he will assist Marten van Somaren in getting the remainder of the Debt due from the Spanish Friers. That he purposeth not to deliver the Kings Letter in behalf of George Strangham a Scotsman, till he shall further understand his Majesties pleasure; wishing that His Majesties Hand were more spare in those private Causes, especially to the King of a Nation so punctual as that, which hath already sett some Note of His often writing. That the Spaniards have neither soe much good Nature as to Love for the present, nor soe much Discretion & Providence as to feare for the future. But sithence Feare and Feeling work most upon them; he would that his Majestie should make a little Essay of the French Kings Medicine (when the French can find no Reliefe by waie of Justice) to even their Losses upon the Seas. Twoe or three such Examples will prove a meane of present Reformation in all Disorders.

Toucking some of his private Affairs. That he had the favor of the King of Spain to land the Value of his Money (he intended to bring with him) in Commodities, at Lisbon, Custom-free. That, besides, the Duke of Lerma had procured that King to give the Order of St. Jago to a Gentleman at Sir Charles's Request, for which he received a Gratification of 400 l. and wondereth why he maie not receive without Suspicion what our King, out of his Liberalitie would bestowe upon him. Relateth the meanes used by the Conde de Villa-Longa the Spanish Secretary used to gain him to themselves; and his Conduet on that Occasion, since which, He hath found his Reputation much increased. That he hath also had Offers from a German to break the Peace between England & Spain, which he also rejected.

164. To the Earle of Suffolke Lord Chamberlaine to his Majesty. fol. 439. b.

165. To the Countess of Suffolke. fol. 440.
That he hath taken much paines for the reducing Mr. Henry Carye's Ransome to some reasonable proportion; his being found in that Company (after soe many Favours & good Entertainement received in the Arch-dukes Courte) being very unkindly taken. That he hath at last prevailed with the Duke of Lerma & the Earl of Villa-longa, that Belasco (who is now possessed of him shall (when he receiveth the Kings Liberalitie for his past Services) give him his Libertie, upon a verie reasonable agreement. Sir Charles sendeth Her Ladyship some curiosities made by Spanisb Nuns of Quality, and one among the rest to the Lady Cecill.

166. To the Earle of Nottingham, &c. fol. 441. b.

That the Conde de Lemos is very thankful for Our Kings favor done unto him. That the Spaniards are disgusted at our Court, saying that their Ambassador can receive no contentment or favor there, but from the King himself.

167. To the Earle of Suffolke, Lord Chamberlaine, &c. fol. 443. b.

That he suffereth in his Negotiation of the Great Business, through the Traiterous Reports spread by some unnaturall Intelligencers of our own Countrey. That much Complaint hath come thither, of the little Respect used by the English Ministers towards the Spanisb Ambassador; for which reason, the Spaniards have altered their Carriage towards him. That as to the aforesaid Great Negotiation, much is the present distast of the Spaniards, and the neglect we are growne into with them. Yet he hinteth as if there was little likelihood of their Conjunction with France.

168. To the Earle of Northampton. fol. 444. b.

He expresteth himself as if the Difficulties in bringing the Great Business about, were almost insuperable. That the Spaniards are not Just for Justice sake, nor Loving in Regard of Charitie or Merit, but a perticuler Interest. That the Intelligencers in England, & Fugitives there do infinite prejudice to the Interests of our King & Countrey. He wisheth that Reprisals were made on the Spaniards who have no Commiseration of our English Merchants.

169. To Sir Thomas Edmondes, His Majesties Ambassador with the Archduke. Sent by an English Frier. fol. 447.

That he hath moved for the Apprehension of Captain James Blount, (who was recommended thither by the Brussels-Jesuites, & hath been Confirmed by Walpole & others) but without any farther Effect than Promises. That Blount hath had better Success in his Endeavors to blast his late Colonel the lord Arundel, & also his Lordship. That this may be taken the more patiently, in regard they have done the same by Our King, and his whole State. That the Handle given to the Spaniards for this Alteration, is the restraint of English Supplies to them, and the yielding them abundantly to their Enemies, the disrespectful Usage of their Ambassador, & denial of Justice to their Subjects. That the Princes of Savoy are upon their Departure, and stay only for the Money they should have from the King for the Charge of their Journey.

Num. 1875.

That the King did lately forbear to goe publicly to His Chappell, because of the Ambassador of Venice, which State is thought to be now compleately Excommunicated. That the Marquis Spinola hath engaged his Estate for support of this Campaign, and therefore hath bought his Titles of Counsellour of State & Grandee of Spaine very dear.

170. Certaine Rasons drawne by my Lord Ambassadour, to prove that the Alliance with England concerninge the Lowe Countreys in Dowrie, is both Honorable & Profitable for Spaine. fol. 450.

171. To the Earle of Salisburie, from Madrid; by Alexander Stuart, who beganne his Journey the 9th of June 1606. fol. 454.

That the Duke of Lerma looketh very pale & weakly after his Recovery, having not been spared by the Spanisb Physicians, who have not so much Skill as ours. Relateth the Conference he had with that Duke, upon the Subjects of Restitution to be made to our Merchants; of their Ambassadors being disgracefully used by Our Kings Ministers; of the Kings Answer to their Propositions of the Great Business; the punishment or delivery of the Traytor Owyne; & the Enlargement of Sir Henry Carye. Relateth also the discourse between Mr. Hawkesworth his Secretary, & the Conde de Villa Longa, about restitution to be made to our Merchants. That the Spaniards upon the Departure of the Hollanders from their Coasts, are again grown as haughty as ever. That he is of opinion, they will not yield to the proposed alliance between the two Crownes, by reason of the Opposition made thereunto by the Confessors they consult.

172. To the Earle of Salisburie; by the foresaid Messenger. fol. 464. b.

That there are latelie arrived divers Irish Fryers, Priests, & Captaines, from the Lowe-Countries, & keep their Rendevous at the Lodginge of Captaine Blount; where (as in other places) they talke liberallie of England, & English matters, and against our King himself. That for divers reasons he findeth not himself in a capacity of getting the Offenders punished: one of which is, because of the Extreame Lawes and Bitter Persecution (as the Spaniards terme it) against those of their Religion both in England & Ireland; especially in Ireland, where they reporte that Priests & Friers are Executed by Martiall Lawe. Moreover, that such Informations are geven, even out of the Kings Chamber, in depravation of His Person, Government, & State, as have had but too fatal an Effect. That Sir Henry Caryes business must be tried by a Council of War, & subjected to the ordinary delays. Relateth the lamentable Cases of our Merchants & other the Kings Subjects, who can have no relief from the Spaniards; & whose Redresse he leaveth to the King. That the Alliance with Our State is not now thought of by them. That Spinola was inforced to engage his owne Estate to the Genowayes, for the borrowinge of this yeeres Money for the Warres. That they have now no more hopes of the Indian Fleete. That they have raised as much Money in Sicilia & Naples as is possible, but it proves as a Bean in the Mouth of a Lion. He looketh on the Extremity of their Hatred to the French to be so great, as that an Alliance with that Nation must be reserved for a desperate Medicine, to be swallowed like a Pill, without either Chawinge or Thinking on. That there is a great Competition between the two Jesuits Creswell & Parsons, of the former of whom he conceiveth the best Opinion and thinketh him the best Instrument he could use for working the Alliance with us, & disappoint it with France; but since His Lordship hath forbidden him to Correspond with him, he will Obey.

173. To the Earle of Salisburie, from Madrid. fol. 473. b.

Relating his Discourse with the Spanish Secretary Prada, concerning the Spaniards beginning again to suffer themselves to be abused by our Fugitives; for which, they had before bitterly smarted; concerning the Apprehension of Blount, & Punishment of Owynne; and that Secretaries Assertion that our King stayed all those who were willing to serve the Archduke, and suffered Multitudes, out of London it self, to put themselves into the Army of the Hollanders. That the French endeavor to put a Pique betweene England & Spaine, for the better effecting the late affected Alliance. That the Duke of Lerma refuseth to be spoken with; and though the Conde de Villa-Longa denies noe Audience, he so niggles & shuffles, as with him there can be found noe sound ground.

174. A Letter to the Duke of Lerma. fol. 476. b.

175. To my Lord of Salisburie, 20 Junij 1606. fol. 477. b.

Touching the Weak & unsettled State of Spain: That the Jesuits, Priests, Friers, & Fugitives agree that his Lordship is the Causa Causarum of all their Sufferings, and the onely especiall favourer & Patron of the States. That therefore they have plotted together for the Murder of his Lordship, by a Musket-shott out of the Savoy, or some other house neere, as his Lordshippe shall be goeing by Water to the Courte, or other place in Westminster, and he partly suspecteth that Blount is the Man who must do it. That the Spaniards complain much of England, and that his Majestie hath broken the Conventions of Peace. That they seeke for the Will of the Kings Mother, written with her owne hand, whereby the Queene, in Case that the King her Son should not become a Catholique, deuised her Kingdome of Scotland, and all Her rights in England, France & Ireland to the King of Spaine. That advice is come of the Losse of four of the Galleons laden with Treasure from the Indies; and that it was much suspected that the other three are gone the same way. That in Peru, there are Five Townes lately swallowed with an Earthquake, and with them, two silver mynes; and the like number of Store-houses wherein was kept the Kings Quick-silver that refined the Silver. That the Hollanders had sunk four of the five Ships that Don Lewis Firardo had left in the West-Indies. That he had had a late Audience of the King of Spaine who used him very graciously, & promised that he would redress the Merchants Grievances, and that Owynne should be dealt with as he deserved. That the Duke of Lerma holds himself verie private; but that his Privado Don Rodrigo Calderon hath sent him word that the buynes concerning Sir Henry Carey shall with greate Care and Speede be dispatched. That the Conde de Villa-Longa had solemnly sworne that Blount should be hanged, if any guiltynes should be found in him, and yet had afterwards shewn him a faire Countenance. That the same Conde hath distasted all the Ambassadors about the Courte, the Popes Nuntio himself not excepted; but the French Ambassador most of all, who hath now, of late, noe accessse either to him, or the Duke. That it was thought that Peace would not long continue betweene Spaine & France. That there hath of late been great meanes used by the Duke of Lerma & the Conde de Villa-Longa, to assemble 200,000 double Pistoletts vpon a sudden. And that the Court took Offence at his having a Sermon preached in his house on Sundays.

176. To Sir Walter Cope. fol. 484.

About the ill State of the Spaniards, who are in much Confusion by reason of Hollanders, & the loss of the greatest part of their Indian Fleet; and that they are extremely Jealous of the Earl of Salisbury, who ought to be very carefull of himself.

177. To the Earle of Salisburie. fol. 485. b.

Setting forth the Perplexities the Spaniards labour under; proposing a New Project of his owne for effecting the Great Business, in Case the present one should fail; & reciting a fresh rumor, of the Hollanders beating Firardo, spoiling his Fleet, & taking his Person.

178. To the Earl of Northampton, Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports. 5 July 1606. fol. 489.

That the Spaniards, upon the lying Reports of the Fugitives, are much altered in their Inclinations & Carriage towards us, and shew all want of will to redress any of the Wrongs done to our Merchants, at a Conjunction when (were they not blinded & made stupid by their Pride and overweening) it would plainly appeare vnto them, that would our King be lightly moued to an Occasion to breake with them, it is now in his power (considering the present Miserable Estate they stand in) to Sett his Foote on their Heads, & Sincke them for ever. Advises that some Method be taken in Order to draw them to better Termes of Commerce than those now in use, otherwise the Perill of our Merchants will be much, and their Gaine nothing. That the Spaniards are a most stiffe & strange people, and in their humours so desperate, as that they will adventure the Ruine of all, rather then forgoe their Customes, or hasten their pace in any thinge. That as for their Divinity, at this instant it hardly agreeth with good Humanity. That to Murder or make away any man that stands betweene them & their Ends, they account it rather a matter of Meritt than of Malice.

179. To the Lords of His Majesties most honorable Privie Counsell, from Madrid. fol. 492.

Complaining of the incertain humor of the Spaniards, from whom he cannot as yet procure Justice to be done to our Kings complaining Subjects. That the Spaniards alledge that in England they receive noe Justice nor Favor at all; That unto the Hollanders there are permitted 5000 Souldiers, to them not one; That our King, by his lie Spoiled & Massacred: with the plain & resolute Answers he returned unto them, & their Thrasonical Reply. He setteth forth the great Weakness of the Spaniard, and the very wretched way they go by, in the menagement of affaires. That there had been a notable Sermon preached in the Kings Chapell, enforceing the Necessitie of Obedience to the Authoritie of the Pope, whom, with respect to the Venetians, it is resolved in Council the King shall not abandon. That at last, after long Sollicitation, Blount is apprehended & kept close prisoner. That farther, to content our King, they have lately given warninge to all the Irish Captaines, Souldiers, Fryers, Priests, & Beggars (of all which there are lately come a great swarme) that ymediately they avoyde the Countrey: and one Cusack a Doctor of Doway, who was in a good way to have obteyned 20000 Crownes for amplifyeing the Irish Seminarie in Doway, is now like to lose his Labour. That divers of those whom He had procured to be delivered from the Gallies had fallen again to their old Trade of Pillaging the Spaniards & Portuguese, & were sett upon by Don Lewis Firardo, with whom (notwithstanding his much superior force) they fought desperately for a day & a night, killing many of his People; but were, at last taken, the principal of them Hanged, & the rest putt to their old Stations.

*Much against the Spaniards; & hinting as if the Peace between England & Spain was an Impediment to the greatest Advantage & Meanes to inrich our King & Realme, that in any that should kill his Lordship, he doth now vehemently suspect one Captain Burke an Irishman, because of his owne evill Affection to our Nation and Government; and the greate Favours & Increase of Pension & Reward that he hath received since his Comeing. That among the Pages of the Duke of Lerma's Chamber, a common talke it is what an extreme Persecutor His Lordshippe is of the Catholiques in England. Hereupon, every man wishes that their hands might give him the Pugnaladol this his Cruelty deserveth. That among the rest, one Warren an English Barber (and of some privacy with the Duke) wished he were in England to give his Lordship the Stabb, though he were Hanged & Quartered the next daie after. That these are the suits & Fugitives, which, as yet he cannot sup-

tary of State, & the Conde de Miranda President might be lawfull to Eate Mustard with his distaste all people but those of their own Nation; And yet they had a mind to have Blount tried by their Laws, although a Subject of our King, & his Treasons committed out of their Dominions. That the severall Councils of State, Warre, & the Indies sitt exceeding often & very close. That there are three projects on foot for raising money to the King. 1 A Libertie of Habitation & Religion, to the Jewes; which people offer very largely. 2 An yeerlie portion to the King out of all Bishopricks & Ecclesiasticall Livings. 3 A Ratable proportion of the Gold & Silver Plate of that Kingdome. But that he believed, all three would prove but a Faggott to warme their Shirts, not a Fire to rost their meate. He doubts not but his Majestie will provide some Reliefe for his poor Subjects who can have no Justice in Spaine; but is of Opinion that the Olde Waye of grantinge Letters of Mart or Reprisall, will be dangerous; His Majesties Subjects having so great Effects there. That Sir George Carre hath received Advertisements from England, which he had communicated to the Constable, to the Secretarie Prada & Villa-longa.*

182. To Sir Thomas Edmonds his Majesties Ambassador with the Arch-Duke. 9 July 1606.
fol. 506. b.

*That he believeth the Spaniards will not assent to deliver up Blount for England, toward which their Humor is much changed for the worse. The Cause of this Alteration they attribute to us, with whom in Generality they find neglect, and in particularity contempt. But Sir Charles judgeth it to proceed from the Intelligencers who deprave the King, & exaggerate the Persecution (so called) of the Catholicks, together with our assisting the Hollanders underhand. Herewith they bitterlie charge some of his Majesties Ministers of greatest power, and are not without a Will to Revenge the same by any meanes they can either publique or secret. That by the supposed Losse of the Indian Fleet, and the extreme want occasioned thereby, they are become both Stupid & Desperate, & even Carelesse of the Continuance of the Peace, whereof they never had soe extreame neede, since if our King was at Libertie, it would be within his power to Set his foote on their Heads, & Sincke them for ever. Rehearseth the three projects abovementioned for raising Money; Concluding, that things there are in much Disorder and Confusion, being infected with the malignant Breath of some Jesuits & other Fugitives, and other ill-affected Countrey-men of our

183. To the Earle of Salisburie, 9 July 1606.

itie. He prays for the Preservation of his Ma-whom, whatsoever Mallice can doe, will not be omitted.

184. The Coppie of a Letter written by my Lord (i. e. Sir Charles Cornwallies) unto Secretary Prada, translated into English. fol. 509. b.

Remonstrating, that in noe one thing (though as cleere as the Light of the Sun) hath he since his coming into that Countrey, obtayned End for any of his Masters Subjects. What this hath wrought in England, he cannot tell: but presume (if the Complaints from thence be just & true) that One Neglect hath begotten another.

185. From Sir Thomas Edmondes His Majesties Ambassador with the Arch-Duke 22 June 1606. fol. 510.

That since our King refused to send over the Information for the Trial of our Fugitives there, Order was presently taken for their Enlargement, & even of Owynne, who is now in as great Credit as ever. That as to Captaine James Blount, who (with some others of his Coate there) had been detected of designing to have Carried awaie the English Regiment there into England, for the assistinge of Catesbie his Enterprize after the Execution thereof: he had received Commandment from England not to urge the delivering him up, seeing his Majesties Request was before denyed, and therefore adviseth Him to surcease his pursuit of him in in Spaine. That the English Regiment there hath received much Disgrace by the Suddaine Cashiering of all the principal Officers thereof, & almost one half of the Captaines. The Causes thereof are pretended to be the Disagreement between the Coronell & Sir Thomas Studder the Sergeant Major, which drew the Regiment into great Factions: Secondly, the pretended weakness of that Regiment, though it was then 1000 men Strong: But chiefly because of the denyal to suffer any more men to come out of England thither: although the said Restraint was onely limited vntill the End of the Parliament. And that their other carriage towards England (by the incitement of our Fugitives) is such, as may engender evill Conceits between both Courts. That some Officers have been Beheaded, & others Disgraced, for not doing their Duty at the attempt to take Sluyce by Surprise, which Town the Flemmings would have to be again besieged, but that it was intended rather to besiege some Inland Towne than a Place that could be relieved by the Enemy. He advertiseth other particulars relating to the State of the War there. That the Jesuites had procured the Revocation of the Popes Nuntio, because he was more moderate, & would not join with them in their Violent Courses. Recommendeth to his Sollicitation the Case of Mr. Peter Benevoire Merchant of London; whose ship, intended for Virginia, taking in Water in the River of Helena in the Coast of Florida, was surprised by the Spaniards, the Goods Confiscated & sent into Spaine. As also the Case of one Mr. Mountpeffons an old Gentleman who had some arrears of a Pension from the King of Spain, Called Remato, due unto Him; which is not used to be paid, but by especiall Order out of Spaine, to be obtained there, as friends can be made.

186. To the Lord of Salisburie by the waie of Flanders; presently after the goeing of Mr. Pindar the 9th of July 1606. fol. 516.

That he hath awakened the Spaniards out of their Dreame by Speaking lowder than they: and now they say that they are not soe evill affected as to breake the Peace vpon a few vnkindnesses, proceeding rather from His Majesties Ministers then Himself; and promise Answers of all the Causes here dependinge, but he suspecteth the Sicilian business will still be Shuffled off at last. That the King of Spain hath Issued fresh Orders for preventing Injuries to be done to our Countrey-men, & for punishment of divers Officers who have contravened the last.

187. To Sir Thomas Edmondes His Majesties Ambassador in the Lowe-Countreys. fol. 518.

How that by his pulling the Spaniards by the Sleeve, he hath made them to Open their Eies. That Blount remaineth still in Prison, but that (upon receipt of his Letter) he told them, that considering they purpose the same way with him, that before they did with Owyn, Our King not allowing any Tryall for any Subject of His at the Tribunall of another Prince, he remitted him wholly to them, whoe (as he perceived) are determined to sett him at Libertie.

188. To my Lord of Salisburie, in the beginninge of August. fol. 519.

That the Want of Money & Plenty of Miseries dayly Encrease. That a Gentleman is come from the Marquis Spinola, whose principal Errand is thought to be an Advertisement of a faileing in the Undertakinge for the furnishing of Money, vpon the losse of the Indian Treasure, and a Sollicitation for a Supply from Spain. That they now again give hopes (since they have no money) to the English suffering Merchants. That he hath of late, & shall be again very playne with them, upon their Reports of our King, that he hath broken his Covenants; and that they formerly thought the English Nation Valiant, Honorable, & punctual in all their Actions, but perceive them now to growe cautelous & irrespctive of their Word & Promise. That as to the Sicilian Cause (i. e. that of Hall & Eldred) the Constable, being President of the Councell of Italie, was authorized to make this Answer: That such are the Lawes & Customes of that Country, as a Cause there Sentenced cannot be revoked, to be reviewed in another place. That the manner of proceedings there (i. e. in Spain) is so troublesome, vnjust, & vnjust, as without some newe Conventions for reformation of the daiely oppressions of their Officers in the Ports, it will be neither profitable nor safe for his Majesties Subjects to continue their Commerce there. Relates the Conferences he had with the Constable, & with the Secretary Prada, touching our Merchants, & the better Regulation of the Commerce between both Nations. Touching which, the Secretary desired him to have a little patience, saying that their Intricacies, Distractions, & Necessities were not unknowne to him. That those had made them forgett themselves in many Matters that much imported them at Home; and therefore

That all this while whosoever speakes worst of England, is held the most Sound Friend to Spaine, and continue their same bad Opinion of His Lordship. That the Captains Burke & Weston continue there still, being both ill affected to our Countrey in generall & to his Lordship in particular. That Blount is still in prison, although they would not deliver him up to Our King, having protested that for their Honor they would not doe it, if he were a Turke. He sendeth to His Lordship a Treaty between the French King & the Hollanders, likely to prove prejudicial to these Estates.

Admiring at the Course taken by the Spaniards in so frequent infringing the Treaty of Peace, which his Majesty must think proceeding from the Great ones, unless due punishment be done on the Inferior Officers. For the Embargoing our Shippes at Lisbon, Constrayning our Marryners to serve in Warlike Actions against our Friends; Confiscating of whole Shippes & Goodes for a smale Quantitie of pretended forbidden Commodities; exacting still 30 per Cent. in the Islands of Terceras, cannot be construed as done by private Authority; besides many such other Notorious wrongs daelie brought unto his Majesties Eares, the Redresse whereof the Merchants pretend to be delayed through his (Sir Charles's) Remissness. Directeth him how to proceed at the Spanish Court with Relation to Blount, who had been accused of the Gun-powder Treason; who being Summoned upon his Allegiance to repaire into England, willfullie disobeyed, & went from Bruxelles, hoping to receive a better support in Spaine. That our Queene had been delivered of a Daughter, who died the next day. That they were in Expectation of the King of Denmarks coming over to England. He sendeth Sir Charles a Proclamation published since the Finishing the Parliament, concerninge the banishing of Priests & Jesuits, by which he might Ymagine the future Course of his Majesties Proceedings against them would be rather by Lenity & Moderation, than by Seueritie in th'Execution of the Lawes: Although in this Parliament there hath been some sharpnes passed in Terrorem. That the French King hath invited our King to be Godfather to his Eldest Daughter at the Generall Christening of his three Children, at once. That our King willingly accepted of the Honor, but since the Pope was to be Godfather to the Dolphin, he desired to be excused, because he could not avoid Scandall in participating with the Pope in any publique action. But if the Eldest Daughters Christening might be performed some Convenient tyme before the other twoe (although his Majesty knoweth the Difference betweene a Dolphin & a Daughter of France) yet he will be most ready to accept of it.

192. From the Lords of His Majesties most Honorable Privy Counsell. Dated 9 July 1606. fol. 532.

All upon the Subject of the Spanish Cruel & unjust Usage of our Countrey-men, who had desired Letters of Marque for their getting satisfaction, since Justice had been denied them; & requiring him again to Sollicit these Matters with all imaginable earnestness & Zeal, in Order to procure Redress for the poor People, if it might be possible.

193. From my Lord of Salisbury; dated 12 July 1606. fol. 536. b.

That the Merchants impute their lack of Redress in Spain in a great Measure, to a Guift bestowed on him by the King of Spain, with this further Circumstance, that certain English Merchants should have bought it of him, but that he differed in the Price, not a Trifle, but some Thousands of Pounds; and that therefore He dare not Offend the Spaniards. His Lordship wonders why he doth not putt them more in Mind of their often breaking the late Treaty of Peace, when upon every petty Injury they shall be whynning here, & yet deny Justice to our Countrey-men who have suffered more notorious & flagrant wrongs, and of twenty times the Value. The Truth of the Matter concerning the Restraint of our People who were willing to serve the Arch-Duke; and of the Proceedings in our Parliament with Reference to Spain, and the late Treaty of Peace, and of the Neutral Conduet of the Ministry in respect of the Men who are willing to serve on either Side. That a Practise had been discovered in the Spanish Ambassadors house here, against his Majesties Person, and for Seizing his Cautionary Town of Flushing, betweene one Captain William Nuce, & Thomaso Franco, who mett in the Chamber of one John Balle an Irishman Servant to the said Ambassador; who had made too many Scruples about the delivering up of this same Balle; who had also kept poysoned Past of Genoa by him, of which (as it seemeth, through mistake) Nuce & his Family did Eat. Sir Charles is desired to advertize this Matter to the King of Spain.

the King & Councill. That thereupon, His Majesty (before he would break with Spain) had come to a Resolution of drawing the Spanish Ambassador here to an Orderly Conference upon the Subject of our Peoples Grievances, and of the present Coldness of the Spaniards, which was for the most part, attributed to his Advertisements from hence. That this Conference was held the 22 of August, wherein the Baron of Holloque the Arch-Dukes Ambassador was also called to assist the Spaniard. His Lordship giveth the particulars transacted at that Meeting, which hath also an especiall relation to Franco, Nuce, & Balle abovementioned. He delivereth his Opinion, that the Spanish Coldness towards us at this time, is occasioned by their Repentance of the Treatie of Peace, which left us a Liberty of Voluntaire Service to the States both at Land & Sea, which galleth them many waies: That their denying us Justice in Spain, is to draw us to trade with them in Flanders. That therefore if our Country-men shall continue to be thus tyrannized upon in Spain, and can receive no right, it will be high time for his Majesty to bethink himself of another Course, for which he had never fairer Overtures of Streight & potent Conjunctures; although his inward intention be to conserve Peace as long as he maye with Honour & Safety. That lately upon great & generall Complaint of the Resort of Papists to Masse at the Spanish Ambassadors House, the High Commission had Ordered some of the Offenders to be stayd. That as soon as this was knowne the Officers were Ordered to forbear to come neere His Gate any more that daie, whereby divers Persons of good Qualitie who were within, escaped. He writeth of other matters relating to that Ambassador and his Nation; produceth a new Instance of their small respect for our Kings person, by their not punishing a fellow at Antwerp who had spoken injuriously of him; and as to himself, notwithstanding his Danger by their bloudie practises, is resolved to be the more Zealous in the Service of God and his Countrey.

197. The Introduction (to the Conference specified in the former Letter) deliuered by the Earle of Salisburie to the Spanish Ambassadour. fol. 558.

This setteth forth the Nature of our Complaints against the Spaniards, as, 1. Embargeing our Ships. 2. Continuing the Duties of 30 per Cent. in divers places of their Dominions. 3. Forceably taking our Marryners out of our Ships, & making them serve in theirs. 4. Confiscating of Ships & whole Ladeings for a finall quantitie of prohibited Goodes. 5. Putting our Men into the Inquisition without layeing any particuler Charge unto them; & forcing them to doe Reverence to the Sacrament in the Streete. 6. Imposing of New Impositions, & Continueinge of other Exactions at their Pleasure. All these were directly against the late Treaty, besides, 7. Particular Wrongs & Injuries, and denyall of Justice, & 8ly. Many Indignities & Unkindnesses, not to be separated from the same Treatie salva & illæsa Amicitia.

tween that State & the Pope. That the War between them, is as yet, a Paper War, the Printer gaineing more than the Cutler. That the King of Denmarke is departed homewards, having brought with him Sixe of His Counsellours that diswaded the Voyage.

199. To Sir Henry Wotton, 29 September 1606. fol. 162.

That soe long as the Paper-fight contynueth, there is to be expected more Effusion of Witt than Blood; the Exercise being Better, and the Perill, Lesse. That the diastrous Fortunes & Improvidences of the Spanish State doe dailey more & more shewe themselves. That their East-Indian Fleet is partly perished, & the rest taken by the Hollanders, the Admiral of Biscay fallen into the same Hands, and now an Hundred Hollands Ships of Warre come upon their Coasts, to attend the coming home of their Fleets from the West-Indyes. That still, they will do no Justice to His Majesties Subjects, but Injustice continually; whereby, the Peace will become as perillous to Our King, and much more disadvantageous to his Subjects than the Warre. That Six of his principallest Servants are now Sick of the Calenture (not to mention three more lately dead of it) this Countrey being in his Opinion, much more perillous than the Campe in the Low Countreyes. Sir Charles thanketh him for his good Advice to his Son Sr. William, whom he styleth unthrifte & unfortunate, saying that he had Spent him 5000 pounds at Court, and now, when he had given him 200 pounds a year more, he turnes his backe to his Fortunes. And that of all sorts of people he most dispairs of those of his Sorte, that are Philosophers in their Wordes, and Fooles in their Workes.

That by private Notice from a friend, he understandeth that the Merchants give out that he dare not offend the Spaniards by importunate Sollicitation of their Causes, as having received great Gifts from the King there: and that he hath prevayled for such of our Countrymen as sued for Pensions, but obtained not the Libertie of such as were kept Prisoners. To which he answereth, that He hath spared no paines in their Causes; that that alone of Hall & Eldred, hath cost him one way or other, out of his owne Purse, the better parte of an Hundred Poundes. That the Spaniards are such a people as that no man can learne how to deale with them, by reason of their extreame delayes, much mutability, & little respectivenes to their owne honour or Consciences. He cleareth himself of the Imputation of having received Gifts, owning no more than what hath been before mentioned. That as to Pensions he never was Suitor for any man whatsoever, but refused all; only when the King of Spaine sent him word that he had enlarged the Pension of Mr. Robert Southwell because he heard that he was his Kinsman; he gave (as became him) humble Thankes to his Majestie for soe greate a Fauor. That as to his remissness in Solliciting the Libertie of our Captivated Country-men, his Letters would easily prove the Contrary; besides he had actually delivered twoe out of the Inquisition, one out of the Prison at Lisbon, and 43 or 50 out of the Gallies. That his Servants daiely fall sicke, the Heate of this Sommer having ben so Excessive, as that they have lived in a manner as in an Oven; & he himself is grown soe weake, as his Leggs will scarce carry him.

204. To my Lord of Salisburie. 12 September, 1606. fol. 585.

In answer (as it seemeth) to that above remembred at §. 193. and again purgeth himself of the Gifts said to have been received by him; particularly, he relateth the matter of his Privilege of transporting Corn thither, which was the thing harped upon by the Merchants, and generally granted to Men of his Place. He also sayeth, that if He would have been tyed up to the Spanisb Rack-slaves, he might have had more than he expecteth to be worth in his whole Estate. But, if the King of Spain would have geuen him the Value of all his Kingdomes, he would not have transgressed in his faith, or in any thing have failed the Trust reposed in him. That although the Spaniards are bad enough in their own Natures, & Egged on by Fugitives & false Intelligencers; yet some of our Merchants have been to blame in giving Vent to malicious & untrue Reports, for serving their own Turnes. He desires that His Majestie would lend him 4000 l. to be repaid by 1000 l. a year; by which Sum, he shall be able to quiet his Estate, & provide for his Daughter now marriageable.

205. To my Lord of Salisburie, 17 September 1606. fol. 592.

That as to redressing the Grievances complained of by our Merchants, all that comes from the Spaniards are onely wordes to wyne tyme, and without all Intention. That our People having made their Complaints in generall termes (without specifying the Names of those who Suffered, or did the Injuries) his Representation must be so too, and consequently his answer will be to little purpose. That if our Merchants must suffer the daiely Injuries offered unto them by the Spaniards; better it were that the Traffique were wholly left. He proceedeth to hint at a Rupture between the two Crowns, and sendeth his Lordship a Project for Raising money to support the War. That divers of his Servants are fallen Sick of the Calenture, & some Dead. That there die of the Spaniards at least 300 a week, & of the Irish, many, the Phisicians being so Ignorant, that if a man fall Sick, it is almost an even lay that he shall never Recover.

208. To the Lords of the Counsell, 9 September, 1606. fol. 600.

Relating his proceedings at the Spanisb Court, in behalf of many of our Injured Merchants. That as to the Shippe Castor & Pollux, he knowes not how to frame his Suite, because the Spanisb Jealousie of their Indyees is so extreame, as they resolve to make it Capitall to all such as shall fall into their Hands there. That Sir John Watts was not well advised to send thither with Goods of their Produce, especially Masse-bookes & Copes, which are not Wares for English Handes; but however, he will doe his best to recover what is taken from him. Relates the Arguments they use to keep their own People fast in their Religion, and to draw in ours; which have had their Effects. That the Acces to the King there is difficult, that whosoever applies himself to Him for any thing, setts back the Clock of his busines very many Degrees. That the Method of the Spaniards in Dispatch of Busines, is vastly different from, & more tedious than that of England, as he sheweth by particulars; so that the most Just & Fauored Busynes cannot (in walking in the Ordinary Path) come to End, in less than 13 or 14 Monthes: but if Crossed, or put out of the Waye, very hardly in soe many yeeres. Yet He meaneth to be a Suitor to His Majestie for brief Dispatch of the severall Causes recommended to him, according to Lawe & Equity, although he knoweth this Attempt will be brought about with exceeding great difficulty. That when they before shewed so much good Humour to him, they had their Aim at the reaping of many Advantages (which he enumerates) from their Peace with England; but failing in them all, he feareth that their Amity (how long soever it shall Continue) will be without Love & Trust. That in case of Breaking with His Majestie, they would endeavor to trouble Him by Ireland; but now of late, hope much more to kindle Fire in Scotland; and at the last findeing none other Remedie, they saie they will accept of the Allyance & League offered by France. That at the late Consultation about the relieuing of the Kings Wants, many things have beene propounded; and amongst the rest, the Raisinge of His Coyne, which is wholly rejected: But the puttinge of an Imposition of 2 Ryalls upon euery Hereage of Wheate spent or sold, they saie will yeld to the King a Revenue of at least 14 Millions. That Sir Anthony Sherley is arriued at Lisbon, where hee arrogats to himself the Title of Ambassadour to the Emperour; by whom, he sayeth, he is sent to the King of Marocco, whom he had presented with a Rubie of great Perfection, of the weight of twoe Ounces, esteemed at 500,000 Ducats; the farther Story whereof; & of the Papers he sent to the Duke of Lerma, & to the Conde de Villa-Longa, I shall here omit.

That they have already Consulted & Agreed of the Course they will take when the Peace shall breake, and he doubteth not but our King hath done the like.

Concerning the Imputation laid upon him by the Merchants; as to which he referreth himself to the Letter he hath written to the Earl of Salisbury.

211. To Sir Thomas Edmondes Ambassadour with the Arch-Duke, 19th September 1606. fol. 611.

That the Spaniards Eares are full of money, but their Purfes empty. That many Cunsultas and Juntas haue ben lately made about the Provision of a Royal Navy; but what is Concluded, or where they should finde money to performe it, he cannot yet learne. That the Alteration of their behavior towards us upon the suddaine, is greate; and though he hath of late exhibited divers Memorials, he can haue Answer of none, neither Access to the King, or the Duke of Lerma.

212. To the Lords of the Counsell, vltimo die Septembris 1606. fol. 612.

Relating a Conference he had with the Duke of Lerma, upon the Subject of our Merchants Complaints; the false Reports raised by our Fugitives; that two or 3 Commissioners might be appointed to Hear & Determine of our Merchants Causes according to Justice & Equity; that a more streight Commandment might be geuen to the Apofentador for an house to be assigned to him within the Towne, as to all other Ambassadors. How the Duke began to wheedle, in Order to induce him to return to Popery (wherein he had been bred) and the Answer made him by Sir Charles. That Owynn is arrived at Madrid, ouer whome he will keepe a watchfull Eye. And, that Blount hath exhibited a Memoriall, pretending to be of Kindred with diuers Noblemen of England, that he left his Countrey & Goods for Religion, & by Sir Charles's meanes had suffered long and straight Imprisonment, &c.

213. To my Lord of Salisbury. fol. 623.

Still desiring that His Majesty would lend him the 4000 l. abovementioned. Setting forth the great Mortality reigning in his House, which is so strait, that neither Day nor Night he can avoid hearing the Groanes of his Sick & Dying Servants. That the Duke of Lerma begins now to make half a Profession of following his Pleasures, and geueing over to attend the publique buisines. That the Court is followed by Comedians who cost the King 45 l. a day, when those to whom the King oweth money dye dailey for want of Bread. That there is some Rumor as if their Indian Fleete of the last yere, is either come Home, or verie neare the Coast, and that the Hollanders either missed it; or dare not attack it. That there is a Generall Fame, that the Hollanders labour much both of want of Men & Money, and hopeth that our King will not suffer the Spaniard to conquer them. That now again they dailey shew more Violence to his Ma-

214. To my Lord of Salisbury. fol. 626. b.

Relating the Discourse he had with Secretary Prada concerning his Lordship, the Opinion of the Spanish Court concerning him, & how they came to conceiue that Opinion; and that they were now altered. That Prada, in Conclusion, plainly Confessed that they had receiued a double Offer out of England; either to murder his Lordship, or to raise a Difference between Him & some other Great Lords; both which he protested, were absolutely denyed & refused, and gave him the Reasons why. That Owynne hath met with a very cold Reception; and neither He nor Blount goes abroad by Day-light. That the Ambassador of Venice tooke knowledge to him how much that State holdes its self obliged to his Majestie, and also enlarged himself in particular Commendations of his Lordship, and that the other Ambassadors there, carry the same mynde. That in another Conversation with Prada, He told him that the Spanish intollerable Delays & Procrastinations drewe much Hatred upon their Nation, & Scandall to their Government; the Blame whereof Prada laid upon the late Erection of Consultas, but again promised fair things. He believeth that there are some Secret Treaties in hand betweene Spain and France. That Diverse of our Irish Fugitives haue of late obtaigned increase of their Pensions. That his Cousin Henry Cornwallies is come thither, whose wants he relieveth, endeavoring also at the same time to reduce him from Popery; that the Young Gentleman desireth some Pension from His Majestie, whose Pleasure therein Sir Charles will expect. That the Spaniards still continue Shuffling in the Causes of our Merchants, promising much & performing nothing, he therefore believeth that their true Intent is only to wyne tyme, without any purpose to giue Contentment in any thing of Substance. That the Ambassador of Mantua there, hath of late received feuerall speciall Commaundments from his Master to offer his Affection & Service to our King, whose answer Sir Charles desireth to receive. That the Mortalitie continueth in the House, Mr. Hawkesworth his Secretarie & 4 more being dead; his Chaplain & twoe others Sicke, & three more lately fallen downe: and that notwithstanding he hath taken Phisicke, he is in dailey doubt to endure what his Servants have done. Lastly, he desireth that his Majesties allowance may be better paid, he having gonne, by borrowing, to the vtmost end of his Credite.

215. To my Lord of Salisbury. fol. 633.

That Hawkesworth his Secretary being dead, he provided himself of Cooke, who sometymes served the Emperors Ambassador; but his Confessor & Countreymen soe terrefyed him with the Fire of Hell to his Soule, and that of the Inquisition to his Body, as he withdrew himself without taking his Leave, and will not be perswaded to returne. That there is no hope of Successe in the Greate Busynes; for without Tolleration of Religion, they will not aduenture a Daughter in England. That are expected from the Hanse Townes, with Offer to serue the King by Sea against the Hollanders; and an Ambassador from Savoy.

217. To my Lord of Northampton. fol. 641. b.

That his Importunitie in the Causes of our Merchants hath been so much, as made him suspected; and some (of the best Sorte) were content to whisper that he did so, for his own Commoditie, & not by Commission or Commaundement of the King his Master, although those ungratefull People have misrepresented him at home. He sheweth many of the reasons why he hath been delayed. That the Delays in Spain are equall to all men: He instanceth in the Duke of Feria, who bought a Manor of the King for 40000 Crownes (for which nobody else would give above 35000) The money being paid down, he was to be putt into immediate possession; but before that could be done, an Order came from the King forbidding it; the Duke being sufficiently Great already, & the King not willing to part with a Seignorie of such Command & Value. Hereupon the Duke desires his Money, but in two years time can get nothing, notwithstanding continuall & importunate Sollicitation; nor (as it seems) any intention of reimbursing him. To particuler like Examples in Persons inferior, were to write a whole Volume. That the Conde de Villa-Mediana, though (since his returne) exceedingly bountifully rewarded by his King, is sayd to liue in great necessity.

218. To the Lords of the Counsell, 3 November 1606. fol. 646. b.

That though our King had done Justice on the Pirates whom the Spaniards complained of: in a late Case of one Thomas Leinae a Scotchman, they have not done Justice; and he expecteth the same Success in another like Cause. That he never yet could get the two Secretaries to meet, according to the Duke of Lerma's Promise: which pitiful Dealing would have troubled him more, was it not common also to the Ambassadors of other Powers. Adviseeth that Consuls & Officers be sent to keep Order in the Affairs of our Merchants in Spain & Portugal, whom he would have to be of hability & Discretion. That Blount being offred a Pension of 35 Crowns a Month from Naples, refuseth it as a Reward too smale for the greatnes of his Meritt. That the same Offer will be made to Owen. That as to the Apprehension of Balle, he hath satisfied them, by an Example taken from themselves, being this. The Wife of Antonio de Perez, not charged with Treason, but with Effects of true Love to her Husband, was a meane of his Escape out of Prison. The King deceased apprehended her in the House of the Venetian Ambassador there, and so caused her to be Committed. That his Cousin Mr. Henry Cornwallies abovementioned, is deceased in his House.

219. To the Lords of the Counsell, 12 November 1606. fol. 651.

Concerning the Alteration in the Spaniards with Respect to England, and the Reasons of it. That the motion for Alliance with France is revived & pursued with all Violence by the King himself; and with no lesse Ardour solicited by the Pope & the Duke of Florence: that, nevertheless, there remained a party in the Council, who were rather for the Alliance with England.

Num. 1875.

That one of them had desired him to recollect his thoughts thereon, which he did by way of Proof of this his Theme. That in the Alliance with France, the Danger will be greater, and the Utilities & Honour less, then in that of England; wherein he already findeth that his Arguments have not been without their Effect. That the Duke of Lerma & the Conde de Villalonga are yet for the Proposal for England, and in a few dayes will conferr with him thereupon: although himself holding it easier to destroy than to build, conceiveth he shall be more able to break their intended Alliance with France, than to effect that with England.

220. To my Lord of Salisbury, 16. November 1606. fol. 661.

That the Jesuits have translated into Spanish, & Printed our Laws against the Popish Recusants. That by their procurement a Breue is sent from the Pope, forbidding the English Catholics to take the Oath. That he hath written again to the Duke of Lerma in behalf of our poore complaining Countreymen. That the Duke played the dilatory game with this also, alledging it must be Considered in Council, before it could be answered; that being overpressed with the weight of the Kings affairs, he could not be spoken unto, &c. when as all the while he doth nothing but take his pleasures in his House & Gardens. That by the Spaniards Actions it appeareth, that such is their over-weening, as they thinke they may playe with the Noses of all other People of the World. He therefore conjectures by their Government & Proceedings, that the tyme drawes neere when it will be said of them, as in the Psalmist, Perijt memoria eorum cum Sonitu. That under colour of this late Debate betweene the Pope & the Venetians, they aime at a further Estate in Italy. That one Fludd a Jesuit in Lisbon, lately wrote unto another, that he had made sure three Men very apt & trusty for the purpose projected: & wanted two more of like Quality & Trust, which shortly he hoped to procure. What the business is he cannot certainly tell, but addeth that those late Executions of their Colleagues in England hath sett the hearts of the Jesuitical Faction on Fire, and apted them for the undertaking of any Mischiefe whatsoever. That Blount & Owynne are not so cared for as formerly. That in Lisbon there is one Linway a Pylot; a man of a most traiterous Disposition that useth dailey to rayle upon our King, for Exercise: and wisheth that Fludd & He were fetched away into England, they both doing very much Mischief there. That Mr. Tresham who was so long Prisoner in the Fleete is come to Madrid, in a very necessitous Condition. That our Laws against Popish Recusants are Printed & Published there, of which he hath Complained, & hopeth to obtain some Redress in the End.

221. To my Lord of Salisbury, 20 November 1606. fol. 668. b.

That upon his Declaration, that if he could not succeed now in our Countreymens Causes he would trouble them no more, but geuing them ouer as desperate, leaue them to be remedied by the King his Master, they have sent them all to the Consulta. That Blount hath gotten his Pension in Naples translated to the Lowe-Countreys.

Num. 1875.

222. A Coppie of a Letter written by my Lord Ambassador to the Duke of Lerma in Nov. 1606. fol. 669. b.

Complaining of the Breach of the Treaty by their Harboring & Relieving our Traytors & Fugitives, and the most intollerable Delay of Justice, so long that our poor Countrey-men were exposed by them to all manner of Miseryes & Necessities, euen to Famyne it self; if he had not, to his greate Charge, all the last Winter, and the most part of the ensuing Sommer, sustained them; and reproacheth him, in handsome terms, of his Breach of Promise.

223. Articles sent unto the Duke of Lerma, in Justification of the Letter above-mentioned. fol. 671. b.

Setting forth the Injuries done by the Spaniards to our Countreymen, since the Peace.

224. The Brief of a Letter written to my Lord of Salisbury, dated 21 December 1606. fol. 673. b.

That Mr. Button who carried his last Dispatch, was accompanied by one Gamage a Jesuit, who goes by the Name of Reade, and yet said nothing of it to him. That there are great Preparations made for Sea-Service the next Yeere. That now Mr. Francis Cottington is possessed with a Calenture.

225. To the Lords of the Spanish Counsell of State. fol. 674. b.

Entreatinge the Suppressinge of Certaine English Lawes against Recusants, Printed & Published in Spaine. Shewing also, that the Pictures & Books found in the Shops of London representing the Cruelties of the Inquisition, were suppressed upon the first application to our Kings Council. And that in this pretended Translation, Termes & Wordes dishonorable & false, are maliciously inserted, in derogation of his Majesties Lawes & Government.

226. The Coppie of a Second Letter written by my Lord Ambassador to the said Counsell of State, being answered to his former Letter, That He should proue the Falshoods which he alleaged to bee in the Translations of our English Lawes against Recusants. fol. 676.

He sheweth the Strangeness & Unreasonableness of this Demand; but yet sendeth them the Falshoods & malicious Impudencies he meant; together with some briefe Reasons of the Occasion of those Lawes, which in the Originall are at large Expressed, but cunningly Suppressed by the Translators, for the better Coveringe the Treasons & unnatural Practises of certaine Traitours & Evill-Affected Subjects whom they favour.

227. Concerning the Question, whether his Majestie of Spaine shall proceede with the Alliance with England moued from themselves; or with that of France Solicited by others. The Considerations are 32 in Number, and are drawn up by some in the Interest of France.

228. To the Earle of Northampton, 19 December 1606. fol. 682. b.

About his private matters.

229. To the Earles of Dorsett, Nottingham, Suffolke, Northampton, & Salisbury, at the same time. fol. 683. b.

About the abovementioned 32 Heads or Considerations; which, some say were drawn up by Creswell the Jesuit (who hath withdrawn his Love from his Countrey, upon seeing his Name in our late Statutes) or by the Bishop of Mounte-pulsiano the Florentine Ambassador, but rather by the latter. That Sir Anthony Shirley, having gotten some Inkling of the Matter, perhaps by the Conde de Villa-longa (whose Custome it is to Distill all Hearbes & Weedes that promise any Iuyce) pretends now to be a Dealer in it, which himself takes to be absolute Mountebankery. That he had sent one of the Newe Mapps of England, Scotland, & Ireland, unto the said Conde de Villa-Longa, with a Message that he should peruse it well & often, as that Continent from whence Spaine muste drawe the Continuance & Engreatinge of their Monarchy. That he very kindly receaued it, with particular respects to the King & Prince whose Pictures were Engraven therein. That the Spaniards use the French Ambassador with more Respect than before, but say that there will be no Conclusion of the Marriage of their Princeesse, till the King shall have more Sonnes. That there is a Discourse upon the Heads abovementioned, said to be exceedingly well Penned.

Num. 1875.

230. To the Earle of Salisburie. fol. 687.

That what the Malicious Tongues of our Jesuits deliuer of the King, of the Queene, nay of the sweet Prince (the Hope of our Countrey, who neuer offended them) be forbeareth to write, not onely Honoris gratia, sed etiam Verecundiæ; since such they are, as are neither fitt to Revenge, or so much as Stirre, or Mention. He hopes that, at last, his Majestie will, in Consideration of his Honor & Office, procure Satisfaction for the greate & intollerable Injuries there done to his people.

231. To the Lords of his Majesties Most Honorable Privie Counsell. fol. 687. b.

That the Spanish Counsellors delay (according to their old Custome) the giving answer to his Complaint against the false Translation of our Lawes against Recusants lately published there, as having noe Will to satisfie us in any thing further then Necessitie will enforce them. That there are lately presented to that State, by our Fugitives, certaine Advices or Declinations of the State & Government of our King, soe malicious, soe wicked, & soe slanderous, as must proceed from the Devil himself. That the Jesuits are much offended with him for noting the faults in their Translation, which Creswell useth his utmost Endeavors to palliate & smoothe over. That Creswell hath drawn up a Letter to him, Commending his former Carriage in that Courte; Wishing the continuance of his Temperance: and Insinuating Scandall & Perill that followeth Violence; but hath not adventured to send it. That Wadsworth his revolted Chapleine, now a feather of that Wing, owned that they are much accumbred with what he had made appeare in their Translations. That they now spread a Rumor that his Majestie hath resolved to take away all the Bishopricks of his Kingdome, and overthrowe all the Cathedrall Churches. That the Spanish Court is much perplexed with the litle will the Emperour sheweth that there should be a Diett for the Choice of a King of the Romans. And they are in greate doubt that He will not geue his Voyce to those of his owne House; which moues them to entertayne new purposes of draweing that Dignity to the Howse of Bauier, and to bestowe a Daughter of Spaine in it.

232. To my Lord of Salisburie. fol. 691.

That he can, as yet, gain no access to the Duke of Lerma. That Creswell hath written a book & Dedicated it to the King there; wherein he endeavoreth to cleere himself & his Colleagues of the Treasons layd to their Charge; and to proue, that this late Powder-Treason (howsoever undertaken by the intemperate heades & handes of certaine ignorant young people) yet was Plotted & Devised by some Counsellors in England, for the ouerthrowe of the Catholique Religion. That Creswell taketh incessant pains in the matter of their publishing a false Translation of our Lawes; & that He & his Colleagues lose ground there. That the wants of Money, & Ministration of Right & Justice, are as greate as euer; and the Treasurie-doore is shutt up, as where there is no Money. That the Cryes & Discontents of the People, Soldiers, and Ordinarie Servants of the King are extreme. And, were they not brided by Extremity of Lawes, & Feare of the Inquisition, things would not rest long in the State they are in. That the Peru-Fleet is come in, having brought above the Value of Five Millions, in the most seasonable time. That the French Ambassador hath Gotten a better Order for Relief of his Masters Subjects than that obtained by Him. That his Secretary Mr. Colington, & others being Sick, his Kinsman &c. dead; he insinuateth a Desire to be recalled. That he hath had noe late access to the King or Duke, who give him hopes that all his Causes shall be accommodated at last. That the Spaniards Hopes are greate, with dayes gotten to disuse us in that wherein wee are ablest to offend them; and reduce our Neighbours to Extremities, who are the Wall betweene them & their desires to Ruine us. That he hath drawne the Edge of the Jesuits Penn upon him by publishing their late falsehoods, which they are attempting to defend. But if he may avoyd what he maie receave in the Platter, he shall not much fear their Penns. That from a great Feast made by the President of the Treasury, one Ramirez de Prada one of the greatest men in the Kingdom for Matter of Money, & in Authority in those businesses, & walked even with the Conde de Villa-Longa, was taken into a Coach, & sent to a Prison two Leagues from the Court. His House & all that he had, was instantly seized upon, and his Wife, Children, & Servants removed. This is thought to proceed from his Gathering too much to Himself, & respecting too little the Kings Benefit. He was a Lawyer by Profession, borne to litle, and within a few yeeres possessed of litle; yet had then 24000 Crownes by yeere in Land, besides infinite Wealth in Plate & Money. How soe much should be gotten with the Kings Salary, & Ordinary Fees, is the Riddle he must resolve.

233. From the Earle of Salisburie, dated 28 November 1606. fol. 695.

That His Majestie and his Counsellors were heartily Sorry for the Calamities which had come upon his House in Spain, by the Death & Sicknes of so many of his best & most necessary Servants. That notwithstanding the Spanish Ambassadors promise promise made in August, at the Conference, that he would produce his owne Complaints against us in 5 or 6 dayes, and shew the Reason that moued him to find fault with our Justice here; He hath temporized all this while without propounding any thing; excuseing himself upon one Dispatch or other to Come about it. That a Watch had been sett upon the Spanish Ambassadors howse to interrupt such English as should resort thither to Masse, unknowne to His Majesties Counsell, & by Warrant onely of the Ecclesiasticall Commission. In th' execution of which Warrant, because some Disorder was committed by the parties put in Trust, three of the Principall ones were committed to Prison; where they laye vntill the Ambassadour beinge throughly satisfied, made often intercession for their Discharge.

234. To Sir Thomas Edmondes, His Majesties Ambassador in Flanders. fol. 698. b.

That upon a Memorial, he hath received an Answer to his Complaints, which in Papers appears a verie Mountaine; but in performance he doubts will proue lesse than a Molehill. That Owyn & Blount are defended as inculpable; and to our Kings Charge is layed Levinus and all others of the Low-Country Nation inhabiting within his Dominions, who are dubbed with the Marke of Rebels & Evil-Affected Subjects, the faults of Owyne & Blount being paralleled with those poore Soules of the Low-Countryes that fledd VENTURAM IRAM. Of the late precipitious fall of twoe greate Ministers of that State, the Conde de Villa-Longa and Ramaris de Prada: whose Plate, Jewells, & Money, buried under Churches, hidden in Friers Cells, conveyed into Ambassadors Howses, cast into Privies, laden into Carts under other Semblances, are drawn out by the Officers. That the Spoile of them & some others that were partakers of their Fraudes & Briberyes, will be worth to the King, at least, Three Millions: and yet he hath an ill bargain; for, with the gaine of three Millions or four, to themselves, they lost to the King at least Fifteen.

235. To Sir George Carew his Majesties Ambassadour in France, 19 Jan. 1606. S. N. fol. 700.

That Ramaris de Prada a Principal Minister of that State, who with the Earle of Villa-Longa absolutely governed the Kings Treasure, being worth almost a Million and an half, was apprehended & stript of all about the beginning of Christmase. After Christmase ended, his Colleague the Conde de Villa-Longa ran the same fortune, being taken in his House about 11 a Clock at Night, carried instantly to Prison divers Leagues from Madrid; his Chests and Caskets of Plate, Money, & Jewells laden into Carts out of the Windows; his Wife & Children about one of the Clock that Night removed out of the howse; and all seized on to the Kings Use.

236. To the Earles of Dorset, Nottingham, Suffolk, & Salisbury. fol. 700. b.

That he believed the Spanish Alliance with France was now become impracticable, after all the pains that the French Ambassador had spent about it; who, among other things, had shewn them the Picture of the Dolphin Armed, and with his Pike in his hand, at his Age of four yeeres & certaine Monthes: and now Exclaimes against the Government there, much out of the boundes of all Patience.

237. To the Lords of the Counsell, the 14th of Januarie 1606-7. fol. 701. b.

That his displaying the Malicious fallshoods of the Jesuits Translation of our Laws against Recusants, had had this Effect, That whereas before, every Religious Howse in Madrid had them, and their Preachers vsually helped out their Sermons with Declamations against the Cruelties of England; some of them affirming that much easier it was for the Christians in the daies of Dioclesian: Now, there is hardly one of those Translations to be found. The Jesuites themselves are soe ashamed of the Worke, as euery of them denyeth to haue had any hand in it. That most of the Ambassadors there have Coppies of his Letters & Annotations, and haue sent them into their Countreys. That Creswell cannot get the Pension for sustentation of the Seminaries of Rome, Doway, & Seville in the Manner & Value he desired. That Doctour Cecill & one Singleton a Priest have been at Rome to Sollicit the Sending of one to England vested with Episcopal Dignity, but were baffled there by the Jesuites; who were also too hard for the Arch-Priest then residing in England. He can, as yet, get no Copie of the Briefe prohibitinge the taking of the Oath by Papists, and yet the Jesuits are in a great Choller that he knew any thing of it. That Sir Anthony Sherley promising to doe Miracles against the Hollanders, sueth to be made Generall of the Kings Armado; and offereth for Suertie, to be assisted with a Counsell, and attended with a Guard that shall continuallie obserue his Actions. That the Conde de Villa-Longa being seized, was carried instantly away to a Dungeon called La Motta de Medina. That at a late Tournay held at the Court, he was preferred before the Ambassador of France. Finally, that he is insinuating himself into the Esteem of the Kings New Confessor, who professeth his Love to Justice & to our King; who seemes to be a Man of Courage, & of an able Understandinge.

238. To the Earle of Salisbury. fol. 705.

That Creswell meeting his Man at Secretary Prada's, spake honorably of his Lordship, & dutifully of his Majesty; and that the Heads or Reasons (abovementioned at § 229.) for the Alliance with France were not drawne up by him. That it is Reported, as if 160 Priests as yet abide in England. He sendeth his Lordship a description of that retayner to the Jesuits, who went with Mr. Button for England. That the King intendeth to send a Fleet to the Levant-Seas, to disturb the Trade of the Hollanders in those parts. It having been reported that the Dutch earnestly sue either for Peace or Truce; 'tis said that the French King hath sent them Blanks firm'd with his Hand, admittinge them to insert any condition that shall seeme reasonable vnto themselves, rather than to come to any conclusion with the Spaniard. That Money now growes very plentiful in the Kings Treasurie: they Tell it not with their Fingers as in England, but weigh it in Scales large enough to contayne twoe greate Oxen. That if their Fountaine be not stopped, & if by Peace or Truce their waste be restrayned, he discerneth not how they may be stayed from overflowinge, in tyme, all the parts of the Earth that their Pride & Ambition shall turne their Streame vnto; especially now that the false Fingers of the Ministers are broken, which by deceipt passed by (in prejudice to the King) at least 20 Millions, to the Usuringe Genoeſe & Portugalls; and a better Course be held for the future. That it is said that the Earle of Villa-Longa had in Lands neere 100,000l. by yeere, and in other Wealth to the Value of a Million & a Half. He relateth the Discourse he had with Creswell the Jesuit before the Ambassador of Florence, upon the Subject of the Villanies of Him & His Fraternity, and how at length he putt him to Confusion. That the Spaniards still continue to give good words, but yet he can promise to himself nothing of the Event. That Sr. Edward Baynham hath Visited him, pretending to come there only to see the Countrey, & to learn a little Spanish; but Mr. Cottington hath found that he hath been there neere three Monthes, and passed as a French-man, and had found him also with Creswell at Secretary Pradas. That this Secretary Prada is likely to become Great, haueing Villa-longa's Office: He sheweth much Honestie, Playnnes & Charitie; but is a ghostly Child of Creswell, and much affected to that Societie. That his Chapleine & twoe more of his English & most necessarie Servants being scared with the Sicknes, are importunate to be gone: whom to keepe against both their Willes & their Stomackes, agreeth not with his Disposition, neither is without danger.

239. To the Earle of Northampton. fol. 711. b. That it was his Fortune to meete with the Falshoods of our Jesuits & Fugitives soe aptly in their late pretended Translations of our Lawes against Roman Recusants, as some of themselves have acknowledged the Losse of the principal Feathers they were here wont to fly with, and are now studyeing how to amend their Wings. Relateth the falls of Ramaris de Prada, & the Conde de Villa-Longa; of which last, he had drawne to favour hartelie the State of England, as far as he durst, he being aduerse to that of France. Observes that Birds of his Qualitie are not put in Cage with purpose to be lett out againe; the Intention of the Court beinge to profit by his Sufferinge, not to take Pleasure in his Singing. And that it is thought he will not be the last that shall followe in this Tragedie.

240. The Briefe of a Letter to my Lord of Salisburie. fol. 714.

That the Spaniards have laid an Embargo on all Shipping along their Coasts, being about to Equipp out a Fleet with all Speed. That as to our Complaints, it is their Arte not to deny Justice, but (which is worse) to protract, & not performe it. Nevertheless we haue this Advantage of other Nations, inasmuch as either for Loue or Feare, they make shewe of Desire to Satisfie us, or at least to still us: to Others, they geue Appearance of Disregard, neither performeing what they desire, or geueinge care, or aunswere to their Complaints. That the French Ambassador saith he will write to the King his Master to render them la pareille for the Spoiles they daily make of their Subjects.

241. To my Lord of Salisburie. fol. 715.

Relating the Effect of a long Conference he had with the Duke of Lerma upon the Subject of the Good Will borne by His King to Ours; That some of our Kings Ministers out of Puritanisme, and Hatred to the Religion professed there, disswaded Continuanee of Freindship with Spaine, upon two severall Reasons. 1. That the holdinge of Ametie with Spaine would be a meane to introduce the Catholique Religion & subvert theirs. 2. That the King of Spain taking Rest & gathering Treasure & Strength, would as soon as he had finished his warres with the Hollanders, make his next attempt against us. How our King had restrayned his Subjects from the Service of the Arch-duke, and soe much enlarged them to the Hollanders, that their Armyes by Land & Navyes by Sea, were full of the Bodyes & Vessells of the English. With that of the Alliance of England, especially on the Topic of Religion, the Treaty with the Hollanders, and the Causes of some of our Countrey-men which the Duke referred to the Conde de Lemos President of the Counsell of the Indies. That talking with the Constable about the abovementioned Jesuiticall Translations, he made these pitiful Excuses for them, vizt. that the King had noe Privitie either with the Doer, or what was Done. That to matters of any moment, the Office of Inquisition tooke an especiall regard; but such Papers & Pamphlets as that Translation, haue alwayes ben suffered to passe without Survey. That His Majestie wished there were a true Translation of them, and that himselfe had them in Latine, either nothing or very little different from the Spanish. Besides, to them that vnderstand not the English, it would appeare that there were not so many faults in the Translation as I alledged: which Excuses raised Sir Charles's Choler. That the Constable and others, even in Council speak well with regard to England, but yet, secretly geue best Countenance & Eare to those that are worse affected to our King & his Gouvernement, and haue lately dispatched Blount with Captaine Burke & twoe Irish Fryers into the Low Countreys with an Entertaynement of 50 Crownes a Month.

242. To my Lord of Salisburie, Februarie 1606-7. fol. 725. b.

Concerning an English Ship (wherein his Lordship was said to be concerned) bound for Virginia, taken by the Spaniards, & brought to Seville, which he was not without hopes of retrieving, as having procured the French Ambassador to write earnestly to the Marshall of France & Lieutenant of the Duchie of Guyen to favor the Crew in their Suits against certain Spaniards whose Shippe is stayed at Bourdeaux. That as to the Spanish Ministers, so farre as he can conceaue out of their Actions, their Papers and their wordes are to none other End than to wyne tyme. For not in any one of the things pretended to be Commaunded by the King, can he procure Performance, or much Probability of any meaneing to doe it. That Blount is gonne, with an Entertaynement, for the Low-Countreyes, the Dukes Promise not thought on; they neuer thinking it lesse than meritorious to deceiue Heretiques. To our Fugitives money is geuen daelie, but to his Majesties faithful Subjects noe Penny payd of what is due unto them. That Secretary Prada being now in Villa-longa's place, is too much devoted to the Jesuites; and all thinges are much worfe than they were before, so that the wisest of their owne people prophecie a present ruyne to their Monarchie. If therefore the States faint now when they haue most cause to Hope, it shal be to their greate Aduenture. Sir Charles desir-eth to be recalled, his Eies beginning to faile him, & his Body consuming, and addeth these words, If I liue long, it shal be more than I expect or desire; but if here I dye (besides the discouragement of him whoe shal Succede) I shall in my owne particuler suffer more than I cann Expreffe, to End my Dayes without a farewell to my Wife & Children.

243. To my Lord of Salisburie, 6 Februarie 1606-7. fol. 728.

That he is in Doubt that the Hollanders mean to wrapp up an Agreement with the Spaniards, whoe doe much affect it, and will yield to large Conditions; but hopeth that if it should happen so, our King will worke out of it His owne Honour, Profit, and Safetie. Relateth the Discourse he had with Secretary Prada about this matter. That the Confusion in the Spanish Affairs is greater now than euer; because the Duke cannot endure to remitt any parte of the Authoritie he had engrossed, nor will tell whom he will take in to help Him; soe greate is his Jealousy. That the King hath commaunded our Lawes against Recusants to be truely translated out of the Englishe, by Sir Andrewe Wise, that calles himself Priour of England. That whosoever goes from England to America must provide to goe stronger; for if they be taken, they are to expect noe Remission. That his Secretary Cottington continueth Sick.

244. To my Lord of Salisburie. fol. 729. b.

That the Conde de Villa-longa suffers his Misyries with greate Patience: that a Judge being sent to Examine him, he was content to Answer to Matters Inferiour, as to Bribes & Corruptions, but not to those that concerne matters of State; except it were in the presence of the King, the Duke of Lerma, or some of the principallest of his Majesties Counsell. That the Spaniards still continue their old custome of delaying or denying Justice to our Countrymen, as he maketh appear by divers fresh Instances. So that if our King shall not be pleased that His Subjects use some meanes to Right themselves, he can expect neither Justice nor Fauor, whatsoever outward shewes the Spaniards may sett upon the matter.

245. To Sir Thomas Edmondes His Majesties Ambassador in Flanders, 8 Februarie 1606-7. fol. 732.

246. To my Lord of Salisburie, 8 Februarie 1606. Stylo Anglie. fol. 733.

That since the fall of the twoe most Negotiating Ministers of that State Villa-longa & Prada, there hath none other risen in their place; by meanes whereof, thinges are more Confused & Disordered than euer. That as to the Paper Dispatches which he sent into England (containing the meanes of Satisfaction which the Spaniard had Solemnly promised our Suffering Merchants) they remayne as yet in their owne Nature, neither altered in Substance nor Accidents, nor one Sillable of them performed; but on the contrarie parte, all that hath sithence appeared before them, either Ouerthrowne or soe delayed, as there is litle Hope. That Ten Shippes of Warre are making ready, as is geven out, for the States; but, as it is thought, to fetch in the English that are gone into the Indies. That great Boasts are made what infinit Treasure the King is offered out of Churches & Religious Houses towards his Warres in the Low-Countreyes, & ayding of the Pope.

Num. 1875.

247. From my Lord of Salisburie, 9th Januarie 1606-7. fol. 735.

Comforting Sir Charles in his household Afflictions, and want of Saccess in the Causes he Sollicated in the Spanish Court. That the Spanish Ambassador had desired a Conference with our Ministers, pretending to give answer to our Complaints, and came-off in most wretched manner.

248. From Mr. Levinus Monke Secretarie to the Earle of Salisburie, 10 Januarie 1606-7. fol. 738. b.

That Sir Charles is little beholding to some Younglings that are come from Spain, especially to one Vaughan; but least of all to one Daniel Powell, whoe hath exhibited some Articles against Him, of His disloyaltie in Religion & Dutie, but himself hath stopped them all as well as He can; and if it had not been for him the Lords had geuen Eare to him. That as to the Matter of Consulls, it is referred to the Merchants to appoint whome they will; because neither His Majestie nor the Lords would be aunswerable for the Errors which they might Committ. That as to the Great Matter, seeing the Spaniards encline not to us, it is little Cared to whome they bend. The Style of this Letter is somewhat extraordinary, Mr. Monke seeming to have a very good Opinion of himself, and to be Superior to Sir Charles.

249. Sir Charles to the Confessor of the King of Spaine, 27 Februarie 1606-7. fol. 741. b.

That having for almost two Years continually sollicated the Causes of our Suffering Merchants, he hath not obtayned any entire or due Satisfaction in any one of them, and therefore now for his last Shift (for he meaneth not longer to employ his Labours therein) he addresseth himself to his Reverend Fatherhood, as the Adviser of the Kings Soule & Conscience. Desiring that he would be pleased to acquaint the Duke therewith; and afterward, to be a meane that His Majestie may presently appoint some of his Counsell to take understanding of the feuerall Causes, & drawe them to some finall End, without such intollerable delays & protractions as have been hitherto used.

250. A Letter received from the Duke of Savoy, dated 10 December 1606. fol. 743. b.

It is not inserted; but the purport thereof appears to have been a desire of our Kings Amity & Good Affection.

251. Unto the King our Soueraigne, 7 Martij 1606. Stilo Anglie. fol. 744.

Concerning the Duke of Savoy's Letter, which He sent enclosed in this; and desiring to be recalled.

252. To my Lord of Salisburie, at the same time. fol. 745. b.

That in Order to delay the giving liberty to the English taken in the Indies by Firardo, Secretary Prada had quibbled with the Memorial he had offered in the poor mens behalf, saying that it seemed not either to come from our King, or to be authorized with His Name, with the other Discourse on this Matter. That the Spaniards boast of a great Victorie they have gotten of the Hollanders & English that haue begun to fortifie themselves in an Island in the East Indies called Terra nata; of whom they haue not left one man aliue, and haue also slayne 4000 of the Natives that tooke their parts. The present Bootye they found there (besides 700 greate peeces of Ordnance) they report to be worth at least 8,000,000 l. and that the Islande will yeeld in yeerely profit to the King, a Million & an half. That the Order of St. James is lately bestowed on Sir Anthony Sherley, Sir James Lindsey; & upon the Sonnes of O Sullivan Beere & Mac Williams, Irishmen. They haue alsoe made Sir Anthony of his Majesties Councill of Naples, and Generall of diuers Shippes, which must be of his owne procuringe: and Jeremy Laurence muste drawe them out of England for him. That it is reported that they have bestowed 100 peeces of Ordnance upon the King, which Laurence long since transported out of England. If this be soe, it is not well that soe liberall a Passage is geuen to Merchandize of that Nature. They talk of fitting out of a Greate Naye; and 'tis certaine that 400,000 Crownes are deliuered for present Marine Charges. That Secretary Prada hath sent him word from the King that the abovementioned English Prisoners, shall for this one time be delivered, but if hereafter any shall be taken Offendinge in the like sort (i. e. by presuming to go for America) they shall not haue leifure to become Suitors, but receiue their Dispatch immediatlie after their Apprehension. He hopes therefore, that such as shall Saile into those parts, will prouide to keepe themselves from falling into Spanish Hands. That the King hath sent expresse Commandment to his seuerall Counsellors, for speedy End of all our Countrey mens Causes: when he shall see the fruite of them, he will beleue they are truly intended; For although in England the Old Prouerb is, Hee that is in Possession, hath Eleuen Points of the Lawe for Him: there, he may well be sayd to haue Eleuen & three quarters. That poore Mr. Dorington travaileth daiele, and findeth himself noe whitt neerer his Journeys end. That hee tooke himself, at his first arrival, for a Man of much understanding in Spanish Causes, but now hath sufficiently found the Contrary.

253. To Sir George Carewe, his Majesties Ambassador in France. fol. 750.

Relating the Misfortunes attending his Household, by the Death of many of his Servants, & the Departure of others who feared to die. That thereby, till he could get others from England, he was forced to retain Papists, of whom he hath at length cleared both his Howse & Table. That the Jesuits watch his Family so carefully, as none of them can goe out of his doores without perill of some Alterations. That some they perswade, some they threaten, & others they allure; twoe of his Principallest Gentlemen having ben offred the Penn wherewith to sett downe their owne Conditions. That the bearer of this Letter his Kinsman, Sonne to Sir Thomas Cornwallies his Majesties Groome Porter, was placed by him with the Constable of Castile, who gaue his Word that he should not be tampered with in His Religion, but notwithstanding that, the Jesuites (unless he had timely prevented them) had perverted him, & made him a Pensioner to that State. He therefore desireth Sir George to receive him into his House, or some other place near him, untill the Young Gentlemans Father can give Order about Him; desiring farther, that he may be allowed 10 l. a quarter (being his Fathers allowance) towards which he sendeth two Bills in Hand.

 2. Memorial (in French) to the King, setting forth the Damage sustained by transporting a certain Commodity called Thrommes, which being in themselves more valuable than unwrought Wool, were the rather bought up by the Foreigners, to the Quantity of 500 Sacks in a year, Custom-free, or at least not rated up to their Value; whereby the Crown lost 100 pounds per ann. and proposing a Remedy. This hath the Date of ann. 20 R. 2. added to it by a modern Hand. ibid.
 3. Petition of the Merchants of the Town of New-Castle upon Tyne to the King, setting forth the Inconveniencies & Losses attending their Transporting their Wool to Calais. And that as heretofore he had granted them liberty to Shipp-off 2000 Sacks of Wool where they pleased, whereby His Customes were encreased to 2900 Marks in one Year: they now desire the like liberty of Transporting 3000 Sacks more. Hereunto, a modern hand hath added the Date of 20 R. 2. (In French) fol. 2.
 4. 6. Warant of King Henry IV. (in French) Granting, with the Advice & Assent of the Prelats & the other Estats of the then present Parliament an abatement of three Shillings & Fourpence of the Duty laid on every Sack of Wool, to the Merchants of Venice & Lucca; as had before been done to those of Florence. The Reason of this Generosity, was the Mistake of the Clerk of the Parliament holden at Coventre in the Sixth year of his Reign; who, when the Parliament had given the King a Noble from every Sack of Wool, putt down Ten Shillings in the Roll of the said Parliament; which was levied accordingly, the Merchants being obliged to pay Threescore & three Shillings & fourpence Duty on each Sack, instead of Threescore Shillings only. Given under his Signet at Gloucestre, the 16 of Novembre, in his ninth Year. ibid. (in French)

8. Petition, in French, of Richard Garner Citizen & Vintner of London, to King Henry IV. & his Counsel, Shewing that notwithstanding the Provisions made that all Block-Tin should be carried to the Staple, & no where else; about 1000 Pieces (or Piggs?) were nevertheless yearly carried to other Places. He therefore supplicates that he may have the Liberty of shipping-off yearly 1200 Pieces of Tin to other places than the staple, for Seven years to come. For which he will be obliged to pay all Duties; to bring half the Value of the said Tin into this Realm in Gold or Silver Moneys, or Bullion; and will moreover pay yearly into the King's Exchequer 40 Marks. In the Modern hand this is Dated anno 11 H. IV. On the Top is written Le Roy ad graunte per advis de Counselle; and at the bottom, R. Seigneur de GREY. fol. 4.

So far touching this Valuable Book; it now remaineth that I should say somewhat concerning him by whose Command it seemeth to have been first made, and of whose Hand-writing much remaineth therein, still to be seen. I mean RICHARD DE MORINS, who was made Prior of Dunstaple A. D. 1202. and deceased A. D. 1242. as will appear anon; a Man Eminent in his time, and yet not remembred by any that have treated of our English Writers, so far as I can hitherto learn.

That he was an Historian or Annalist, is plain, from the Beginning of the Annals of DUNSTAPLE, to be found in this Book written with his own hand, at fol. 40. b. (of which above §. 9.) and of which this is the first Sentence, "Ab Adam usq; ad Nativitatem Cristi, fluxerunt anni secundum Hebreos tria milia. 900.48: secundum Septuaginta Interpretes 5 milia 100.96; et exinde usque ad Octavum Annum NOSTRUM 1000.200.10." and this Man therefore was made Prior A. D. 1202. in which year, in the Dunstaple-Annals now in the Cottonian-Library inscribed TIBERIUS A. 10. I find these words, "Anno 1202. Ricardus Canonicus Meretoniæ adhuc Diaconus, fit Prior de Dunstaplia; et Sabbato Quatuor Temporum Ordinatus; die Sancti Mikaelis primam Missam celebravit."

This is the Man, who seemeth to have been him who caused our present Chartulary to be made up; and began the same, partly with his own Hand, & partly by the Hands of others, as Occasion Offered. After the Entries of many matters, at fol. 40. b. (according to the present Numeration of the Leaves; for it is 93. b. after the Old Figures) he began his Annals with his own Hand; but then, perchance, considering that they would, in time, come to be the Foundation of the Annals of the House, he kept on this Book for the Chartulary, & began his Annals again, in the same words, and with the same (that is his own Hand) in another Book, namely that Cottonian MS. above-mentioned, which is often cited by our Modern Writers by the Title of the Chronicle or Annals of Dunstaple.

Although He proceeded with his own hand in these his Annals not much farther in one book, than in the other; I may believe that he might often dictate the Matter, even when he himself is mentioned in the Third Person; as we see that Moses often writeth of himself in that manner.

As to the Actions of this Prior Richard, without doubt, much may yet be found which is not recorded in this Chartulary, nor in the Cottonian book; but forasmuch as I have not now time to search elsewhere, I shall content my self with citing some places of the Annals (according to the Transcript which I made of them the last Winter) and also hint at some others in the Chartulary, & so conclude.

"Anno 1203. dictus Ricardus Prior, in trante Februario, Romam pro D^{no} Rege perrexit; et prospere reversus circa festum S. Jacobi, secum adduxit Legatum unum, scilicet Abbatem de Casemare ad componendum inter Reges."

"Anno 1205. — Eodem anno, Ordinavimus super Priorem apud ROKESHAC; et disposuimus de Elemosinario et Sacrista, quid recipere & quid facere debeant annuatim."

"Anno 1206. — Eodem anno, Ricardus Prior noster, auctoritate Johannis Diaconis Cardinalis Apostolicæ Sedis Legati, factus est Visitator omnium Virorum Religiosorum per Episcopatum Lincolnensem; exceptis Templarijs, et Hospitalarijs, et Cisterciensibus, et Præmonstratensibus."

"Anno 1212. — Eodem anno, mense Octobri, missi sunt Inquisitores per omnes Episcopatus Angliæ ad inquirendum de ablatis, & damnis Anglicanæ Ecclesiæ illatis. Et inter cæteros, missus est Prior noster per Episcopatum Lincolnensem."

"Eodem anno, mense Septembri, misit Papa tres Prædicatores in Angliam; scilicet Magistrum Willelmum de Lundonia, et Magistrum Leonem Decanum Wellensem, et Magistrum Philippum de Otheforde. Qui cum Privilegijs multis per se & Coadjutores suos, multos Signaverunt ad honorem Crucis, multa colligentes, et Truncos per singulas Ecclesias statuentes. In quo Officio, vicem eorum gessit Prior de Dunstaple in Comitatu Ontedoniæ, et Bedfordiæ, et Hertfordiæ."

Anno 1213. — "Eodem anno, in festo Sancti Lucæ, Dedicata est Ecclesia de Dunstaple ab Hugone 11. Licolnienfæ Episcopo, præsentibus Comitibus & Baronibus, Abbatibus & Prioribus, et Nobilibus multis, et Plebe cujus non erat Numerus. Ubi Pœnitentibus vere Confessis, infra quindecim Dies illuc venientibus, facta est Remissio Triginta Dierum; et exinde in perpetuum ad Anniversarium Diem Dedicacionis, vel infra Octo dies sequentes venientibus, facta est ibidem Remissio Viginti Dierum, per eundem Episcopum; a quo, Reliquiæ multorum Sanctorum, per Priorem a multis amicis adquisitæ, repositæ sunt in Majori Altari."

Num. 1885.

Thus far I have taken from the Annals; I shall now hint at some few other matters relating to our Prior Richard out of the Chartulary, which I have not yet mentioned in describing it.

He seemeth to have Studied the Canon-Law, not only by the nature of the several Employments above-mentioned, but by some Notes of his own Hand, still to be seen at fol. 74.

His Hand is like a French Hand, and his Name looks like a French Name; but whether he was a French man, or descended of a French Family, I know not.

He seemeth to have been a Man of a griping & exacting Temper, which often brought him into troublesome suits of Law with the Towns-men, & others his Tenants & Neighbours.

He was Prior 39 years, and what by grants of Corrodies, Money, Letters of Fraternity, or other ways, he got much Land, which enlarged the Revenue, and also amplified the Monastery it self with divers costly buildings.

56. *In his time (notwithstanding the Canons of Councils) divers of the Clergy were Married Men, & left their Benefices to their Children, as may be seen by one of his Complaints or Accusations about Bradbourne-Church (fol. 44.) which beginneth thus, “ Conquerimus Deo & Vobis de Robert-
 “ to, et Willelmo, et Henrico, Persona &
 “ Vicarijs de Bradeburna, quod contra Jus-“ ticiam impediunt Institutionem nostram in “ Ecclesia de Bradeburna & Capellis suis: et “ ideo injuste, quia Robertus filius est Gode“ fridi qui proxime ministravit in eadem Ec-“ clesia, et imitator paterne Incontinentie.
 “ Henricus similiter filius fuit Johannis Vicarij “ ejusdem Ecclesiæ, et Patri suo in medietate “ successit, et paterne incontinentie imitator
 “ existit. Willelmus similiter focariam pub-“ lice tenet, canibus venaticis insistens, Ton“ suram & Clericale officium relinquens.”*
This dispute was terminated in the seventeenth year of Pope Innocent, that is, about A. D. 1214.

I mentioned above (sub anno 1221.) the Trouble that this Prior met with, at the forging hands of Mossy the Son of Brun the Jew; which he seemeth partly to have deserved, because he brought the Jews to Dunstable, and had dealings with them there; as may appear by these extracts from our Chartulary.

57. “ Ricardus Prior de Dunstaple et totus ejus“ dem loci Conventus—Sciatis nos concef“ fisse Flemengo Judeo de London. & Leoni “ filio suo, et suis, et servientibus eorum, “ ire, et venire, et manere in Villa de Dun-“ staple, bene & in pace, quiete & honori“ fice. Concessimus etiam eisdem Flemeng “ et Leoni omnes Libertates & liberas Con“ suetudines ville de Dunstaple, sicut aliquis “ de hominibus nostris de villa eas melius et “ plenius habet. Nec Nos, nec Nostri impe-“ dimentum faciemus predictis Judeis, quin “ lucrum suum fideliter faciant in villa nostra, “ secundum consuetudinem Judeorum. Et “ nos manutenebimus predictos Judeos, et “ suos, et eorum servientes, et res suas in villa “ rationabiliter, sicut faceremus si de nobis “ tenerent. Pro hac autem concessione nos“ tra, dabit nobis predictus Flemeng quam“ diu ipse moram fecerit in villa Dunstaplie

“ singulis annis duo Coclearia argentea, quorum utrumque duodecim denarios ponderabit, — Si autem predictus Flamengus absens fuerit, predictus Leo filius ejus eadem coclearia ejusdem terminis persolvat. Hec autem Concessio et Conventio tota vita predictorum Judeorum durabit.” fol.

35. b.

58. “ Ricardus Prior de Dunstaple, &c. — Sciatis nos de Consensu totius Capituli nostri dedisse Josef filio Rogeri unius Canonici Conredium, — Pro hac autem Concessione nostra dedit nobis predictus Josef tredecim Marcas Argenti ad redimendum illud idem Conredium de manu cujusdam Judæi, cui Willelmus de Huseburna illud impignoraverat, et qui de nobis, jure predicti Willelmi hoc ipsum Conredium percipere solebat. Et hoc quidem fecimus Consilio & Assensu Domni W. Lincolnensis Episcopi, ut sic Bona Ecclesie nostre, cum aliter non possemus, de manu Judei liberaremur. ibid.”

59. “ Willelmus de Huseburna — Sciatis me reddidisse — Priori & Conventui de Dunstaplia totam præbendam meam quam idem mihi concesserant, — Cartas etiam quas super predictis de predictis Canonicis habui, in manus eorum omnes resignavi, — Quare volo & concedo quod predicti Canonici tam predictam Prebendam quam predictam Terram — Pro hac autem dimissione & quæta clamazione, et presentis Carte confirmatione, predicti Prior & Conventus adquietaverunt me erga Flamengum & Bendinum, et Aaron, et Jacobum, et Leonem, Judeos; de sexaginta & decem Marcis. Et si quis Judeus vel Judea occasione alicujus Invadationis per me facte, de predictis Prebenda vel Terra, predictos Priorem & Conventum vexare voluerit, ego eos per omnia adquietabo.”

Many other of the Actions of this Prior Richard may be collected from this Chartulary, which I shall omit for the present, thinking that what is already done may suffice.

1186. A Paper-book in fol. (bought of me) first designed by the Burgo-master Christopher von Sternsee of Harlingen in Friesland, for a Debt-book; as may appear by the Alphabet at the beginning, and by what is written, in the High-German Language. fol. 1.

But this purpose, being changed, it was employed to a better use, the same man writing therein a Copie of the Annals or Register of the Province of Frizeland, from the Year to the Year What Care was taken in compiling these Annals, by the States of the Province, may appear by the Preface thereof, which at my Intreaty Mr. John Drummond translated from the Low-Dutch into English, and is (with some few Amendments only) this which followeth.

“ The Preamble of an Act made by the Common Consent of Frizeland, about making a Register; and what persons were appointed to compile the same.

“ neral Convention of the Prelates, Clergy, Nobles, Gentlemen & Commons, Cities & Inhabitants of the Province of Frizeland. Forasmuch as in the Affairs of Frizeland & places adjacent, many Transactions have happened in our times, more remarkable hath hitherto passed in the Memory of Man; and whereas in different Diets, many Matters have been treated on, which have not as yet been Entered into any Public Register: And whereas out of Natural Inclination & prudent forecast, it is Satisfactory, Profitable, & Necessary, to Know & Keep in memory Matters & Transactions passed for an Example. And since, next to the misfortune of Sickness, and the uncertainty of Mans Life, nothing can be more useful & satisfactory than to preserve in Remembrance the Words & Deeds of Men. It is found beneficial & necessary to cause an Annal or Register to be composed. Towards the doing of which, the States & Votes beforementioned, have desired & appointed in particular, Kempo van Martena, Doctor Knight & Counsellor here in this Court of Frizeland, as confiding in his Wisdom & Experience of all matters passed since the Year 1498. touching the Income of the Taxes of the Sasses to the Year 1540. raised by any Act during the Residence of the Lady Mary Queen of Hungary in the Netherlands, the year 1545. included; particularly what may relate to the Land & People of Frizeland. Also to recollect, discover, sett in Order, & Register the chief & most remarkable occurrences which have happened without the Land of Frizeland, which may serve for Example, Use, & Improvement; and to bring the same to be Examined & Authenticated by Gerrolt van Herema also his Majesties Councillor, Mr. Seyts Tzyarda, Jarich de Hama, Wychis van Canmunga, & Jonge Janche Douwena. And whereas by divers Impediments the Persons aforesaid could not perform the said Orders, the General States of Frizeland in a Diet holden at Leeuwaerden on the 18th of April in the Year 1539. did again Order & Appoint Mr. Jarich & Siche van Ethama, Syts Tyaerda, Aebe Syouxina, and Janche Douwema; and upon another Diet held at Leeuwaerden the fourth of December Sybrandt van Roorda was joyned to the Persons aforesaid, to Revise, Correct, & Authenticate, or cause to be authenticated this present Register. And it is to be understood, that the Five Persons abovementioned should take to their Assistance the Councillours of Frizeland, namely Mr. Albert Aernsma, Doctor Renich van Bourmania, Doctor Hector van Hoxwier, and Pieter van de Hama, by them to be Examined & Approved jointly with the others. To all and every one of whom, the States & Voices aforesaid (as trusting in their Discretion & Experience) do Order, Appoint, & give full Power, to Examine & to Approve of the same as they shall find meet; that the same may be carried on & continued for an Example, & for the use, advantage

“ advantage, and information of our Posterity.”

This valuable book beginneth with the Year 1498. & endeth with the year 1545. both abovementioned.

1887. A Paper-book in fol. (bought of me) and written, as appeareth by fol. 167. (according to the New Numeration) by Sir John Coche Vicar of Stockland-Gaunt, A. D. 1545. containing his Collection of Receipts & Medicines Physical & Chirurgical &c. to which divers others have been added by those, who after his time owned the Book, a list of whom may be seen in fol. 167. b.

I shall choose to describe it more particularly, in the manner following,

1. The Vertue & Degrees of some Herbs. fol. 1.
2. Traſtatus præfati Domini Joannis Coche, ut videtur, de Theoria & Præctica Medicinæ. fol. 2.
3. Traſtatus mirabilis Aquarum; quem composuit Magister Petrus Hispanus, ex naturali industria ſui Intellectûs, manu ejuſdem Joannis Coche. fol. 46.
4. Receipts of Waters, added by John Coch, to the laſt Treatiſe. fol. 55.
5. Another Collection of Receipts, of Phyſic, Chirurgery, &c. partly in Engliſh & partly in Latin, by the ſame John Coch. fol. 58.
6. How Mannys Nature is chaunged from one Complexion into another; by the ſame John Coch. fol. 136.
7. Ad cognoscendum omnia Ulcera ſive Apoſtemata de-foris, cujus generis ſive qualitatis fuerint; in Engliſh, by the ſame. fol. 142. b.
8. De Herbis colligendis; in Engliſh, by the ſame. fol. 143.
9. Tabula Salerni; manu ejuſdem. fol. 144.
10. Of the Virtues of Herbs, by the ſame. fol. 151.
11. The Tretyſe of the 4 Elements with the 7 Planetts, and the 12 Signes, with there Qualiteys, Naturys, & Diſpoſicions, the which is ful neceſſary & expedient to be knowen for many cauſes concernyng the diſpoſicion of mannys Byrthe, & the Miniſtracion of Medicines in tyme of Sicnes; and to know the Tymes, Dayes, & Houres, which be gode or evylle to do any thyng yn, &c. by the ſame. fol. 155.
He writeth (fol. 162. b. where he is upon knowing the Wether by chonge of the ☾) that part of this Traſt is taken from the work of John de Barba de Monte Peſſulano, as Johⁿ Bolte tranſlated the ſame owt of Latyn into Englyſh. And at the End, is this Rubric by the ſame Hand, Et ſic in X^{po} valeatis, 1545. et 14 die Menſis Aprilis, ex industria Johannis Coch. Vicarij de Stocclond-Gaunte.

12. Another Collection or Sett of Medicines & Receipts chiefly Chirurgical by the ſame Hand. fol. 168. to fol. 262.

It may be noted, that all along, in theſe Collections, the ſeveral Medicines are ranked under certain Heads; and Space left for Inſerting more, as they ſhould come to Hand. This work hath been performed by thoſe who, in proceſs of time, came to be owners of the Book, and who by the pains they have taken, did ſufficiently manifeſt their Eſteem of it.

I am not inſenſible of many things therein, which may be Impertinent enough at this time, wherein we find a New Praſtiſe eſtabliſhed: but notwithſtanding them, I am pretty ſure, that many uſeful Hints may be herein found, both as to Phyſic and Surgery, which if revived might redound to the public good.

1888. A Paper-book in fol. the Title whereof ſeemeth to be of Sir Simonds D'Ewes's Hand-writing, in theſe words, A Journall of the Parliament holden at Weſtminſter in anno 35. Reginæ Elizabethæ, A^o. Dⁿⁱ 1592.

In comparing this with Sir Simonds D'Ewes his Journals of Queen Elizabeth's Parliaments in Print, I find it to be often therein cited, as particularly in the places following.

—and a Speech uſed by Her Maſteſty Her Self at the Concluſion of the Parliament, which alſo is ſupplied out of a certain Journall of the Houſe of Commons, very elaborately taken by an Anonymous. pag 456. col. 1.

Nota, that which is ſet down touching the coming up of the Houſe of Commons—is not found in the Original Journal-Book of the Upper-Houſe, but is here inſerted out of the Original Journal-Book of the Houſe of Commons, and partly out of another very exact Journal of that Houſe which was in my Cuſtody, being very diligently obſerved & ſet down by ſome Anonymous, who was a Member of the ſaid Houſe during this Parliament. pag. 458. col. 2.

Nota, That theſe ſeveral interlocutory Speeches of the Speaker & the Lord-Keeper, are not found in the Original Journal-Books of the Upper Houſe, or the Houſe of Commons, but are ſupplied out of a very elaborate Journal of the paſſages of the ſaid Commons Houſe, taken by ſome Anonymous Member thereof this Parliament. pag. 460. col. 2.

Note——partly out of another very exact Journal of that Houſe, which was in my Cuſtody, being very diligently obſerved and ſet down by ſome Anonymous who was a Member of the ſaid Houſe during this Parliament, out of which the ſaid Speeches were written ALMOST verbatim. pag. 467. col. 1.

Which Paſſage, as alſo divers other particular Speeches, being not found in the Original Journal-Book of the Houſe of Commons, are ſupplied out of another Journal of the ſame Houſe very exactly & elaborately taken by an Anonymous, being a Member of the ſame at this Parliament. pag. 468. col. 1.

Nota, That none of theſe Particulars—are ſett down in the Original-Journal book of the Houſe of Commons, but are abſtracted out of another Journal of the ſame Houſe taken by an Anonymous Member of the ſame during the Parliament. pag. 470. col. 1.

——and therefore that which followeth, is ſupplied out of that Anonymous Journal mentioned at the beginning——ibid. col. 2.

Nota, That this is all that is found in the Original Journal-Book of the Houſe of Commons touching theſe Speeches; which, becauſe they contain many excellent Paſſages concerning the History of these times of Her Majesty, I have therefore supplied at large (Sir Edward Stafford's Speech only excepted, which was wanting there also) out of a very elaborate Journal of the same House, taken by some Anonymous Member thereof at this Parliament. pag. 471. col. 2.

Nota, That there is no other Speech touching this Business particularly & fully set down in the Original Journal-Book of the House of Commons; and therefore those Speeches which follow, are supplied out of that Anonymous Journal of the same House, &c. pag. 474. col. 2.

After this Speech of Mr. Bacons, there is no particular mention of any other Speech which was spoken at this time touching this Business in the Original Journal-Book of the House of Commons; and therefore, these Speeches which follow are supplied out of another Anonymous Journal of the Passages of this Parliament, &c. pag. 477. col. 2.

Now, in the next place, there ensueth the Relation of Her Majesties Sending for the Speaker, and of the Message which She gave him in Command to deliver to the House; all which he declared at large this day, as it is very elaborately & fully set down in the Anonymous Journal,—and therefore it is wholly inserted out of it; and the rather, because it is almost wholly wanting in the Original Journal-Book it self, there being one whole blank Page & a good Part of another Page left unwritten, with Intention doubtless at first to have inserted it, although it was afterwards very negligently omitted by Mr. Fulk Onslow Clerk of the said House of Commons. pag. 478. col. 1.

—All which (some Alterations only excepted for Order & Explanations sake) are herein inserted out of the said Anonymous Journal, &c. pag. 479. col. 2.

Nota, That these Speeches are all transcribed out of the said Anonymous Journal. pag. 480. col. 2.

Thus far out of the before-mentioned Anonymous Journal, touching the aforesaid Question, how far an Outlawed Man might be a Member of the House. pag. 482. col. 2.

—are either very imperfectly set down, or wholly omitted in the Original Journal-Book it self, and are therefore supplied out of the said Anonymous Journal. pag. 483. col. 2.

—All which said Speeches being either very shortly & imperfectly set down in the Original Journal-Book of the House of Commons, or wholly omitted, & for which three intire Pages and more, are left Blank to have inserted them (in which are set down the Names only of some of those that spake them) therefore, they are supplied out of the aforesaid Anonymous Journal very elaborately taken by some Member of the said House during this Parliament. pag. 487. col. 2.

Nota, That there is no more found of this Days Passages in the Original Journal-Book of the House of Commons, although there be almost Two Pages left Blank by Mr. Fulk Onslow, at this time Clerk of the said House, with intention doubtless, at the first, to have inserted them; and therefore they are very largely & fully supplied out of the aforesaid Anonymous Journal, very elaborately taken by some Member of the same House, during this Parliament, &c. pag. 489. col. 2.

Nota, That there is no more of this days Passages found in the Original Journal-Book of the House of Commons, although there followed divers Speeches upon the foregoing Motion of Sir Thomas Heneage—concerning the Great Business of Supply to be given to Her Majesty; all which are therefore inserted out of that aforesaid Anonymous Journall taken by some Member of the said House during this Parliament, which are there set down (with very little Alteration to them) in manner & form following. pag. 491. col. 2.

But what those alterations were upon which the Old Bill (against Recusants) was rejected & a New Bill framed, are not set down in the Original Journal-Book it self; and therefore, because it is a matter of no small Consequence, and may also be of some Use; I have inserted the particulars thereof, out of the aforesaid Anonymous Journal, &c. pag. 497. col. 2.

— which Speeches containing in them matter of good Consequence, are wholly omitted in the Original Journal-Book it self; and are therefore supplied out of the aforesaid Anonymous Journal, &c. pag. 500. col. 1.

— which said Speech, containing divers matters of good moment in it, although it be omitted in the Original Journal-Book it self, yet I have thought good to supply it out of the aforesaid Anonymous Journal, &c. pag. 504. col. 2.

After which, there followed divers long Speeches & Arguments on both sides, both with the Bill & against the Bill; which said Speeches being omitted in the Original Journal-Book of the House of Commons, are in respect of the great weight of this Matter touching Aliens now controverted, supplied out of the aforesaid Anonymous Journal, &c. pag. 505. col. 1.

Nota, this is all which is found in the Original Journal-Book of the House of Commons of this days Passages; and therefore there being an Excellent Vote or Resolution of the House touching the Addition & Amendments of Bills after their Passing of either House, set down in the often-before-recited Anonymous Journal—I have thought good to have it inserted, &c. pag. 512. col. 2.

Which short remembrance of this Excellent Precedent—is all that is found in the Original Journal-Book it self of the House of Commons: and therefore—I have caused it to be transcribed at large out of the often before recited Anonymous Journal, &c. pag. 514. col. 1.

I purposely omitt divers other citations made by Sir Simonds D'Ewes from the present MS. but do Observe, that 1. It was of exceeding Great Use to him, in compiling his Narration of the Occurrences passing in this Parliament, as being his only Original for a great part thereof. 2. That, notwithstanding his owning the same to be an exact Journal, he hath not copied the same exactly, but abridged & varied from it in such places as he thought wanted Amendment; as may be seen by comparing the same with his Manuscript Journal in the Library. 3. That Mr. Bowes (who borrowed the said Manuscript-Journal of Sir Willoughby D'Ewes, and Printed it without asking his Consent, as Sr. Simonds D'Ewes and his Lady more than once assured me) hath used the same Liberty in his Print, as old Sir Simonds did in compiling his Manuscript; and what was worse, hath all along neglected the keeping up to the Alteration of the Hands in his Print, as is used in the Manuscript, whereby Sir Simonds plainly distinguished what was said from Authority, from that which was only of his own Head.

2. An Advertisement touching the Controversies of the Church of England. fol. 5.
Herein, the Author layeth open the faults on both sides; & seemeth, to me, to handle the matter with Judgement & Impartiality.
3. Certaine Considerations touching the better Pacification & Edification of the Church of England; Dedicated to his most Excellent Majestie K. James I. fol. 18.
Many Phrases & Expressions shew this Tract to have been compiled by the author of the former: and he (near the beginning) owning himself to be of a PROFESSION, and that different from Theology; some other Circumstances also concurring; I am inclined to think that Sir Francis Bacon might be the man.

of their several Bearings in their Armes. This, Don Francisco hath done in such a manner, as he thought might best discover his profound Learning, extensive Reading, & Heraldical Skill: although, notwithstanding all this Splutter, some in England would deem him an ignorant person, and one who would say any thing for Money. The Certificate is adorned with the Armes of the said families Painted, I suppose, as well as the Spanish Heralds could perform. At the End is Don Francisco's Hand & Seal of Office; and afterward, come the Certificates & Hands of several other Officers, attesting & authenticating the same.

Thus far, all is written upon Velum: what followeth is upon Paper.

4. A Plea or Process of Descent, Nobility & Gentry, & Clearness of Bloud, carried on by Sebastian de Azcue Aranguren, Neighbour in the Noble & Loyal Valley of Oyarzun in the Very Noble & Very Loyal Province of Guipúzcoa in Biscay, as Husband of Maria-Martin de Ynchaurandietta, Sister to Captain Don Ignatio de Ynchaurandietta, and in his Name & behalf, he being absent in the Indies; in Order to his being admitted into the Number of the Gentry, & consequently, capable of bearing Offices in the Province both Civil & Military. In Carrying on this tedious Cause (which held above a twelve-month) it was, at last, proved, that this Don Ignatio was a Native of the said Valley, & descended of the first Peoplers thereof (although I do not remember that the allegations, as to the antiquity of the family, amount to above 100 years) that he sprung from the Old Christians, clear of all evil race of Jews, Moors, Lepers, & Penitents from the Holy Office of the Inquisition, or of any other reprobate Set: and therefore Sentence was given accordingly in his Favor: which was confirmed by the Junta of the said Province, which, although it be but a part of Biscay, hath nevertheless its own government. This Transcript from the Registers, was Signed & Authenticated by the proper Officers, En Testimonio de Verdad, in November & December, A. D. 1697. fol. 27.

In the Process, besides the Interrogatories, & Depositions of Witnesses, are Extracts from the public Records touching this Family; and what is more considerable, divers Grants & Charters of Privileges, made to the Province, by some of the Kings & Queens of Spain are here recited.

5. The Original Confirmation of the Province, above-mentioned; with the Seal & Hand Per mandado de la Junta, of Don Phelipe de Aguirre their Scribe: added to the End of the book. fol. 97. This is before recited, at fol. 92. b.

6. The Grant of an Augmentation to the Arms of the Province of Guipuzcoa, by Joan Queen of Spain. Dated the 28 of February, A. D. 1513. fol. 93.

This is Signed as the last; but hath the Seal of the Province affixed.

CATALOGVS LIBRORVM MSS.

Num. 1898. — 1900.

89. Establishment of K. James II. touching Salutes by Guns, to be Observed in his Majesties Royal Navy. Dated 22 of June 1688. fol. 119.

This is Printed, and followed by an Order of Council, for putting the same in Execution.

90. A Printed book of Instructions to K. William & Q. Maries Commanders of Ships, with Directions for well Ordering the same, regulating the behavior of the Sea-men; with Patterns or Specimens of Journals & other Sea-Books. fol. 125.

91. A Rough Draught of a New Model at Sea. fol. 139.

92. An humble Proposition for the more Regular & Speedy payment of His Majesties Treasure, Granted or to be Granted by the Lords & Commons Assembled in Parliament, for the carrying on his Majesties Expences, whether Ordinary or Extraordinary, both in Time of Peace & time of Warr. fol. 145.

93. Orders & Letters sent from the Commissioners of the Navy to the Commissioners of the Victualling, with Relation to the Victualling the Fleet. From the 8 January 1691. to the 3 August 1693. Copied out of the Originall Booke, sent from the Navy-Office. fol. 205.

1899. An Imperfect Book in fol. thus Entitled, Advice to His Majesty touching a New Model of Fortification: with many Draughts. The Hand & manner of Drawing shew the Author to have been the late Colonell Thomas Colepeper, most of whose Papers, by my means, are come into this Library; although this individual Book, was (with others) given by Colonel Henry Worsley, at present His Majesties Envoy-Extraordinary in Portugal.

1900. A Parchment-book in fol. bought & given by my noble Lord Harley; wherein are contained more of the Translations & Compositions of John de Trevisa Vicar of Berkeley, & Chaplain to Thomas Baron of Berkeley, than I have seen in any other book.

They are,

1. Dialogus inter Militem & Clericum; i. e. between the abovementioned Lord & Himself; in English. fol. 1.

It beginneth thus, Ich wondre Sire noble Knyzt, þat in fewe dayes tymes beþ chaungide; rizt is y-buried; lawes beþ overtorned; & Statutes beþ y-trode vnder feet. And the main Drift thereof seemeth to be to impugne the Papal power in Temporal matters: for, as may be gathered from John Bale, he was no great friend to the Regular Clergie of those times; and might, possibly differ in opinion from them, touching more matters than their Pride, Luxury, & Hypocrisie. Thus a little from the beginning the Knight saith, No man haþ power to ordeyne no Statutes vpon þynges, ouer þe whiche he haþ no Lordschip: as þe Kyng of Fraunce may ordeyne no Statutes vpon þe Empyre; noþer þe Emperour vpon þe kyngdom of Englund. And also Princes of the World may ordeyne no Statutes of zoure Spiritualte; for þei haueþ no power ouer zoure Spiritualte. Also, ze mowe ordeyne no Statutes of Temporalte, ouer þe whiche ze haueþ no power noþer auctorite. Þefore, ich louz wel faste whanne ich herde telle þat Pope Bonifas hadde made a newe Statute, þat he hym-silf schuld be aboue alle seculer Lordes, Princes, Kyngis, & Emperours, & aboue alle Kyngdoms, & make lawe vpon alle þynges; & þat him nedip nouzt but write, for alle þynges schalle be his whanne he hath y-write. For, to make a Statute is nouzt elles but wilne þat þe decre be y-holde, & ordeyne & hote þat hit be y-holde. Zif he wole haue my Castel, my Toun, my Feelde, my Money, & alle siche þyngis, hym nedip nouzt but wilne hit, & write & make a Decree, & hote þat hit be y-holde; & whanne þat is y-do, he haþ rizt to alle siche þyngis. Nowe, goode Clerk, þou knowest wel how worpi þis Jape is to be scorned. This notable Statute, as the Knight calleth it, I take to be that Constitution of Pope Bonifacius VIII. which I find in the Corpus Juris Canonici. Edit. Pith. Extravag. Comm. Lib. 1. Tit. VIII. De Majoritate & Obedientia, an Extract from whence, I venture here to put down. "Unam Sanctam Ecclesiam Catholicam, & ipsam Apostolicam, urgente fide, credere cogimur & tenere. Nosq; hanc firmiter credimus, & simpliciter confitemur: extra quam, nec Salus est, nec remissio Peccatorum.—Igitur Ecclesiæ unus & unica; unum Corpus, unum Caput; non duo Capita, quasi Monstrum; Christus videlicet, et Christi Vicarius Petrus, Petriq; successor —Sive, ergo, Græci sive alij se dicant Petro ejusq; Successoribus non esse commissos, fateantur necesse, se de Ovibus Christi non esse, dicente Domino in Johanne, Unum Ovile, et Unicum esse Pastorem. In hac ejusq; potestate duos esse Gladios, Spiritualem videlicet & Temporalem, Evangelicis dictis instruimur. Nam dicentibus Apostolis, Ecce Gladij duo hinc (in Ecclesia scilicet, cum Apostoli loquerentur) non respondit Dominus nimis esse, sed Satis.—Uterque ergo est in potestate Ecclesiæ, Spiritus scilicet Gladius, & Materialis; sed is quidem pro Ecclesia; ille verò ab Ecclesia exercendus. Ille Sacerdotis; is manu Regum & Militum; sed ad nutum & patientiam Sacerdotis. Oportet autem Gladium esse sub Gladio, et Temporalem auctoritatem Spirituali subjici potestati.—Spiritualem autem & Dignitatem & Nobilitatem terrenam quamlibet precellere potestatem, oportet tanto clarioribus nos fateri, quanto Spiritualia Temporalia antecellunt.—Nam Veritate testante, Spiritus potestas Terrenam potestatem instituire habet, et Judicare si bona non fuerit.—Ergo, si deviat Terrena potestas, judicabitur a potestate Spirituali: sed si deviat Spiritus minor, a suo Superiore: si verò Suprema, a solo Deo, non ab Homine, poterit judicari.—Porro, subesse Romano Pontifici omnem humanam creaturam declaramus, definimus, & pronunciamus omnino esse, de necessitate Salutis."

This Tract is omitted by John Bale, & John Pits.

2. Sermo Domini Archiepiscopi Armacani, Anglicæ. fol. 6.

This Translation is also omitted by Bale & Pits (as all Trevisa's works are by John Leland & Dr. Cave) but the Latin Original is published by

Num. 1900.

Dr. Browne in his Appendix to the Fasciculus Rerum expetendarum & fugiendarum, at pag. 466. where it beareth this following Title, DEFENSORIUM CVRATORVM contra eos qui privilegiatos se dicunt: Propositio Richardi [Filij Radulfi, sive Fitz-Rauf.] Archiepiscopi Armachani Primatis Hiberniæ, facta in Consistorio coram Domino Papa, & Dominis Cardinalibus ac Prælatibus, ad utilitatem Cleri & populi Christiani, super materia Mendicitatis & Privilegiorum, contra Fratres de Ordinibus mendicantium quibuscunque; apud Avinionem octava Die Mensis Novembris A. D. 1357.

In this Learned Treatise, it appeareth, that during the Times of Popery, there were more Students in Oxford, than at this day; for saith he fol. 11. b.

"So þat zet in my tyme in þe vniversite of Oxenford, were þritty þousand Scolers at ones: & now beþ vnneþe fixe þousand:" but good Books were scarcer there, proportionably, than now; for it followeth presently thus, "for þese Ordres of Beggars, for endeleß wynnynges þat þei geteþ by beggyng of þe forseide Privyleges of Schriftes & Sepultures & opere, þei beþ now so multiplyed in Coventes & in Persons, þat many men telliþ þat in General Studies, vnneþe is y-founde to silyng a profitable booke of þe faculte of Art, of Dyvynyte, of Lawe-Canon, of Phisik, oper of Lawe-Civil, but alle bookes beþ y-bouzt of Freres; so þat in euerich Couent of Freres is a noble Librarie & a grete: and so þat euerich Frere þat hath State in Scole, siche as þei beþ now, haþ an huge Librarye. And also y sent my Sugettes to Scole þre oper foure persons; and hit is seid me þat some of them beþ come home azen, for þei myzt nougzt finde to selle oon gode Bible, noþer opere couenable bookes." Here (by the way)

I like the English Translation GENERAL STUDIES (which signifieth as much as UNIVERSITIES) much better than the Latin Text, as given us by Dr. Browne, or as cited from the Lambeth Manuscript by Mr. Henry Wharton, in his Auctarium, or Appendix to Arch-Bishop Ushers Historia dogmatica de Script. & Sacri. Vern. pag. 429. in both which, the words are STUDII COMMUNIBUS.

3. þe booke of Methodij þe Bischop of þe chirche of Paterenis & Martir of Crist; which he chargide to translate of Hebrue & Greek speche into Latyn: þat is, of þe bygynnyng of þe world & the Rewmes bitwixe, of Folkis, & þe ende of worldes; which þe noble man Seynt Jerom in his werkis prayfed. fol. 21. b.

This Treatise is likewise omitted by Bale (& Pits) of whom the former (to do him Justice) after splitting Trevisa's Translation of the Polychronicon into many pieces, concludeth thus, et alia plura fecit & transtulit. As to the Original; Learned men generally deem it supposititious; it being idle enough, and making mention of the great Conquests & Cruelties of the Sarazens, who brake not forth from Arabia until many Centuries after the Decease of Methodius Patrensis.

Then follow,

4. An Alphabetical Table or Index to Ranulph Higdens Polychronicon. fol. 24.

Num. 1900.

NB. Some of the Principal Letters are cut out, by Children, as it may be supposed.

5. Another Alphabetical Table to the same Book, in English. fol. 32. b.

6. John Trevisa's Dialogue with his Lord, touching the utility of Translations in General, & of the Translation of Polychronicon into English in particular. fol. 42.

In one place of it (which escaped Dr. Hickes; but is cited, in Latin, by Mr. Wharton in his Auctarium, or Appendix abovementioned. pag. 439.)

the Lord argueth thus, "It is wonder þat þou makest so feble argumentis, & hast y-go so longe to scole; Aristotils bokes & opere bokes also of Logike & of Philosophy were translated out of Grue into Latyn. Also atte praying of Kyng Charles, Johan Scot translated Denys bookes out of Grue into Latyn; & þan, out of Latyn into Frensche: þan what hath Englisch y-tref-paced þat hit myzt not be translated into Englisch? Also King Alurede þat founded þe Vniversite of Oxenford, translated þe best Lawes into Englisch tonge; and a grete del of þe Sauter out of Latyn into Englisch; and made Wirefrith Bischop of Wircetre translate Seynt Gregories bokes of Dialoges out of Latyn into Saxon. Also Cedmon of Whiteby was enspired of þe holy Gost, & made wonder poises an Englisch, neiz of al þe Storyes of Holy writ: Also þe Holy man Beda translated Seynt Jones Gospel out of Latyn into Englisch: Also þou wost whare þe Apocalips is y-write in þe Walles & Roof of a Chapel, boþe in Latyn & in Frensche." —

This Dialogue which taketh up no more than three pages & Six Lines, is one of the Books ascribed to our Trevisa by Bale [Upon occasion of the word Grue, twice above-written, and signifying the Greek Language [& Grues & Grees signify the Greek People] I call to mind, that in Benedictus Petroburgensis, & in his Desflorator Roger Hovedene, the Greeks, or that part of the People of a Region who followed the Greek Worship, are divers times called GRYFONES; which seemeth to have given occasion to the formation of the former word. And I leave it to the Heralds to determine, whether their beloved Monster the GRYPHON, were not first born by such of the Latins, who in their Sauntering towards the Holy Land, had occasionally exerted their Manhood upon those of the Greek Religion]

But to return; the next thing that appeareth, is,

7. Trevisa's Epistle to his Lord Berkeley; testifying his willingness to enter upon the Translation of the following Work, & his Resolution to go through with the same. fol. 43. b.

8. John Trevisa's Translation of Ranulph Higden's Polychronicon, in 7 Books. fol. 44.

This Translation endeth in the year of our Lord 1357; and hath none of the Continuations mentioned by Bale & others.

I have already (in this Volume) observed that Ranulph was not the Original Author of the Polychronicon, but an errant Plagiary; and will not here repeat that matter. But it may not be amiss to putt down what Mr. Wharton saith of Trevisa; & of this Performance, in pagg. 48 & 49 of his Appendix to Dr. Caves Historia Litteraria.

The above-mentioned Note at the End of this Translation, hath created yet more trouble to Learned men, as may partly appear by the following Citations. “ Ad petitionem Domini sui Thomæ de Bärkeley (saitb the Learned Pri- mate Usher, Hist. Dogm. pag. 157.) in Anglicanum idioma transtulit totum Bibliorum opus, utrumq; scilicet Testamentum;

Cap. 18. ubi etiam notat eum Polychronicon continuasse ab anno a Christi Incarnatione 1342. usq; ad annum ejusdem 1397. in quo, inquit, ipsemet Trevisa claruit sub Richardo ii. Anglorum Rege. Verum ipse in fine Translationis Polychronici, tempus quo scripsit, his verbis proponit, Versio ista finita est, die Jovis (lege potiùs die Martis) die 18 Aprilis A. D. 1357. anno autem 35 Patroni mei Thomæ Domini de Bärkeley, qui me Versionem istam adornare fecit; atq; anno 31 Regni Regis Edwardi post Conquestum Angliæ iii. Diem Martis pro die Jovis ideo legendum censui, quòd se Trevisa Versionem feria 5ta Paschalis Hebdomadis finivisse ibidem asserat. Anno autem 1357. dies 18 Aprilis in feriam 3 Paschalem incidit. Anno quidem 1397. dies 18 Aprilis est feria 5. sed incidit is in annum 20 Richardi ii. In MS. Codice, qui penes M. Forsterum Collegij D. Johannis Cantabr. habetur, sic lego: die Jovis, Aprilis 8vo anno 1387. decimo Richardi ii. In Cod. MS. Cottoniano, die Jovis, Aprilis 18. anno 1387. duodecimo Richardi ii.

But I find the words of the same Cottonian MS. Tib. D. 7. to be these,

To the above-written passage of Arch-bishop Usher, Mr. Wharton maketh the following Answer, Auctar. pag. 439. “ Trevisa ætatem Cl. Usserius a Caxtono deceptus male posuit. Quæ enim ex fine Translationis Polychronici citat, a Caxtono foede corrupta sunt. Namq; is Versionem passim emendare, et pro lubitu mutare in se recepit; quod in Præfatione Editionis suæ fatetur. Cum itaq; Historia Polychronici anno 1357. desierit; ille Versionem isto anno finitam esse, aut imprudens credidit, aut forsan etiam sciens substituit. Propiùs ad veritatem accedunt bini Codices MSS. ab Usserio memorati, alter D. Fosteri, alter Cottonianus; quorum ille notat Versionem finitam esse die Jovis, Aprilis † octavo, anno 1387. decimo Richardi ii. Iste autem, die Jovis, Aprilis 18. anno duodecimo Richardi ii. Uterque verò lapsus est. Neque enim (in priore calculo) Aprilis 18 anno 1387. in diem Jovis incidit, sed in diem Lunæ: nec (in posteriore) annus 1387. incidit induodecimum Richardi ii. annum, sed in ‡ vicesimum. Utrique igitur scrupulo feliciter satisfacit, et finitæ Versionis tempus recte definit Codex MS. qui in instructissima cl. Tenisoni Bibliotheca habetur, his verbis. Ista Translatio finita est die Jovis, decimo octavo Aprilis die, A. D. 1387. decimo Richardi ii. post Conquestum anno; anno autem tricesimo quinto ætatis Patroni mei Domini Thomæ Baronis de Berkeley, qui me Translationem istam aggredi fecit. Craffiùs adhuc hallucinatur Seldenus (in fine præfat. ad X Scriptores Angl.) qui Trevisam Higdeni Polychronicon convertisse, et ad initia Edwardi i. annum sc. 1460. continuasse dicit. Qui Versionem enim Polychronici primus edidit Caxtonus, Continuationem ejus ab anno 1357. ad 1460. non a Trevisa, sed a semet ipso conscriptam fuisse disertis verbis affirmat.”

I have only to add, concerning the Date, that in the present Copie of my Lords now before me; and in another now in the possession of my Learned Friend Mr. Anstis, I find plainly the xviii day of Aueryl, and the tenþe year, about which so much dispute hath been made; and I doubt not but the same true reading may be found in other Copies. As to the Bible's being wholly translated by our Author Trevisa; I perceive it mentioned by Caxton; from him by Bale & Pits, who give the beginning of the Preface thereunto; from Bale, Primate Usher takes the Notion; and at length Mr. Wharton (App. ad Cav. Hist. Litt. pag. 49.) believes it may be still extant: it relating not to the book in hand, I shall say no more but this; I shall be very glad to see one of them.

† If the MS. Copie of Trevisa's Translation now in the Library of St. John's College in Cambridge, be that which formerly belonged to Mr. Forster (as in probability it may) the Date thereof is right enough; for it expressly saith eyghtenthe; as appeareth by the same sent by Mr. Baker to Dr. Hickes, with a remarkable passage from the same book; which, although it was before printed both by Caxton, & by Wynkyn de Worde, the Doctor reprinted in the general Preface to his The-saurus, at pag. 17.

‡ This must be an error in the Print; surely Mr. Wharton could not have been guilty of so great a blunder.

1901. A Paper-book in fol. (given by the Hon. Coll. Henry Worsley, at this time His Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary to the King of Portugal) being a Second tome belonging to a former, designed to be a Complete Register of the severall Acts, Negotiations, & Letters relating to Sir Thomas Roes Ambassage in Germany, for bringing about the Restoration of the Palatine-Family. A good part of it seemeth to have been written by Sr. Thomas Roes own Hand; the rest, by his Secretary or Amanuensis. This Second Tome may be considered in the Manner following,

First, Minutes or Draughts of Letters to diuers Kings & Princes, drawne vp by his Majesties Order, to be sent to Oxford, August 1643.

NB. Those that follow in this Divison, are all in the Name of K. Charles I.

1. To the Dukes of Brunswick & Lunenburg. fol. 1. b.

Thanking them for the Affection they had shewn to the Queen of Bohemia His Sister, Her Son the Prince Palatine & his Familie, at the late Diet at Ratibon; whose Interests His Majesty is still resolved to pursue at the general Treaties designed to be held at Munster and Osnabrug; especially, since at the Assembly in Francfort the German Princes had declared the Exile & Oppression of his Nephew, an Elector, & principal Member of the Empire, to be a cheife impediment of the interne Peace: and particularly, since the Crownes of France & Sweden would take that just Cause into their Protection. He desireth them, therefore, to join with those other Princes & States who are Mediators, or shall be Interessed in that Treaty, for the generall pacification, insisting upon the Vindication of their fundamentall Lawes, & Liberties, and a general Amnestie to the yeare 1618. because both the being of the Protestant Religion, & all the Libertye & Priuiledges of the German Princes, will depend vpon the Conclusion of this Treaty. For, as this shall leaue them, either Secured, or Oppressed, or over-balanced by the inequalitye of the Electorall Colledge, many future Ages are like to find them.

2. A Note, shewing that the same in Substance, was to be sent to the Landgrave & Landgravine of Hessen, to whome the Title of Illustrissima Celsitudo is to be given, in like manner as to the Dukes of Brunswick. ibid.

3. To the French King. fol. 2.

Desiring that He would give such Commands & Instructions to His Ambassadors at the approaching Treaty of Munster, as that the Exiled Palatine Family may be comprehended therein, as principal Members of the Empire: whose Oppression hath beene an absolute impediment of the Peace; and without which, nothing can be settled secure & stable. fol. 2.

4. To the Queene Regent of France. ibid.

Desiring that through Her Protection, & Authority with the King Her Son, the Condition of His Sister the Queen of Bohemia, & the Rights & entyre Restitution of the Princes Her innocent Children, may be comprehended in the generall intended Pacification of the Empire; without which, no peace can be secure, while one of the principall Members shall be excluded from that generall benefitt, whose cause He can never in Honour, nor for the nearnes of bloud, abandon. In which worke also, He is assured, the Queene of Suede will concurre & co-operate. ibid.

5. To the Duke of Orleans. fol. 2. b.

Invoking both the Assistance of his Authority & Wisedome, that in the generall intended Treatyes for the Pacification of the Empire, the restitution of the Palatine-Family may be comprehended, as essentiall to the Peace. Which can never be secured, but by resettling the principall Members in their antient Rights & Inheritances. That, in this Coniuncture he shall haue Oportunitie to oblige two of the firmeest Pillars of the German Libertye, the Illustrious Houses, Palatin & Lorreyne; whose posteritie will owe this benefitt to the Crowne of France, that they may be able to serve it, as bulwarkes against any Enemye.

6. To the Queene of Suede. ibid.

Thanking Her for acquainting His Nephew the Prince Elector Palatine in Her late Letters, that She had resolved, in the present Coniuncture of the designed Treaty of Pacification, to embrace his Cause, as an impediment of that Consequence, that no Peace can be Secure with the Oppression & Exclusion of one of the principall Pillars & Members of the Empire; and, to that End, had procured from the Emperor, a Safe-Conduct for Him or His Deputies, to appeare & plead his owne Rights. Shewing, that both the well-being, & being of the Protestant Religion, doth absolutely depend upon resettling the ballance of the Electoral Colledge, and the Preseruatiō of those Princes who will be vnited by the Common band of the sincere worship of God. His Majesty declareth his Opinion, that She will not find the Emperor very averse; he having tasted the bitterness of the Bavarian Friendship; and is most assured that She shall meete the Cooperations of the Crowne of France, of His Unkle the King of Denmarke, and of all the Princes & States of Germany, that take any care of their owne Safetie & the Common Libertie.

7. To the King of Denmarke. fol. 3.

Declaring, that since neither the Justice of the Prince Elector Palatines Cause, his own longe abused Patience, nor the Intercession of so many Kings & Princes, had brought forth Effects answerable to His desires & endeavors for the Common Peace; & especially since by the Resolutions of the Duke of Bavaria, it doth appeare, that there is left no Hope, that he will by any private Treaties or Mediations; make any restitution acceptable, neither of the Dignitie nor Lands by him vsurped: His Majesty had thought it fit to lay hold vpon the oportunitie of the generall Treaties at Munster & Osnabrug, principally designed for the resettling & pacification of the Empire. In which, His Danish Majesty being the cheife Mediator, He fervently recommendeth the Cause of the Palatine-Family to his Protection, that it may there be received as a principal Impediment of the desired Peace; which can neuer be secured with the Exclusion and Oppression of the first Elector, as long as there shall liue any of that Illustrious Famely; that haue either freinds or Courage.

* R

Num. 1901.

8. To the Elector of Saxe. fol. 3. b.

9. To the Elector of Brandeburgh. ibid.

10. To the Elector of Mentz. fol. 4.

11. To the Elector of Collen. fol. 4. 5.

The purport of all these Letters is the same; vizt. to exhort them to pursue the Interests of the Palatine Family at the approaching Treaties of Munster & Osnabrug; which they would find to be Countenanced by the Crowns of France, Denmark, & Sweden.

There are Notes concerning the Style to be used to the Electors in writing; namely, that to the Secular Electors, Serenissima Celsitudo must be given in the Conclusion; as also in the same manner to the Ecclesiastical Electors, who must be complimented with Rever^{ma}. Celsitudo at the beginning; & Reu^{ma}. Dignitas toward the middle.

Now followeth, the Second Tome, or Continuation of Acts, Negotiations, & Letters, of my (i. e. Sir Thomas Roe's) Ambassage to the Emperour, Electorall Diet, Princes, & States of Germany, viz.

12. Relation of a Conference betweene the Mediatours & Me; $\frac{17}{27}$ March 1641-2. fol. 5.

These Mediators were the Ambassadors of the King of Denmark & of the Elector of Mentz, who said they came to Sir Thomas with a Message from the Emperors Commissioners at the Treaty, the Effect of which was, that Sir Thomas should send away a Post to procure from His Majesty K. Charles I. two things; first, an actual Ratification of what should be concluded in the Treatye, so that the Execution on our part, might follow immediatly without more Ceremonie; for that they would actually and instantly restore & give possession to the Prince Elector-Palatin of whatsoever should be agreed vpon. Secondly, that His Majesty would procure a Declaration from His Parliament, that they would be obliged to assist Him for the performance of His part; to the End, that they might be assured both from the King & Kingdome. Both these proposalls were utterly rejected, as highly unseasonable & affronting.

Then follow Draughts of Sir Thomas Roe's Letters.

13. To Sir Arthur Hopton. March 19. 1641-2. fol. 7.

Concerning the King of Spain's Pleni-potence or Full-power (of which there was much talk at the Conference above-mentioned) which Sir Thomas objected against, as invalid in respect of Language, Form, & Substance. That the Imperialists are grown weak, & by these little & oblique Arts seek to gain time.

Another Letter, of the same Date, was sent to Sir Henry de Vic.

Num. 1901.

14. To Mr. Curtius. 19 March 1641-2. fol. 7. b.

About the Spanish Pleni-potence above mentioned, with remarks upon the Industry of the Hollanders, who during other mens Troubles, seek their own Opportunities; as if there were no day of Reckoning. While Spayne & Portugall contend, they catch the Bone; while we wrangle, they snatch up the Stakes.

15. To the Duke of Wirttemberg, in French. 21 March, 1641-2. fol. 8.

That now having attended, as Ambassador from our King to the Emperour & Emperial Diet, five Months, in Order to procure Restitution to all Princes who had been oppressed by the Emperour (among whome His Highness was one) He had not been able to Effect any thing of that which was chiefly desired; since the Amnesty which was coming out, was Exclusive of the much-wronged Palatine-House, whose Cause our King would never abandon.

16. To the Earle of Arundell. 26 March 1641-2. fol. 8. b.

That when the Commissioners were ready to enter into a reall Treaty, grounded on their powers, the Spanish Ambassador confessed he had none. That the Emperour sending an Express into Spayne, and assuring them, that he would procure such powers as were requisite, they had worne out four Months more. That, at last, there is come, and confidently enough presented, a thing like, and by them called, a Plenepotence; but so full of abuse, that it forceth him to conclude, that We can expect nothing from thence but Scorne, or Delusion. Though, in the Condition wherein they are, in neede of freinds, he is amased, that they should thus industriously loose them by trifling. That a little before, the Mediatours had settled the Treaty in a forme: that is, that the Emperour should first declare What, & How he would restore, for the Lands in the lower Palatinate, remitted by the Duke of Bavare to him; and for those held by the heyres of Inspruck, Mentz, & Darmstat. Then, that the Duke of Bavare should declare, for the Dignitye & Upper Lands; and then, that the Conditions of Confœderation should be proposed. That they now expect the Emperors answer, who hath taken upon himselfe to conclude & execute for Spayne, upon which He (Sir Thomas) hath chosen to relye, as vpon the Head of the Empyre.

17. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 23 March 1641-2. fol. 9.

Concerning the matters before rehearsed; with his Opinion, that if he should breake off & returne, the Emperour would send to His Majesties Gates, & offer that, which they will not give, while they have hope of our Patience, or relye on our owne home Troubles: for this Protraction of the first Answer doth block vs vp, so that He cannot lay hold vpon the ouvertures of the Duke of Bavare. That the Arch-duke Leopold doth stiffly refuse the Charge of Flanders with the Title of Governor; but requireth that of Regent, and to choose all his owne Counsell: with condition, that if he marry, and have Heyres males, that They shall inherit it, as was agreed vnto the Arch-duke Albertus. But Sir Thomas cannot believe the Spaniards will give that away which is their owne; when they will not restore that they vsurpe with injurye.

18. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 30 March, 1642. fol. 10.

That neither Himself nor the Mediators can procure the Emperors answer; which ought to be the first Step & Ground of a Treaty. That his Ministers have restreyned it agayne to declare only for Himselfe, Spayne, the Heyres of Inspruch, and that part of the Lower Palatinate remitted by the Duke of Bavare: Flatly referring us to seeke our owne accommodation with Mentz & Darmstat for the rest, and with the Duke of Bavare for the Dignity & Upper Lands: to whom the Mediators have intimated this Resolution; & the first Two have taken time; but Bavare replied, that whensoever the Emperor will do his part, He will declare & enter vpon Treaty the next day. But Sir Thomas thinks that this is all Collusion, & that the full design is to Weary us out; sprung from our owne distempers, and a Collection, that we can doe neyther good nor harme: it being reported that the Emperor & all his Court will soon go to Presburg, thence to Pyrna, & from thence to Prague, there to settle his Residence; and he believes that they shall not have tyme enough left for them to finish that in three weeks, which they have not beene able to begin in nine Months.

19. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 6 April 1642. fol. 10. b.

That the Emperors Answer so long promised, is still delayed; the meaning whereof is this; the Imperial Court want to know what our King will do for them. For, vnless they may haue help from his Majesty, in this their extreame necessity, they will Restore nothing. They will aske (& nothing abate) to have presently 10000 men given to the Prince Elector Palatin; & His Majesty bound by a Treaty to mainteine them, in conjunction with the Emperor & Emphyre, vntill the generall Peace can be obtained, and against whom they shall be employed: Without this they will doe nothing; and this for the Lower Palatinate only; we being left to make our composition with Bavare, as well as we can. Wherefore, the Scale hangs thus, Whether it will be less Dishonour or Inconvenience to Breake off vpon their Delayes, or vpon a Confession of our own Impotency? Sir Thomas gives diuers particulars relating to the Courts of Vienna, Madrid, &c. which I here omit.

20. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 13 April 1642. fol. 11.

That the Cause of the Emperors Answer being still delayed, is the Liberty of the Press in England, and freedom for all manner of advertisements to pass our Ports. For Relations & Journals of our Affairs being brought thither, are instantly Translated & Published to the infinite disadvantage of our State. Infomuch, as he findeth a settled Opinion there, that His Majesty is not able to comply with their desyres of present Ayde. And, therefore, howsoever they will in their Answer make some specious Offers vpon Conditions; yet that is only done to make a fayre shewe to the World, in assurance they shall not be put to the Tryall of Performance; and so they will Spinne vs out, as long as they can; and in the End lay the fayling vpon vs. That the Emperor will remoue within 5 Weekes; yet there is no Invitement either to Him, or to the Mediatours, to follow the Court, as was seriously done at Ratibon. So that it appeares they are content he should take an occasion to separate; and then he shall be forced, before that remove, to begin his Returne, lest it should be too apparent, that he is left behind as vnconsiderable. Yet this he cannot do, unless he be supplied with Money; for which he renues his pressing Instances.

21. To Sir Arthur Hopton. 16 April 1642. fol. 11. b.

That the Emperors Answer cannot yet be obtained, the difficulty resting betweene Him & the Duke of Bavare, to accomodate the Dukes Satisfaction betweene themselves. In which, if they can agree, He shall do all his worke at once; if not, we shall only receive an answer for the Lower Palatinate; and be left to treat with Bauare apart, which will proue verry knotty. Sir Thomas heares that the Answer will be reasonably free, in the matter of Restitution, but verry high the demands of Ayds & Confoederacyes on our part. Which Demands if they shall be exorbitant, the meaning will be, to make a fayre Showe, as if they would have restored for the Loue of Peace, but that the fayling should rest vpon us, as (in this vnhappy conjuncture of home-troubles) vnwilling or vnable to comply with their necessities & desyres.

22. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 20 April 1642. fol. 12.

*In this as in former Letters, concerning the confused state of the German Affairs, which I pass over, hastening to what more nearly concerneth us, viz. that He had sollicitated the Emperors Answer to the last Hour before his removal from Vienna, and then was told by the Ambassador of Mentz, that the Declaration of the Emperor touching the Lower Palatinate was ready, for as much as concerned Him; but that he had given order it should not be exhibited, vntill the Duke of Bauare & the Elector of Mentz should, at the same tyme, deliuer their Resolution & Conditions. This being contrary to the Forme agreed vpon; contrary to the Imperial constant Promises; & a direct opposition to the Duke of Bauares Protestation, is the sure way anew to embroyle the proceeding. That to pacifie him, the Ambassador of Mentz had sent to excuse this delay, vpon the vnreasonable demands of the Duke of Bauare; and that the Emperour had sent to the Duke for more equal conditions. That the Elector of Saxe hath commanded his Ambassador to return, if a very speedy course be not taken to expedite the Treaty, one way or other. That the Ambassadors of Mentz have no Commission nor Instructions to declare any thing for the Bergstraet, which is remitted to the Chapter to resolute, which may be done in 2 or 3 Months, according as the French proceede or retyre from their Borders. That unless the Elector of Mentz doe declare a Restitution, Bavare will not descend to any particular offer.*

Num. 1901.

Sir Thomas is resolved, hereupon, to send a preparatiue of Farewell to the Mediators; and to resent the Abuse by Letter to Count Trautmansdorf. That he will govern himself according to what such an Intimation may draw from them; and if they will be content thus to let him goe, he will retyre to Nurenberg and there attend His Majesties Orders. Lastly, that he enterteine the offered Seperate Treaty with the Duke of Bavare, and thereby make a full tryall of his Intentions.

23. To Count Trautmansdorff, in Italian, 21 April 1642: fol. 12. b.

The occasion of this, is intimated in the Abstract of the last.

24. Sir Thomas's Latin Letter to the Mediators; complaining of the ill usage they all had received by the Delay of the Emperors Answer so often promised; thanking them for their good Offices; and partly taking Leave of them. But in the Margin, he hath written these words, This deferred to be sent vpon arrivall of an Express from England; & new Promise of the whole answere.

25. To the King. 26 April, 1642. fol. 13. b.
In Answer to one he had received from His Majesty, wherein He had shewn His gracious acceptance of Sir Thomas's Services.

26. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 26 April 1642. fol. 14.

That Count Trautmansdorfe had sent him an Answer to His Letter, wherein he promised a present Resolution from the Emperor to the whole Restitution. He afterwards enters into a long deliberation upon the purport of some Letters received by the Prince Palatine Ministers from their Master; whereby it was gessed that his Majesties Pleasure was that that Prince should accept of the Lower Palatinate; with a Salvo jure to the Upper Palatinate; & observe a Neutralitie in the present War in the Empire. Sir Thomas sheweth the Reasons of his dislike to such a Motion; and that it is better, in the present conjuncture, to wait the Emperors freshly-promised Resolution; to gain time by staying for the Issue of the approaching Campaign; or to break off the Treatie in expectation of a more favorable Opportunity.

27. To the Prince Elector. 27 April 1642. fol. 15.
Referring Him to Mr. Secretary Nicholas for His Opinion of the Motion abovementioned. That His Highnesses Ministers & himself had agreed to prosecute the Treaty for the whole Lands, and an immediate alternative: and then if the answere to the generall shall be such as his private information whispereth, he shall not be able to beare it, but with just Indignation will breake-off, & venture His Majesties displeasure in coming away without order: For by so doing, he shall leaue His Highnesses Cause entyre for a better occasion; & be justefyed by the Iniquity of their Conditions.

28. Relation of a Conference betweene the Ambassadors Mediators & Sir Thomas, vpon their presentation of the long expected Declarations. fol. 15. b. (^{29 April}_{9 May} 1642.)

It sheweth that then the Ambassadors of Denmarke & Mentz, as Directors of the Mediation, came to Him, & presented him with foure Papers, being the severall answers & declarations of the Interessed & Possessors of the two Palatinats. The first in the name of the Emperor, for Himselfe; the King of Spayne; the Duke of Bavare; and the Archduchefs of Inspruch, as Tutrefs to the Heyres of Leopold. The Second from the Electour of Mentz, concerning the Bergstraet. The third from the Bishop of Worms. The Fourth from the Landgrave of Darmstat.

29. Sir Thomas's Answer to the Mediators thereupon; in Latin. 30 April, 1642. 16.

The Exordium, and divers of the Expressions are taken from that abovementioned at no. 24. but what our King did resolutely insist upon, may be seen by the words following. "Placebit itaq; "Excell^{mis}. & Ill^{mis}. Dom^{bus}. vestris certò "scire, nullam aliam Palatinatùs Inferioris "restitutionem, nisi integram, cum omnibus "Juribus, Membris & Privilegijs, tam Politicis quam Ecclesiasticis, in eo Statu, ac "Conditione, uti a Principibus Electoribus "Palatinis antiquitus, et specialiter anno 1618. "possidebantur, absque ulla Limitatione, aut "Diminutione, vel Jurisdictionis, vel Possessionis, sicut omnes alij Electores & Principes, vel vi Legum, et Constitutionum "Imperialium, vel Jure proprio in ditionibus "suis, ijsdem gaudent et possident, a Nobis "acceptam iri. Quod ad Dignitatem Electoralem, & Palatinatum Superiorem attinet, "Excell^{mis}. & Ill^{mis}. Dom^{bus}. vestris, et universo Orbi Christiano declaro, Seren^{um}. Regem meum de accommodatione æquâ et honesta tractare, in animo habuisse: sed "vel Terras emere, vel de alia alternativa, "nisi immediatâ & integrâ, quicquam audire "nolle." This Sir Thomas opposed as an answer to the four Papers brought by them, which being obscurely or Craftily worded, & so as to beget many inconveniencies, he would no farther meddle with.

30. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 3 May 1642. fol. 16. b.

That He cannot thinke of the Papers aforesaid, nor mention them, without Indignation, and breaking out into Passion: For never was any thing proposed so vnjust, so insolent, & so dishonourable. Nor can he make any other Judgment, but that by longer Stay, he shall multiply the Occasion of more Scorne & Abuse. And he is the more amased, because their Condition was never so low, almost desperate. He giveth the Sum of a Conference he lately had with Mr. Bidenback the Danes Ambassador, in the Prefence of the Prince Elector Palatines Ministers, and the Answer he gave to the Questions asked by that Mediator. His Judgment (i. e. Sr. Thomas's) is, that nothing will be offered or asked, that shall be, in any proportion, Equall, or Just, or Possible. So that he resolveth to take his Leaue of the Emperor in fayre tearmes, without breach of the Treaty absolutely, but to Suspend it to another tyme & place, and to a better Conjuncture; such as shal be agreed on betweene their Majesties, if both shall like of it.

31. To the Prince Elector. 3 May 1642. fol. 17. b.

That there is a necessity for him to come off, upon

Num. 1901.

upon the Iniquity of the Declarations so long expected; & rather to preserve His Highnesses Rights & Title entyre, then to weaken them by offering to accept that which shall not, vpon any termes of honor be obtained. Yet he purposeth not to breake the Treaty (wherein some of the Mediators are our Opposites, and not only Mock, but Betray us) but to part vpon fayre tearmes, and to suspend it to some other place, & a fitter Con-juncture.

32. To the Queene of Bohemia. 4 May, 1642. fol. 18.

That after ten Moneths attendance, expectation, & promises; the Declarations of the Emperor & the others Interessed, were delivered; being so absurd, vnjust, dishonourable, & impossible, that they deserved none answer. That he will preserve, in integrity the justice of the Prince Electors cause, & leaue it no worse than he found it; but so much better, in that he hath drawn from them a Confession, that He is restorable; and that it is fitt to doe Him Justice; & that they haue declared a will to treate euen for the whole; but that the only hinderance hath bene, not in the Equity of the Cause, but in the Iniquity & Covetousnes of their Offers & Demands.

33. To Sir William Boswell. 4 May, 1642. ibid.

*Touching the Declarations he had received; of which, he thought those of Mentz, Wormes, & Darmstadt worthy of no Reply. For the Ambassadors of Mentz nothing, in theirs, but that they had no formall Order from their Prince, but that they did collect out of some Circumstances, that he would be content to pay the money for which the Bergstraet had bene engaged. The pretension of the Bishop of Wormes is but a quarrell pickt, to embroyle the Cause with the Church, that Conscience might be pretended, to countenance Injury. The Deputie of Darmstats long Narration was but Rayling, Scandall, & Folly; yet the Conclusion though Sweeter, was Ridiculous, vizt. that he would, for Love of Peace surrender de facto; upon condition, that he might haue Security to receiue back the same Lands in Feudo. He knoweth not what the Duke of Bavare will doe, the Emperor having the point of answering for him; so that he is not likely to abate to vs, nor treate vpon lower tearmes, than he hath agreed to the Emperor. The cause of this Change is supposed, this, that he hath secured his feares by some secret accord with the French; into which, it is suspected, he doth endeavour to draw his brother of Cullen, & the Elector of Mentz, now in this their assembly. In summe the whole Offer, & every part thereof is so unworthy, vnjust, insolent, & dishonourable, that he is resolved not to treate farther vpon it. That the Mediators hope to procure more moderate or tollerable Conditions to be proposed, which he will be ready to receiue, to the last hower of his Stay: but he will doe no more; as supposing he can neuer come-off with more shewe of Honour, then vpon the Iniquity of their most vnequall & impossible Offers & Demands.*

VOL. II.

Num. 1901.

34. To the Prince Elector. 10 May, 1642. fol. 18. b.

That the Design of the Imperial Court was that England should both Enter into a League with them for their Assistance, that is for our King to raise & maintain, at the least, 10000 Men for them (which he was then unable to do) and that the Parliament should be Security for the Kings performing his Covenant; and further, that his Majesty should pay a great Sum of Money, at the least, 2 or 300000 l. to the Duke of Bauare. He thinks therefore, rather than confesse our weakness, & take the Breach upon our selves, it would be best to hold them to a declaration of a full Restitution, which they will never yield to, and then to Separate upon the Iniquity & Basenes of their Offers & Demands.

35. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 11 May, 1642. fol. 19.

That the Mediators haue Smmoned the Ambassadors of the Prince Elector Palatine, to draw them either to a particular Treaty, vpon every Article of the Emperors Declaration; or else by them to engage himself to some promise of a Summe of money, to helpe toward the Satisfaction of the Duke of Bavare, which is what the Imperial Court most wanteth. The Sum pitched upon, as he is secretly enformed, is 900,000 pounds; and, less than 300,000 will not be accepted. But he will hold them down to that, which they will not do; that is, to make a Declaration of a full & entyre Restitution, at least of the Lower Palatinate; this being the only way left, to preferue the publicque honour, & the justice of the Prince Electors cause entire. That that Court & the Mediators play with him, & thinke they can hold him by a twyne thred, as long as they please, they having intelligence from England, that he would not, nor durst depart. That he is secretly assured, that he shall neuer haue better answere, vntil he shall begin to take Leaue; and then, if they haue any reall purpose, they must, & will vnvayle it. That, absolutely, they will not restore the Lower Palatinate without a League, to joyne the Army vnder the Prince Elector with them, & some Conveniencias for Spayne; nor the Vpper, without a great Summe of Money to Bavare; nor the the Dignity, but vpon such an Alternatiue, as would weaken the whole frame of the Reformed Religion in the Empyre. He thinks therefore, that it is better by removing, to avoyd the necessity of refusing to do somewhat on our part, then to lose his advantage; and had rather fall to his owne Master, and trust in his benignity, than into a publicque Shame.

36. To the Count of Guebriant, Generall of the Armyes of the French King within the Empyre. 12 May, 1642. in French. fol. 19. b.

Thanking him, in a very complemental manner, for setting Colonell Henderson at Liberty, upon his Request.

37. To Sir Arthur Hopton. 14 May, 1642. fol. 20.

That he esteemeth the Treaty irrecoverably Sick; yet the Mediators will not give it over, but haue consulted to procure a Moderation in some of the Articles. That the Imperial Court will not restore the Lower Palatinate, without some very advantageous League, both for the Emperor & King of Spayne, which will cost His Majesty more then that Province is now worth. Nor will the Duke of Bavare surrender the Upper Palatinate, without a great Summe of Money; nor the Dignity, but vpon such an alternatiue, as will destroy the Protestant Interest. He is confident that the Emperor sincerely desireth to settle this busines; but his present necessity causeth his Ministers to aske rather according to the Exigent & Proportion of their own wants, than any thing within compass of Reason or Equity; indeed, things wholly impossible. But in the Duke of Bavare appeareth playne & vnmasked Covetousnes & Selfe-Loue, that will abate nothing for the Publicque. Moreover, the Church is become engaged, and Conscience pretended, to countenance oppression: and this also hath two strong Pillars, the Popes Nunces, & the Jesuites. He therefore thinketh it more counsellable to remit the Cause to Gods tyme, & to preserve the Prince Electors Title entyre, to a better Conjunction; which hath yet by this negotiation gotten this advantage, that it is now held to be reconcileable, which was a point that formerly would in no wise be granted.

* S

Num. 1901.

38. To Sir William Boswell. 14 May, 1642. fol. 20. b.

That the Mediators endeavor to moderate some of the Articles, but he believes it will be in vaine; because the Emperor, &c. will doe nothing but for a price aboue the valew.

39. To the Princess Elizabeth. 15 May, 1642. ibid.

Excusing himself, that as he had done little, so he had omitted nothing; but however, he had drawne out a Confession that the cause in it selfe was treatable; and therefore not subject to the Condemnation vnder which it suffered; and better tymes might make advantage of this preservation of the roote Sound & Entyre. That this mayne Repulse had disabled him from serving my Lady Levingston; for he could not descend to aske a fauor, where he is denyed Justice: and to attempt any thing against the Landgrave of Hesse-Darmstat, who is the Usurper & as hard as Flint, would have been in Vayne.

40. Sir Thomas Roe's relation of a Conference he had with Monfr. Bidenbach. 13 May, 1642. fol. 21.

That the Emperor would require a League Offensive, & Defensive against all the Enemyes of the House of Austria, at least within the Empyre. That Count Trautmansdorffe had declared, that if England is not disposed to satisfy the Emperor by a League, & the Duke of Bavare by a good Summe of Money, they would not giue away Principalityes for nothing. That the Surrender made by the King of Spayne of his part of the Lower Palatinate to the Emperor, was vpon Conditions of Aydes, or Commodities, for them. That the Duke of Bavare, for His Possessions there, had obliged the Emperor to pay vnto him 3000 pounds Sterling yearly, for 8 years; so that that Duke had parted with nothing without money; and therefore the Imperial Ministers would not buy him & others out of their Pretensions, without being reimbursed by the Palatins, or by England. That, at last, Sir Thomas had drawn this Mediator to undertake to make the Motion, that, the busines of the Dignity & the Upper Palatinate being Suspended vntil a fitter tyme (because they would never come without money) the Lower should be restored de facto, intyrelly both in Possessions & Jurisdiction, with a Salvo Jure to all other rights Suspended; upon such reasonable Conditions as might not relate to any League, but only to newtrall & conuenient Acts of Friendship, on the behalf of our King, & due observance to the Emperor & Empyre on the part of the Prince-Elector.

41. Minutes of a Conference which Sir Thomas had with Dr. Richel Chancellor of the Duke of Bavare, 16 May 1642. fol. 21. b.

By these, it should appear, that the Duke of Bavaria thirsted after our Money exceedingly, and would do any thing to gett it. But Sir Thomas is of opinion, that when the matter should come to a Conclusion, Bavare will not part with Chamb; nor agree the alternative immediate; nor accept of less than 300,000 pounds: nor, that the Emperor will restore the Lower Palatinate only for his Satisfaction.

42. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 18 May, 1642. fol. 22. b.

That he had visited the Arch-Duke Leopold, who is a gallant Prince; expressed much respect for our King; & promised to interpose his power, that he might not depart without Satisfaction. That Wolstenstein was sent from the Emperor to the meeting at Mentz, tanquam explorator, and to awe their Resolutions; & hath so well taken his measures, that he hath diverted the mayne Intention of Neutrality. That some discontent hath arisen betweene the Emperor & the Spanish Ambassador, who hath Bills or Monyes there to haue rayfed men for his Master. Which being not able to effect, for the Scarcity & dearnes of Levyes, the Emperor would haue made use of it; promising, that as soone as the Suedes should be expelled Silesia, to employ the whole Army in the Spanish Service: but that not serving the turne, he would haue borrowed it; but could obtaine nothing. Sir Thomas was told that a principal Counsellour sayd to an English man a Priest there, thus, The English Ambassador in his answer offers nothing, for his King can doe nothing: he threatens us that he will be gone; and none here doth hold or forbid him.

43. Negotiation from the 18th to the 24th May, 1642. and Conference vpon it, betweene the English, Danes, & Palatin Ambassadors. fol. 23.

This sheweth, how Sir Thomas was, at length, drawn by the Ambassador of Denmark, (rather than suffer the Treaty to be broken off, through the mere want of an Offer, on our Side) although he had no power absolutly to offer mony, which was neuer supposed would haue bene demanded, yet seeing That was the Condition so much insisted vpon for the Satisfaction of the Duke of Bavare & Ease of the Emperor: He was content to offer an assistance of 600,000 Dollers, to be payd in reasonable tyme. Sr. Thomas thought this is the best bargain that can, or euer could be expected; being made only, for Honor, & not like to be accepted. That being made without our Kings Order, he made it expresly ad ratificandum. That if Security for the Money should be required, it should be proposed, that the Upper Palatinate should remayne in the Possession of the Duke of Bavare quoad usu fructum, as a pledge, vntill the mony agreed vpon should be payd. So that His Majesty shall not be obliged to the Imperialls, nor Bavare; nor further then he pleaseth to assist toward the payment; and yet the Upper Palatinate to be restored quoad Dominium & de Jure, the profits only remaining as a pawne, to be redeemed when the Prince Elector shall be able.

44. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 25 May, 1642. fol. 24. b.

That He had had a late Conference with Count Trautmanndorff, the Summe of whose Resolution was, (though given in fayre & hopefull Expressions) that we must Satisfye the Duke of Bavare with mony, or no Treaty. Yet Sir Thomas is constant to his opinion, that He shall doe nothing; and that though all the discourse & present Intention is, vpon mony to content the Duke of Bavare; yet if they can once engage vs by an agreement upon that; then they will propose new matter for the Satisfaction of the Emperor, Spayne, & others, without which all will fall. For he believeth not, that ever the Emperor & others will quit all their owne Interests & Commodities only for that Dukes Advantage, though they never more needed him then now; and are forced to vse all meanes, not only to keepe him a freind; but to hold him vpright, that he fall not to the Enemye. For, it is reported, that He with the Electors of Mentz & Collen, & the Bishop of Wirtzburg, have sent part of their Resolutions to the Emperor; That if His Imperial Majesty will not separate himselfe from the Spanish Counsellors & Interests, and seeke the Peace of the Emperre without forreyne relations; they are resolved to take another course: which, at the best, must be a Neutralitie & Separation from the Interests of the House of Austria. This doth more trouble the Court & Spanish Ministers, then the Suedes Prosperity.

45. Relation of a Conference betweene Sir Thomas, The Danes, & the Ments Ambassador. 27 May. fol. 25. b.

Here, the Danish & Mentz Ambassadors, being (as Mediators) to hold an equality between all the parties; pressed Him to Offer more money than he had before done; but he gave them such Answers as they deserved.

46. To Mr. Browne. 31 May, 1642. fol. 27.

That the late Assembly at Mentz haue meditated a Neutrality with France; & pressed the Emperor to separate himselfe from the Counsellors & Interests of Spayne; or else they must provide for themselves; but that France had refused them the Neutrality, and offered them only Protection upon their Submission. That the Suedes in Silesia haue defeated Duke Fra. ed in three places; who being a Lutheran, Suspected & rayled at, hath scarce gotten pitty after this full Testimony of his Fidelity & Courage.

47. To my Lord of Falckland Secretary of State. 31 May, 1642. ibid.

That the Declaration of Restitution which he hath received, is limited to such Conditions as are both dishonorable & impossible; occasioned by our own distempers at home, which hath layd our reputation flat, as being neyther fitt to be friends nor foes; nor able to doe good, or harme. Yet the Emperors Condition is not such, as that he may neglect friends, especially now after Duke Francis Albert's defeat. That the Emperor is a sweete, ingenious, & noble Prince; and would, if he were not bound to Bavare & Spayne, and had the juncture bene generally propitious, have done much for his Majesties Satisfaction, & the Peace of his Countrey.

48. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 1 June, 1642. fol. 27. b.

That the Mediators will still hope beyond hope, vpon moderation of conditions: so that thereby a Summe of Money to ballance all, for the Satisfaction of the Duke of Bavare may be obtained. Sir Thomas relates the result of the late Assembly at Mentz; & the Confusion of the Emperors Affairs as in former Letters. With this addition, that Piccolomini who, ten days since, resigned his Commission of Generalitie, & had resolved to retyre, & never more to serue the House of Austria, with much adoe, is gayned to take vpon him his old Charge.

49. To the Earle of Holland. 3 June, 1642. fol. 28. b.

How he had heard that the French Ambassador, by his Lordship's Mediation, had preferred a Complaint against him in the House of Peers; that he had offered to the King of Hungary, a League offensive & defensive, against all men; vpon Condition of Restitution of the Prince Elector Palatine to His Lands & Dignities. Which being in Contravention of the League betweene His Majestie, the French King, & the United States, was offensively taken. Which whole accusation, Sir Thomas replieth, in forme & matter, in substance & circumstances, is vnjust; in the first Invention false; & against Innocency, Truth, & faithfull Service, Scandalous. For, he never received any such power nor Instructions from his Majesty; nor had the boldness, infidelity, or indiscretion, to do it of himselfe: but so far the contrary, that he had often openly, authentically, & seriously protested against any motion or ouerture of any confederation, directly or consequently, against the Crownes of France, & Suede, & the United Provinces, his Majesties Friends & Allyes, as is Registred in many public Acts. He being a good & true English-man, neyther French, Spanish, Austrian, nor Dutch; nor for any respect shall ever be. He hath principally directed all his Scope to the Honor of his Majesty, the Safety & advantage of his Kingdomes, and the preservation of true religion in those places, where it hath pleased God both to plant & purge it by his Chastisements. This he beseecheth his Lordship to present to the House of Peeres, that they may be pleased to Register & Publish his Protestation, for the Vindication of his Honesty & Reputation.

50. To Mr. Edward Waller. 3 June, 1642. fol. 29.

Upon the same occasion, and to the same Effect; with desire that the house of Commons, of which he is an humble member, would judge better of him.

51. To Mr. Edward Waller. 6 June, 1642. fol. 29. b.

Accompanying a copy of what he wrote to the Earle of Holland; which he may use according to his discretion, as he shall find that His Lordship hath published or concealed the attestation of his Innocency. For, as he would not offend His Lordship by Jealousie; so he would not omitt his owne Justification by too much Indulgence to a supposed friend.

52. To Sir William Boswell. 6 June, 1642. ibid.

That his Business is desperate; and so much the more, because of the Complaint above-mentioned, which hath made a great Clamour & Noyse, from whence the Court of Vienna (which is better enformed of all things, than himself) hath drawne a Conclusion, that there is nothing to be expected of us, in Correspondence with them; nor any other ayde for the House of Palatin. He sendeth to Sir William Coppys of what he wrote to both Houses of Parliament, which he desires may be published to the States, & such others as he shall think fit. If this will not cleare his Innocency he will print such a Defence, as shall make the Accusers, if they have any shame, ashamed. For it was not him alone that they aymed at, but another designe which he well discovereth, and will in tyme make apparent to the world.

53. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. June 8. 1642. fol. 30.

That the Mediators do but Trifle, & serve the old Turne to keep vp an opinion, & to gayne tyme. The Ministers of Bavare haue answered to the motion of Moderation, that they aske nothing of vs; & despise the proposition of Monsr. Bidenbach; nor will abate of their demand of 13 millions from the Emperor, being a secured debt; saying they have nothing to do with the King of England. That Mentz will not restore the Bergstraet; So that there is no hope to obtaine any thing. This Matter is the more inflamed, by the French Ambassadors complaint against himself in Parliament, which hath bene largely related at Vienna, & commented vpon, as having occasioned some discourse in one of the Houses, that they have no desyre to oblige, or be obliged to the House of Austria; nor by that way, if by any, to assist the Prince Elector Palatin: so that being sure they shall haue nothing, they will do nothing. He conceiveth the French Ambassadors bolt not to be Shot at him alone; but at the business; and perhaps with a worse Intention, which he doubteth not but His Majesties Wisdom will penetrate. The French grounded their Complaint vpon some words in a Declaration of the Emperors, against which he had excepted & protested, as crept in captiously & insidiously, to cast us into the Jealousie of our Friends. That the Mediators made this fault by the levitye of Monsr. Bidenbach; which when he resented to Count Trautmansdorffe, he answered, that it was not their Error, but a mistake of the Mediators; who, in hope to do a good office, had exceeded their Commission. But he will not so wholly cleare neyther the one nor the other, but that there might be an Art seminandis discordiam, and it purposely done; which he then suspected, and is now come to pass. Sir Thomas much wonders, that the Imperial Court will not see their neede of Friends, in this extreame danger of the Enemye; and not much less of the Resolutions of the Princes assembled lately at Mentz, and prorogued to the first of August at Francfort. Where, they will eyther draw the Emperor to governe according to the antient Constitutions; or, without question, separate from him, and institute a new forme & way, to recover the peace of the Empyre. Which may be an occasion to let in the Prince Elector Palatin, vpon better Conditions then he is like ever to obtaine of the particulers interested.

54. To Sir Arthur Hopton. 13 June, 1642. fol. 31.

That vpon receipt of the answere of the Emperor for Himselfe & for the others Interested, & the whole manner of their delatory proceeding, His Majesty hath sent him a revocation. That he knows the Ends of all the parties, Mediators & others; and, particularly, that they would cast the Scandall upon vs. Which, if He cannot avoyde, He will defend, & as stoutly retort vpon them, by publishing that, which otherwise, discretion & temper would conceale. For, the difficultyes haue not proceeded from the Emperor, who is a most benigne and sweete Prince, but only as he is bound vp by others, & cannot satisfie the Duke of Bavare, who is the great remora or rock whereon the Peace doth Shiprack. Nor dothe he now complaine of Spayne: though de doubteth not, but there doth lye hid vnder their conveniencias, somewhat; which being discovered would be rocky enough. For now, the Terminus when they will Surrender is changed, to When it shall conduce to the Peace of Germany. However, he will endeavour rather to Suspend the Treaty to a Coniuncture more propitious, than to breake it. He therefore prepareth for his departure within 14 dayes; which he is willing yet to give them, if at the last they will propose any thing that may induce him to stay longer.

55. To the Queene of England. 14 June, 1642. fol. 32.

That he cannot get himselfe at Liberty, by coming away, vnder 14 dayes; partly for Ceremonies, and partly because the Mediators, who haue trifled 12 Months, would now rayse new hopes, against their Conscience & Experience, only to stay him for their greater Confusion. Which if he should refuse, and thereby give them a little scope, they would cast the

Num. 1901.

the Scandall of an abrupt breach vpon him; which, for honour, he must avoyde.

56. To the Queene of Bohemia. 15 June, 1642. ibid.

That having intimated the Order he had received to returne, to the Mediators; they put on graue & busye faces, pretending that they despayred not. That, if I would breake, they could not oppose it; but the fault should not rest on them. That he answered, that they had not advanced one Step in Six Weekes, since the last Declaration; and he could not expect they would do more in a few dayes, then they had done in 12 Monthes. That he could not depart in 14 dayes; tyme enough seeing all the Interessed knew what they would doe; if yet they would propose any thing honorable and acceptable. For the Imputation of the Breach, whensoever they would begin to charge it vpon him, he would publish all the proceedings to the world; which yet, he thought were better on both sydes to be concealed; and to part in a condition of friendship. Afterwards they proposed to procure a Consent of Restitution of the Lower Palatinate entyre, from all the Interessed, which they would present, with their judgment & exhortation to the Emperor: which would be a great strengthening to the Prince Electors cause, although it should be denyed to be ratified. This he accepted under the three Conditions formerly by me specified; and they undertook to answer him in 7 or 8 dayes. However, for his present satisfaction, and to induce some beliefe in him, he desired that the Ambassadors of Mentz would clearly declare, that their Master would restore the Bergstraet: but they flatly refused it; and offred the money for the pretended mortgage: Which he as plainly refuseing, in great choler, they said, the busines then must be recommended to God. Yet the other Mediators desyred their tyme to trye; and so he is yet in expectation, but not in hope.

57. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 15 June, 1642. fol. 33.

That Count Trautmansdorffe seems to pretend that there is yet hope, at least a desyre to end the busines now; but not without a great Summe of money to the Duke of Bavare, and some helpe to the Emperor to advance the Peace. To which he replied, that he would yet accept of any reasonable & honorable proposition, though for the Lower Palatinate alone; Suspending the vpper & the Dignity, Salvo jure, to tyme & occasion. And it is likely he may get, if not the Restitution, yet some Declaration, that may advantage the Cause in the future; if but, that the Prince is restorable in Justice. That he hath diligently penetrated into the Intentions of the Duke of Bavare, and doth find, that he doth really desyre an accommodation during his Life; but for mony, that is, for 3 or 400,000*l.* to be paid in tyme: for which, he is confident, we may compose with him for the Vpper Palatinate and the Dignity; the possession of the Lands resting in him for Security, till the payment be made.

58. Relation of a Conference betweene me & the Mediators, the 13 of June, 1642. fol. 33. b.

VOL. II.

Num. 1901.

The Sum of it is already specified in the Abstracts of preceding Letters.

59. To the Prince Elector. 21 June, 1642. fol. 34. b.

That the Emperor doth sincerely desyre an end of this Treaty, and hath laboured it; but will neuer yield to purchase it at his owne cost. That all the Ministers & Mediators make a fayre show & pretension, upon the Close of the business. First, to satisfye the world by apparencyes and semblances, that they would haue done much, if the Treaty had continued, so to saue their owne reputation, and to cast the scandal of a breach vpon us. Secondly, if thereby they can engage him to stay, they belieue his Highnesses Condition is so desperate by the troubles of England, that He will at last accept of any thing, and be forced to quitt all clayme to the Vpper Palatinate & Dignity. Which is the plott of the Duke of Bavare, that he being Septuagenarius and living by art, may see the quarrell settled in his Life, & leaue his Heyres secure in the possession. This is the maine cause why he presseth the Emperor to a present conclusion; because he thinkes His Highnesses feares do alike press Him to any accommodation. That His Highnesses affairs were neuer before in so good a State as now, there being much gayned in this negotiation. First, many declarations both of the Emperor & Princes of the Empyre, that it is requisite & necessary, for the publicque Peace, that His Cause should be accommodated. Secondly, that the whole is treatable; and therefore some justice on His part. For a Treaty supposeth a right; whereas when there is no right, men vse to proceede by Supplication. Thirdly, the Duke of Bavare hath consented to Treat both for the Vpper Palatinate & Dignity, vpon conditions: So that it will appeare in the future, that the want of effect of this Treaty, rested not vpon the meritts of the Cause, but vpon the exorbitant conditions demanded by the Duke of Bavare, & meerly vpon a matter of mony. This neyther the Emperor nor Empyre will endure when that Duke shall be deceased. For then the Emperor will be free & sui Juris; and the Administrator will not haue that Authority which Bavare hath; and, in few yeares the Emperors obligations to him will be voyd. So that if the general good inclination be dexterously preserved, there is no doubt of better tearmes then He can now expect, or ever obtaine by such partiall Mediators.

60. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 22 June, 1642. fol. 36.

That the Emperor desireth an accommodation, in order to be cleare of Bavare, but dare not force him, nor press him to any discontent. Bavare presseth an End now; not so much in hope of mony, which he foresees will not be had to his Satisfaction: but designing to settle the Vpper Palatinate, & Dignity secure vpon his Posteritye, he hopes the Prince Elector Palatin will be content to renounce all his claymes in those, to haue restitution of the other. And therefore he hath newly declared that he will not surrender Heidelberg & the Dependencies, vnless he may now haue a finall end. Nor will he treat with us, nor with any whomsoever, for his mony, but with the Emperor. Nor will Mentz yeild the Bergstraet. And howsoever this new Decree (as they tearme it) of the Emperor, would seeme to encourage the Mediators to proceede, as if there were yet hope: it is observable, that it doth not declare what the Emperor will doe for his owne part, & Germensheim; which had bene necessary first, for an example to others. But it is most certeyne, nothing can be done; & they all know it, for the difficulty & obstruction of Bavare: which being removed, there is no doubt, vpon the foundations layd, we may make a good end of a bad busines.

61. To Mr. Browne. 24 June, 1642. fol. 36. b. Specifying little fresh matter; besides the design of settling in the Electorate of Collen & Triers, two Princes opposite to the Ends of the French.
62. To Doctor Richel Chancellour of Bavare, 28 June, 1642. in Italian. fol. 37. b. Taking Leave of him, upon Suspension of the Treaty to a better Coniuncture.

To the same purpose.
64. To the Ministers assembled at the Congress at Francfort. 23 July, 1642. in Latin. fol. 38. Herein Sir Thomas throweth the Odium of his not succeeding in his Negotiations, upon the Avarice & exorbitant Demands of the Duke of Bavaria; more especially since the Emperor had promised to do all that in him lies for the Restitution of the Palatine Family, when the others Interessed should do what might reasonably be expected of them. He exhorts them therefore to make such effectual Application to the Bavarian, as that the Treaty may be reassumed, & with the desired Restoration, a blessed Peace & Tranquillity be established in Germany.
65. Instructions to Mr. Curtius, for the deliury of a relation, left by me, to the Ambassadors of the Electors & Princes at the Assembly at Francfort. 23 July, 1642. fol. 39. Besides which, Mr. Curtius is directed to assure the Lady Landgravine of Cassell, of our Kings constant affection to her Cause; and that although there was no opportunity to mention the Comprehension of Her, & her Sonnes estates: yet to faythfully promise Her, that if the Treaty be reassumed, She shall be taken into such due Consideration, by particular Articles, as her Constancy & Magnanimity hath merited.
66. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 23 July, 1642. fol. 40. That he hath left the Treaty in a Suspension, much for the advantage of the Cause, & necessary in consideration of our owne condition in England. He hopeth that he came-off with honour, & the general content, notwithstanding a desigine, by art, to cast the breach or Separation vpon him. But he escaped their Netts, & forced the Mediators to a Stand, & a cleare Confession, that they could doe no more. The Emperor is so pleased with the opinion & reputation of continuance or reassumption of the Treaty, that He hath sent an Invitatory Decree to the Mediators, to re- assemble the 10th of January. Sir Thomas well knoweth the meaning hereof, and will make another vse of it, to the Assembly at Frankfurt, by inviting those Princes to remove the Impediments. That the worthy Bishop of Wurtzburg dyed suddenly at the Table; whom, the day before, he had left in perfect health.

67. To Mr. Curtius. 31 July, 1642. ibid.
Requiring him to remonstrate to the Elector of Mentz, & to the Count de Rebolledo Commander of the Spanish Forces, how unjust their design of Persecuting the Protestants in the Lower Palatinate is. That such proceeding will cause vs to dispayre, as to the Treaty. It being a strange Zeale, now to begin that alteration (when they haue professed to restore) which they haue forborne so many yeares: from whence also he must conclude, that there is no purpose in them, but to excite vs to other wayes; of which they haue no neede.
68. To the Provost, Deane, Prelates, & Chanoyns of the Church of Wurtzburg. 31 July, 1642. in French. fol. 40. b. Condoling with them, upon the sad occasion of the Decease of their good Bishop & Prince.
69. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 18 August, 1642. fol. 41. That in Conference with the Elector of Mentz, He promised, that though he had not declared for the Bergstraet, seeing Bavare held back; yet the Breach should not rest vpon Him, when the Accommodation should be ripe. But that the Title by him claymed, being for the Church, he must proceede lento pede, and with such Circumstances, as might agree with his Reputation. That in the poynt of the New Edict published, & ready for Execution: he obtained a cleare promise of Suspension. That the Elector of Collen engaged his word more clearly in the poynt of accommodation with his brother of Bavaria; confessing that the Peace could not be made, or not securely, without the Composure of the Palatin cause. And therefore, he promised (though in a matter of mony his Brother be very vntractable; & that he who needed, and vsed him in that kind could worst interpose) yet he would vse all the power he had, to procure such a Moderation, as might be possible to be accepted, & occasion a new Meeting to accommodate the whole Cause à l'amiable: which, if the Princes at the Assembly, shall vndertake, according to their promise & interest; it may proue of much more efficacye, then the Offices of Strangers, or Negotiation of Ambassadors. For if they there shall find it fitt for the preparation of the peace of the Empyre, to Declare that they ought not, nor will not suffer the Whole to perih for the ambition or avarice of Bavare; and that he ought to comply with the publicque, or proue the Enemy of Peace: such a Declaration will both plane the way to accommodation, & fortify the Cause in all Events. That the loss of the Bishop of Wurtzburg is vniversally deplorable; particularly by the Prince Elector. For he protested, that as he would press the poynt at the designed meeting: so, he would contribute one Million of Florens toward the satisfaction of Bavare. His successor hath good Affections; but being New, can haue no mony, nor settled authority. That he hath related the proceſs of his Negotiation & State of the Treaty, to the States-Generall; from whom he received a Cold Anſwere, as if they were not diſpoſſeſſed of ſome jealousye, or impreſſions they had taken. That he preſſeth an anſwere to his Propoſitions, and the Complaynts & Grievances of our Merchants injured in contravention of the Treatyes of Commerce; and hath a promiſe to receiue ſome ſatisfaction.

70. To the Earle of Arundell. 20 Auguſt, 1642. fol. 42.

In the former part of this long (but very diſtinct Letter) there is little freſh matter; but the Concluſion is thus. The advantages gotten to the Cauſe Palatin by this negotiation, are theſe. Firſt, the Emperor hath made a very fayre declaration for Himſelfe, and for what is in his power as Emperor. Secondly, Sir Thomas hath gotten, by publicque acts, a judgment that the whole Cauſe is treatable, & conſequently not ſo condemned, as not to be capable, in right, of a review. Thirdly, that the Duke of Bavare hath conſented to reſtore all, and the Vpper Palatinate, vpon Conditions; to which formerly he would never be induced; and to treat in the poynt of the dignity. Fourthly, in the Treaty, the accommodation doth not depend vpon the meritts of the Cauſe, but vpon Conditions; and thoſe of a Summe of money; which is baſe in the reſuſer of peace. Laſtly, that the Scandall of Breach is caſt vpon one only, vizt. the Duke of Bavaria: the Emperor hauing invited by a decree, after his departure, all the intereſſed to renew the Treaty, which may provoke him to a better temper, or rayſe againſt him an envy dangerous & vnſupportable. Hereby Sir Thomas ſuppoſeth the Cauſe is in better condition then he found it; or, then it hath bene ſince the unjuſt decrees of the aſſembly at Mulhuſen.

71. Recapitulation of the laſt acts of the Treaty of the Palatin Cauſe: for what reaſons it was ſuſpended; and in what eſtate it was left, at the ſeparation of the Mediators. 30 June, 1642. fol. 43.

Herein, Sir Thomas relateth the laſt Conferences he had with the Emperor, & Count Curtz his Miniſter; and how in order to keep the Treaty yet alive, they agreed that a Correſpondence ſhould be kept between ſome of the Miniſters of His Imperial Majeſty, England, & Denmarke.

72. To Count Leſley. 30 Auguſt, 1642. fol. 46.

Deſiring that it will pleaſe the Emperor to be conſtant in his declaration, to receiue the Prince Elector-Palatin & his Family into his favour by an Amneſtye; whenſoever, with the other intereſſed an accommodation ſhall ſucceede. And that he will not releaſe the power of reſtoring the Lands poſſeſſed by the King of Spayne, in the Lower Palatinate. That he will remember the two Conditions of reaſumption of the Treaty; that is, that the Summe of mony demanded by the Duke for the reſtitution of the Vpper Palatinate, be reduced to a certainty & reaſonable proportion. And that the Duke doe declare that he will treate for the Succeſſion after him, of the Dignity, upon Conditions poſſible to take Effect, & ſuch as may conduce to the Satisfaction of all thoſe that are intereſſed, and the ſecure peace of the Empyre. For vntill his Majeſty our King may have ſome aſſurance in theſe poynts, there is little hope eyther to renew the Treaty, or to perfect it.

73. To the Biſhop of Wurtzburg. 30 Auguſt, 1642. fol. 46. b.

Congratulating His Highneſs upon his Election; and recommending the Palatin Cauſe to his favor & furtherance, at the approaching Aſſembly.

74. To Mr. Curtius. 30 Auguſt, 1642. fol. 47. b.

That the Elector of Mentz but coldly performing his promiſe for the Suſpenſion of his cruel Ediſt againſt thoſe of our Religion; Mr. Curtius is required to preſs him, & not to let goe his engagement; which if he performe not, we muſt interpret an oppoſition to the reaſumption of the Treaty. That Sir Thomas hath bene invited by the new Biſhop of Wurtzburg, to ſucceed to the frienſhip of his predeceſſor: he profeſſing his deſyre to contribute all in his power & meanes to the publicque peace. That if Mr. Curtius can procure from the Princes at the intended Aſſembly, a Declaration or Judgement in the Cauſe, it will be of very great advantage in the future. That if this meeting ſhould not hold (as he ſuſpecteth from a little flattering proſperity of the Emperor) Mr. Curtius is to ſend Coppies of the Paper left with him, to all the Princes, and particularly to the Biſhop of Wurtzburg, and to the 3 Cittyes, that they may be without excuſe of ignorance of our Intentions; and that no diſadvantage ariſe to the Cauſe by a ſeeming contumacye & reſuſal of the Emperors invitation to returne to the Treaty vpon the 10 of January.

Now cometh the Third Part of this Volume, Sir Thomas Roe hath thus Entituled, Letters written after my comming home; being commanded by His Majeſty to continew the Negotiation of the Cauſe-Palatin, & to correſpond with his Miniſters beyond Seas. 1642. 1643. 1644.

75. To the Prince Elector. 20 September, 1642. fol. 48.

He doubteth ſtill, the King is not pleaſed with his Highneſs; and findeth the Parliamt infinitely diſtaſted againſt the Queene of Bohemia & His Highneſs, but eſpecially againſt Prince Rupert, who as is reported hath done ſome outrages, & threatned firing, plundring, & forcing contribution, according to the War in Germany: inſomuch as nothing is ſo cryed out againſt, as his actions, which reflect a very ill odor vpon the whole Palatin famelye & Cauſe. He wiſhes therefore that His Highneſs & the Queene would write to Him.

76. To the Prince Elector. 18 Octoher, 1642. fol. 48. b.

Complaining, as in former Letters, of the public Calamities; that here is no mediator from abroad, nor none that ſeeketh peace at home, no not one. That both ſides require obedience; no neutrality is admitted, for thoſe who are not with them, are againſt them; & thus men liue in feare & danger. The voluntary Contributions dayly encrease; & who will not contribute, are as Corne betweene two Mil-stones. Such a condition for private men, Germany hath not tryed: for there were some Cittyes of Refuge; here none; all being one way, or other, engaged. That the Actions of Prince Rupert & Prince Maurice were not so flagrant as was reported; nor can be blamed by those who know the liberty of War. That he hath heard the Cause of His Majesties Coldness toward His Highness; which he must reserve, vntil he can advise it by a trusty Messenger. That he purposeth to continew the resolued Correspondence & Negotiation with Count Trautmansdorffe & the Imperiall Ministers; and to putt vpon it the best face our condition can assume.

77. To the Queene of Bohemia. 19 October, 1642. fol. 49.

Mostly upon our public Calamities; concerning which he is yet persuaded, that if any fitt Mediators were interposed, who might open the way to a Treaty, and who might speake & propose to both, that which no Subject may to His King, nor no Member dare to the Parliament, it may not be impossible to reconcile these destructive differences, where either part is about to fight for that, which both may haue better cheape.

78. To the Queene of Bohemia. 21 December, 1642. fol. 49. b.

That there being a necessity to take Care of the publicque honour abroad; he had once more written to Sir Edward Nicholas for fresh orders.

79. To the Princess Elizabeth, Daughter to the Queen of Bohemia. fol. 50. (21 December, 1642.)

That both sides prepare for war, & are very strong; & both dayly encrease, and are mighty to their owne destruction. That he himself hath no commerce with the Court; such being His Majesties pleasure; and no other notice is taken of him by the Parliament, who are content to connive at his retyrement. He wondereth that the Hollanders, whom we haue tendered in their Cradle, & nursed with our Bloud, should not bend one thought to enterpose in this our unnaturall quarrell, which may vndoe them, and involeue them into ruine. He left them in another sense, and would fayne know the hinderer; or the policie of State, that defers such an office.

80. To the Prince Elector; 21 December, 1642. fol. 50. b.

That since His Majesty had not found it fitt, that he should give up the account of his Negotiation, he had putt Mr. Secretary Nicholas in mind, that it is most necessary not to seeme to sinke under our burthen.

81. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 21 December, 1642. fol. 51.

He desires to see & kiss His Majesties Hands, & give some account of the Estate & Condition, wherein he left the Treaty; especially since there is an expectation of some returne from him: which being omitted, the assembly at Francfort will be fruitless for us. That he had left a declaration that may produce the greatest Effect, because their owne Interest is mingled with the Cause Palatin. That he hath received some letters both from Vienna, & the Bishop of Wirtzburg, which confirm their expectation of his return. For, at the close, he left the business in a better Condition then ever it was; or perhaps, then His Majesty did conceiue it: which is also much bettered by the late Victorie of the Suedes, & humiliation of the Emperor & Duke of Bavare, who now pleads publicquely, that he was not, nor will not be the hinderance of the publicque peace. That the two mayne impediments of the generall peace betweene France & the house of Austria are removed, by the loss of the Imperiall Army, & feare of the Duke of Bavare, on the one part; and the death of the Cardinall Richelieu, on the other. That now, doubtless, all Art will be vsed to advance it, the Plenepotences from Spayne being arrived, in forme.

Num. 1901.

82. To Sir William Boswell. 22 December, 1642. fol. 51. b.

Describing the sad face of our public affairs, at that time; and wondring that he can hear of no resolution of the States to seeke our peace, who haue payd so deare for their Security, by war.

83. To Mr. Curtius, Agent at Francfort. 8 February, 1642-3. fol. 52.

That having been with the King at Oxford, His Majesty had given him the Care of the Correspondencies of Germany; with direction to prosecute the Treaty Suspended, both with his owne, and the Imperiall Ministers, and other interessed Princes of Germany. That Mr. Curtius will receive a Congratulatory and Credential Letter to the Bishop of Wirtzburg, & another to the Ambassadors of the Assembly; which, he hopes, will fully introduce him to hold up our Interest in the publicque. Sir Thomas also directeth him, First that what treatye soever shall be settled, whether for the peace of Germany, betweene the Em-pyre, France, Suede, & Spayne; or particuler, by the Princes, or some of those; to pres-in the interest of the Palatin-Cause, as an ingredient necessary & essentiall to the Peace: without which (however fabulous rumor may decrye us) there never can, nor shall be any peace or agreement, which may not be reviewed. We being as like to disburthen our selves vpon the Enemyes of a just peace, as before we had this vnhappy distraction that hath armed vs. Secondly, that we lose not the ground we haue gotten on the Emperor; who hath declared for himselfe, whensoever it may be agreed by the others Interessed, principally, with the Duke of Bavare. Nor, that it was conceived generally at the last Treaty, that the imperfection of the reconciliation did not depend vpon the meritss of the Cause, but vpon a Summe of mony, & particuler satisfactions: which are great advantages, and in effect confessed by the Duke of Bavares remonstrance. Now, for those satisfactions; if the Duke of Bavare will descend to possibilytes, the conclusion will be easye, & His Majestye will doe his part. But if he will not abate to what may be possible, the Princes must conclude it is still He that will not haue peace. Yet this must be so dexterously insinuated, that we doe not make him more

Enemye

Num. 1901.

Enemye then he is. As for Mentz & Darmstat ; the generall resolution will over-bear them. As to the Bavarian printed Apologie, the general scope is, only to disburthen the envye vpon the house of Austria ; &, by insisting vpon a spetious pretence of a just debt, impossible for them to pay, to keepe what he possesseth by Armes, at the Cost of the whole Empyre. Which if the Emperor & all the States of Germany will not see, or not resent ; their case is as desperate as the Palatins : all must Suffer & perish, to sett vp a new Imperiall Famelye in Bavare ; which doubtless is, next his owne, the French designe.

84. Sir Thomas Roes Instructions to Mr. Curtius. 8 February 1642-3. fol. 53.

Directing him how to introduce the Business into the Assembly, & how to carry it on : as also how to answer to the main matters contained in the Bavarian Apologie ; & to make a proper advantage from the falsity of some of them, & the perverseness of others. That he must keepe a watchfull Eye vpon the progress of the generall Treatyes so far advanced at Munster and Osnabrug. For, if this Assembly should be transferred thither, His Majesty will remove His & the Electors claymes thither also, as essentiall to the Peace of Germany. For, if any thing be any where concluded, with omission or exclusion of that Cause, there will be no way left but Armes. That he should keepe good correspondence with the Ministers of the Dukes of Brunswick and Lunenburg ; & the Landgravine of Hessen ; & all the Protestant States : assuring them, that His Majesty will never desert his Nephewes, nor his Allyes, nor the common Liberty & Protestant Religion.

85. To Count Lesley. 9 February, 1642-3. fol. 54. b.

That he hath now begun the Correspondence with Count Trautmansdorff, which may grow to the renewing of the Treatyes, if the Duke of Bavare doe not hope that all Germany will be content with his Printed Apologies, which doe cast back vpon the Emperor the whole burthen of not accommodating the Cause Palatin by his pretence of debt ; and that for his private lucre of mony, that the whole Empyre will patiently endure the continuance of a consuming war. That there being now an appearance of Peace in England, His Majesty & the Kingdome being fully armed, will be in a condition both to ayde his friends, and to oppose the obstinacy of the Enemyes of a just peace in Germany.

86. To Count Trautmansdorffe, 10 February, 1642-3. fol. 55. (in Italian)

Reassuming the intermitted Correspondence ; with divers particulars relating to this Cause, which being taken notice of before, I here omitt.

Pushing him forward to exert himself in the Assembly at Francfort, in order to the so much desired restitution of the Palatin-Family, and the tranquillity of Germany. Of which, if there may appear any good prospect ; his Majestie will shew his good Intentions to the whole World by his Royal Contribution.

VOL. II.

Num. 1901.

That in no Case any Treaty is to be admitted, or hearkened vnto from the Elector of Mentz, to repay or redeeme his pretensions upon the Bergstraet : but that he must stand vpon this poynt, That it was vsurp'd by force, & rendred to him by an enemye ; That justice doth require, vt ante omnia spoliatus restitatur ; and then let them pursue their title at Spires. That he must endeavour, not to let loose the busines to any particuler treatye, at Prague, or elsewhere : but to weave it into the generall consultations and interests of the Empyre ; engaging the Ministers of the Princes & States Protestant, & of the Cittyes, who desyre the peace, to hold it fast as essentiall to the publicque tranquillity & interest of Germany. That it would much perplex the Duke of Bavare, if the Princes should be brought to aske a reason of his high demands, & call him to account : yet this must be so tenderly handled, as not to cast him into despayre. That the Emperor doth not much relish that this cause should be handled by the Assembly at Frankfort, nor embraced as a publicque interest ; but rather to be transacted alone with Him, or concluded in a privat treatye. That the King of Denmark being the great Mediator, would haue the honour of the reconciliation, as his worke, & not let goe his owne interest in any treatye. That the best expedient would be, for the Prince Elector to procure the King of Denmarke to send his Ambassadors to Francfort, there to joyne with all the Assembly, and to reassume the treatye ; and to that end to get a Safe-Conduct for the personal presence of the Elector, which would be of high advantage to his Cause.

89. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 16 February, 1642-3. fol. 57.

That the occasion of the Emperor's Agents coming to Oxford, is to press His Majesty, to declare what & how much he will contribute toward the satisfaction of the Duke of Bavare, in case of a full restitution of all the Palatin lands by him possessed ; that the Emperor, as Mediator, may know how to driue the bargaine : which being expressed, the Agent hath order to declare somewhat concerning the Dignity Electorall. That these Propositions although very specious, may yet be made at this tyme for discoverye, and to draw the busines eyther to a particuler treaty, & sole dependance vpon the Emperor, and so to sever the Cause from the engagement of the Princes now Assembled ; which will be dangerous : or in case of a cold Answer, to dispayre the said Princes, & induce them to be less hearty in embracing this Cause, to which, the Elector is not able, nor his friends willing to contribute much. He adviseth therefore, would kindly embrace the proposition ; because the Emperor is the right port, & safe way for the Prince Elector to re-enter : but not to declare any summe, till it be declared what will content Bavare. For the best way will be to keep to generall tearmes ; as that His Majesty will contribute in such a proportion, as both the Emperor & all Germany shall confesse both His Zeale & Bounty to promote the peace of the Empyre. But if he shall yet be pressed to name a Summe, to mention 800,000 Dollars : for Bavare will never take less, then more then thrice that mony, which must be raised jointly, by the Emperor, the Emperyre, & by the Palatin allyes.

90. To the Prince Elector. 17 February, 1642-3. fol. 57. b.

That His Majesty is well satisfied with the state wherein the Palatin-busines was left, and the Treaty also; and had commanded him to continue & keepe it alieue, by correspondence, at his owne discretion. Sir Thomas adviseth His Highness to procure the King of Denmark to send to Frankfort; and that both the Mediators & the rest of the Deputyes might vnitely undertake the composition; as the right course, both to remove the obstacles, and to strengthen, and to settle the treaty to a happy issue. That vpon the returne of the Emperors Agent from Oxford, he shall be better able to make some judgment, and to worke according to occasion. For, in the condition wherein both his Majesties & his Highnesses affairs are, all that can be done, is dexterously to governe the present, and to gett tyme, and to keepe the treatyes alieue, without despayring any side. To this end, Sir Thomas will omitt no paynes, though this burthen be both too heavye & vnpleasant, to be vsed only as another Clarke. For he expecteth nothing but the inward reward; to employ himselfe for loue to the cause; and, if possible, to doe good for goodnes sake. This is his portion; and he is contented to dye in it.

91. To the Princess Elizabeth. 17 February, 1642-3. fol. 58. b.

Upon our domestic affairs: with this Observation, touching the practicableness of a Peace between the King and the Parliament, — Not that I foresee not great rocks & difficultyes; but if our other Star would be pleased to afford & contribute the influence of her gracious beames for peace, and were now here: I should be confident. Now is the crysis, the true season. If the Queene would vse some meanes, send some Angell or Doue before Her, to assure the whole Kingdome, that She would come, Crowned and Crowning, with the Oliue-branch: I know, She would not only be received with publicque joy, but a more Royall fleete sent to conduct her, than that of her happy marriage. She may now take the honour to Her Selfe, secure the Kingdomes, and Her Princely children, and oblige the whole State to acknowledge her the Mother, as well of their felicity, as of their Kings. This is the opinion of many of Her most devoted Servants: particularly of some great Lords; one now present, the Earl of Pembroke; who doth now contribute all his power to peace.

92. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 8 March, 1642-3. fol. 59.

That Monfr. Lysola the Emperors Resident hath bene very pressive for some Declaration; whom he would not dispayre, because he hath many reasons to believe that these motions are sincere: yet he conceiveth that the Emperor eyther desyres to loosen the Prince Electors Cause from the judgment of the Princes now assembled, and the publicque interest: or, that He may have discovered the ouvertures of the Duke of Bavare, made by a Minister of the Bishop of Wirtzburg, who pretends to offer a private accommodation of the Cause, if He may haue assistance from his Majesty to revenge himselfe, and to recover his first pawne from the house of Austria. Sr. Thomas sends the answers he gave to Lysola, the drift of which were only to gain time; and desires Orders, if he be further pressed, to declare, that His Majesty will contribute, in convenient tyme a Million of Rix Dollars; which amount not to 250,000 l. Sterling. Which, if it should be accepted, would be a very good bargayne, in respect of his Majesties continuall increasing pensions: and the noyse of such a Summe would stop all mouths, and have a mighty operation vpon the assembly of Princes; and, perhaps, discover the secret intentions both of the Emperor & Duke of Bavare, and shew vs which way to choose, in this variety.

93. To Mr. Curtius. 10 March, 1642-3. fol. 60.

That his Majesty having wholly referred Monfr. Lysola the Emperors Agent to confer with him; he like a young negotiant, hath pressed that a precise & cleare declaration be made vnto him, in confidence, what Summe His Majesty will contribute toward the Satisfaction of the Duke of Bavare: without any intimation of a certeine abatement of the great demand; and what temperament His Majesty would accept for the Electoral Dignity. Two high poynts to be squeezed out at once; and vpon which, so many Ambassadors & Negotiations haue Shipwrackt. Notwithstanding which, he hath given such answers, as may giue full satisfaction to those who proceede with Sincerity towards His Majesty. As to the ouvertures of the Duke of Bavare, made by the Deputy of Wirtzburg; he gives his opinion, and thinketh it a matter of high consequence, and to be carefully penetrated into. Moreover, he adviseth him to adhere as close as he can to the Assembly of Princes; and to impress into them their common interest: which, if they will heartily embrace, His Majesty will contribute both his Authority & Meanes to cooperate with them by the satisfaction of Bavare; or in such other wayes, as may by their joynt advise, procure & settle the so much desired peace of the Emperyre. Sir Thomas concludeth thus, that he hath well observed the preface to the Bavarian Declaration; & is tempted to make some short reply. He desireth that it be intimated to the Bavarian Deputyes, that such aspersions cast vpon those who really haue endeavoured peace, & an equall satisfaction to their Prince, are not the right wayes to procure any confidence of their sincerity, or desyre of peace. For, as there is neyther truth nor civility in their Prologue: so, if he shall be forced to discover their proceedings, he will make it appeare to the world, that the whole hath bene a Farse on their part, to abuse those who are too easily abused.

95. To Sir William Boswell. 17 March, 1642-3. ibid.

Giving reasons for his opinion, why the Cause Palatin should be brought before the Assembly at Frankfort; which was designed to debate the meanes of a general peace. In which, if it had bene wholly left out, as vnconcerning or vnnecessary to it, such a silence would haue bene enterpreted to the extreme prejudice thereof. That his purpose was; First, not to neglect the Princes, nor to seeme to separate the Cause from the publicque interest; but rather to draw a declaration from them, that this reconciliation was necessary therevnto. Secondly, to induce them as Mediators, for a temper with the Duke of Bavare; vpon which only, it was possible to renew the treaty. And lastly, by this occasion, to moue them to contribute some proportion of his Satisfaction. But never to make them Judges to giue any Sentence or Decision in the Cause. Nor could it be any trayne layd by others: for both the Emperor & Bavare haue vsed all arts there to silence it; and the desigine proceeded from himselfe, not from the Princes. This appeared so cleare, that the Ministers of Bavare doe threaten to dissolve that Assembly (though it treat of peace) if it meddle with the busines: which will clearly worke one of his ends, by throwing the whole impediment upon Bavare. That Mentz, Collen & Saxe are interestted against us: Collen for his brother of Bavare; Mentz for the Bergstraet; Saxe for his sonne in law Darmstat, & his treaty of Prague; and now to be expected more partiall for the Emperor then ever, for his succour of Friberg: but many of the Papist Princes haue no other interest, but the generall peace. His judgement then is, that we shall never come to a happy issue, but by the generall treatye of the peace of the Emperyre; if by all arts we shall be able to make our Cause appeare of absolute necessity thereunto.

96. To the Prince Elector. 17 March, 1642-3. fol. 62.

Together with enclosed papers, whereby his Highnes might see how far he had proceeded; and that he had no purpose to forsake the treaty of Mediation; or to engage the Cause to be decided; but only to be deliberated by the Assembly, concerning the Moderation, & Meanes. Being still of opinion, that if the King of Denmarke & the other Mediators would haue sent their Ambassadors thither, both the place & the conjuncture would haue bene proper & propitious. For if they shall debate upon the Meanes of a Generall peace within the Emperyre, how can this busines be left out? Sir Thomas will not presume to make any judgment how his Highness standeth in the Kings opinion; in whom, nevertheless, he found no declination, if his condition were any way correspondent to his wisdom or affection.

97. To the Lord of Falckland, Secretary of State. 19 March, 1642-3. fol. 62. b.

tution; both offering vpon conditions of mony, and engaging Him on their partye. For the jealousyes or hatred betweene them, are ready to breake out; et hinc sperare possumus. 98. To Mr. Curtius. 24 March, 1642-3. fol. 63.

Shewing his gladness to finde that in many of the deputies there is an opinion, that the Palatin Cause ought to be embraced by the States of the Emperyre; and that some of them think fitt to contribute toward the Satisfaction of the Emperor, or Bavare. And advising him to procure such a declaration of their judgment, that the Cause concerns the publicque peace, and ought to be embraced therein; and that the impediment doth rest vpon mony, and the private avarice of one man. In which, if they will vndertake to mediate, that the treaty may be reassumed with any probability; His Majesty will, by a Royall Contribution, give them an Example for their owne good. For it would be of great consequence in the future to the meritts of the Cause, to haue obtained the judgment & declaration of such an Assembly, the subject of whose meeting was the true meanes of a generall peace. Sir Thomas agrees that the House Palatin must be restored eyther by agreement with the Emperor, or Bauare; though it may resolve into a generall Treaty. Which way of these to choose, is the knot. He belieues, by the Emperor is both the righter way & the easier; and therefore to be first pursued. For certainly, he hath less Interest in the Restitution than Bauare; who must surrender both a principality & a beloved dignity. And, perhaps, it may be the interest of the Emperor, rather to wish Bauare lessened, then the Palatins extinguished. For, if ever the House of Austria receive an affront in Germany, they haue cause to feare it only from that lyne. This, he wisheth, may be inculcated, as deep as may be to the Imperials; and a necessity of balancing the Electorall Colledge to the Protestant Princes. But seeing all wayes must be tryed; Sir Thomas desireth him to penetrate: what the Bavarian will expect from His Majesty & the House Palatin, in case they shall treat with & adhere to him; that thereby, we may conjecture which will be the cheaper bargayne. For, if the demands of Bauare may be more moderate then those expected from the Emperor; they may be embraced, in respect of France, & Suede, & other allies, with less opposition, then by any conjunction with the house of Austria.

99. To the Lord of Falckland. 6 April, 1643. fol. 64.

Observing, that the rest of the world, who may be our enemyes, hasten to a Peace among themselues; and those who should be our friends, make a silent war upon the advantage of our troubles; as may be found by the resolutions of the Austrians, French, & Hollanders, to settle their generall Treatyes: and by the Edicts of the States, to prohibit our Commerce, contrary to the treatyes, & the long possession & practise of our Merchant-Adventurers in Holland.

100. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 6 April, 1643. fol. 64. b.

That his own Declaration, and the Prince-Elector's Cause haue bene eagerly embraced by the Assembly at Francfort. Nevertheless, he is afraide it will fall, without some support. He shall keepe as much Life in it as words & intimations will mainteine; if possible, to carry it along, among the necessities of the German peace, to the Generall Treatyes, which are now almost Setled: but there, if there be no Procurator, no Advocate; it will not be much considered. That the Emperors Agent presseth him to answere, Whether, & What His Majesty will contribute? That we now should win tyme, and not dispayre the Emperor. Therefore, if His Majesty will consent that he may name the summe formerly mentioned, as it will not be obligatory, so it will not be accepted so hastily, but that many other difficultyes will giue tyme enough to ratifye it. Yet it will both stop those mouthes who desyre to crye out, that His Majesty will doe nothing; and make a great impressi- on in those, who will thinke, that in such an offer, His Majesty hath done more then could be expected from Him.

101. To Mr. Curtius. 7 Aprill, 1643. fol. 65.

Testifying his Joy for the Suffrages of the Assembly at Frankfort, gathered out of the Protocol, being more than he expected from many of them. But especially, that the Directorium hath apprehended & confessed, that the affayre Palatin is judged, by plurality of voyces, to be one of the impediments of Peace, and that they would deliberate further vpon it. That therefore, he should pursue the poynt, encourage them to constancy, and to follow the Vote of Wurtzburgh, to Write to all, both Mediators & Interessed, to reassume the Treaty in this propitious disposition and conjuncture. For, notwithstanding the Prince Elector's different Opinion, the way to bring this great affair to a good conclusion, is not by a private treaty with Bavaria, or the Emperor & him at Vienna where the Counsellors of the Emperor will be at ease; and may weary those that are far from home; and may spin out the busines with fayre hopes, vntill the Generall Treatyes settle with an exclusion of that Cause, as left to a private treaty, where in conclusion it may be desperate. That, in view of the Generall Treaty, the Protestation of the Duke of Bavare against the deliberation of the meanes of Reconciliation before the Assembly at Frankfort doth not affright him. For, in such case, it will appeare publique to the world, that he declineth the judgment of the Princes, feares the justice of his Cause, and cannot endure the motions of Peace, which He only opposeth. But the truth is, he is Armed & Monyed, et nec Superos, nec Inferos timet.

102. To the Queene of Bohemia. 7 April, 1643. fol. 66.

That he had made vse of Her Letter, to the Lords of Holland & Pembroke (who are very well enclined to serue Her) that Her business might haue moved from the Vpper House; and had consulted with Sir Henry Vane and diuers others of the House of Commons, to haue prepared the way for a fayre acceptance. But that they haue resolved, that it must moue immediatly from Her Selfe, by Letters to the Speakers of both Houses, or by some immediate Message; otherwise, they are of opinion it will be foyled. That he knows Her Majesties wisdom to be such, that if She shall write, She will so endeavour to giue the Parliament Satisfaction, as not to offend the King. That there had been an Order to send back her Letter to the Commons, with the Sense of the House vpon it; principally, because of some wish in it, that the Prince Elector had bene as well counselled as Prince Rupert. Sir Thomas, having in former Letters, complained of the exorbitantly-cruell Taxes levied of him by the Parliamentary Faction, now writes that he is utterly vndone; having neyther Rent, nor Meanes to Liue.

103. To the Prince Elector. 7 April, 1643. fol. 66. b.

That His Cause hath gayned much advantage; the Votes of the Assembly hauing concurred with his Scope & Sense, which had these ends. First, to enterteyne tyme; else the business had layne dead asleepe: and the feare that it might be embraced by the Princes in a publique Assembly, hath begott the warmth & motions made by the Emperors Agent here, & will discouer the Duke of Bavare & nourish a jealousy betweene the Emperor & him. Secondly, to gain the generall declaration & judgement from such an assembly, that the Exclusion of the Palatin Family was one of the principal impediments of the interne peace: which is somewhat, though it should proue but an induction to leade it on to the general Treaty. Lastly, that the Treaty of Mediation should be reassumed; not at Vienna, but in the Assembly; who were likely to be better Moderators, then the Interessed. Therefore he wished that the King of Denmarke would haue sent thither, where already the Ambassadors of all the Mediators are present. And that His Highnes should speedily apply all his endeavours to bring his business againe into agitation; and, at the worst, it would be an easy remoue, both of the Persons & Cause, to the generall Treatyes in Westphalia.

104. To Sir William Boswell. 7 Aprill, 1643. fol. 67. b.

He is sorry the States should be no wiser then to shew vs how they would vse us, if we were in their power. Which hath gotten him a Stomack, as a private man, to write to Monsieur de Meuse, and to debate with him their proceedings; for which he hath leaue of His Majesty.

105. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 10 Aprill, 1643. fol. 67. b.

That his endeavours haue rayfed a great noyse, and putt new life to the Cause of the Prince Palatin: which, by vote, is embraced at the assembly of Princes, notwithstanding the open opposition of Bauare, and the vnderhand declination of the Imperiall Ministers. That in this Negotiation hitherto, he hath obtained all his designs; and knoweth not what further to doe, but to leaue it to tyme, and the deliberation of those, who now acknowledge themselves concerned in it. And to that end, to pursue the poynt, he hath further instructed Mr. Curtius in every particular. Whether they will undertake to Mediate an abatement of the 13 Millions demanded by the Duke of Bavare, he doubted: because that Prince is almost omnipotent, and few dare offend him. But he conceiveth, that the Emperor will endeavour somewhat in it, as being wholly desirous to end the Cause by a Treaty with himselfe, rather then by a judgment of the Emperre. So that it must worke in both Spheres, that we may take our choice when we shall see what effects their severall Ends shall produce. Though his Judgment is, that both the Treaty by the Mediators, and the Co-operation of the Princes, as Moderators, may be joyned at Francfort, as most convenient for all parties. For so, if that Assembly and all the matters handled therein, shall be removed to the generall Treatyes, which the Emperor endeavours, as being loth to be curbed by the authority of this Assembly: yet in that case, at the worst, the Prince Electors Cause will be carryed along, as a principall subject of the Treaty, & Interest of the Emperre. Being so commanded by his Majestie, Sir Thomas delivereth his opinion concerning the Generall Treatyes; and of the consequences & relations, that an agreement betweene the House of Austria & France, and their mutuall Allies, may worke vpon His Majesties Interests, at home & abroad. Concluding, that the settlement of his Majesties peace & authority at home, is only able to giue life & countenance to his Negotiations abroad. Next to that, the well-managing of the States of Holland, by reducing them to vnderstand the ground of their owne safety, by a strict vnion with the Crowne of England; from which, they seeme most vngratefully & ruynously to swerue: is the surest & most probable way to ballance the Events of any other Treatyes, or Combinations.

106. To the Prince Elector. 14 April, 1643. fol. 71.

Herein, is little fresh matter. Only, therewith, Sir Thomas sent a Coppy of His Majesties last Letter to him; whereby, his Highness might see His care, & constant affection to His cause.

107. To Sir William Boswell. 14 April, 1643. ibid.

Upon the Calamities impending on the Nation, for want of agreement.

108. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 22 April, 1643. fol. 69. b.

That all industry is used by the Imperials, & Bavare, to dissolue the Assembly at Frankfort; under pretence of remitting all business to the generall treatyes: not without some oblique respect, that the Palatin Cause may receive no countenance from the judgment or mediation of the Princes. And probably, that they intend to exclude the Cause from the publique in the Treaty, as they did from the debate of the Dyet, & Amnestye at Ratissbon. For to keep it confined to a private mediation will be dangerous. Sir Thomas hath therefore advised Mr. Curtius to procure an Act of Declaration in that Assembly, conformable to their Voyces, that the Restitution of the Palatin familye to their Rights is essentiall to the publique peace: there being little hope that Bavare will hearken to any mitigation of his Demands. That Bavare hath reconciled himself with the Emperor; and they haue joyned their Interests, to his advantage. For it is conceived, that he shall obtaine in full satisfaction of all his pretences, the land first pawned to him vpon the Ens; and that the possession of the Palatinats shall be returned to the Emperors disposing. This will much better the Condition of a Treaty, and facilitate the Restitution; because He cannot so safely keepe them as to be an apparant hinderance to the peace. That Count Lesley writes, that the Inclination in the Emperor to giue his Majesty satisfaction, was never so great as at this present; but the point of the Electorat will be the difficulty. Sir Thomas will therefore keepe vp the business in a generall way, as the publique interest; and if possible, to carry it along, to the Treatyes of Munster & Osnabrug, where only the Cause can be well Setled, & where His Majesty shall haue the best bargayne. For the major part of the Princes & States do insist & resolute, to separate in that Treaty the Interests of the Strangers; and to establish the internall peace of the Empire, which includes the Cause Palatin. Therefor it will be necessary that His Majesty & the Prince Elector doe send to that Meeting. That upon the decease of Cardinal Richelieu, & the likelihood of the French Kings death, the face of affairs in that Kingdom is much changed. He belieueth that the French Regency will hasten the peace with the house of Austria; and will find friends to do their business with advantage. He wisbeth that such an agreement may be stopped, vntill our kingdom may be in a better condition; and that we would strengthen our selues by making stricter Leagues with our Freinds the Northerne Crownes, & helping to recover the witts of the Hollanders.

Upon the then present Troubles.

110. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 4 May, 1643. fol. 72.

That having fallen into the jealousie of the House of Commons, he hath been advised to retyre. That the Emperor & Bavare haue accorded; and, though at the Assembly at Frankfort, the Princes do continue their desyre to accommodate the Cause Palatin; yet so superior is the power of the other two, that the best that can be expected, will be, that the particuler treaty be either reassumed there, if that meeting shall so long continew; or that it shall be carryed over amongst the necessary ingredients of Peace, to the Generall Treatyes of Munster & Osnabrug; where, he belieueth, the accommodation must be made by agreement with the Emperor & Bavare. That it is requisite for his Majesty to take to his Consideration, whether He will send & interest himself in the approaching Treaty, or not; without which, Sir Thomas conceiveth both los of reputation, & extreame danger to the Cause of the Prince Elector. That nothing is more wished in the Empyre, than the death of the Duke of Bavare; he having both overwayed the Princes by his Armes, & overwitted them in the last Conventions; where he promised to protect the publicque Liberty. In which he had no other desigine, but to shew to the House of Austria, how necessary he was vnto them; and thereby to joyne their powers in prejudice of the Princes & States of the Empyre. That if the Duke of Bavaria be dead, according to a late rumor, it will be in the Emperors power to make a better bargain for himself.

111. To Mr. Curtius. 4 May, 1643. fol. 73.

Declaring his Opinion, that if Bavare hath obteyned his Ends, & gotten the consent of the Emperor to haue the lands vpon the Ens in satisfaction of all his pretences; the Emperor may be perswaded to accept of such a Summe as can possibly be had, rather then by re- teyning the lands remitted by Bavare in his hands, to hinder the generall peace, & take vpon him the Envy which Bavare hath so wisely cast off. Instructing him therefore, to assure the Imperiall Ministers, that if they will reassume the Treaty, in an equall & convenient place, his Majesty will largely contribute toward the Emperors Satisfaction. Provided, we may haue nothing to doe with Bavare, nor Spayne; and that the Composition for the Electorall Dignity may be such, as may content the Palatin Famelye; & the Protestants of the Empyre. But if the Duke of Bavare be dead, he must press the Princes to enterpose, before any thing be settled by investiture, or admittance of an administrator (for the Minor) in the Electorall Dignity, that nothing be done in prejudice of the particuler, or generall Treatyes. Then it will be in the Emperors power to make a better conclusion, either with the Administrator, or Minor; both for himselfe, vs, and the generall Peace.

112. To the Lord of Falkland. 5 May, 1643. fol. 74.

Upon our intestine diuisions; and giving his judgement as to the method to be used, in order to the composing the same.

113. To Mr. Browne. 9 May, 1643.

About the Meeting intended to be held at Munster & Osnabrug, and the Duke of Bavarias endeavors to exclude the Palatin Cause from being debated therein. He giveth the present State of that business, for the advancement of which, he instructeth Mr. Browne to negotiate in his Majesties Name, with the Ministers of State in his Residence; that they give expresse Order to protect this Cause in the generall Treatyes, as one of the principall impediments of the Peace, and not suffer it to be excluded for the advantage of the Duke of Bavare, who hath now joyned his interests closely with the House of Austria, and used France only as a stalking horse to his privat designes. This in honour, France cannot suffer: nor abandon a Cause, & the protection of a Prince & antient Ally, nor violate the professions made particularly to His Majesty, & publicly to the world, that She took vp Armes for resetting the Liberty of the Empyre vpon the antient foundations.

Num. 1901.

114. To Mr. Aveye. 9 May, 1643. fol. 76.

Opening unto him the State of the Palatin Affair, now, upon the approaching Treaty. That he hath discovered how the Dutch, for the sake of Lucre, abused the Danes with false suggestions, which begat a Coldness between our King & the King of Denmark his Unkle, a vast misfortune to the Eastland Company, and to himself the K. of Denmark's displeasure; to whom he had transmitted an Apology for his Conduet. He desires to know how it was accepted by that Prince; in whom if any inclination may be found to settle this business right, our King will giue his Unkle such content, as may confirme the mutuall Loue & Confidence necessary to them both, & to their Kingdomes.

115. To Mr. Curtius. 10 May, 1643. fol. 77.

That he is not concerned because of the Duke of Bavares being moved at his late Declaration. He hath as much cause, and all the Ministers also, to resent His Manifest & the added Preface. He cannot hope, in respect of the opposition of Bauare, and of the Short life of the Francfort Assembly, that the Treaty of Mediation can be brought thither. That if he (Mr. Curtius) can procure by the Interposition of the Princes, that the Treaty may be transacted at the generall Meeting, he shall haue very great hope of a good end; if we breake not concerning the Electorat, which, he fears, will proue the insuperable rock. Sir Thomas also directeth Mr. Curtius, speedily to informe Mr. Browne at Paris, and Mr. Avery at Hamburg, what he findeth will be done or resolved by the Assembly in the Palatin Cause, that they may timely negotiate fitt Instructions, concurrent to our Ends, for the Ambassadors which shall be sent to Munster and Osnabrug; from the Crownes of France, Denmarke, and Suede.

116. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 10 May, 1643. fol. 77. b.

Acquainting him with his latest proceedings about the Palatin Cause; which, although it was all he is able to doe: is not all that is necessary, both for His Majesties Honour, & Interest, & Reason of State. For howsoever His Majesty is streightned at home; it should not be professed abroad, by omitting to send to Munster, vpon such an occasion; where, the whole Estate & Affayres of Europe will be brought vpon the Stage, and the severall designes of all Princes discovered. Neyther was there any Prince brought so lowe, but he could send an Ambassage. For it is not the Cause Palatin alone, (which is, in comparison, a private business) but the reputation of the Protestant partye, in their relation to vs, and the honour of His Majesty & the Kingdome, that will suffer, if we seeme to abandon both our selues & those allies, which will be as necessary to our safety, as their owne. That the Earl of Arundell is already abroad, and spends as much in the Course he is in, as he would by removing to Munster, or Osnabrug. That others may be found in England, glad of that protection from ruine at home; and that the Parliament cannot oppose it. That Sir William Boswell were very fitt, if his Health would permitt. That a less quality than an Ambassador will haue no lustre nor authority: for which reason he cannot approve of Curtius, although well versed in public affairs. But if this cannot be done; his opinion is, that His Majesty must suddenly send his Letters to the French, Danes, & Suedish Crownes, to recommend the Cause wholly to them, to be negotiated & protected by their Ambassadors; and so wholly to depend vpon them.

Num. 1901.

117. To Sir Dudley Carleton. 11 May, 1643. fol. 78. b.

Wishing that the Prince Elector may not be deceived, in the settling of his Pension vpon a ground that cannot hold; was once held a grievance; and to which, some of his good friends haue a title. He would be glad the States would doe any thing that might make vs thinke they desyre our peace; and that the common error did not blind them. That they ought to consider, that a change in France, may change the Counsell & Government there: and if England be reduced to that condition that it be not able to assist them; or by their demerit, unwilling to doe it: the French will scrue them to what tearmes they please. Therefore, now is the tyme, that they may shew wisdom, loue, & gratitude: and if they haue none of these qualēties, they must expect retribution of the same measure.

118. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 11 May, 1643. ibid.

That the Emperor will make no peace with France, but comprising and composing the controversyes with Spayne. For he hath assured the Duke of Bavare to him; who, like a ratt, hath quitted the house, he foresaw would fall, when Richelieu the great Pillar was removed. So that the difficultyes in the generall treaty may be encreased, by the heightning of the Spirits & Demands of the Austrians, unless the French will yeild vp more than will sort with their honour, & late flood of prosperity. That we ought not to neglect the French, if they may be induced to embrace the Palatin affayres in their treaty, which may be, to them, an advantage of honour. For, peace will not be made, vnless France make large surrenders: and they haue bene so successfull, that they haue nothing to remand, except Nauare, & the restitution of their allyes; thereby to mainteyne their reputation, that they giue not all for nothing. That Mr. Curtius hath written, that the Assembly will adhere to their votes. But it is discovered, that the Emperor & Bavare would exclude the Palatin Cause, as well from the Generall Treatyes, as they haue endeavoured to silence it at Francfort. Therefore, we must plye & press the three Crownes of France, Denmarke, & Suede, that they will insist vpon it, that the busines doth concerne the General peace, at least the interne tranquillity of the Empire.

119. To the Prince Elector. 12 May, 1643. fol. 79. b.

Besides what hath been before rehearsed, that he can foresee no good success if his Highness be left alone, to the mercy of the interested, in a particuler & private treaty. Which makes him wonder at the opinion of those of his Highnesses Counsell, that the Mediation should be reassumed in the presence of the Assembly at Francfort. And is therefore very sorry that HE had so much enclined to them, as coldly to accept what was endeavoured; which had kept the Cause alieue, and made it publicque; and which, without that communication, had never bene accepted in the general treaty; but vnderstood, as the Imperialls & Bauarians stile it, a private affayre betweene the Emperor & His Highness, no way concerning the Empyre nor publicque peace: That His Majesties offer would have been refused at Vienna, and so stated; whereas at the generall Treaty, it will make a great noyse, and the oportunity will be fayre, if the death of the French King rayse not the Austrians too high; or that the Counsell in France warpe not toward the Spaniard.

Num. 1901.

120. To the Princesse Elizabeth. 12 May, 1643. fol. 80.

Upon our own Confusions; the folly or madness of the Dutch, who interpose not themselves in order to procure a peace between our King & His People; wherein themselves are so much concerned, especially now upon the Death of the French King, which may be attended by alterations much to their prejudice. That the Palatin Cause is now in the Crysis; and, if the decision be not more publicque, then some doe counsell, it is desperate. Sir Thomas wisheth therefore, that her Brother the Prince-Elector be not deceived in the wayes wherein he now seemeth to trust, both here & abroad.

121. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 19 May, 1643. ibid.

Concerning the state of the Palatin cause; about which, here is little fresh matter. That he suspecteth the K. of Denmark may have made some private Treaty with Bavare, which may bring some prejudice to this Cause; and that this Duke, being not heartily affected to the Emperor, may encline more to the French Side. That the French Parliament hath enlarged the Queens Authority as Regent, and settled their National Affairs, especially the power of the Princes & Great Officers, in a state of Peace & Tranquillity. Moreover, Sir Thomas heareth from thence, that the Queene Regent & the whole Counsell do resent the pressures of our Parliament against his Majestie as an effect of the mistaken doctrine of the reformed religion; which is like to make that partie suffer in France, at least to be kept very low, for feare of the Example. And, that they encline very, zealously to assist & protect the declining Royaltie: and to that end, they purpose speedily to send hither, to expostulate with the Parliament concerning the Cappuchins; and vpon that occasion to make some other ouvertures.

122. To Mr. Burlemachy. 23 May, 1643. fol. 81.

In answer to a letter, wherein Sir Thomas was asked, whether a mediation from the States Generall were seasonable, & likely to take any good effect for our peace? He giveth his opinion, at large, in the affirmative, & that it would be both honourable & advantagious to that State to offer such a Mediation, & would shew their wisdom & gratitude by prosecuting the same. And though it might seeme very late, yet it might still be seasonable, if they should dexterously manage the occasion of the first

123. To Mr. Curtius. 25 May, 1643. fol. 81. b.
Concerning the Palatin-cause, which must, by all meanes, be brought into the public Treatie, & not be left to private Charetye. Advising what he should intimate to the Princes, concerning the Electoral Dignity; and giving his opinion touching the restitution of the lands taken from the Duke of Bavaria's Ancestor, by the Emperor Maximilian the first.

124. To Mr. Curtius. 26 May, 1643. fol. 82. b.

That our opposites intend a Labërinth, out of which we shall neuer gett, but at their pleasure. That the Imperialls & Bauarians haue craftely obteyned their ends. Therefore he must, if it be not too late, awaken the Princes from the slumber into which the charmes of Bauare hath cast them. That they have forsaken their honour, their interest, & their votes. Yet, if they will add a judgement or Declaration, that the Cause doth concerne the publicque so much, that it is necessarye to be decided among the impediments of the interne peace; it will be some amends. If they dare not do it, there is no more trust, no courage in them: but we must fly to the Strangers the Three Crownes; to force them to see their owne fayntness & impotencye.

125. To the Prince Elector. 26 May, 1643. fol. 83.

That the Emperor & Duke of Bavare haue endeavoured nothing more sedulously, then to separate his highnes cause from the publicque: which, if they can doe (and they have done much more than was expected) they will have the game sure in their owne hands. For that reason, he desired to weave it into the publicque consultations of the meanes of peace; not in hope to see at Francfort a finall decision, but to putt life in the busines, which otherwise had layne silenced in expectation of reassumption of a private treatye; vpon which, the Emperor would neuer haue called, if he had not beene awakened by that alarme. That the offers he hath made to Isola, are only to keepe the Emperor in a good disposition, & continue the Treatye in the way resolved at Vienna: least, if we should say nothing, it might be objected that wee had broken it, or discontinued it on our part. That he hath received somewhat from Count Trautmanndorffe, Which, he thinks, doth say, that this busines is now wholly in his masters power; and that he will speedily putt an end vnto it, either before or at the generall Treatyes, from this Expression, sperandum illud die ac tempore ipso ad suam maturitatem breui peruerturum. That therefore His Highnes must endeavour, by all his friends, to bring his cause to the publicque treaties, and to strengthen it there by the Three Crownes; and vse all the power he hath in England to procure His Majestie to send his Ambassador to assist. Else the world will judge that we haue deserted our Selves & our Allyes; and the Ministers will be cold enough, should none be present to watch ouer them, and hold them fast to their professions.

Num. 1901.

126. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 30 May, 1643. fol. 83. b.

Shewing by many forcible reasons, how necessary it was, that his Majesty should send an Ambassador to the approaching Treaties: which yet, if his Necessities would in no case permit, the expectance thereof ought, nevertheless, to be kept up; and Negotiations ought to be had with the Three Crowns of France, Denmark, & Sueden, that the business might be brought to good Effect by their Authority. That Monsr. Isola the Emperors Resident here, in his propositions given to His Majestie at Oxford, in February last, hath gone far beyond his Instructions & Commission; and is like to be disavowed. For the Duke of Bavare hath gotten a Coppie of them, and written a sharp Letter to the Emperor, resenting the injurye, and protesting against the performance, on his part. Hereof Sir Thomas hopes to make a very good use; the drift being to disengage us from seeking to bring the Palatin-cause to the cognition of the Assembly at Francfort, or to the generall Treaties; which, if effected, the game would be in their own power.

127. The Heads & Substance of what is conceiued requisite to be negotiated with the Crownes of France, Denmarke, & Suede, in preparation to the generall Treaties design- ed; particularly in the cause Palatin: partly by Letters Credentive, partly by the negotiation of the Ministers of his Majestie, with them resident. 31 May, 1643. fol. 84. b.

128. To Mr. Auery. June 1. 1643. fol. 86.

That the Imperialls & Bauarians haue so far preuayled by their Arts, as to silence the further prosecution of the Palatine-busines at Frankfurt; and to exclude it from the Generall Treatyes (if they can) as a particular difference betweene the Emperor & the House Palatin, no waye concerninge the Publicque. Sr. Thomas hopes that the 3 Crownes, who will be the Great Actors in the General Treatye, will resent this Cunning, which hath awakened our King; who hath sent fresh Orders to oppose this designe, by engaging Denmarke & Sueden to insist upon the Comprehension of this Cause, as essential to the Peace of the Empire.

129. To Mr. Browne. 1 June, 1643. ibid.

Much to the same purpose; with Orders to prepare the French to make the same Motions.

130. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 2 June, 1643. fol. 86. b.

Reciting various Opinions as to what would be fit for our King to do at this juncture. His own is, that His Majestie should write to the 3 Crownes, the Elector of Brandenburg, the Dukes of Lunenburg, & Landgrave of Hessen, and also to some choyce Ministers, to take the business into their managë, and make a good End thereof at the generall pacification.

131. To the Queene of Bohemia. 7 June, 1643. fol. 87.

Shewing, in the main, his affection to Her Majesties Service, though unable to advance in any great degree. Talks, as if somewhat might be expected from the Parliament; especially for Her Subsistence. But laments our public differences.

132. To the Prince Elector. 7 June, 1643. fol. 87. b.
Relating what hath been lately done in his Business; with his own Opinion, which he submits to the Electors Will.
133. To Princess Elizabeth, the Elector-Palatin's Sister. 7 June, 1643. ibid.
*Giving His Sense upon the partial Conduct of the Dutch, who would make an advantage by our Troubles: of which he believeth, that, sooner or later, they will Repent: since too much Caution, and open Covetousness, are but Follies. That Her Brother hath accepted of a weak Foundation of Subsistence, viz. 12000*l.* per annum, upon the Brass Farthings; which Pension is now in great Arrear. That, at the best, the Thing was not worth to the Undertakers 3000*l.* yearly; and then it was a grievance to the Kingdome; and will be greater, if enlarged.*
134. To Mr. Curtius. 8 June, 1643. fol. 88.
Instructing him how to proceed in the management of the Palatin-affair; which our King will never desert. He justifies His own late Declaration, which none think injurious to the Colledge Electorall, but One Doctor. That He communicated the Substance thereof to the Electors of Mentz & Collen, the one a friend, the other a Brother to the Duke of Bauare, who took no Exceptions, but (being convinced) rather approved it. Adding, that as the Greatest Clerkes, are not the Wifest Men: So, He has observed, that all the Treaties & Resolutions of the Princes of Germany, (which should be managed by generous Spiritts, sensible of Honour) are over-seasoned with that too-learned ingredient of Doctors, like good Broth over-Salted. Thus, he leaves & Despises their Censures.
135. To Sir William Boswell. 6 June, 1643. fol. 88.
That the Assembly at Frankfort hath done some Good, in discovering the Emperor & Duke of Bauare (who is very angry) that the Votes will remayne vpon the Register, and ought to be a great Inducement to the Crownes to embrace the Cause, by Judgement of the Princes, declared Essentiall to the interne Peace. He wonders at the Conduct of the States; who act not as they are obliged by the antient Treaties, or at least by the Equitye of them: whereby they ought not to enter-tenne a Conference of Peace with Spayne, without acquaynting our King.
136. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 12 June, 1643. fol. 89.
That the Deputies of the Princes assembled at Francfort, will insist upon their Votes. That Mr. Curtius hath there presented a Memorialis, to require an Answer to His Credence; which will engage them to some Declaration more publicque. That the Duke of Bauare & His Ministers are much discomposed, finding that this great affaire will not be remitted in a Corner, to be treated at Vienna, or in any priuate Colloquye, but in the Face of the Empire; and before those, who will not so much regard his 13 Millions, as the publicque Safetye, & Peace. That they now wish, they had rather consented to have had it ended

- there, where there was some appearance of Contribution; then by the generall Treaties, where He can expect nothing but the Honor to haue Sacrificed his privat Pretensions to the publicque: or to be left to the Lawes, to Recouer of the Emperour. He conceiueth, that the Letter of that Duke to the Emperour hath made all the Princes see, that there is no purpose in him to agree with the Elector Palatin; but to separate him from the protection of the publicque Interest, vnder the colour of a Priuat Treatye. So that there is nothing to be trusted unto, of Monfr. l'Isola's ouuertures made to His Majestie at Oxford, which by Bauare are required to be reuoked.
137. To Mr. Browne. 14 June, 1643. fol. 89. b.
Directing him to Sollicit the French Court for Instructions to their Ambassadors; and to procure (if possible) a Letter, or some equal Signification from that Crowne, to the King of Denmarke as the Great Mediator, for Comprehension of the Elector-Palatin & His Familie, as an Allye; that His Cause may be decided at the General Treaties as Essentiall to the Peace. With a present conjecture at the Danes behavior then, & the Reason thereof.
138. To Mr. Curtius. 15. June, 1643. fol. 90.
Approving his Proceedings. That He (Sir Thomas) has endeavored to prepare the King of Denmarke to remove his Mediation to the Generall Treaties; when he may have Concurrence & Help, so as not to be overswayed by pluralitie of Interessed Voyces. To which End also, he hath endavoured to procure Letters from France & Suede. He likewise gives further Directions, how to act with regard to the Emperor, in this affair.
139. To Mr. Auery. 19 June, 1643. fol. 90. b.
Touching the private Views of the King of Denmarke, & of the Duke of Bauare; hoping, that his Danish Majesty will not be made the Instrument of betraying that Cause, he so generously undertook to protect. Which Cause is of too High a Nature as to become a Precedent for all Causes (as some pretend) & consequently an obstruction to the General Peace. This being the Case of Confiscation of the First (Temporal) Prince of the Empire; and the Translation of an Electoral Dignitye; which is the Interest of the King of Denmark, as well as of all other Protestant Princes to prevent, and in it self, not triable at the Imperial Chamber. That the General Opinion is, that the Peace cannot be Concluded, or at least Secured, without the Restitution or Extinction of the Palatin Familie. And that France & Sueden, especially, are of this Judgement, understanding the Elector-Palatin as an Allye of their Crownes; in which Qualitye they have procured Safe Conduct for his Coming or Deputing, to the Generall Treaties: not being willing that a Cause of this High Concernment, should be remitted, or hazarded in a privat Meeting, wherein they shall haue neither Interest, nor Communication. That the Imperial Ministers at Francfort, have privately confessed that their Master doth now desire that the business may now be Ended, by the Authority of all the States of the Empire; in hopes of bridling the Demands of the Duke of Bavare, which he can not expect by any private Mediation; but that the Debt, or a Quarrell, must wholly rest upon Him, & his House. Sir Thomas also setteth forth the present good Disposition of the Electors of Saxony & Brandenburg, & of the Imperiall Townes, to this good & great Work. That the King of Denmarke & his Sonnes, will be better secured by obliging & assuring the Protestant Partye to Him, than by all the hopes he can have of the Austrians; & may make himselfe Generall of the Two Circles, being most Protestants, sooner by his owne Meritt & Authoritye, then by the Suffrage of those who cannot take Pleasure in any access of Reputation to Him. Sr. Thomas desires him to open a way for rectifying the Mistakeings which have happened between our King & the Dane. That His Majestie will doe all things on His Part, if the King of Denmark will Settle the Tolls according to the Dutch Agreement, according as He is Bound by Treatye. If He will not; we may be, for a tyme, oppressed: but the Nation, or Traders, will not beare it.

140. To the Prince-Elector. 30 June, 1643. fol. 92.

Giving His Highness an Account of what had lately been done in His Business, especially with relation to the King of Denmark. And Advising him to induce our King to send an Ambassador to the Public Treaty, in Order to Countenance & Promote His Cause.

141. To Mr. Browne. 1 July, 1643. fol. 92.

Desiring him to induce the Queen-Regent, & Ministers of the Court of France, to signifie to the King of Denmarke their Resolution, to have the Palatin-business comprehended in the General Treaties. That in Order to this, He may assure them, that such a Resolution will be acceptable to that King, who hath lately written to the Emperor & Duke of Bavare, that this Cause could not be accommodated, but by the Generall Treatye. And that the Queene of Suede hath given the Prince-Elector assurance, that she will use all her Power, in the Assembly, to resettle Him in his Rights. And that She hath, to that purpose, commanded Her Ambassador to negotiate the Cooperation of the Crowne of France with Her. That, it is probable that the Duke of Orleans will strenuously endeavor at the Restitution of the House of Lorreyne; whereby the French Crowne may gain much Honor, by Setting against it, the Restitution of the House Palatine. That the Causes & Qualities of those Princes being Equall; the French may be thereby invited to oblige Two Friends by one Worke. For, without both be restored, there can be no Peace.

142. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 3 July, 1643. fol. 94.

Proposing that our King should send an Ambassador to the General Treatie: as also earnestly to Recommend the Exchange (i. e. the Restitution of the House of Loraine on the one Side, for that of the Palatin-Family on the other) as the most probable way to move the Crowne of France to give that Peace to Europe, which they do publicquely pretend; and without which, there can be no constant Peace. For, such an Exchange may be favored both by the Spaniards and the Duke of Bauare, because of the House of Lorreyne, whose Reestablishment they will jointly insist vpon in the Treatye, both for Reason of State, and for Alliance in Bloud. He gives Reasons for his Opinion and the Probability of it; and desires that His Majestie would write Letters (recommending the Palatin-Cause) to the Emperor; the Three Crownes, the States General, the Electors; & especially to those of Saxe & Brandenburg, to the Landgravine of Hessen, & Dukes of Lunenburgh & Brunswicke.

Num. 1901.

143. To Mr. Curtius. 4 July, 1643. fol. 94. b.

That the 3 Crownes have assured Us, that they will embrace the Palatin-cause as publique: and that Denmarke hath written to the Emperor, that it cannot any where be accommodated, but in the Generall Treatye. Wherefore, Sr. Thomas doth not weigh the Opinion of the Ambassadors of Collen, who speake as they desire, in compliance with the Duke of Bauare. That Monfr. Pisola the Emperors Minister, is gone to Oxford with some new Bayts: but since it is found by the Duke of Bauares Letter to the Emperor, that he will restore nothing, but modo suo; and that the Emperor cannot performe without him; all Communication vpon His Overtures, & Offers on his Majesties part, are fallen; and the Cause must Stick only to the Judgement of the Great Tribunall.

144. To Mr. Avery. 5 July, 1643. fol. 95.

Setting forth the Steps that have been taken by the 3 Crownes, in order to accommodate this Great Affair at the General Treaty. That the Queene of Suede hath written a very heartye Letter to the Prince Elector, signifying that She hath given Commission to the Plenipotentiaries, and moved the French Resident in Her Court, and also written effectually to Monfr. Grotius to negotiate & agree with the Crowne of France, for its Concurrence and Cooperation. Professing, that She will mainteyne the Honour & Justice of Her Father, in undertaking a War for the Reliefe of His oppressed Friends. And, that if Others, particularly the Princes of Germany, will closely adhere; She will endeavour a generall Reduction of all the States, to the State of the yeare 1618. Further, Sir Thomas desires to know if he hath moved any thing to Monfr. Rauentclaw the Danish Minister, concerning the Accommodation of the Treatye of Commerce, & the Ease of the Merchants, who Suffer on all Sydes.

145. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 17th July, 1643. fol. 95. b.

That the Prince Electors Cause is in a fayre way toward Munster; whither he is Resolved to send His Deputyes; with desire that some may be employed by His Majesty to assist there. That a Letter will come, from the Electors to our King, desiring him to send his Ambassador to resume the Private Treatye; touching an Answer to which, Sr. Thomas gives his Judgement. That new Credential Letters will be necessary for introducing Mr. Avery into this Negotiation; wherein, it will be requisite to giue him both Grace and Authority. For, he hath complained, that being employed to the King of Denmarke for the Eastland-Company : his last Credentialls were altered in the Style & Titles ; & so restreyned & limited, that at first he was refused Audience as a publicque Minister, & Slighted by those appointed to hear him, and sent away re infecta : under which Disgrace, he yet suffereth in that Court. That the Duke of Orleans & His Party will returne, not only into Reconciliation, but to prime Authority in the manage of State-Affayres in France ; being United (by the Wisdome of the Duke of Guise) to Secure their future Condition. That their full Reestablishment will be strongly favoured by the House of Austria ; and consequently, they will be the fittest Instruments for working the Protection of the Palatin Cause ; the Satisfaction of the Duke of Bauare ; and the Consent of the Emperor & King of Spain. That they are most like of any to keep good Correspondence with our King ; and (though it appeare a Paradox) not to disfaue the Protestant Partye, whose Depression they haue found to haue bene the Oportunity of that absolute Power exercised in the late Government.

146. To Mr. Browne. 18 July, 1643. fol. 96. b.

That if the two Crownes (i. e. France & Sweden) can Settle & Agree their owne Interests ; the Right Way to End the Quarrels of Germany will be in the Lump. Not to Dispute this & that Pretension apart, and to weigh the Merits of euery Circumstance ; but to insist vpon the restoring of the Condition & Libertye of the Empire, & of euery oppressed Prince & State, to what it was, & what they justly Possessed in the yeare 1618. before the War begun. He is desired therefore to insinuate this Doctrine, & the Consequences thereof into the French Ministers ; that by their apprehending or rejecting it, a judgement may be made as to what may be hoped from them.

147. To the Prince Elector. 19 July, 1643. fol. 97. That he hath sent all His Highnesses Letters to our King, as also the Contents of them ; but hath received no Direction thereupon : which Sir Thomas imputed to the Nearness & Daily Action of both Armies.

tion the French seem to be in, for advancing the Palatin Interest.

151. To Mr. Curtius. 20 July, 1643. fol. 98.

Blaming the Conduēt of certain German Ministers in this Affair. Desiring him to send the Names, Titles, & Qualeties of our Friends Ambassadors & Plenepotentiaries which shall assist in the Generall Treatye ; because there may be occasion for His Majestie to Write unto them. Is glad that the Duke of Bauare vnmaskes Himselfe with Bravado's toward the Protestant Princes ; pressing their Contribution to Ruyn themselves. That the Truth is, the Princes haue vsurped vpon the Libertye of the Free-Townes ; and therefore, as justly the Electors haue taken away the Libertye of the Princes. They ought therefore to take heed they giue not vp the libertye of all Germany, to one who will trample vpon it.

152. To Monsieur Holsa, Resident here for the Emperor ; in French. 22 July, 1643. ibid.

Giving him a Touch (as he expresseth it in the next Letter) that He might not think he Walked invisibly ; or that His Majesty would depend vpon any Priuat Treatye, against the Hopes whereof the Duke of Bauare had protested.

153. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 22 July, 1643. fol. 98. b.

Concerning the Motion for a Marriage between Prince Rupert & Mademoiselle de Rohan. Also, of another, for the Spaniards obliging His Majesty, by giving up what they hold in the Lower Palatinate ; now that the French are about to take Theonuille ; which hath hastened a resolution in the Emperor to restore the Duke of Simmeren.

154. To Mr. Auery. 26 July, 1643. fol. 99.

That what he hath done with the French and Swedish Ministers, will be acceptable to His Majestie : and therefore directs him to prosecute his beginnings, to bring the cause to publicque Cognition, & to run along with the fortune of the Generall Peace. That it will be the Interest of the French to maynteyne the Partye of the Religion in Germany ; since they cannot balance the Power & Growth of the Austrians, but by the Protestant Partye.

155. To Mr. Browne. 27 July, 1643. fol. 99. b.

That Duke Charles of Lorraine is in a faire way to make his owne Peace with France. Which he would have so letted & obstructed, by remitting the final Conclusion thereof to the General Treatie, as that the Interest of the Palatin Cause may be promoted thereby. That this Game hath often beene playd secretly betweene France & Spayne, with the Old Duke of Savoy, and may now be of great advantage to Us. That the Emperour hauing resolved to restore the Duke of Simmerin & Electrice-Dowager, upon the Feare of Theonville : He hopeth they may do as much for the Prince Elector, if pressed ; at least to quitt Bacherach, Franchendall, & Oppenheim : this being the time for fishing in their troubled Waters.

156. Sir Thomas Rowe's short Censure of the Bauarian Libel. ibid.

157. To Mr. Curtius. 1 August, 1643. fol. 100.

CATALOGVS LIBRORVM MSS.

Num. 1901.

Sir Thomas belieueth that the Bauarian Libel was not read in that Duke's Chancery, though dictated in the Assembly: But that if it be authoris'd and acknowledged, He shall not fayle to vnravell it, and to lett them also tast of his Inke. That the French Order for terminating the Prince Elector-Palatins Interest at the General Assembly, is very positive; not only concerning the Restitution of his Countrey, but of the Electorall Dignitye, as being the more important Poynt, for the advantage of that Crowne. That this Comfort is to be infused into the Protestant Princes & States; who adhæring stoutly & constantly, the Balance (whose inequalitye will vndoe them all) may be brought right. That it will not be long before they who now Despise Vs, & take the Boldness to professe it, may both Need & Feare us: and that whatsoever the Emperor cannott, or Bauare will not doe; if the Crownes hold their Words, Necessitye will enable & enforce.

158. To Mr. Auery. 2 August, 1643. fol. 100. b.

Is sorry that the Suedes Instructions are not so expresse, to embrace the Palatin-Cause, as an Essentiall to the Peace. But his Opinion is, that those of France should deeply engage the Cooperation both of the Suede, and of the King of Denmarke. That notwithstanding the Emperors endeavors to remove Matters to Vienna, and Invitation of the Electors thither, where the Old Treatye may be reassumed at his Court: our King is resolved to runne the fortune of the Generall Peace.

159. To the Prince-Elector. 9 August, 1643. fol. 101.

That Monfr. Isola had sent him Word, that his Journey to the Court at Oxford, was only to giue Aduertisement to His Majestie, that the Emperor his Master had condescended, that the Palatin-Cause should be treated at the Generall Assembly. That this Contradicts what Mr. Curtius had advised, vizt. that his Commission was to signifye the adjournment of the priuat Treatye to the End of August, at his owne Court. That Mr. Browne hath solicited a Letter from the French Court to the King of Denmarke, to signifye their Resolution to have the said Cause brought to the Publicque Decision; but that he cannot obteyne a direct Answer; which looks asquint vpon their other professions. That he hath done the Office to the Duke of Orleans, which hath beene well enterteyned, and may work some good Effect; especially if seconded by a Letter from Himself.

160. To Mr. Browne. 9 August, 1643. fol. 101. b.

That Monfr. Isola hath informed him that his Journey to Oxford was only to enforme His Majestie how the Emperor his Master had condescended that the Palatin cause should be treated at Munster; which is a great poynt; and of which, he may make extraordinarie use. Sir Thomas congratulates His happines & dexterous Negotiation, in procuring so fayre & positie Instructions in this great business. To which, if He can add the Fauour & Assistance of the Duke of Orleans, and the partisans of the house of Lorreyne, the Worke is halfe done: but that a Letter to the King of Denmarke, would be a publicque engaging of the Crowne of France.

161. To Mr. Curtius. 9 August, 1643. ibid.

That the Bavarian Libel being in Print, & somewhat more publicquely authoris'd, They who haue said what they should not, may heare what they would not. That the Opinion of Monfr. Langerbec & others, who say that the Action of the Duke of Bauare est fondé en Droit, &c. may be true in relation to the Emperor; but in relation to the Prince-Elector-Palatin, it is false; his owne publicque acts disclayming any. And if he haue Bought or Accepted any thing of the Emperor, which He could neither Giue nor Sell, by the fundamentall Lawes of the Empire: such Purchase can giue him no Right; nor be he ignorant of the Rule Caueat Emptor. Sir Thomas replies to those who pretend that he acquiesces to the reassumption of the particular Treatie vpon Conditions; that those Conditions haue beene refused by the Duke of Bauare; so that he is not bound. Nor can the Act of Invitation of the Emperor oblige him, being made & published after his Departure.

162. To Mr. Auery. 17 August, 1643. fol. 102.

That the Emperor hath condescended that the Palatin-Cause shall be Treated & Decided at the general Assembly at Munster & Osnabrug. That as to the Duke of Bauare, &c. He pretends the pursuing the particular Mediation; and to Us, the generall Treatye: which last seemeth truest, because He hath sent the Elector-Palatin another Safe-Conduct, dated in July. That this is the most probable way for Him to discharge & free Himselfe from the extravagant Demands & Entanglements with Bauare, whose pressures & menaces are insupportable, as well to Him, as to all other the free States & Princes of the Empire.

163. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 21 August, 1643. fol. 102. b.

Concerning Letters to be written to the King & Princes interess'd in the generall Treaties, recommending the Palatin cause. That the House of Lorreyne do Treat their owne peace in France; which may engage many Friends unto the said Cause. He thinks that in the Letters to France, & the King of Denmarke, Credences to Mr. Browne & Mr. Auerye should be desired, mentioning only the general Subject: because it would giue a larger Scope to Speake, & urge many things not proper for the Letter of a King; and He himself can more fully instruct them. That Mr. Curtius presseth to haue a particular Credentiall to the Elector of Mentz, as Director of the Colledge, to resent some vnseemly proceeding of the Duke of Bauare at Francfort. That the same Duke not hauing spared himself in a publicque writing; Sir Thomas desireth the Kings leaue to giue a Replye of good Inke, without Gall: believing, that in a point of Honour, His Majesty cannott be too Sensible; least the Example preuayle to exclude any of His Ministers, or their Negotiations, vpon any of the affayres of the Empire; which the King of Suede apprehended as an Injurye, & motiue of his Reuenge. That a Letter to his Majestie from the King of Poland, is left with him, but without a Coppie. But seeing that there is some Distast between them; He desires to know His Majesties pleasure, whether it should be sent unto Him, or Returned.

164. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 26 August, 1643. fol. 103.

Touching the Letters to the Kings & Princes treating the General Peace; which he had drawn up, in obedience to His Majesties Commands. That he shall not need to advertise the Comminge of the Count de Harecourt from France in Ambassage; nor what he heareth Grotius hath aduised of his Message: If it be true, it is of very great Consequence, and His Majestie will take it to deepe & serious Consultation.

165. To the Princess Elizabeth. 31 August, 1643. fol. 103. b.

That while England languisheth, he sees fayre beames shine vpon her Brother's Cause; which will be embraced by those who will haue Power to protect it.

166. To Mr. Browne. 5 September, 1643. ibid.

Is glad that there is hope of obteyning a Letter from France to the King of Denmarke, upon account of both the Vse & the Season. For Monfr. Isola retracts the Confession of his Masters Consent to Treat the Palatin-busines at the Generall Assembly: having had new Enformation, that the Emperor hath Signed the Invitation to reassume the private Treaty at his owne Court in October next, where-soever that will be. That this Change is an effect of the Bauarian predominancy over him. That he (the Bavarian) procured the Electors that sent to Francfort, to write to the Emperor for such a Declaration; and that their Letters of Intimation to His Majesty are dayly expected; being already Written & Signed. That His Majesty is prepared for answer; and will not change His Resolution to trust the Cause with His Friends & the Publicque only. That the King of Denmarke will be firme; especially if He may haue such a ground, that it is the desyre of the Crowne of France: as to whose Instructions in that Poynt, Mr. Grotius writes but faintly, viz. That They will Mediate; but not insisting vpon it as necessary to the Peace; without some new Conditions, of a high Nature, to be proposed by the Count of Harcourt. Thus, if the French suffer the Duke of Bauare to gourmandize the Empire, as he doth awe the Emperor; the Peace which they pretend as a Benefitt to their friends, will be more Hurtful to their Liberty, then the War; for in this, they may Dye Free Men.

167. To the Prince-Elector. 6 September, 1643. fol. 104.

Advising His Highness to looke about Him, and endeavour to fixe the King of Denmarke; all other Planets seeming to be in Conjunction with Mercury. That the Count de Harcourt at his coming hither will make some Propositions, which will be, in this Coniuncture, of hard Digestion. And that vnless they be accepted, neyther France nor Suede will insist vpon His Restitution, as such an Impediment to Peace, as, sine quâ, non: but that they will mediate some kind of accommodation. That His business is in the Crysis, and must be every way watched. That there is no Danger so great to Him as to haue none of Authority from His Majesty at the Treatyes: and this cannot be, vnless some Delay or Interruption of the Meeting, gayne vs Tyme.

168. To Mr. Curtius. 6 September, 1643. fol. 104. b.

Belieues that the Emperors compliance with the Duke of Bauare, in signing the Intimation for His owne Court, was to auoid Clashing with Him, who is the Winde, Sayles, & Sterne of the tottering Ship of Germany. That the Free Cittyes have just Cause to resent the rejection of their Votes in all Assemblies, as Deliberative only, and Opinions not to be weighed. For recouery whereof, if they appeale to the Crownes in the general, nothing can be more prevalent, nothing so readily embraced. That the benefit of any other Peace, will but augment the Giues & Manacles which now enthrall them; and will be as little honorable to their great Vindicators, as profitable to Themselues. Sir Thomas approves his Translation of his Censure upon the Bavarian Libell; to which He will also prepare a full Answer; and make them wish they had not stirred that which was quiet. That now they must endure their owne Savour; and heare that which they had wiselier kept in Silence. That he hath desired a Credence for him to the Elector of Mentz, both to resent & to prevent the barbarous incivility futurely. That they may remember, it was not the least of the King of Suedes pretences of Revenge, to haue bene refused in a Treatye concerning the peace of the Empyre. Finally, that if he can get any Declaration of the Dyet, conformable to their Votes, it will much advantage the Remove of the Cause. That Mr. Browne hath obteyned of the French King, a Letter to the King of Denmarke, to bring the Palatin Cause to the Generall Treatyes. That it is very effectual, and will animate that King. That it is a publicque Engagement of the French, an Example to the Suede, and a great Encouragement to all the Protestant Princes; as also a great Helpe to him, in ballancing all the Tricks of Bauare, and all the Inuitations to a privat Treaty.

169. To Sir William Boswell. 7 September, 1643. fol. 105. b.

That very good Vse will be made of the French Kings Letter to the Dane, in respect of the Wauering, or rather Compliance, of the Emperor to the Machinations of Bauare, and all their Plotts to tye the Cause vp to a privat Treaty.

170. To Mr. Aveye. 7 September, 1643. ibid.

That the French Kings Letter ought to encourage all the Protestant Princes & States to vnite closely, to redeeme their Liberty, vtterly lost, if the inequality of the Voyces in the Electorall Colledge shall be settled, to decide all Controversyes to the advantage of the Roman Church & Partye. That they haue now a fayre Sanctuary open; and may take an Example from the French Protestants; who (though absolute Subjects) would not make Peace without an Equality of Assessors & Judges in their Parlements: which is granted to them in all the Edicts of Pacification. Sir Thomas is of the same Opinion with him, that the French & Suedes haue not yet absolutely instructed their Ambassadors, so far to insist vpon the entyre Restitution, as to Breake the Treaty vpon the Refusall: and yet, that it may be so managed as never to come to that Extremitye; it being probable, that there will be other occasions of making a Rupture, before the Cause Palatin can be the Subject. That the right way of avoyding that Rock, is, not to Treat the busines Single & Apart, but mingled & Woven into the Generall of the necessary Peace of the Empyre. Which if the Crownes do not settle Securely, they will reape as little honour, as their Client benefitt.

171. To the Prince Elector. 19 September, 1643. fol. 106.

That he hath direction from Mr. Secretary Nicholas at Oxford, to Correspond with the Lord Goring his Ambassador in France, where Mazarini & Chaigny Gouverne in Matters of State; and the House of Guise adhering to them, are like to recouer Authority, & may be the fittest Instruments of promoting His Cause with their owne (as branches of Lorreyne) at the Generall Treaties. That he feareth both the Affections & Instructions, from Rome, of a Cardinall, in relation to the Recouery of the Electoral Dignitye. That the Duke of Bauare is so omnipotent, that he threatens to breake the General Treaty, by his Power, Armes, or Arts, if they shall looke backe to such an Amnestye as shall comprehend His entyre Restitution. That, at last, the States are likely to send Ambassadors for England, in correspondence with France: but Sir Thomas hopes they will not dance only to Their Tune: and intimateth, that somewhat may be proposed, that will not suite with their Conjunction.

172. To the Queene of Bohemia. 19 September, 1643. fol. 106. b.

Directing Her how to procure an Assignment on Public Funds, for the Arreare of Her Pension: being perswaded, that if the Parliament were rightly enformed of Her Wants, they would tender Her Honour & Necessities. But herein he Adviseth Her to acquaint the King; who doubtless would consent, & otherwise might take it as a Neglect of Him, & a whole Dependence vpon their Fauour.

173. To Sir William Boswell. 20 September, 1643. fol. 107.

That (with relation to the Palatin Cause) he liketh not the Game, which is, & still must be played vnder a Red Hatt (i. e. Mazarini) That he hath observed from Historye & Experience, that no Gouvernement is so rigid, as in the predominancye of an Ecclesiastical Statesman. The cause is, because they are misplaced; not as vtterly vnfit for Temporall Affayres; but that they are vsed as a Weight to cast the Balance, whereas they should only hold the Beame, & assist the Temper & Equalitye of Measures. He goes on to apply this to the Bishops of the Church of England.

174. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 21 September, 1643. fol. 107. b.

Advising, that when the Count of Harcourt shall be with His Majestie, it will be necessarie to press the Palatin Affaire, and to procure a clear Declaration, how far France will vallow, and to what Issue they will driue the accommodation. That in defect of Resolution, the Lord Goring do sollicite such Powers & Orders, as that the Cause may be taken into the mayne; and not only precario mediated vpon by the by, & apart, for so it will haue a Cold End. That nothing being more desired by the house of Austria, then the resettling the Duke of Lorreyne in his Possessions; nothing but the Palatin-Cause can balance it with Honour. But then, His Majestie must counter-negotiate the One against the Other; in Spayne, or at Bruxells. At Brussells Sir Thomas can engage Sir Henry de Vic, if authorised, & Sr. Henry be commanded to Correspond with Him. That Now is the tyme; for the Plenepotentiaries & Ambassadors moue from all parts, toward the Cittyes designed for Treaty.

175. To Mr. Secretary Sir Edw. Nicholas. 23 September, 1643. fol. 108.

That the Duke of Bauare hath written a long Letter to the King of Denmarke, to perswade him to prevayle with the Elector-Palatin to waue the Generall, and to be content with the Priuat Treaty; and to induce our King to send his Ambassadors to assist therein: being resolved rather to breake all, then to endure the test of the Empire. To this end, he hath wrought the Emperor to continue the Assembly at Francfort, against the Judgement of most of the Princes, so to separate the matter from the Publicque, and from the Interest & Cognisance of the Crownes of France & Suede. That the King of Denmarke hath written to the Emperor & Electors, vrging the Necessitye of deciding the Cause at the Generall Treaty, as the principall Impediment of the Peace; without which, France & Sueden will not enter into any Conference. That the Bavarian's Mystery is Mony; which he hopes to get in a priuat Composition, & which will not be considered in the balance of the Publicque Peace.

176. To Mr. Browne. 26 September, 1643. fol. 108. b.

That four Electors having jointly written to our King, inviting him to reassume the Private Mediation: His Majestie is Constant, and will answer (by a Ciuill Refusall) to all other motions; as Resolved to trust the Cause to his Friends, to Publicque Justice, and to the fortune of the Generall Peace. Sir Thomas also gives him further Lights, how to negotiate the Palatin-Interest at the French Court.

177. To Mr. Curtius. 27 September, 1643. fol. 109.

Directing him to be constant in affirming, that His Majestie cannot decline the Societie & Interest of the Crownes of France & Sueden; who haue Resolved that the Cause-Palatin is necessarie to the publicque Pacification: and is engaged with them, to relye vpon the Generall Treaties. That seeing the Duke of Bauare opposed all mention of that Cause, in the Assembly at Francfort (in which, nothing was intended but a fayre Mediation) it hath caused His Majestie to Despayre of any Treatye under-hand: so that the Change of Counsellors in that poynt, hath beene his owne Fault, & Violence. That the Free Cittyes haue it now in their power (if they know how to vse it) to cast the Balance, & to Settle the Peace. This to be effected, by jointly pressing (on all sides) the Amnestye, & the Resettlement of the Empire in the State, as before the War.

Num. 1901.

178. To Mr. Auery. 28 September, 1643. fol. 110.

Affirming that if the Free Cittyes would joyne in constantly requiring an entyre Amnestye, & general Restitution & Resettlement of Possessions & Lawes, in the same State as before the War: The Crownes will not refuse their Patronage, but be glad of the Occasion. Moreover, if the Treatye moue vpon particular Accommodations, the Debates will be Infinite, & such Difficulties be discovered, that many Yeares will not suffice. And whatsoever shall be so Setled or Agreed separatly, will neither be durable nor safe.

179. To a Friend. 4 October, 1643. fol. 110. b. About a Method of beginning a Treatie of Peace between the King & Parliament: which he thinks to be a very nice & difficult matter to effect.

180. To Mr. Browne. 4 October, 1643. ibid. That, the Count of Harcourt being arrived at London, Mr. Isola the Emperors Agent is resolved to go to Oxford, and to oppose him. That he pretends that the French will not conclude a Peace. And if they should, they will not so embrace the Cause-Palatin, as sine qua, non: and in that Case, we shall lose the Emperor by adhering to, & taking Protection of his Enemies, & shall be left betweene two Stooles. Sr. Thomas himself is of opinion, that if the French shall leave vs in the halfe way, the Cause is vterly lost: for when we have forsaken the Emperor & the Mediation, it will be too late to beg a fauour. It will be requisite therefore that the Lord Goring & He should get a clear Declaration & Obligation, how far they will insist vpon the entyre Restitution of Lands & Dignitye. That this is a poynt deeply considerable; seeing Mazarini (who is not to be trusted by us) governs the Counsellors in France. That it is not probable that the French will scandalize the Romish party, by wresting backe the Electorall Dignitie, which so much concerns them. The Lands only will touch the Duke of Bauare; but the Casting voice in the Electorall College will be friended by the Pope, & all the Catholique faction. And, in the meantime, the Ministers of the Duke of Bauare, doe boast of their Secrett good Intelligence, & assurance of France. That the Bavarian Deputies have intimated, that they may now be content to admitt the Palatin Cause to a Mediation of all the Princes at the Assembly at Francfort (which is decreed to continue, purposely to depriue the generall Treatye of the Cognizance of some select Causes) that it may there be prepared; or goe on, paripassu, with the Generall Treatye: although before, neither the Emperor nor Bauare, would heare of the mixture of the Princes & States. That Monsr. Isola hath complayned that He (Mr. Browne) hath negotiated in France, directly against the House of Austria, & to oblige the Elector-Palatin as an Ally with that Crowne; which cannot consist with the fayth of a Prince of the Empire. That herein, His Majestie hath disobliged the Emperor, and giuen him iust Cause to withdraw his good Intentions to that Family. That Isola hath gotten a Coppie of the Remonstrance given the Ministers; which he must haue from them or their Servants.

Num. 1901.

181. To a Friend. 13 October, 1643. fol. 111. b. Concerning a Request made by certaine English Families formerly retired into Holland; who now desire leave to Returne, & be permitted a Church & Minister of their owne. These were Independants, whose principles Sir Thomas could not approve of.

182. To Mr. Browne. 25 October, 1643. ibid. Concerning the Letters which our King had written to the French King, Queene Regent, & the Duke of Orleans, and that the Elector hath desired others to the Prince of Condé & Mazarini; which may be postponed untill he shall be apprised of the Count de Harcourts Negotiations, & our Kings Resolutions vpon them.

183. To the Prince Elector. 25 October, 1643. fol. 1 That whereas His Highness had desired that he would attend at Oxford, during the Negotiations of the Count de Harcourt, to which end a Free Pass would be procured from the Parliament: He had received no Commands from his Majesty, without which he held it unfitt to intrude into His Counsellors. That the Emperors Agent is gone after the Count, to counterworke for the Priuate Treatye.

184. To Mr. Curtius. 26 October, 1643. fol. Hoping that the Count de Harcourt, at Oxford, may prepare the Wayes of our owne Accommodation; and with it, conclude vpon the Meanes of Settling the Palatin Cause by Treatye. That Monsr. Isola doth profess, that his Master will be disobliged, & Free from any Promises or Declarations, made on His part, if the Prince-Elector soly adhære to His Enemies, & refuse the Mediation in his Presence, as distrusting His sincere Intentions. That this is a Ticklish point, & will require a Dexterity of manage, not to lose the Emperor, and not to lose the Fauour & Opportunitye of the Collegued Crownes, & of the Generall Treatye. That the Judgement will rest vpon this, How far the French will embrace the Cause, and not leave it out in the Conclusion? For, out of doubt, Bauare will rather breake all Treaties, and continue the War, then Restore by Compulsion, only for Publicque Peace. As to the Medium proposed, of a paralel Treatye at Francfort; Sr. Thomas thinks it must not be for that Cause alone; but with the Consent of France & Suede; that if Agreement cannott be made, it may Retyre & be Received into the Generall Treatye. So that this privat Mediation should not be vnderstood as concludiue there, and exclusiue of the Generall; but preparatorye, for Ease & Dispatch of Busines. That after all, the Duke of Bauare may Write & Plott what he pleases, but must be content to doe, or suffer, as We shall conclude with the French; which may give him worke enough.

185. To Sir William Boswell. 26 October, 1643. fol. 112. b.

That it is reported, the Count de Harcourt hath proposed such ways of Accommodation, as are like to take some Effect. That the Ambassadors of the States will come late enough. For the Busines will either be Entered vpon, with little Grace to them; or Despayred of, before they Arriue.

186. To Princess Elizabeth. 26 October, 1643. ibid.

That, the French neuer thinke vs enough Vn-Espaniolised; which they feare not in others who are the Antipodes to Monarchy. And yet, while they kill a Basilisk, they may nourish a Snake.

187. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 26 October, 1643. fol. 113.

Complaining of the ill usage & Ingratitude of some about the King, whom He had obliged. That the Dexteritye of Negotiating with Count Harcourt, will lie in this poynt. First, not to accept the Continuance of the Priuat Mediation; and yet not, by the Refusall, to lose the Emperor, by seeming to mistrust Him, & depending only vpon his Enemies; which would frustrate His Declaration of receiuing the Prince-Elector into Grace, &c. vpon Condition of no Practise with His Enemies, vntill the Busines were concluded. Sir Thomas apprehends, that the French & Suedes will doe no more then may make a fayre Show; their owne Aduantages ouerwaying all other Respects. That it is necessary to know of the French, whether they will embrace the Cause as Essentiall to the Peace; or only as Mediators, which is worth little: and of the Emperor, How far He will vse His absolute Authoritye, if the Duke of Bauare shall continue obstinate?

188. To the Prince-Elector. 2 Nouember, 1643. fol. 113. b.

He believes that the House of Guise will not much fauour His Highness; but that they may do much for their owne Chiefe, the Duke of Lorraine. That therefore, they may be induced, with the Duke of Orleans as Mediator, &c. to press the Duke of Bauare (who is Vnkle to Duke Charles) to yield, as the only Meanes to re-establiish his Nephewes & Neighbours, & to Settle a Peace. Sir Thomas will aduise to Oxford the Contents of the Duke of Bauares Letter to the Electors: The Case being playne, If he will abate no mony, or not more then the halfe; he can haue no Satisfaction, & so no restitution. That the Emperor cannot pay it; so it is to no purpose to treat vpon Impossibilities.

189. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 11 Nouember, 1643. fol. 114.

Reminding him of some things necessary in the Palatin-busines, which had lain too long neglected. And tendring his Service to his Majesty, in Order to procure an accommodation of the plus quam Civile, & Vnnaturall War.

190. To the Prince-Elector. 13 Nouember, 1643. ibid.

Advising him to procure some Friend of Power at Court, to sollicite the Dispatch of the Kings Letters written in His behalf. That the King of Spaine being greatly affected to Cardinall Richelieu, & auerse from France, must be more Laboured, & the more neerely looked into.

191. To Mr. Browne. 15 Nouember, 1643. fol. 114. b.

That much Labour & Art hath been vsed euery where, to procure His Majestie to waue the Generall Treaties, by reassuming the Priuat Mediation: in which, Monfr. Isola hath receiued at Oxford a ciuill Denyall, in answer to his Memoriall exhibited to His Majestie. That the Imperialls & Bauarians haue made a very odd sort of Interpretation of the Safe-Conducts for the Elector-Palatin, or His Deputyes, to come to the Generall Treaties, procured by France & Suede: vizt. that they are for their Persons, as Spectators; not for their Cause, as Actors, or Interestted.

192. To Mr. Auery. 21 Nouember, 1643. ibid.

That the Count of Harcourt hath begun some Ouerture of a Treatye, by interposing as a Mediator, of accommodation of our miserable Distractions. That Monfr. Isola is much discontent with the Answer he received to his Memorial. He conceives that His Majestie will give the like to the late Letter of the Electors; being resolved to trust the Cause only with the Crownes his Friends, & the Publicque. Sir Thomas is sorry for the Comportment of the King of Denmarke, toward Mr. Avery: and though he knows the malicious Pride & Insolence of some of his German Ministers; yet fears it proceeds from an ill naturall Roote. Adding, that at least, in the Condition we are, we can expect nothing but Contempt & Injury.

193. To Mr. Pooley. 21 Nouember, 1643. fol. 115.

Desiring him to discouer how he stands in the Grace or Displeasure of the King of Denmark; with Regard to whom, he clears his own Conduet. He recommends (as he did in that to Mr. Avery) his Friend Mr. Barker, employed by the Eastland-Company, to Petition the King of Denmarke, in the Obstructions of their Trade.

194. To Mr. Browne. 21 Nouember, 1643. fol. 115. b.

That the Elector-Palatin seemeth to doubt that too earnest a pressure, How far the Crowne of France will declare in his Cause, may Offend; or Draw on some other reciprocal Question from our Court. Therefore he rather desireth to proceed in good Confidence, then to Search out that which he would not know. That other Jealousies are infused into that Prince, by his Counsellors, of the affection or power of the House of Lorreyne and the Guises. But that there is no other way, nor balance of this busines, which the Tryall at Munster shall justefye. For, to that Tribunal the Cause is resolutely referred on our part, part, and as obstinately refused on the other. Lastly, that Monfr. Isola inculcateth, that all the French fayre weather toward Vs, is only to fright the Duke of Bauare, to a Revolt from the House of Austria.

195. To Mr. Curtius. 22 Nouember, 1643. fol. 116.

Concerning the Practises of the Bauarians to possess the World with their Pretensions; & to avoyd the General Treaties by specious Abuses, of enclining to an Accommodation by the Priuat mediation. That Monfr. Isola is not well content, that he cannot Cosen us. That we appeale from their pretended & partiall Dyett of Mulhausen; and deny any prejudiciall Decree at Ratisbon; and protest against the Clandestine Treatye of Prague; and know no judge Competent, but the justice & fundamentall Lawes of the Empire. Nor can they more grosly abuse the Saxe-Ambassador then to make him beleue, that Bauare will yeild up both Palatinats, for Lands out of the Emperors Power & Possession. That he (Mr. Curtius) hath touched a right String, in adhering to the Citytes, who haue Voted an unlimited Amnestye at Ratisbon. And if the Suedes can procure their Appearance as Assistants, and Interested at the generall Treatye; their Power, if they know how to use it, will cast the ballance. That the Count de Harcourt hath offered to the Lords his Enterposition, in the Name of the French King & Queen Regent, (already accepted by His Majestie) and that the Consideration thereof now rests in the House of Commons.

196. To Prince Rupert. 14 December, 1643. fol. 116. b.

Desiring to know in what Condition he stands with His Majestie; finding all Opportunities preuented; euery man preferred or graced; and himself only (that hath serued faythfully) Neglected, if not Ruined. That the World will judge of his Seruices by the Reward & Estimation putt on them, or Himselfe, by his Majestie. He further desires that the King would vouchsafe to lett him know his faults, or faylings: wherein he hath demerited; wherein he hath beene defectiue, in his Duty, Allegiance, in a possible Obedience, or Success in His Commands: and if he may vnderstand his Sinnes, he will punish himselfe: nor shall there be need of Silent or Implicite Disgrace.

197. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 14 December, 1643. ibid.

That he hath receiued a Coppie of His Majesties Answer to Monfr. Isola, which ought to satisfye his vnreasonable importunitye. That the defeat of the French in Germanye will prove very disadvantageous to the Cause Palatin, & to the whole State of the Affayres & Treaties in the Empire. That the Suedes will suddenly feeble the Effects of it; and may perhaps be enforced to Treat, at least a Truce apart. That the Imperialls & Bauarians already braue all their Allyes & Friends, shewing how they would vse a totall Conquest. That Consultations haue been since held betweene the French Plenepotentiaries & the Commissioners of the States Generall, about prosecuting the Treatyes of Munster. Further Sir Thomas advises that the Lord Goringe should Exasperate the French against the Duke of Bauare, whom they haue favoured & fostered, and who hath requited them with this Disgrace.

198. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 19 December, 1643. fol. 117.

That the Defeate of the French may not dissolve the Meeting at Munster; but will certainly alter the State of Affaires, and make the End of the Treatye difficult: particularly, it will weaken the hopes of the Elector Palatin. That the Austrians, after this blast, will Swell beyond Measure, & will giue the Law in Germany. That Mr. Secretary will find both the House of Hessen & Brunswicke faynting, if not changing, & Prouiding only for their owne Safetie. Further, Sr. Thomas still continues to press for His Majesties Commands, Whether he shall send or burne the King of Polands Letter, which hath lien in his Hands above Six Months.

199. To the Prince Elector. 21 December, 1643. fol. 117. b.

That he hath received Advice from Mr. Secretarie, that now upon the French Defeate, the Treaties of Munster and Osnabrug will not hold. That the Imperialls & Bauarians are so high vpon their Victory, that they openly profess little Care, whether his Cause be brought thither; or treated (as they desired) by the priuat Mediation, or not: for in all Cases, they thinke themselves Masters of the Conclusion. Sr. Thomas excuses an Error of Sr. Arthur Hopton, proceeding from a want of Correspondence & Information, usuall in our Ministry & States-men. That His Majestie our King is Constant, not to Send to the private Treaty; and thinketh His Highnes shall best Excuse himselfe to the Emperor, that without His Majesties Counsell & Assistance, He cannot accept to renew a Treaty begun by Him, without Him. For, in all Euent, the Emperor should not be vtterly discomposed & disobliged by apparent diffidence: since without Him, nothing will be done in Germany.

200. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 17 January, 1643-4. fol. 118.

Is sorry he cannot obey His Majesties Commands in repairing to Oxford; God having pleased to lay many Afflictions vpon him, both of Body & Mind; and his Weakness lately so increased, that His Bed hath beene all his Consolation. If God shall enable Him, he shall faithfully Serue His Majestie; if too late, he shall dye enjoying the Peace of a loyall Heart. That the Cause-Palatin, by the Changes in Denmarke, may be layd vp in Hope; a Weake Remedy, for an Old & Strong Disease.

201. To Mr. Auery. 17 January, 1643-4. ibid.

That he knoweth not what is become of the Credentialls promised; fearing it is too late; and that by the miraculous changes in Holstein, & the reuolutions in Germany, God hath some great worke to finish, which it is in vayne for Man to trouble: and consequently, that the deplorable Cause Palatin may be hanged vp vpon the Hookes of Hope, vntill God will be reuealed.

202. To Mr. Browne. 17 January, 1643-4. ibid.

That the Changes of the Reputation of the French in Germany, and the Revolution in Holstein & Denmarke have so dejected the Hopes of the Cause-Palatin, that he can giue no Aduice, but to continue & goe along with the Publicque Interest & Generall Treatyes; if in them there succeed no Interruption, the Austrians being a-new Eleuated beyond hope of Compassion or Justice.

203. To Mr. Curtius. 17 January, 1643-4. ibid.

To the same Effect as before. Councelling him to beare vp, & not to Sinke in Spiritt; to Vnite & Keepe close to the Publicque Interest of the Protestant Princes, & the Fate of the Generall Peace, or Ruine.

204. To Sir William Boswell. 17 January, 1643-4. fol. 118. b.

Concerning the Nature of his grievous Indisposition; withall desiring that Dr. Cneuffelius may be sent over to Help him; or else induced to tarry in Holland, untill Sir Thomas may be carried over.

205. To Sir William Boswell. 20 February, 1643-4. ibid.

Upon the same Matter; as also about some Aspersions cast upon Him; perhaps, with regard to his Conduet in menaging the Palatin-affair. He writes that he knows that his Innocencye will justefye him before God, and Justice preferue him among Men.

206. To the Queene of Bohemia. 20 February, 1643-4. fol. 119.

Concerning Her Majesties late Indisposition, & His own. That the Count de Harcourt is gone, without any Effect; being only Feasted in London, by Young Griffin, to the Tune of 400 l. A Summe, that would now keepe Sr. Thomas (that hath been Feasted of many Kings) all his Life: His Rents and Meanes being taken from him, he knows not why.

207. To the Prince-Elector. 20 February, 1643-4. ibid.

That he hath receiued no Direction nor Intelligence from Oxford, since the Change of State-Officers; and therefore his Correspondence abroad is become useles. He cannot conceiue how the Treatyes can proceed, some of the Wheelles being taken off. And he foresees that if they should, New Matter & New Embroylments will fill his Unkles hands full of the Care of Himselfe. For he is now embarqued in the War; & the settling of his owne Estate must be a part of the Vniuersal Peace. That the States & all other Princes interess'd in the Necessitye or Vse of the Trade through the Sound should look about them & be well aduised. For, the Suedes, if they shall engross all in the North, will sett their owne Prices, & giue Lawes, such as flow from their great Maxime of State, Non conuenit rationi Statûs nostri. Advise his Highness to apply to France, vpon this opportunitye & Ground (which they haue experienced at a deare price) that the French Armes & Deffignes in Germany can neuer prosper, vnless they be Commanded & Conducted by a German Prince: the chieftest of their Force consisting of that Nation, who will not constantly obey a Stranger. That this will add some Lustre to the Justice of their War within the Empire; which now appears a forreyne Invasiõ. That it seemeth not improbable, but that His Highness may now gett the Command of the Remy of those Forces; the French dessigning Moneyes into Germany to recruit them; & preparing some Leaues in France, who vnwillingly pass the Rhyne: whereas He, supported with the French Money, can with much less expence rayse Men in Germany, then Transport them thither. That the Duke of Lorreyne hath made himselfe considerable by small Troopes: and the Landgrauine of Hessen & Duke of Brunswicke haue made, & can make their owne Peace, because they are Armed. Sir Thomas adds, that when at Vienna he objected their War with the Emperor, equall to any Offence of the Palatin-Family: it was sayd, They had a right Interest in the Peace, because they were part of the War.

208. To the Prince-Elector. 8 May, 1644. fol. 119. b.

That Sir Arthur Hopton's Error from Spayne was meere Ignorance or Inanimadversion; at least, had no ground from any Aversion either to His Highnes Person, Cause, or Rights, from England. He feares a priuate Treatye betweene France & Spayne; which may be as dangerous to England, as Exclufiue to His Highness; especially seeing the King of Denmarke needs Mediators for Himselfe. And prays that the Suedes, from whom much hath been expected, for the Common good (who haue no ends but their owne, not one Publicque Thought) do not veresfy the Proverb, Omne malum ab Aquilone.

209. To the Queene of Bohemia. 8 May, 1644. fol. 120.

Mostly upon his own matters. Believes that the States Ambassadors are wearie of Labour in Vayne: and that they will Confess, there was more Truth then Manners, in that Word (peremptorily & unseasonably spoken to them in Holland) That some vnderstood the State of England better then They: which, since, is made good.

210. To Princess Elizabeth. 9 May, 1644. ibid.

Complaining of the Mischiefs & Miseries of this World; which he seems not unwilling to leave. And Prophefying, that While Religion, of all sydes, is made the Stalking Horse, and not the Bird: there shall be no Peace vpon the Earth.

211. To Mr. Hollis. 16 May, 1643. fol. 120. b.

That, Two Errors in State do now prevayle in the Parliaments Consultations; First, in discontenting the Ambassadors of the United Provinces, by not Answering; or not accepting them as Mediators of Peace. Secondly, in inclining to make some Coniunction with the Suedes; such as may prejudice the King of Denmarke; with reference to both which, he giveth his Reasons at length.

212. To Mr. Secretary Nicholas. 2 June, 1644. fol. 121. b.

Gesseth, that the French are far aduanced, or resolu'd to huddle vp a Truce (which will vndoe all the Protestants) if they cannott agree vpon a Peace. That the Invitation of the Elector-Palatin, is very feruent; & doth oblige the French farther than any other publick Act of theirs. He therefore thinks it agreeable with His Majesties intentions, that that Prince either goe or send thither, Resolu'd to Stand or Fall with the Publicque. If it shall be Peace; they cannott with Honour, leave Him out, for their owne expressed Reasons & Interest. If the Treaty shall breake; He shall rest Unreconciled, with good Company: where any Privat Decision would Shutt Him up for euer.

213. To the Prince-Elector. 11 June, 1644. fol. 122.

Esteeming, the French Invitation of His Highnesses Assistance at the Generall Treaties, a very great Obligation on their Part; and such, as may worke great Effects for Him. But that a Truce is to be avoided as a Rock upon which His Cause will Splitt; and hopes that the States of Holland will look to the Danger of of it.

214. To Mr. Auery. 20 June, 1644. ibid.

Believing not that the French intend a Peace, when they multiplie their Charge in new Seiges, of such Importance as Grauelin; nor, that they will euer giue it up, if they gett it; or the States of Holland consent. Nor yet, that the Spaniards will rest content with the Loss, & ordinarie Conditions of a Truce, quæ possident, possideant: so he fears not their sudden Agreement, but our owne Condition, to see our Seas hemmed in by a potent & growing Neighbour. That formerly, England would not haue suffered the French so to swell, as to be able to braue vs in the Mouth of Thames. These are the First Fruits of our more then Vn-ciuill War; which few consider, or understand; and the Presage of worfe. Wee now know, & the King of Denmarke doth feele, how great an Error it is to Stretch a Prerogatiue; or awaken some pretended Rights, which were safer asleepe then practised.

215. To the Queene of Bohemia. 20 June, 1644. fol. 122. b.

Concerning his Disease, which so encreaseth; that only to be Lame, were an Happiness. Wisheth that they who haue neglected his Seruice, may neuer Need it; nor, too late, know, that those Counsells are safest, or more honest wherein is no Selfe-Interest, which He hath alway Neglected & Despised. That, the King of Denmarke may emerge out of his present Danger, that thereby the State of the North may be balanced, & not fall into the Iron-hands of the Suedes. That no Friendship in State is secure against Ambition backed by too great a Power, nor can any wisely trust so great a Jewel as the Baltic-trade to the Curtesie of one Nation. That while things are almost every where in Confusion, and we in an Un-ciuill War; the French will become Masters of the Flanders-coast; which we ought not to Suffer, and the Hollanders will repent. But since all things tend to Ruine, he shall desire with Castruccio, to be buried with his Face downwards; not to see, or Comply in the Graue, with the Vniuersal Disorder.

Vindicating himself, both as to the Integrity & Dexterity of his Negotiations in Germany; which had been questioned in Parliament, upon an Accusation which Sir Thomas avers to be absolutely False, both in Matter & Forme; Substance & Circumstances. Adding, that it is easy to Scandalize any Man, but to Repayre Him, & Leau no Marke behind, Accusers know is Difficult: and therefore, True or False, they haue their Ends, to Defame. Hereupon, Sir Thomas desires Mr. Burlamach to Retract His Aduice to Mr. Pym, & to let him See the Whole & Cleare Truth: professing that He (Himself) is neyther French, Spanish, nor Dutch, but a true English-man (This letter hath no Subscription; but seemeth to be of Sr. Thomas's own Hand; and is fastened into the Book) additions by Hands different from those above-mentioned. fol. 26.

Among these, I observe.

13. An original Letter of John Williams of Rhodogeidio, relating to his own Descent; wherein he cites the booke of Extent or Survey of Northwales, taken before Sir John de Delves in the 26th Year of Edw. III. fol. 33.

This same Book is also cited fol. 148. as the grand extent of Northwales: I remember also, that it is quoted in the Monasticon Anglicanum, as penes Auditorem Walliæ or Northwalliæ. In process of time, it came into the Possession of the late most learned and diligent searcher after old Books, Bishop Stillingfleet, of immortal Memory; and was bought with his other Manuscripts, by my noble Lord the present Earl of Oxford many Years ago, being inscribed 59 C. 1. in this great Repository.

After the said Tract relating to the Gentry of Anglesey; I find another like to it, treating of Caernarvonshire, in the Order following; viz.

14. Table to the Carnarvonshire-Pedegrees, soon to be mentioned. fol. 85.
15. Coats of Arms for Carnarvon: i. e. of those Persons or Families whose Descents are Entred into this following Treatise, or Collection. fol. 87.
16. Names of Places mentioned in Carnarvonshire-Pedegrees. fol. 88.
17. Another Table to the following Descents of Carnarvonshire. fol. 94.
18. Armes of particular Persons or Families, mentioned in the said Descents. fol. 98.
19. Justiciarij Comitatus Carnarvon, A°. 1601; with some of their Armes Tricked. fol. 100.
20. Justices of Peace in Com. Carnarvon, A°. 1620. fol. 103.
21. The Collection of Carnarvonshire-Descents, so often above-mentioned. fol. 104. b.
N. B. Some of these Descents are continued down unto late Years; one of them to A. D. 1696.
22. Original Letter of Owen Smyth of Caernarvon, exhibiting a Copie of a Confirmation of Armes granted to Gruffith John Bangore, by Guyan Kyng of Armes, ann. 35 Hen. VI. fol. 112.

1975. An Heraldical book in folio, written by the Chaloners, so often mentioned, about the year 1620, and to which so many Additions and Continuations have been made by the two last Randle Holmes, long afterwards. It contains,

1. Descents of many of the Nobility & Gentry who have Resided or Possessed Lands in Pembrokeshire, Caermardenshire, Glamorganshire, Brecknockshire, Radnorshire, Cardiganshire, Munmothshire, Herefordshire, &c. and otherwise, on the outside, entituled South-Wales Pedegrees, &c. with Tricks and Blazons of many of the Armes and Crests.
2. After folio 111, comes a Sort of Auætarium of Pedegrees & Armes belonging to Families resident in the same Counties.
3. A Table to the Descents and Armes contained in the Second part of the Book.
4. A Table referring to the Armes exhibited in the former part of the Book.
5. A Table pointing to the Names of the several Families & Principal Persons mentioned in the same former part.
6. At fol. 41. I observe a Copy of a Roll relating to the Manor of Driffeld in Com. Gloucest. being formerly parcel of the Possessions appertaining to the Abbey of Cirencester.

1976. An Heraldical Book in small folio, begun and carried on about A. D. 1594. by a Person of whose Hand-writing I have seen much, both in this Library & elsewhere; but whose Name I could never yet certainly recover. It hath also divers Additions and continuations from the Hands of others. On the Outside it is thus entituled, South-Wales with Salop and Staffordshire Pedegrees; with those also of diverse other Countyes. The Book begins from both Ends; for what is entered therein is done in manner promiscuous, and without any Order: And forasmuch as the Pageing thereof begins from what may be called the Later or Wrong End, I shall endeavour briefly to describe what it containeth, in the manner following.

1. The Names of the Signs of the Zodiac; the Names of the twelve Months in Welsh; and in Latin, with their several Numbers of Days enumerated: seeming to have been copied by the third Randle Holme from some old Calendar written by a Welsh Hand.

2. Pedegree of Sir Christopher Hatton (as it was made up for Him, and) Confirmed by Robert Cooke als. Clarendulx, A. D. 1574. said to have been Copied from the Originall & Ja. Cha. (i. e. James Chaloner) fol. 1.

If this be to be understood of the individual Hand which Entred this and the following Descents, my Doubt might be solved: but this Note being written not by this same Hand, but by another, I am not satisfied but that this Copie might be taken from that which James Chaloner made from the Roll, perhaps in a loose single paper.

3. Then follows the promiscuous Collection of Pedegrees above-mentioned, being of English and Welsh Families, the Writer whereof seems to have been versed in the English, Welsh, Latin & French Tongues. fol. 3.

Herein, besides the Armes & Crests of sundry antient Families, I further observe,

4. The aforementioned names of the Months in Welsh; with certain Letters, Monograms, and Words, seeming to have been copied from the old Book or Calendar hinted at before, at §. 1. fol. 23.

5. Some few Church-Notes illustrating the Descent of the antient Family of Bassiet of Blore. fol. 36. b.

6. Some Welsh Notes relating to their Descents, &c. fol. 45. b. fol. 52. b.

Now beginning at the other (or first) End of the Book, I find

7. A Table of the Descents of this Booke, & other things therein; made by the second Randle Holme of Chester.

8. An Alphabet of the Cotes, Crests, or Quarterings in this booke; made by the said Randle Holme, 1632.

9. Armes, in Blazon, of divers Persons & Families; both Welsh and English. fol. 141.

10. Alphabetical Table of the several Counties of Wales & England, wherein the Principal Persons & Families, whose Descents are entred into this Book, held their Residence; whose Names, with references to their said Descents, do follow those of their respective Counties. fol. 139.

11. Some other of the Pedegrees above-mentioned. fol. 138. b.

12. Les Nomes del Baronage d'Angleterre; ouesque le Blafonne de leur Armes. 134.

Num. 1976. — 1977.

Note, that divers Descents of Families, are intermingled herein; as are also the Armes in Blason, of many antient & worshipful English Families, at fol. 131. b.

13. Two Church Notes relating to the Nedeams. fol. 122. b.

14. List of the Irish Nobility; with Pedegrees intermixed, as before. fol. 117.

15. Of Degrees of Persones vnder the Kinge: Wm. Fletewood recordator London. fol. 107.

16. A Collection of Descents from the Reign of K. Stephen down to that of K. Henry vi. (both inclusive:) shewing how severall Baronies came to be inherited by those who enjoyed them, by Right of Descent from Females. fol. 105.

If I mistake not, Mr. Robert Glover drew up somewhat in this kind; or perhaps this is part of that work.

17. More Welsh Notes, relating to their Tribes, Families, & Descents; transcribed from antient Books, and extant in many places. fol. 91.

18. Arma; ex veteri libro Cambrico: i. e. Armes of several particular persons of the Welsh Nation, in Blason. fol. 85. b.

1977. An Heraldical book in fol. which seems to have been begun about A. D. 1611, by the Chaloners, and to have been carried on & continued by the two last Randle Holme's, even down to the year 1703. In it I find,

1. The last Randle Holme's List of the Things of Note contained in the Beginning of this Book, before the Pedegrees. fol. 1. b. according to my Numeration of the Leaves, with Black Lead.

2. Table to the Pedegrees soon to be mentioned. fol. 2.

3. Verses in praise of the Leek, being the British Badge. fol. 9.

4. Relation of Prince Henries Sickness & Death. fol. 10.

5. The Coate & the Cognifance of our Lord & Savior Jesus Christ. (very foolish & ridiculous.) fol. 11.

6. Another; devised by the first Foure Fathers of the Church. (as Idle as the former.) fol. 11. b.

7. Armes, in Trick, of British Princes, Families, & Persons. fol. 12.

8. Another Collection of British or Welsh Armes: by the same Hand: by the Chaloners, &c. fol. 20.

9. Insignia Anglorum inhabitantium Comitatus Flynt, Denbigh, &c. in Wallia. fol. 24.

10. Table referring to the Coats & Crests Entred into this Book. fol. 27.

11. Armes of the Welsh Bishopricks; of the Lords Presidents of Wales; and of the Cheife Justices of Wales & Chester, mostly tricked with Black Lead, and therefore Vanishing off the Paper. fol. 33.

12. Armes (done with Black Lead) of the Four Princes of Wales; i. e. of North-Wales, South-Wales, Powis, & Glamorgan. fol. 33. b.

13. Names of the Fifteen Peeres, or Tribes, of North-Wales. ibid.

14. Names of the Old Earls of Chester from Hugh Lupus; of his Four Barons; of the Six Counties of North-Wales; and of the Welsh Knights inhabiting therein. fol. 33. b.

15. Table referring to many of the Principals or

Num. 1977. — 1978.

Ancestors of Welsh Families, whose Descendants are taken Notice of in this Book. fol. 34.

16. A very large & numerous Collection of Welsh Pedegrees, including also some English Families who have had their Residence in Wales: whereunto many Continuations have been made. fol. 35.

This Collection is here & there Adorned & Improved by Copies of, or Extracts from Records, or Private Deeds; by some Church Notes; & Original Papers.

17. Names of Places mentioned in the Descents of this Book. fol. 260.

18. A Table of these Descents following, (that is, being registred in this book) fol. 266.

19. Part of another like Table. fol. 268. b.

20. Part of a Descent of a Family of Jones. fol. 269.

1978. A Book in folio, done by several Hands, and seeming to have been Collected from divers others. In it are contained the following Heraldical Matters.

1. The Armes (in Colours) of Welsh Houses & Families, together with those of some English, who have resided in Wales. Some of these Armes are likewise Blasoned. fol. 1.

2. Among the said Armes I find some scattered Pedegrees of Welsh Families. Then follows an older Tract, or Collection; being Dated A. D. 1614. wherein are Entred,

3. The Armes of Kendrick Evell, between the Quarterings of Lloyd of Yale & Moston of Moston. fol. 50.

4. Armes of the Bishopricks of St. David & St. Asaph, in Colors. fol. 51.

5. Armes of Gruffith ap Jankyn, & of Herle; both in Colors & in Blason. fol. 51. b.

19. Original Letter of John Davies the Compiler of this Book, to Thomas Earle of Arundell & Surrey, Earle-Marshall of England, &c. setting forth that he had accomplished His Lordships Command in transcribing the Charters heertofore graunted by his noble Auncestors vnto the Towne of Oswestrie, now extant among their Records: the Coppies whereof, together with such Notes and Observations of his owne (concerning the Antient & Moderne Names of Oswestrie; and of some Places & Thinges remarkable in, & neare the same; together with a short Discourse of the Baronie & all the Barons thereof, since the Conquest:) as the scantnesse of the Times & Helpes could afford, all which he humbly presenteth vnto His good Lordship. This Letter is Dated from his poore House at Midlton neare Oswestrie, the 15th of December, 1635.

1982. An Heraldical Book in fol. written by many Hands, and relating to the Descents and Armes of antient Shropshire-Families. It exhibits.

1. Alphabetical Table directing to the Cotes, Crests, or Quarterings contained in this book, made (as it seems) about the 10 December 1632. by the Second Randle Holme.
2. His Alphabetical Table of the Names of Shropshire-Persons and Families, whose Descents are specified in this book.
3. Salope-Visitation, 1623. or, as it is Noted on the Outside, Shropshire Pedegrees & Coates, &c. begun to be copied by Mr. Thomas Chaloner; with very many Additions & Continuations by

VOL. II.

Num. 1982 — 1984.

- the Hands of the two last Randle Holme's, Mr. Richard Mundy and several others. fol. i.
Herein I find interspersed,
4. Some Extraits from, or Transcripts of old Family-Deeds; as at fol. 17. 51. b. 55. b. 56. d. 62. 78. c.
 5. Armes of Shropshire-Gentry, in Blason. fol. 43. b. 44. b.
Armes of divers Staffordshire Gentlemen in Blason; (& of Stafford-(Shrop-?)shire Knights in Trick) fol. 56. 78. d.
 7. Original Letter of Richard Mundy above-mentioned; as it seems, to Randle Holme of Chester: Dated 22 June 1638. before fol. 78.
 8. Armes of many antient Families, chiefly of those of Shropshire, both in Trick & in Blason. fol. 103.
 9. Pedegrees of Welsh Families; perhaps of such as have Resided in, or near Shropshire. fol. 124.
This is of Chaloner's Hand, and seems to be a Tract distinct to itself. This is followed by
 10. An imperfect Tract, by the first Hand Entituled The Visitation of Shropshire; under which, the Second Randle Holme hath written thus, taken 33 Q. Eliz. of which Visitation I knew not, before I saw this Remainder. The Descents are, for the most part, dashed through with a Pen; and sometimes hath the Heraldical Note of Entries made into some other Book, as may be seen at the bottom of fol. 73. 73. b. fol. 75. b. 76. b. &c. for which Reason I believe they are the Originals, so far as they go. It is needless to repeat the Hand of the Second Randle Holme doth farther appear among these Descents. 'Tis Pity there is no more of this Valuable Tract, which now begins with folio 72.
1983. An Heraldical Book in folio, which seems to have been contrived, laid out, or disposed by some Armes-painter, and (as to the greatest part of it) per formed by his Apprentice. It contains,
1. A large Collection of the Pedegrees of Shropshire-Families, with the Armes Painted, together with some Church-Notes, & Extraits from Family-Deeds; seeming to have been taken from one of the old Visitation-books of that Countie, that is older than the Visitation of A. D. 1623.
This Collection hath met with great Improvements, not only by Continuation of those Descents, but by the Addition of many fresh Pedergees, by the Hands of Mr. Richard Mundy, or Thomas Knight Chester-Herald, Randle Holme III. and several others.
At the End I find,
 2. The said Randle Holme's Table to the Coates & Crests given in this Volume; and
 3. Another of the Pedegrees, wherein are many superfluous Names.
1984. An Heraldical Book in folio, on the Back entituled the by last Randle Holme, Surrey Pedegrees & Shropshire: but I, in turning over the same find what follows,
1. His Table, directing to the Coates & Crests exhibited in this Booke.
 2. A small Alphabet of the Armes in Blason of many of our old English Gentry of most Counties. fol. 150.
At the Top of the Letter A, or first Page of this Alphabet, somebody hath written Surrey Com. which perhaps may have given occasion to the particular mention of that County on the Back, as is above observed.
Intermingled, in divers Places, with the said Alphabet, is,

3. A large Collection of the Descents of our English Nobility, made in the times of Queen Elizabeth & K. James the First, with many Continuations & Additions by Thomas Knight Chester-Herald, as it seems; & several others. ibid. Without doubt, some of the Persons mentioned in these Descents did actually reside in Surrey; but whether this whole Collection ought therefore to be called Surrey-Pedegrees, I leave to others.
 4. A larger Collection of the Descents of the Shropshire-Gentry, Registred by the Hands of Sir Henry St. George (perhaps then but Richmond-Herald) Mr. Thomas Knight Chester-Herald) & other Officers of Armes, as it seems. fol. 189. b. I have heard that there was a Visitation of this County by Thomas Chaloner, A. D. 1593: and that there was another taken by Robert Treswell Somerset, & Augustine Vincent Rouge Croix, about A. D. 1623. but suppose not these Descents to have been Registred at either of those Times. Nevertheless, these Papers seem to be Originals, & Thomas Knights Letter C upon most of them, shew that they have been Copied from hence, & Entred into some other Book. The others may have been added since.
 5. In this Tract (as well as in the last) appear some few Church-Notes, and Extracts from old Deeds; as also the Names of the Knightes made by my Lord of Essex, & my Lord Admirall in the Viage to Spayne, A. D. 1596. fol. 256.
 6. Armes of British Kings: and of the Saxon Kings during the Heptarchy; said to be taken owte of a Petegree of Mr. Stowe's, made in Henry the 7th yme. fol. 262. b.
 7. Armes of British Kings to Cadwaleder; and from Egbert to Harold: said to be taken oute of the Role of the Kings of England, as they are set oute by the Heralds. ibid.
 8. Here are also some more Discents of our Nobility & Gentry, of different Counties, at fol. 263. b. 294. b.
 9. Order of the Buriall of the Lord Hundesdon Lord Chamberleyne; who was buried at Westminster the 12th of August, 1596. fol. 294.

41. His Index Locorum; or like Table of the Names of Places.
It may be observed, that the Extracts from Original Deeds, are improved or adorned by Tricks of the Seals, or pieces of Seals then remaining & thereunto appendant.
1986. A thin book in fol. written, perhaps, by the second Randle Holme, and thus entituled, A Breviat of the Bushops of England, out of the Workes of Francis Godwyn Bushop of Landaff; called the Catalogue of Bushops: printed, 1615.
This Breviat doth not run through the whole Work; comprehending only the Arch-bishops of Canterbury; with the Bishops of London, Winchester, Ely, Lincoln, Coventre & Lichfield with Chester, Sherborn & Salisbury.
1987. An Heraldical Book in fol. on the outside entituled thus, Lancashire-Pedegrees; and may contain, for ought I now know, the greatest part of the Visitation-book of that County; compiled by William Flower Norroy A. D. 1567.

Num. 1987. — 1988.

- to which very many fresh Pedegrees have been Added, and numerous Continuations made by the two last Randle Holme's, (besides other Notes & Entrances) even down to A. D. 1704. Besides all which, I observe,*
1. An Alphabetical Table to the Coates & Crests Tricked in this Book.
 2. Another Table directing to the Pedegrees. Both these at the beginning: and in the Work it self.
 3. A printed Leaf, seeming to be a Specimen of a Book intituled The County Palatine of Lancaster illustrated; and here giving the Descent & Armes of Trafford. fol. 1. b.

1989. A Book in folio, written by severall Hands, and treating (as is Noted on the Back) upon the Subject of The Antiquities of Chester,
VOL. II.

Num. 1989.

from several Authors, and Books of good Note & Use, in the manner following:

1. Randle Holme's Account of the Things of most Note in this Booke; made A. D. 1668.
2. A Collection of the Maiors who have governed this City of Chester, and the tyme when they governed: said by the Second Randle Holme, to have been written by Mr. William Higginson Sheriffe of Chester. fol. 370.
This Tract is not finished; as giving only a short account of the Scituation & Antiquitie of the Citty, & somewhat of a Description, in generall, of the County; and a brief Narration of its Earls.
3. The same Randle Holme's Notes out of Mr. Bostock's Manuscript made per Henricum Archidiaconum Huntingdoniensem, ad Alexandrum Lincolnensem Episcopum, anno 1145; and after continued by John Mathensis a Monke of Deulacres to Hen. III's time. fol. 376. b.
These Notes are very incorrecly copied; and come down to K. Henry the IVth's time; even to the Battel of Shrewsbury. (See more about this MS. of Mr. Bostock's fol. 403.)
4. His List of Coroners of the City of Chester. fol. 383. b.
5. Treasurars of Chester, as I have mett with them in record. fol. 384.
6. Articles touching a Constables Office; out of Mr. Knights bookes. To be given euery Constable at takinge his Oath; in writinge. fol. 385.
7. Large Extracts made by Randle Holme, out of the Black Booke of Chester; containing many material passages of that Cities Business, from 10 July, ann. 33 Hen. VIII. to 18 June A. D. 1624. fol. 385.
8. An idle account of the several Citties & Towns throughout England, whose Name end with Cester, Chester, or Caster; as if they were all Daughters, forsooth, of this our Mother-City of Chester. fol. 396. b.
9. A Tract concerning the Description & History of the City of Chester, wherein is much of that of Mr. Higginson abovementioned, recited verbatim; and may perhaps be part of some other Draught of his Book. fol. 397.
Herein, (viz. fol. 397. b.) the Author cites the Policraticon of Roger of Chester, as also the Polichronicon of Ranulph Monke of Chester; thereby owning them to have been different men and different books; about which, I have before given my poor Opinion, in the former Volume of this Catalogue.
10. The Succession of the Erles of Chester, collected out of sundrie Authors, by Mr. Robert Rogers sometime Archdeacon of Chester, and others. fol. 407. b.
11. Of those worthie Persons to whom the Erles committed the Governement of this Citie (viz. the Constables) vntill a Maior was appointed to be Cheefe Governor thereof. As also, of the Steward, & Justices of Chester, down to the Year 1482. fol. 425.
12. A Survey of the River of Dee, which runneth vnder the Citie of Chester. fol. 427. b.
13. The Toll payable at Dee-bridge, for sundry Commodities, according to a Presentment of greate Antiquitie. fol. 430.
14. Of all the Wards, Streetes & Lanes within the Citie of Chester; as they were named in the Dayes of Kinge Edward the Third. fol. 431.

Carta, quâ Willelmus Clyf Decanus Ecclesie Cathedralis Cestr. et Capitulum ejusdem, ad requisicoem Regis et Consilij sui, ad perpetuam Feodi Firmam dimitunt Richardo Hurleston de Pykton Generoso, Manerium suum de Edenshaghe aliàs Idynshawe, et Villam de Newton juxta Cestr. pro annuali redditu 27 l. 14 s. .d. constituentes Richardum Nuthall et Edwardum Planknay Generosos, Attornatos suos ad intrandum, et inde plenam & pacificam Possessionem & Seisinam deliberand. Dat. 20 die Novembris, anno 4 R. Edwardi vi. fol. 530.
65. Order of the Commissioners mentioned above at §. 57. upon their calling divers of the parties concerned, of both sides, before them. At which tyme it was alledged that there was Defecte in the Letters Pattents made by K. Henry viii. of the Dotation & Graunt of the Lands & Possessions made to the Deane & Chapter of Chester, by reason of the Omission of some materiall Words in there Name of Corporation, from the true Name by which they were Incorporated by other Letters Pattents of the Kinge. Whereupon, Doubt was made as well of the Validitye of the Estate of the said Deane & Chapter, as of the said Fee-farmers which clayme there Estate by Graunt from the said Deane & Chapter. For getting an Assurance from Her Majestie of all the Lands & Possessions claymed by the said Fee-farmers. For Raising the Rents, in the Gross; and laying the Sum to be raised upon the Tenants, according to the Value or Quantity of what they held. Dat. 7 Aprilis, anno 21 Elizabethæ Regine. fol. 532.
66. Part of a Lease, whereby Mr. William Clyffe Doctor of Lawe, Deane of the Cathedrall Church of Chester, & the Chapter of the same place, do Lett to Farme, to Richard Dutton of Chester Draper, all their Messuages, Lands, Tenements, &c. sett, lying & beinge in the Cittie of Chester, precincts of the same, or elsewhere, as specified & declared in a Scedule to the same annexed; unto th'end of Threescore yeares, at the annual Rent of Threescore & Neene pounds, eightene Pence. Dat. 13 January, anno 6 R. Edw. vi. fol. 540. This is not finished, because it refers to a former Lease mentioned above at §. 19.
67. Exemplification of part of an Inquisition taken 31 Martij 1640, concerning the Mind of Thomas Farmar Schoole-master of the free Grammar-Schoole of Witton in the Countie of Chester; who had bequeathed the yearly benefite of £50. toward the maintenance of a poore & towardly Schollar brought up at the said Schoole, and sent to the University. fol. 543.
68. Extracts from Deeds, with other Notes, taken out of a great Folio-Booke, belonging to the Deane & Chapter of Chester, by the second Randle Holme, and others. fol. 544.

Num. 1994. — 1996

The said Great Folio Booke, seemeth to be the Leiger or Journal Book of the said Dean & Chapter; wherein Minutes of their Transactions & Affairs were Orderly Registred.

69. Extracts from certain Deeds, found in the hands of the Sequestrators, anno 1657. fol. 571.

Among these, mention is made of the Collegiate Church of St. John in Chester; of the Brethren & Sisters of the Fraternity of St. Anne, therein; of the Grange of Stanlowe formerly belonging to the Monastery of Whalley, etc.

1995. An Heraldical Book in folio, on the outside Entituled Coates and Pedegrees; as containing,

1. An Alphabetical Cathalogue of the Names of the Coates of this Roule: that is, directing to the Escocheons included in the next Article, according to the running Numbers sett upon them. fol. 1.
2. A Roll of Armes, as well Welsh as English, belonging to many antient Families, especially those of Herefordshire: now cutt into Leaves & bound up with the rest of the Book. fol. 3.
3. A large Collection of Pedegrees of Noble & Worshipful Families, both of England & Wales; partly extracted from Visitation-books, particularly those of York-shire & Staffordshire taken in the time of Queen Elizabeth; to which some Continuations have been afterwards made; the other part chiefly consists of loose Papers of Descents, Church Notes, &c. either bound with or fastened to the former, wherein divers Entrances may be observed of the Hands of Richard Mundy, Jacob Chalonier, and others. Among them all, I shall particularly observe these only which follow,
4. Descent of Prince Henry from the Houses of Lancaster & York; Engraven. fol. 14. b. according to the present numeration of the Leaves.
5. Some Original Letters scattered up & down; but not (in my opinion) either for the sake of the Persons, or importance of their Matter, requiring particular Mention: unless we except those Papers relating to Mrs. Jane Shelley, who was the Heiress of Lengin (or L'Engayne) of whom there are likewise other Papers in this Noble Library. vid. fol. 57. 66. 91. b. 120. 155. b. Those that relate to the said Mrs. Shelley, may be found at fol. 65. 68. 128. 133. 153. 159. 160. b.
6. Copie of a Confirmation of Armes, & Grant of a Crest, to George Jenkes of the Countie of Salope Gentellman, by Robt. Cooke Clarencieux. Dat. 1 May 1582. fol. 140. et vid. fol. 140 b. In the Principal Letter, is an hasty Trick of the said Clarenceulx in his Habit.
7. Alphabetical Table referring to the Pedegrees found in this Book. fol. 162.
8. Alphabetical Table directing to the Armes Tricked, or otherwise mentioned, in the same. fol. 165.

1996. A Book in folio, consisting of a parcel of loose Papers long since Bound up together; and on the outside thus Entituled, Notes of severall companies in Chester, with their Sutes & Charters. The particulars are these that follow,

Num. 1996.

1. The Third Randle Holme's List of Matters of most Note, to be found in this Book. At the Beginning.
2. Interrogatories to be mynistred to Wittneses to be Examined on the parte & behalfe of Roger Hurleston Gent. Complainant; against Thomas Meoles & Robart Cherke Defendants. fol. 486.
This is concerning their Rights of Fishing in the River of Dee.
3. Deposicons of Witneses taken in the Queenes Majesties Court of Exchequer, in the Castle of Chester, the 12th daie of September, anno 43 R. Elizabethæ, vpon the parte & behalf of Roger Hurleston Gent. Complainant, against Thomas Meoles & Robert Cherke Defendants.
This seemeth to be the Original, and is attested accordingly.
4. The Plea & Demurror of the Alderm. Stewards, & Breethren; of the Compenny of Joyners, Caruers & Turners, within the Citty of Chester, Defendants to the Bill of Complaint of William Smith Complainant. fol. 515.
This is a rough Draught, amended in some places, by Mr. Edward Whitbie Recorder of Chester.
5. The Original Petition of the Company of Joyners, Carvers, & Turners, to Thomas Knowles Maiour of Chester, the Recorder, & Aldermen. fol. 518.
This is against Richard Bolland, a very refractory person, full of his scoffinge Tearmes & apish Toyes, still provoking that Company to daylie Trouble, Vexation, & Charges, and had Vowed & Sworne severall tymes, he would doe the Company as much hurt as He could, &c. for which, they had fined him.
6. Complaint of William Smith of Namptwich, Joyner; to William Earle of Derby & James Stanley Lord Strange his Sonne, Chamberlein of Chester. fol. 520.
This Original Bill sets forth how the Complainant was Arrested in an Action of Trespass, by the Company of Joyners Carvers & Turners, for Working in Chester, being no Freeman; and praying that his Cause might not be heard before the Mayor & his Brethren, but in an indifferent Place, that is in the Court held by the Justices of Assize.
7. Draught of a Bill of Complaint, to the above-mentioned Chamberleyne of Chester, by the Maister & Wardens of the Misteryes or Artes of Marchant-Drapers & Hosiers of the said Citty. fol. 535.
This is against Thomas Deane, who being made a Freeman of the City of Chester, but not of their particular Company; and having clandestinely gotten into his Hands the Charters, Deeds, Books, and other Evidences of the said Company, had unjustly practised & used to Sell all Sorts of Woollen Cloathes there, to their extreme Prejudice. They therefore Pray, that the said Thomas Deane may be Summoned to Answer in their Lordships Court, concerning the Premises; and that in the mean time, a Restraint may be putt upon him, to Hinder his further unlawful Retailing those Commodities.
8. Copie of an Instrument, whereby William Glaesor Mayor, the Aldermen, Sheriffs & Common Counsell of the said City, did Incorporate William Aldersey th'younger & others of the Occupation of Lynen-Drapers, there, and

- make the same a whole & full Occupation of it selfe, distincte and separated from other Occupations within the said Citty: Provyded, that they should not Vtter or Sell any kinde of Lynnen Clothes, but onely Huswifes Clothe; with other necessary Ordinances. Dat. 4 October, ann. 6 R. Edwardi vi. fol. 546.
9. The Drapers & Hosiers Charter of Corporation Englished; anlie for ther playner & better vnderstandinge of the Contents conteyned in the same. fol. 548.
This bare Teste, the 12th daye of anno R. Elizabethæ.
 10. Billa pro Gardian. Artis de les Merchant-Drapers et Hosyers infra Civitatem Cestr. Quer. et Georgium Hastings Def. in Error. fol. 569.
 11. Supplication of the Cappers of Chester, to David Middleton then (i. e. about A. D. 1538.) Maire, & his Co-brethren: Setting forth, that whereas Thomas Smythe in tyme of his Mairealtie (i. e. about A. D. 1535.) had one-rated & charged them to brynge forthe a Playe, concernynge the Storie of Kynge Balake & Balam the Proffet, and at the same tyme promysed them redresse, as to other peoples retheyllynge of cowrse Wares vnder the price of 16 s. the Doffen, as aboue; and that as yet no Refourmation therof can be had, astur greate Instance & Request made: They therefore besече Him, other to se for the Refourmation of the Premysse; or elles to take no Displeasure with theyme, if they for lakke of Habilite, do not brynge forthe theire sayde Play.
This seemeth to be the Original.
 12. Billa pro Aldermanno et Senescallis artis Capiciariorum, vocat Le Cappars Crafte, versus Johannem Kylche, in Placito Conventio-nis fracte: (anno 4 R. Edwardi vi.) fol. 573.
 13. Billa pro Aldermanno et Senescallis artis siue misterij Capiciariorum, vocat. Le Cappars Crafte, versus Johannem Kylche in Placito Transgressionis, ad dampnum 100 solidorum. fol. 574.
 14. Billa pro Aldermanno et Senescallis artis Laniorum, querentibus; versus Laurencium Rawlinson Defendentem; in placito Transgressionis super Casum, ad damnum 40 Solidorum. fol. 574, 575.
 15. Billa, pro Aldermanno artis Candelariorum, et Senescallis ejusdem artis; versus Laurentium Rolyson, in Placito Transgressionis; anno 5 R. Edwardi vi. fol. 576.
 16. The joynte & feuerall Ayde Prayers & Aun-sweares of George Norwood, Louurence Rawlynson, William Sconce, & Richarde Foxeley, Defendants; to the Bill of Complaynt of John Danolde Alderman of the Arte or Mystery of Bakers, and the Stewards of the same Arte or Mistery, Complainants. fol. 577.
Setting forth, that forasmuch as the Matters in the said Bill of Complaint conteyned, of Righte oughte to be determined elsewhere, they desire to be dismissed with their reasonable Costes: because they are Inhabitants & Dwellers within the Queens Mannor and Lordshippe of Hanbridge, and are Customary Tenants to the same. To which Her Noble Progenitors among divers other Libertyes, Fraunchises, Vtages & Customes, to the said Tenants granted, gave them Liberty to Make & Bake

Num. 1996.

Bread to sell on the two Merckett Dayes weekly, within the Citty of Chester; and this in Consideration of dyvers Rents, Customes, & Services by them Paid & Done, &c.

17. Rejoynder of the Tenants of Handbridge, to the Bakers Replication. fol. 583.

Demurring to the manifest Imperfections of the said Bakers Bill & Replication; and shewing their Right to Sell Bread in Chester as aforesaid, by reason of many Grants from the Crown to the Nuns of Chester, part of whose Possessions Handbridge was; and that the antient Privileges still continue to the Tenants or Inhabitants of the said Lordship, notwithstanding the Dissolution of the Nunnery.

18. The Replicacon of John Daneld Alderman of the Arte or Mystery of Bakers, & the Stewards of the same, Complaynants; to the joynte and seuerall Ayde, Prayers, & Aunswers of George Norwoode, &c. Defendants. fol. 589.

Herein they deny that others are Customary Tenants to the Queens Lordship of Handbridge; or that she had any Customary Tenants there. Averring that they were only Tenants at Will to Edmund Gamull Alderman of Chester the Queenes Fermor there; and therefore they would crave that the Defendants might be enforced to Aunswere, &c.

19. The Bakers Bill agaynst the Queenes Tennants of Handbridge; A. D. 1589. exhibited to Henry Earle of Darby Chamberlen of Chester. fol. 594.

This Bill & the former Replication are Originals; but they, with some other Papers preceding, are much damnified by Moisture.

20. Determination (of Mr. Walley Mayor of Chester, & Sir Francis Gamul) by Virtue of a Reference from Prince Maurice, concerning the Difference between the Bakers of Chester & Mr. Commissary General Russel, who refused to pay £ 66 : 9 : 4. to them upon his Majesties Acct. although that Money was their due. Dat. 13 May 1645. fol. 598.

21. Copie of Prince Maurices Reference, above-mentioned. Dat. 13 March 1644. fol. 599.

22. Letter of Mr. Walley the Mayor & Sr. Francis Gamul, accompanying the Bakers Depositions, & Prince Maurice his Reference, & requiring his speedy Answer. fol. 600.

23. Copie of an Order of Council, for apprehending all such Chester-Feltmakers as did Use the Trade, or keep any Apprentice, without having served Seven Yeares Apprenticeship to that Trade themselves. Dat. 29 July 1629. fol. 601.

24. Supplication of the Company of In-holders & Cookes of Chester, to Hughe Glaseor the Maior, &c. (i. e. about A. D. 1602.) upon their being Presented at the Quarter-Sessions, as Commen Ale-Sellers or Tiplers offending. And therefore Praying, that either They might be Discharged from the said Presentment: or else, that They the Magistrates would proceed no further therein vntill Mr. Judge Warburton & Mr. Recorder should return; or to suffer them to travers the same.

25. Original Bill of Complaint, exhibited by the In-holders & Cookes of Chester, to William Earle of Derby, Chamberlen of that Countie Palatine, against Michael Sheppard, Glover; Thomas Stubbes, Husbandman; & John Whitbie, Sher-

These are all Crossed out; which I take to be a Sign of their being Entred fairly, from hence, into some other Book or Books.
 15. Another Collection of Welsh and English Descents, not crossed out as the former; but, however, Noted by the second Randle Holme, to be (for the most part) extant in some others of his Books. fol. 124.
 16. Notes about the Sur-names of our English Families, taken from Camdens Remains. fol. 144.
 17. Names of the Conquerors of Glamorgan & Brecknockshires. fol. 146. b.
 18. Another Collection of Descents, Welsh & English; like the former; either Crossed out, or Noted to be extant in other Books. fol. 147.
 19. Yet another Collection of mix'd Pedegrees English & Welsh; done upon larger Paper, and all Crossed out. fol. 165.
 20. A Booke of Names, Places & Tymes; taken out of Records, Evidences & Offices. fol. 182.
The Method of this Traet, is to give the Name of the Place (which is for the much greater part in Cheshire) in pretty right Order of Alphabet; and then to sett under the persons name whom they found concerned there, and the time when; that is specifying the year of the King reigning. (This is damaged by being cutt shorter.)
 21. Alphabetical Table to the Pedegrees, contained in this book. fol. 209.
 22. Such another Table referring to the Coates of Armes. fol. 210. b.
1998. A thin oblong Book in fol. on the outside, by the third Randle Holme, thus Entituled, The Names of the Inhabitants of Chester, in the feuerall Wards, about A. D. 1600. but I choose to describe it briefly in the following manner.
1. List of the Inhabitants or House-keepers within the Wards of St. Giles, and of the Holy Trinity, as they were assessed towards the finding or providing of Armor or Armes, A. D. 1595. Mr. William Aldersey then being Mayor. fol. 1.
 2. Another List of the Magistrates, and others of Chester, but their Names uncharged: Mr. Sheriff Wirden being mentioned therein, it appears that it was made A. D. 1590. fol. 5.
 3. Another List of Persons chargeable with Shott; and from Mr. Sheriffe Ratcliffe's being therein named, it appeareth that the same was made, A. D. 1590. fol. 6.
 4. Another uncharged List of Inhabitants Names, through divers Wards of the City of Chester; but no Year, or Office being expressed, I shall not pretend to determine the Time when it was made. fol. 8.
 5. Another List of Persons assessed, throughout certain Wards in Chester; among which I find mention of Mayster Jhon Smythe, Tomas Aldersay, and Rauffe Aldersay, Aldermen. fol. 21.

The last of these was Shiriffe, A. D. 1541. The Second was Mayor A. D. 1549. having been Shiriffe, A. D. 1538. The first was Mayor A. D. 1555, having served as Sheriffe A. D. 1546. But this Assessement being made when Rychard Rauffebon (or Rathebone) was Sheriffe, i. e. 1547. it shewes, that divers in Chester (as in other places) become to be Aldermen, before they are Mayors.

6. The Names of Householdors within St. Oswalds Warde; with their respective Assessements, made when Rychard Bavande was Alderman theareof; who served as Sheriffe A. D. 1571. and was Mayor ten Years after; and again A. D. 1600. fol. 23.

7. Uncharged or unassessed List of the Inhabitants of St. John's Warde, Mr. John Hankye then being Alderman; who was Sheriffe of Chester, A. D. 1556, and Mayor thereof A. D. 1571. fol. 24.

8. A like List of the Inhabitants of Sene Giles Warde, made when Maistar Wylliam Bryde was Alderman there: now there being two William Birdes Tanners, both Sheriffes of Chester, the one A. D. 1546, the other A. D. 1566; I suppose this relates to the former, who was also chosen Mayor, A. D. 1547. fol. 26.

9. Original Assessement of the Inhabitants of St. Martin's Ward toward the Reparation of the Walls of Chester; Signed by the very sorry Hand of Peter Drinkwater Mayor, that is, A. D. 1624. fol. 28.

10. Attested Copie of the same, produced upon the Suit (formerly mentioned, at the book 95. C. 4.) between Sir William Brereton (or Sir Walter Pye for Him) and the City of Chester, upon their Assessing & Distraining upon his Tenants, who had refused to pay toward the same Murage. fol. 30.

1999. Another oblong book in folio, but thickish; consisting of many single or particular Traets or Papers, long since Bound up together, in the following Order.

1. The Third Randle Holmes Notes specifying the Things of most Note in this Book; at the beginning.

2. A true Rentall of all the Rentes of euery feuerall Estate of the Delinquents Sequestered; beinge in the Deuision of Marce Jolicoeur one of the Collectors for Namptwich-Hundred, A. D. 1646. That is to saie, Namptwich, Auveston, Woufston-wood, Leighton, & Wyfstafton. fol. 1.

14. A perfite Accounte of what hath bin receued by Captaine Thomas Hulse Collector in his Deuision in Broxton-hundred, the Towneships expreased; by an Order vnder the Hands of the Commetie, bearing Date the 18th of June 1646. to the 21 of July next after. fol. 44.

15. A perfite Accompte of what Captaine Thomas Hulse hath receued for his Seruis, as Captaine of a Foot-Company, from the 25th of March 1644. to the 14th of March 1645. fol. 45. This Accompt is Signed both by Hulse & Hancoke above-mentioned.

16. A perfite Accompte of what my Officers and Souldiers have Receued, and what is due unto them in Arrears vnpaid. fol. 46. This Accompt was recd. by the Committee, & Attested.

17. A true and perfect Accompte of all such Summes of Money as haue been receiued by Collonell Croxton, and my selfe (i. e. Robert Venables, as Captaine, Lieut. Collonell & Governour) at Cholmondeley, vpon the propositions of Parliament, beginning, 25 Aug. 1643. by Order from Sir William Brereton. fol. 47. This Accompt also includes their Disbursements out of the said Money.

18. A true & perfect Accounte of the time I (Robert Venables) haue served the State in Cheshire; and alsoe what Pay is due vnto me for my Service accordinge to the severall places & capacities I haue Served in. fol. 52.

BIBLIOTHECÆ HARLEIANÆ.

Num. 1999.

This takes in an Accompt of such Moneyes as He had receiued for & towards his said Pay; and being sworn to (like as the former Accompts were) was Recd. & Signed by the then proper Persons. fol. 52. b.

19. Accompts (both of Receipts & Disbursements) of Thomas Hickocke & Thomas Bennet, from January 1645, till November 1646. they being Sequestrators for one part of the vpper Division of the Hundred of Werrall. fol. 55.

This was attested upon Oath to be true, deliver'd in & Signed accordingly.

20. Accompt of the Inhabitants of Frodsham, as to the Moneyes paid by them according to the Sequestrators Orders; or of their other Losses sustained from the Parliament-party. fol. 65.

This was deliver'd in, upon Oath: & signed accordingly, 25 May 1647.

21. A true & perfect Accompt of all such Summes of Money as haue bene Disbursed by Randle Grafton one of the Collectors of Sequestred Estates within the Hundred of Northwich in the County of Chester, for the vse of the Common-Wealth. fol. 83.

22. Randle Grafton Collector his Booke of Accompts for Receipts, pro ann. 1645 & 1646. fol. 96. b. (wrong side upwards.)

The Delinquents whose Estates were in his clutches (or at least part of them) were the Barron of Kinderton, Lord Kilmurrey, Lord Brereton, Mr. John Boothe, Mr. Liverlage, Mr. Law. Winington, Deane & Chapter of Chester, Randle Hardinge, Mr. Robert Elcocke, Mr. Robert Carter, Sir Thomas Aston, Sr. Richard Lewson, Sir Thomas Smith, Erle Rēvers & Mr. Sauage.

23. A Booke declaringe what Rents & other Moneyes Sequestred out of seuerall Delinquents Lands & Estates in North-wiche-Hundred, in Cheshire, for the Vse of Kinge & Parliament; haue bene collected & receiued by William Leftwiche, one of the Sequestrators of that Hundred, A. D. 1643. fol. 98.

Here, the principal Delinquents were the Lord Cholmondeley, Earle Rivers, Earle of Derby, Lord Brereton, Lord Kilmorey, Peter Venables Esq; Jeffrey Shackerley Esq; Thomas Cholmondeley Esq; Peter Leicester Esq; & Hugh Wilbraham Esq;

24. A true & perfect Accompt of all the Moneyes receiued by Mr. Raph Poole, Collector for North-wich-Hundred, from 1 of March 1644, to the 1 of June 1645. fol. 103.

This Accompt includes also his Disbursements during the said Time: and is followed by diuers others of his like Receipts & Disbursements; but being all within the same Hundred, I think their seuerall Titles need not be transcribed here.

25. Accompt of Mr. Peter Bromfield, A. D. 1644 & 1645. viz. of his Receipts & Disbursements. fol. 127.

This Man was of the gainful mystery or occupation of Sequestrators; and as to the truth of his Accompt, would boggle as little at an Oath, as Ralph Poole, or the other Saints above-mentioned, did.

26. A true and perfect Accompt of all the Moneyes which haue bene Receaved out of Delinquents Estates within the Divisions of Mr. Poole & Mr. Grafton, Collectors for Northwich-Hundred, from the 10th of April last, to the 14th of May A. D. 1646. Collected

These Rentals abovementioned, were received from the Sequestratours & their Agents, vpon Oath, by the Committee, 24th 1645. and Signed by them accordingly.
 83. Walter Heaton's Accompt of Money receiued by him for Towles (f. Tolls) & Stallage for the Towne & Baronie of Stockport from 9 July A. D. 1645, till the 19th of December 1645. fol. 222.
N. B. what is above, is only the first Branch of a large Accompt of Receipts & Disbursements; which accompt being delivered unto the Committee of Sequestration, upon Oath, was Signed accordingly by those then present.
 84. The further Accompts of William Lestwiche, declaringe what more Rents & other Moneys Sequestred for the use of King & Parliament, haue beene by Him as Collectour for some part of North-wich Hundred, Collected & Received for the Use aforesaid, out of the feuerall Delinquents Lands & Estates in that Hundred. fol. 258.

preceding Article) seem to have been deliver'd upon Oath, to the Committee, and Signed by them accordingly, 21 June, 1647.

86. A Rentall or Booke declaring what Old or other Rents for the Yeares 1643, 1644, & 1645, were & are payable to the severall Lords, Gentlemen, & others Delinquents, for their Lands & Tenements Sequestred, according to Instructions of Parliament in that behalfe: and lying in the Parish of Davenham, & in the Townships of Northwich, Witton, Lostock-gralam, Peuer, & Allostocke; all Scituate in the Hundred of Northwich, & in the Division of William Leftwich Collectour of the Sequestrated Moneys & Rents. fol. 315.

This was deliver'd in upon Oath, 5 September 1645; and signed by the Commissioners accordingly.

87. Accompt of the said Sequestrator, or Collectors Disbursements, A. D. 1643. fol. 337. Herewith, is a Fragment touching his Receipts during that Year; and another of his Receipts A. D. 1644.

88. Another Accompt of the said Leftwicke's Receipts & Disbursements, from the said Delinquents Estates, in the years 1647 & 1648. fol. 345.

This Accompt was likewise given in upon Oath; and Signed accordingly.

2000. An oblong Heraldical book in fol. on whose Back, the last Randle Holme hath written this Title, Sutes of Coates; & Coates of severall places: which I shall presently endeavor to explain. But I beg leave, in the first place, to Observe, that it is indeed a sort of an Armes Book; that the said Collection seems to have been made (or at least, begun) in the time of Queen Elizabeth; and was rudely or hastily done, by severall hands, some of which seem to be of Officers of Armes: and by this Mark X, or this O, upon or near to most of the Escutcheons, the greatest part of it seems to have been more leasurely & fairly Entred into some other Book, for ready & constant Use. Moreover, at the beginning, I find

1. An Alphabetical Table of the Coates in this Booke; made either by the said Randle Holme, or by his Appointment.

2. Part of the Old Table, which is almost useless; because it seldome directs to the Leaves, where the desired Armes are to be found. More of it may be seen at folios, or pages, 88, 101, & 109.

3. The Collection it self, which beginning in the nature or manner of an Ordinary; was, perhaps what Randle meant by his Sutes of Coates; which I take to be an uncouth Expression. fol.

1. More Coates disposed in this way of Ordinary, may be found at folios, or pages, 4, 7, 8, 10, 12, 16, 20, 22, 38, 41, 52, 57, 72, &c. As to his Expression of Coates of severall Places; I understand it not as if here was a Collection of Armes of Kingdomes, Cities, Monasteries, Corporations, &c. for, in truth, I see none such: but rather, that the proper Helps for compiling this Collection did appear, and were made use of in severall places; as is now and then hinted at in the book; especially where we find land in the tyme of King Edward the First, Anno 1300. pag. 23.

5. Some intimation (the Writing not plain) as if Armes were Collected at the House of the Lord Treasurer Burghley. pag. 82.

It is certain that that great Man did cause the Armes of many eminent Persons to be painted in his House; which may remain yet, for ought I know.

6. Henningham's Pedegre: i. e. Armes only collected from the Pedegree of Heveningham. pag. 92.

2001. A Book in folio, whereinto the last Randle Holme had fastened divers of his loose Prints & Drawings; which seeming not properly to come under the Denomination of Manuscripts; I shall here forbear the Description of them, and hasten to the next book.

2002. A Book in folio consisting of many loose Papers & Tracts, long since Bound up together, and by the last Randle Holme Entituled Cheshire-Deeds. They are,

1. The same Randle's List of Matters of most Note in this Book. At the Beginning

2. Litteræ Patentis R. 3. Estimate of the Charge in Repairing & amending the Decaied Rooms & Walls, &c. in and about the Castle of Chester; as the same was Surveyed by Sr. Richard Trevor, Sr. Richard Grosvenor, Edward Dodd Esq. & Richard Brereton Esq; fol. 239.

4. The jointe and severall Answears of Richard Grosvenour Esq; and Sir Richard Grosvenour Knight, his Sonne & Heire apparant, Defendants; to the Bill of Complaint of Sir Robert Cholmondeley Barronett, Complaynant. fol. 241.

This rough Draught sheweth, that Contention arose between the said Parties, upon occasion of certain waft Grounds called Willey-more, Willey-purse, & Willey-pitts, which the Complainant claimed as part of his Maner or Lordship of Bickley; alledging that the Defendants by some casuall or indirect meanes had into their Hands divers auncient & other Deeds, Evidences, Writings, Escripts, Boundaries, & Miniments touching & concerninge the said Mannour or Lordship of Bickley, and the Commons, Mores & Waft grounds thereunto belonging. On the other side, the Defendants claimed the same Waft Grounds as parcell of their Mannour of Tuftingham. (f. rectius, Tuftingham)

5. Purport of the Grant (abovementioned at §. 2.) of the Lead-Mines in Colchilt & Ruthland; extracted from the same by Will. Hill Auditor, 6 August 1629; in Order to a New Lease. fol. 247. b.

This Grant I take to be the Commission mentioned in the last Section or Article: and it may be easily imagined that the Rebels, when gotten into Power, & into the Possession of Chester, would be Revenged to the utmost of all those who Acted by its Color & Authority: so that it is no wonder if the Holme's Family were suddenly oppressed, and (at long run) brought to ruin. I remember a Son of the Third Randle Holme (who was Son to the Second, who was Mayor when this Commission was Issued out; who was Son to the old Alderman, named in the same Commission) and, I think, his name was also Randle. He was a Tapster or Chamberlain in the Golden Talbot-Inne in Liverpoole, A. D. 1694. his poor Father the third Randle then Living.

19. Bill of Complaint exhibited by the Maior & Cittizens of the Citty of Chester, to William Earle of Derby Chamberleine of the County-Palatine, against one William Hodges of the Citty of London Marchant, who being no Free man of the City of Chester, had caused to be brought in by Sea, one Barque laden with Merchandizes to the Value of £3000; for which there was due to the Petitioners, feuerall Subsidies, Tolles, & Customes (as of Tonnage, Poundage, Murage, &c.) to the somme of £10: 13: 5. which he, att length, utterly refused to pay, after he had made many solemn promises of making due payment, by a certain day. They therefore Pray that the said Hodges might be Attached by his Body, & enjoyned to putt in good Suerties, for answearing hereunto, &c. fol. 690.
20. Copie of the Decree Issued from the Chamberlaynes Court, for the Citty, against the said William Hodges. Dat. 22^{mo} die Aprilis, A. D. 1612. fol. 696.
The Defendants chief Argument was, that He was a Free Citizen of London; whose Citizens were, by many Charters of our Kings, exempted from the payment of any Tolls, Subsidies, or Customes, in any Port or Place of this Realme. Now this Suit concerning all Citizens of London trading to Chester, and being of great importance to the said City of Chester; it was (in favor to both Sides) suffer'd to ripen & grow to maturity by slow Degrees. At length (after much Art and Trouble given by Hodges) the Court pronounced Judgement against Him, whereby he was to pay all the said Customes, with large Costs.

37. List, or Panell of the Juries of Flint, Denbigh, Cheshire, & Cittie of Chester; together with a List of the Commissioners of Sewers; soon hereafter to be more plainly mentioned. fol. 764. et 775. b.

38. An Extract from the abovementioned Commission of Sewers, whereby K. James 1. authorised William Earle of Derby, George Byshop of Chester, Richard Byshop of St. Asaph, Sir Peter Warburton K^t. one of the Justices of the Common Pleas, Sir Richard Lewkenor Knight Chief Justice of Chester, Sir Henrie Townesende K^t. one other of the Justices of Chester, the Mayor of the Cittie of Chester for the time being, Sir Richard Bulkeley, and many others of the principal Gentry of Cheshire, Flintshire, & Denbighshire, upon this His Notification, that the Walles, Ditches, Bankes, Gutters, Sewers, Goates, Calceis, Bridges, Streames, and other Defences by the Coast of the Sea & Marsh Ground, beinge & lyinge within Lymitts, extending from Hillbrye vpwards, within Land, alonge the same Ryver, unto Newe-Bridge neere the Castell of Chirke in the Countie of Denbigh, by Rage of the Sea flowinge & Reflowinge, and by meanes of the Trenches of fresh Waters descendinge & havinge Course by divers Wayes to the Sea; be so dirupte & lacerate; and the Comon Passages of Shippes, Ballengers & Boates in the Ryvers, Streames, & other Flüds within the said Lymitts, by meane of Settinge vpp, & makinge of Streames, Milles, Bridges, Ponds, Fish-garthes, Mil-dames, Locks, Hebbinge-Wearres, Hecks & Flud-gates, or other lyke Letts, Ympedyments or Annoyances, be Letted or Intervpted: soe that greate & inestimable Damage, for Defalte of Reparation of the said Walles, Fences, Ditches, &c. and also by meanes of Settinge vpp & enlarginge of the said Fishgarthes, Mil-dames, &c. in tymes paste haue happened; and yet is to be feared, that farre greater Hurte, Losse, & Damages are lyke to ensue, vnlesse speedie Remedy be provyded: to Meet together, and call before them all proper Persons; and so Orderly to Assess all such as should be liable thereto; to fine & punish the refractory; to provide fitting Materials of all kinds; to pull down, repair, strengthen, & enlarge, in all necessary places; &c. until this Service entrusted to them should be brought to the desired End. This Commission bears Teste, at Chester, the 29th of Auguste Anno Regni sui Angliæ, &c. quinto. fol. 765.

On the Back, this Commission is thus entituled, The Comition of Shewers about the Causey in Dee. Perhaps that might be thereby taken Care of, as a principal Article.

39. An Inquisition taken by virtue of the Commission aforesaid at Chester, 16 December, anno 5 R. Jacobi 1. where the Jurors Presented the Weare of Richard Grosvenour Esq; made betweene the Towneshippes of Aldforde & Eaton, as hindring the Current of Dee-River: as also the Causey & Floode-gates nere Dee-Bridge, in or nere Chester, as not only hindring the passage of the said River into the Sea; but upon all greate Land Floods, annoying & surrounding of diuers lowe Grounds, to the Damage of £100 ^p ann. besides other Effects of the said Weare, Causey & Floodgates, fatal to the Chanel or Courle of the said River, its Navigation & Fishing. They Presented also the New Key builded at the charge of the Citizens of Chester, as another great annoyance & hindrance to the River. fol. 776.

40. Another Copie of the same Inquisition. fol. 779.

41. The Case of the Mayor & Citizens of Chester; or (as the Second Randle Holme hath putt it on the Back-side) Breviat of the Maior & Citizens, about the Comition of Shewers, to support the Cawsey from beinge pulled downe: Sir John Sauage Maior. fol. 781.

This Breviat seems to be very judiciously drawn up, in opposition to the Decree of some of the Commissioners; as objecting, among many other reasons or arguments, That the Haven was then but in the same Condition, as it is described by Giraldus Cambrensis, and others. That His Majesties Customes at Chester, were then greater than ever. That the Cawsey (which had then been erected above 500 years, and was never before complained of) could not be abated without Destruction of the whole, & loss of the Mills. That the Decree (as the Verdicts found in Wales, which were contradicted by that found in Chester) was made by Parties Interested, who solicited the Cause, before & since, both the Commission & Decree; and continued to prosecute it, as Parties. That of 56 Commissioners, 18 of Wales, and only Six of Cheshire agreed to the Decree (made in the dark, & out of time;) of which number nevertheless many were not actually present at the making of it, but their Hands and Seales were procured to it afterwards: &c.

42. The Case of the Cawsay & Milles in Chester; presented to the Lords the Judges, 13 February 1608. fol. 786.

This is in pursuance of the Breviat abovementioned, against the Causay's being prostrated, pulled down, taken away, &c. & is Signed by Sir John Doddridg, Sir Henry Hobarte, &c. fol. 786. et vid. fol. 849.

43. Another Copie of the same Case, setting forth (as the former did) that the Cawsway, & some of the Mills objected against were certainly standing A. D. 1119. and that others of the said Mills were erected by Johannes de Scotia Earle of Chester, who died A. D. 1237. to the great Benefit of the Inhabitants of that Countrey, & elsewhere, without ever being impeached before. This is also Signed by several of the Judges. fol. 788.

44. Draught of a Letter from the un-signing Commissioners, to the Lords of the Privy-Council, in behalf of the Cawsway built upon a natural Rock, crosse the River Dee. fol. 800.

This was contradicted, as it seemes by the then Earl of Derby, who (with the Bishop and Deane of Chester) had consented to the pulling downe of one half thereof.

45. Draught of another Decree from the Commissioners, for the Salvation of the Causway over the Dee (which they observe to be originally yffuing out of a certaine Mere or Lake in Wales commonly called Pymble-mere, falling down with such Violence, sometymes vpon an Increase of Rayne, and sometymes by Wynde without Rayne, as that the Grounds adjoyning to the sayd River have bene in auncient tymes, as they now are, vsually overflowne; especially those which are toward the Head of the said River, many Miles above the Cawsey) and of the Mills or Water-workes sett up, in or neare the same. Dated the . . . of A. D. 1609. fol. 801.

46. Attested Copie of an Act of Assembly made at Chester, the 9th of October, 1607. wherein they declare the great Reasons they had to preserve the Causway, Mills, & Water-works in & adjoyning to the River Dee (as are likewise finely represented in the Draught last above-mentioned) Resolving that a Petition be made to the Kinge for a Superfedeas of the said Commission; and that other Petitions or Letters should be sent to the Ld. Chanceloure of England, the Lord Treasurer of England, The Earle of Salisbury, &c. fol. 810.

47. Draught of an Act (or Bill) for Explanation of the Statute of Sewers. fol. 811.

This is drawn up, in a View of enlarging the power of the Commissioners of Sewers: but at the back, there are put some Notes disproving it.

48. Attested Copie of an Act of Parliament (of Anno 3 & 4 R. Edwardi VI.) intituled An Act concerning the Cittie of Chester, for Weares in the River of Dee. fol. 815.

49. A Bill by the Cloth-woorkers for Confederacy, to pull downe the Cawsey. fol. 832.

This Complaint was exhibited by John Byngley & other Clothworkers of Chester, to Thomas Earle of Dorset Lord Treasurer, Sir Julius Cæsar Chauncellour & Under-Treasurer of the Exchequer, Sir Lawrence Tanfiel Lord Chiefe Baron, and other the Barons of the same Court: Setting forth the Antiquity, with the great Usefulness & Convenience of the Cawsway, with the Fulling-Mills & Corn-Mills erected upon the River Dee, in or by the City of Chester. As also how there had been a Combination entred into, & a Riot begun by a sort of lewd Persons, who would pull downe the said Cawsway & Mills, which would be not only to the Disperison of the King, but to the Destruction of all the Clothing Trade in those parts; the hindrance of his Majesties Service in Ireland; & the Starving of the meaner Sort, for want of Bread.

50. Divers Draughts, Cases, & other Papers relating to this Matter of the Cawsey & Mills. fol. 849.

51. Petition of the Maior, Aldermen, Citizens & Inhabitants of the Citie of Chester, & of the Gentlemen & Inhabitants of the County Palatine of Chester, neere vnto the said Cittie. fol. 857. b.

This is written upon Velum, and seemeth to be an Original; it is for the Cawsey & Mills; and particularly, against Sir Richard Trevor & other Welsh Gentlemen, who fancied themselves either damnified or hindred by their Standing.

52. Petition of the Meyre & Cominalte of the Citie of Chester for the Customes of the Mynes to be relaxed. fol. 858.

This Petition was exhibited to K. Richard II. in the 21st year of his Reign.

53. Translation of the said Kings Answer to the foregoing Petition; being a Grant, whereby he releaseth to them all further Toll for Grinding their Corne at his Mills than the 16th Grain: but this for Four Years only. Dat. 23 Februarij, anno Regni sui 21. fol. 859.

54. The Case offered by the Commissioners aforesaid, to the Judges; being against the Cawsey & Milles; with this Question grounded upon it, Whether Commissioners of Sewers haue by Lawe Power, by their Decree to pull downe & abate Ten Yards of the said Cawsey? and Whether this Decree, by the Lawes & Statutes of this Realme, may & ought to be Executed, or not? fol. 860.

This is Signed by Three of them.

55. The Case of the Mayor and Cittizens of Chester, containing a full Answer to the former. fol. 862.

This is the same with that mentioned above at §. 41.

56. Breviat of the Maior & Citizens Answere to the Objections, about the Decay of the River of Chester. fol. 867.

This is an Abridgement of the former.

57. Mr. Recorder Whitbie's Notes in the same Affair. fol. 869. et vide fol. 883.

58. The Cause (or Case) of the Mills & Cawsey at Chester. fol. 871.

This is a rough Draught, much amended by Mr. Recorder Whitbie.

59. A Copie of the Commissioners Case, above-mentioned at §. 54. fol. 876.

60. Another Copie of that Case above-mentioned at §. 42. fol. 877.

61. A sort of Brief, in defence of the said Cawsey & Mills. fol. 878.

62. Briefs of the Statutes of Sewers; with the Commissioners Questions thereupon. fol. 879.

63. Commission to Thomas de Pulle, & William Stanley, Esquires, & others; to enquire, by Verdict, concerning the decay of the River Dee, & total Ruin of the Haven of Chester. This bears Teste at Chester, 12 October, anno 28 Regni Regis Henrici vi. fol. 881.

This Commission was grounded upon a Petition of the Citizens of Chester, who alledged the said Misfortunes to be the main occasions of the Desolation & Misery they then Labor'd under; being then so great, as to disable them from paying even the Kings Fee-farme Rent.

64. The Case of the Mayor & Cittizens of Chester. fol. 885.

This is another Copy of that mentioned above, at §. 41.

65. Commissio R. Chester: and, by the last Randle Holme, is on the out-side thus entituled. Notes and Charters of severall Companys within the City of Chester. But a more particular Account of its Contents, is this that follows.

1. The said Randle Holme's Note, or Table of the most remarkable things found herein; but without the necessary Numbers of the Pages. At the beginning.

2. A Quietus est (from the Court of Exchequer at Chester) to James Vaudrey & others for Impost of Wynes, brought into Chester-Port, anno 9 R. Elizabeth. fol. 730.

This is the Original written upon Parchment; the Sum due to the Queen was £1091 : 7 : 4.

3. Original Petition of William Gamull & other Vintners of Chester, to Charles Howard Earle of Nottingham, Lord Highe Admirall of England; Against one Button an Inne-keeper; who having gotten a Wine-Licence, grew troublesome to the other Vintners; indeavouringe to confine them within the Walles of the said City; whenas they were Licensed (although at a very dear Rate) to Retaile Wines not only in the City, but throughout the County of the same. fol. 731. This Petition bath his Lordships Order thereupon, underwritten and subscribed with his own Hand; whereby, I suppose Button's Impertinence was sufficiently checked.

4. Original Order of the Privy Council, Dated 19th of February, 1629. fol. 733.

This shews that whereas the Kings Progenitors had made divers Grants to the Mayor & Cittizens of Chester (to the vse of the Company of Merchants there) for Transportation of Calve-skinnes from thence, the Creeke, & Members thereof; the said Mayor & Citizens, upon the expiration of the last Grant, had Deputed Mr. Gamull & others, to solicit another to the City, for the Use of the said Merchants, as had been usuall; the Nature of which Service these good Men mistaking, procured a Grant to themselves, from Mr. Maxwell his late Majesties Patentee, &c. for Transportation of 600 Dicker of Calve-skinns yearly from the Porte of Chester. But upon a full hearing of this Matter before their Lordships, it was declared by the said Mr. Gamull, that the said Grante was, by him, ever intended to be for the benefitt of the said Company, in generall: and therefore their Lordships, by this Order, took Care that they should have the Benefit of it, or of a new Grant in lieu thereof.

5. A true Copie of his Majestie (K. James 1's) Licence granted to James Maxwelle Esq; for the Buying and Transportinge of Calve-skinnes. fol. 735.

This setteth forth, that as Queen Elizabeth had (in the 7th year of her Reigne) Granted Free Licence to Arthur Balsano & others of his Name, yearly to export 6000 Dickers of Leather of Calve-skinnes, accompting Ten Dozen to every Dicker, for Seaven Yeares; Paying therefore 5 Shillings for euery Dicker: So He now Grants to James Maxwell Esq; Licence to Export Annually 18000 such Dickers of Leather and Calve-skinnes, during the Terme of 21 yeares: at the same Price or Rent of 5 Shillings per Dicker. This Grant bears Teste, 12 June, anno Regni Angliae, &c. 13.

6. Original Bill of Complaint, exhibited to Thomas Earle of Dorcett Lord High Treasurer, Sir

Num. 2004.

Sir George Höwme Kt. Baron of Barwicke, Chauncellour of the Court of Exchequer, Sr. Thomas Fleminge Lord chiefe Baron of the same, and the rest of the Barons; by Robert Singleton Farmour vnto his Highnes of the Impost & Tonnage of all French Wynes brought into the Port of Chester, and Members thereof, in Michaelmas-Terme, anno 2^{do}. R. Jacobi 1. fol. 739.

This sheweth that the said King did Let to Farme vnto Sir John Swynnerton Knight, all Subsidyes, Tonnage, Ympost, & Dewtyes of all French & Renish Wynes to be brought into England & Wales; and that the said Sir John had assigned part, or a Share of & in the said Patent or Grant, unto him the said Singleton; that is, of all such Wynes as should be brought into the Ports & Creeks of Chester, Liuerpoole, Beaumaris, Conwayne, Caernarvon, & Lancaster: but that Randle Ince & divers others had actually brought such Wynes into his District, refusing to pay him the Duties they were liable unto; and that another person, one Owen Johnes of Chester, Mercer, without any Warrant from Him, had Compounded with divers, for his Dues upon such Wynes, to a considerable Value; and therefore Prays that a Subpena may be directed to all the said Offendors, commanding personally to appear in the Exchequer in Westminster, and there to answer to the Premisses.

7. The joynt and feuerall Answer of Randle Ince, Randle Fernalle, & Owen Johnes, three of the Defendants to the Bill of Complaynte of Robert Singleton Complaynaunte. fol. 748.

Here Ince & Fernalle plead that Singleton being not the Kings immediate Patentee, they think they need not Answer Him in the Exchequer. That they are both Free Citizens of Chester, and consequently not liable to pay any Dutie whatsoever for their Wines (by Virtue of divers Grants from 2. Elizabeth) especially considering that their Vessel had but 56 Tonnes of Wine in her, & not 66 Tonnes as was alleaged. As for Johnes, that He received not so much as Singleton charged him with; but that which he did receive, he wholly paid to Sir Richard Trevor, and Sir William Morris; who (he believed) might have Right enough to take it.

8. Draught of an Acte concerneing Matters of Assurances vsed amongst Marchants. (Anno 43 Eliz. cap. 12.) fol. 759.

Upon the Back is this Note; I like this Law for all thinges, saue onely that I thinke there ought to be Fees allowed, (such as the Commissioners for Fees shall sett downe) for a Register & Officer of the Court of Assurances.

9. Grant to Arthur Balzano and others, for Transporting of Calue-skinnes. This was Given under the Privie Seale, the 26 of February, anno 7 Regis Jacobi 1. fol. 763.

In these papers (which contain but a small part of the Grant) the Name is written Bassano; and not as just above, or as in §. 5.

10. The Demurrer of Rychard Byrde, Thomas Hand, & William Parnell of the Cittye of Chester Merchants; to the Bill of Complaint of Sir Richard Calveley Knight, Farmour of His Majesties Customes of Impost and Tonnage within his Highnes Port of Chester. (Termino S. Michaelis, anno 3 Regis Caroli.) fol. 767.

VOL. II.

Num. 2004.

The Suit was for the Impost, Custome, & Subsidye for Fifteene Tonnes (supposed to be Wines) Entred for Vinegar; so that the Plaintiffe was not paid for the Custome & Impost of 15 Tonns of Wyne; which 15 Tonnes of Wyne being thereby not Entred, were become forfeite to His Majestie. Moreover, the Defendants being charged vpon a Penall Lawe; in regard the said Customes, &c. were concealed or misentred; the Goods so forfeited; were to bee recovered by Information in the Kings Exchequer, by Action of Debt. And, for that noe Person vpon the Breach of a Penall Lawe, is compelled to Accuse Himself, or to bee Examyned vpon Interrogatoryes, as the Complaynant prayeth; and that if the Defendants haue Offended, they are answerable to the Lawe for the same: they did Demurre, &c.

11. Draught of the Indenture made 24 of February 1624; Betweene Sir Richard Calveley Knight, Gentleman-Vsher, Dayly Wayter vnto his Majestie of the one parte; and William Gamull, William Aldersey, Andrew Gamull, Aldermen, of Chester, & others Merchants of the said Cittie: Whereby Sir Richard Assignes unto them the Kings Grant of the Customes, Imposts, &c. of all manner of French Wines, by whatsoever meanes brought into the Port of Chester: for and during the Terme of Seauen Yeares. Yeilding & payinge therefore yearlie, vnto the said Sir Richard, 650 Pounds, and one full Hoggeshead of Wine. fol. 773.

12. The second Randle Holme's Copie of a Quietus est, from the Exchequer of Chester, to feveral Merchants of Chester, for the Customes & Imposts upon Wines; annis 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, Reg. Elizabethæ. fol. 791. b.

13. His Copie of Q. Elizabeth's Graunt for the takeing of the New Custome of Impost-Wynes; and her Forgiueing the Merchants of Chester their Arreares, &c. anno Regni nono. fol. 792. b.

14. An Original Mandate, under the Royal Signet, directed to the Maier of the Citie of Chester; Requiring him to take care that Hugh Palmer who was commaunded to appere before the privie Counsaill (being assured to Come & Retourne fuerly & saufly, without any Daungere for al maner Accions dependinge ayenste him) should make his appearance accordingly, by the Day appointed. fol. 793.

15. The Replication of Roberte Singleton Complainant, to the joynte and feuerall Answeres of Randle Ince, Randle Fernall, & Owen Johnes, Defendants, &c. fol. 799.

In this Draught, the Complainant traverses the said Answers; and stands to the Award of the Court.

16. Part of a Grant or Lease made by K. Charles 1. unto James Maxwell Esq; one of the Groomes of His Bed-chamber; wherein are recited the abovementioned Grants of K. James 1. to the Bassano's, and also to the said Mr. Maxwell. Which last Grant this King confirmes, and frees him from all maner of Arrearages past, which ought by any means to have been paid to his Majesty, by reason of the said Grant: and likewise makes Mr. Maxwell easier, for the remaining part of his Term of 21 Yeares, by accepting of the usual rate of 5 Skillings & Dicker in full payment; and acquitting him for the future of all Customes, Subsidies, Imposts, &c. any ways chargeable on his Calve-skins. His Majesty doth also hereby renew the same Lease, or rather Grant another Lease for 21 Years (to commence upon the Expiration of the old one) of the Sole Licence of exporting Leather of Calve-skins, to the quantity of 18000 Dicker ~~per~~ annum, at the said Rate of 5 Shillings ~~per~~ Dicker, in lieu & in full Recompense of all Customs, Subsidies, Imposts, &c. chargeable on those Goods: with a Prohibition against any other Persons exporting the like from any port whatsoever, especially from that of Chester. fol. 801.

17. A Relation of William Edwards & others Merchants of Chester, against William Gamull Alderman of the said Cittie, for the vndue procuring of a Licence for Transportation of Calue-skins from the Port of Chester. fol. 855. There is somewhat relating to this foul Matter, specified above at §. 4. this further setteth forth the Meanes he (this Mr. Gamull) used in getting from Mr. Maxwell & his Assignes two Grants, for the yearly Transportation of 600 Dickers of Calue-skins, (being the chiefe or only exportable Commodity out of those Parts) during the feuerall Remainders of 7 Yeares, & 21 Yeares; paying for euery Dicker, vpon the Entry thereof, to His Majesty 5 Shillings; and to the said Grantours 8 s. 4 d. This is also enforced by a more particular Charge against Mr. Gamull, shewing the Inconueniences which have ensued his indirect and oppressive Dealings. Then comes Mr. Gamulls Defence and Answeres; with a Reply unto them.

18. Certificate of William Gamull & twelve other Chester-Merchants (to the Lords of the Privy-Councill) against William Edwards another Merchant there; who had gotten an Order of Councill importing that what Shipp or Bark should be freighted by any Merchant of Chester, for any other place; should also take in a proportionable part of the Goods of the said Edwards, upon his Demand. They therefore declare that it hath been the vsuall Custome of the said City, That any Marchant of the said City might associate & take to himself such Partners as he should like of, to joyne with him in Freightinge of Shippes, and to Trade into Forraigne Parts. And that yf att any tyme all the said Marchants had Freight in one Botome, it hath ben of Free-Will, without Compulsion. It beinge a free Libertie & Priviledge that all Marchants within his Majesties Kingdomes doe enjoy. Dat. 26 Aprill, 1630. fol. 859.

19. A Quietus est to Peter Muttone & other Merchants of Chester, for Impost upon their Wynes brought into the Port of Chester, anno 9 R. Elizabethæ. fol. 860. This is the Parchment Originall.

20. Counterpart of an Original Indenture, whereby William Gamull Alderman & Merchant of Chester, & others his Associates Grant to Edward Broughton of Chester Merchant, Licence to buy & transport from the Port of Chester, Ten Dyckers of Tanned Calfe-skins yeareley; paying to Abraham Dawes & John Harrison, during their terme in their Grant; and after, to Mr. Maxwell 8 Shillings and 4 Pence ~~per~~ Dicker, and to the King 5 Shillings: and further, to pay his Proportion of all Charges laid out, or to be Disbursed, in for & about the two Grants obtained by Mr. Gamull. Dated the 26 January 1629. fol. 861.

Num. 2004.

21. Original Indenture of Champartie, whereby Thomas Mylner of Neston in the Countie of Chester, Master and Owner of a certaine Barke called the Grace of Neston, Letts to Freight the said Barke to certain Merchants Freightors, with one able Master & Sixe expert Maryners; for a Voiage to Waterford in Ireland, & back again to the River of Chester; for the Sum of 17 Pounds. Dat. 30 of Marche, anno 14 R. Elizabethæ. fol. 862.

This is also upon Parchment.

22. Letters Patents (or Privy-Seale) of K. Charles 1. directed (as it seemeth) to the Lord Treasurer, the Chancellor and Barons of his Exchequer (upon the Instance and Request of Edward Dutton late Mayor of Chester, William Gamull and others Merchants there) certifying them, that whereas the Merchants, Cittizens & Inhabitants of Chester, had (within Tenne Yeares) lost diuers notable Shippes and Vessells, & greate Quantitie of their Goods and Merchandizes vpon the Seas, as well by Pyrats as by dyvers other Misfortunes: and namely, in their Entries in and Goinge out at the Mouth of the Haven of the Port of Chester, beinge lately growne & become more Daungerous for the Cominge in, & Yssuinge out of Shippes then in tymes past it hath binn; by reason whereof the same Marchants be lately fallen into greate Decaye: He therefore consideringe the Inconueniences that maye growe by the decaye of the Navye and Travale by the Seas in those parties of England, and myndinge the Maintenaunce of the same Merchants, as well for their owne Releefe, as for his better Service in tyme of Neede, Releaseth them from all arrearage due for the new Impost upon all Wynes of the Growth of France brought into the said Port, being 50 Shillings & 4 Pence for euery Tonne; and also acquits and dischargeth them from paying the said new Impost for the future. Yeaven vnder the Privy Seale at Westminster, 21 of Maye, in the Nynth yere of his Raigne. fol. 863.

This Copy wanteth the first Leaf.

23. Representation of William Gamull Mayor of Chester, & his Brethren, to the Lord Treasurer, as it seemeth; upon the Refusal made by the Officers of the Customs in that Port, to accept their Entries of Calve-skinnes, or to receaue their Money therevpon due to his Majestie, to their greate hindrance; and desiring that the said Officers might be required to take such Entries of Skins as they should make, by Virtue of their Lycence, they paying the Custome & Subsidie due unto his Majestie vpon the sayd Graunte. And the rather, for that (as they vnderstand) the sayd Officers Forbearance was by force of his Lordships Letters to them lately directed. Dated, 11 November, 1608. fol. 877.

24. Draught of a Petition of William Edwards, William Ince, & others, Merchants of Chester, to Tho. Lord Viscount Saueage Chamberlaine to the Queenes Majestie. fol. 878.

This is of the not very plain Hand of Mr. Recorder Whitbie, so often before mentioned; and setteth forth the great Wrong done to the Company of Merchants of Chester, & to the Corporation of the said Cittie; by Mr. William Gamull, who had greatly failed in the Trust reposed in him, as to the procuring a new Grant for the Transportation of Tanned Calve-skins, after the Expiration of their former Grant. It is therefore Prayed, that the said Mr. Gamull should be sent for up, to answer his said Misdoings, before the Lords of His Majesties most Honorable Privie Council. vid. supra §. 20, 17, & 4.

25. Original Bill of Complaint exhibited by Sr. Richard Calueley Knight, Farmor to His Majestie of the Customes of Impost & Tonnage within the Port of Chester; to James Earle of Marleborough Lord high Treasurer of England, Sr. Richard Weston Knight Chauncellour & Under-Treasurer of the Court of Exchequer, Sr. John Walter Knight Lord cheefe Baron of the same Court, and the rest of the Barons there. fol. 880.

Here the Complainant setteth forth, that about the 24th of April 1627, one Cornelius Anthony Merchant did aryve in the Port of Chester, with 98 Tonnes of Wynes of the growth of France, together with certaine Vinegar, & 12 Punchéons of Prunes; being the Goods of Richard Bird, William Parnell, & Thomas Hande, all of Chester, Merchants, Who being confederated together to defraud Him the Complainant of his Duties, had by some casuall or indirect means gotten into their possession the late Kings original Grant of the Customs of French Wines brought into the Porte of Chester; and had secretly, in the Night-tyme, & at other tymes, conveyed away above Fifteen Tonnes of the said Wynes, on purpose to deceave Him of the Impost thereon amounting to Fourty Shillings the Tonne: having Entred the same, or the most parte thereof for Vineger, instead of Wynes. vid. supra, §. 10.

26. Draught of an Act for the Réformation of Abuses in Gould-smithes. fol. 898.

27. The Warranté for the Gould-smithes Chartre, at Dublin. fol. 900.

2006. An Heraldical Book in folio, consisting (for the greatest part) of large Pedegrees of particular Families, both English & Welsh, cutt into scantlings, so as to be bound up together in the present form. They are,
1. Descent of Robert Harvey Alderman of Chester, extracted by the second Randle Holme, from the Genealogie made for the Honorable Sir William Hervey Knight & Baronet, Baron Hervey of Roos in Ireland, & Lord Baron Hervey of Kidbrooke in Kent, A. D. 1638. fol. 1. A.
 2. Pedegree of Charles Lord More of Mellyfont & Viscount Drogedagh, A. D. 1632. fol. 1. b.
This is done by the said Randle Holme; but the Armes are only traced with Black Lead.
 3. Pedegree of William Molyneux Esquier. fol. 16. et vid. fol. 72.
This is Signed by W. Hervy als. Clarencieulx King of Armes.
 4. Pedegree of the family of Egerton, deduced by the said Randle Holme to the year 1651. fol. 22.
 5. Pedegree of Aldersey, down to the year 1641. fol. 40.
Herein there is some trifling about the Etymology of the Name Aldersey, which might really have been Aldredes-hai; in like manner as

CATALOGVS LIBRORVM MSS.

Alders-gate in London, in old Writings, yet remaining with the Dean & Chapter, as also in other Hands, is written Aldredes-gate.

6. Pedegree of Raven of Ellworth. fol. 41. b. Here the Armes are in Colors: but the Descent it self, is noted to be false.

7. Labored Pedegree of Sir Robert Sidney Knight, (who was afterwards Earl of Leicester) and of all the families from whom his Lady, as well as Himself, was descended; made A. D. 1598. fol. 54.

Upon the backside of these Genealogies, is a Descent of Younge of Shropshire, deduced from many Welsh families.

8. The Genealogie of the auntient Familie of William Hughes of Llewellyd in the County of Flynt, Gentleman. fol. 84.

9. Pedegree of St. Edward Conway K^t. Baron of Ragley; made (with the Armes in Trick) A. D. 1628. fol. 97. b.

10. Pedegree (with the Armes Tricked) of the Noble Family of Nevile. fol. 107. b.

At the Top was a Note now imperfect, no more remaining than this which follows, Owte of a old Role on Parchementt, wrought in (Colors) the Oryginall whearof is in the Handes of St. John Danvers Knight. This copied was a Pedegree remayninge sometymes in the Custidy of John Nevill the last Lord Latymer of Snape.

Then comes

11. The last Randle Holme's Table of the Names of Families mentioned in these Pedegrees.

2007. A Book in fol. written by divers hands, mostly at the Charge of the Second Randle Holme, being on the back, entituled with this only word DEEDS. It contains Extracts from a very great Number of Deeds & other Instruments or Writings. These relate principally to Cheshire Families & Estates; with which some others relating to Staffordshire and other Counties are accidentally, or unavoidably intermingled. It is said, in two places, that it is a Copie of Mr. Vernon (a famous Antiquaries) book inscribed P. and in the Margin follows the Numerical Order of Leaves in the same; to which the several Tables or Indexes hereof do likewise refer.

With the said Extracts, are found some Church-Notes, Historical Observations, & many Tricks of the old Seals, done by Randle Holme above-mentioned. Among many things worthy of Remark, I shall take Notice of the Notes of Mr. Egerton (afterward Lord Chancellor of England) then Council for Mr. Thomas Venables Baron of Kinderton, in Order to the Trial which came on between him & Philip Oldfield Learned in the Law; when, after a Critical Examination of the Old Deeds produced by both parties, the Baron of Kinderton was allowed to remain Lord of the Manor of Bradwall. These Notes are succeeded by others, shewing, with what Arguments & upon what Deeds & Evidences grounded, St. William Brereton impugned the Old Tenures of certain Lands, at the Juries finding the Office post Mortem Thomae Venables Ar. anno 4 Regis Jacobi I. The first of these may be found at N^o. 138; the other at N^o. 162. The Reader of them needs not be startled at the multitude of Mistakes, which he will perceive, considering that the Transcription was done by hackney-pen-men, who are generally ignorant enough; as also that they are, generally, so plain, that the Sense is very obvious & intelligible.

At the Beginning of the Book the last Randle Holme hath put,

1. An Imperfect List of the Names of Towns, mentioned in the following Collections.

2. Index Villarum; or, a more regular, full, and Alphabetical Table of the said Towns Names.

3. Index Virorum; or, a like Table directing to the several Surnames of Families herein mentioned.

4. The Names of the several Persons from whose Deeds & Evidences these Manuscripts (i. e. Extracts) were taken. Sett down by the Third Randle Holme, A. D. 1672.

2008. A book in folio, like to the former; as bearing the same Title on the Back, written by the like ignorant & careless Hackney-writers, and as I suppose at the same Randle Holme's Charge; who hath putt this following Note at the beginning thereof. This is a Copy of Mr. William Vernons Liber H. which (leg. and) is folio'd according to his booke in the margin of every page. It chiefly consists, like that preceding, of Transcripts & Extracts from Deeds & other Instruments, illustrating or conducive toward the History of Cheshire Families & Places; and somewhat about other places in Staffordshire: giving likewise some Church-Notes from Mobberley & Chedle aforesaid; with certain Historical Observations of Mr. Vernon; & divers Tricks of Seals by R. Holme. Before all, is put

1. The last Randle Holmes account of things of most Note in this Collection.

As to the Collect on it self, I shall take particular notice, at this time, of no more than

2. The Charter of Altrincham, as made a Free Burrough by Hamund de Massie. fol. 3.

3. Of the Tithes of Bowden. fol. 3. b.

4. The Plea of Quo Waranto brought against Henry Duke of Lancaster, Constable & Marshal of Chester, & Lord of the Manor of Halton, anno 31 R. Edwardi III; with his Answer. fol. 5.

5. Names of the Townes included within the Baronie of Halton. fol. 9. b.

6. Qu. Elizabeth's Letters Patents relating to the Duchy of Lancaster. fol. 10.

7. Writings relating to the Barony of Kinder-ton. fol. 13. b.

8. Writings relating to Northwich, and to the Leads & Wallings there. fol. 15; 43.

9. Collections relating to Midel-wich. fol. 37.

10. Baronia de Shipbrooke. fol. 42. b. 44.

Here are many Evidences concerning the Antient Family of Vernon; and among the rest, some particularly relating to Sir Rauffe Vernon Knight, & his Descendants: Which Sir Rauffe was a Bastard, and (as appears by what I find) was a vigorous man. He saw his Great Grand-son married, & Settled lands upon that marriage; (vid. fol. 47. b.) and Lived Seaven score yeare & ten yeare; (vid. fol. 48. b. & the Cheshire Visitation books.) An instance of Longevity not commonly observed.

11. Charter of the Borough of Knottesford, as granted by William Lord of Tabley. fol. 97. (et vid. fol. 78.)

 14. The above-mentioned Randle Holmes Index Locorum.
 15. His Index Virorum.
Note, both these Alphabetical Tables (as doth that Table mentioned above at §. 1.) in their several References or Directions, do not observe the Numbers put on the top-corner of the several Leaves; but those specified in the Margins, answerable to the same in Mr. Vernons Book.
2009. A Book in folio, which the last Randle Holme thus entituled on the out-side, Charters & Privileges of the County & City of Chester, &c. It consists of many Tracts, written by several persons, especially by the Second Randle Holme, and afterward putt together by his said Son, in the Order following.
1. The last Randle Holmes List or Account of the Things of most Note in this Book.

20. Copie of a Mandate from K. Henry VIII. whereby he commanded St. Rodulphe Brereton Knyghte Chamberleyn of Chester, to instruct & assist his Commissioners in Levying the 3000 Markes, which the Inhabitants of that County-Palatine had granted to his Father K. Henry VII. for Confirmacon of Liberties, and Perdon of diuerse Offences & eville Dedes committed & done by them. fol. 12. A.
Next follow large Collections made by the second Randle Holme, and mostly of his Hand writing, relating to the City of Chester, the County-Palatine, or their Inhabitants; wherein many memorable matters being specified, I find my self obliged, to make particular mention of these that follow.
 21. That the County of Chester was once erected into a Principality; namely, anno 21 Richardi II. fol. 34.
 22. How Justices of the Peace came to be instituted in Cheshire, Flintshire, & Anglesey, anno 27 Henrici VIII. ibid.
 23. How the Holding of Shires came to cease, and the Sessions, &c. to succeed them, anno 32 Hen. VIII. ibid.
 24. How this County-Palatine came to send two Knights, & the City of Chester two Burgeses to the Parliament at Westminster. ibid.
 25. How the Protection of Debtors in Chester came to be abolished anno 34 R. Henrici VIII. ibid.
 26. That the Original Seale of Chester, shall be also the Original Seal of Flynt. ibid.
 27. That the Exchequer of Chester hath been kept at other Places during the time of Plague. ibid.
 28. Of the Rigor used by the Kings Commissioners A. D. 1609, in Assessing all Free-holders in Cheshire toward the Aid for making the then Prince Henry a Knight. ibid.
 29. Breve R. Henrici VI. pro certificandis Nominibus illorum qui portant Arma antiqua, et ad ill. premuniend. ad serviend. Reg. pro defensione Regni, secundum gradus suos; Dat. anno regni 7. una cum Responsione Vice-comitis Cestriensis. fol. 34. b.
 30. Petition of the Free-holders of Cheshire, temp. R. Edwardi IV. asserting their Liberties & Privileges; and particularly that, of not being bound by any Act of Parliament made out of their own County. ibid.
 31. That antiently, the Justice of Chester granted Livery of Lands; and the Constable kept the Gaole. fol. 35.
 32. Mandamus of K. Edward I. issued anno Regni 25, for Reginald de Gray his Justice of Chester to make Return of the Customes used within that County-Palatine: with the Inquisition made thereupon. fol. 35. b.

40. That the County and Citty of Chester was a Sanctuary. fol. 39. b.
41. Exemplification of Queen Elizabeth's Grant made to the Merchants of Chester, the laste day of February, the third yere of Her Reigne; whereby she freed them (during her Pleasure) from the future Payment of two Shillings for every Tonne of Iron brought into the Port of Chester by them; which the said Merchants had until that time paid, more & beyond any other English Merchants did pay. fol. 39. A.
42. A trew Coppy of the Graunt of the Libertyes of the County-Palatine of Chester, Confirmed by diuers Kinges & Queens. This bearing Teste, 28 November, anno 2 R. Elizabethæ. pag. 146.
43. Preamble to a Dismission out of the Chauncery, by Reason of the County-Palatin of Chester; 20th October, anno 15 R. Elizabethæ. pag. 153.
44. A trew Grant of the Libertyes of the Citty of Chester, and the making of it a County by it selfe, distinct from the County-Palatine of Chester, by King Henry VII. in the 21 Yeaere of his Raigne. pag. 154.
45. That the Citizens of Chester vsed & enjoyed diuers Libertyes & a Guild Mercatorie, by Prescription, before any Charter was granted to them. pag. 159.
This is followed by a List of those who granted Charters to this City, the first of whom is Randulph (the Third, Surnamed Blundeville, I suppose) in one of whose Charters, then (& perhaps now) remaining, Randle Holme, observes, that the said Earle granted to them their Auntient Libertyes & Guild Mercatoriam sicut hactenus vsi fuerunt. Might not a Gild Mercatory be sett up, and other Privileges be granted by the Predecessors of this Earle, and in process of time be lost? can the Exchequer of Chester produce regular Inrolments of all their publick Instruments from A. D. 1181, when this Great Man came to be Earle? or do we know of any Gild-Mercatory to have been Instituted but by Authority? Without Grant from the Prince, or States of the Place, such a Brotherhood would seem to be but a Rout, & an Unlawful Assembly, and their making Orders for their own Regulation, would be but a Combination to enrich themselves & oppress their Country-men; which one would think could not be well relished by Authority; which not being applied to in so weighty an Affair, had no provision of Duties or Customes reserved; and consequently would, at least, yield such a Gild no Protection, if it did not soon destroy it. vid. fol. 12.
46. Breviats of (or Notes from) the Confirmations of the Libertyes of Chester, out of severall Charters. ibid.
47. The Meyres & Bonds of the Circute of the Libertees of the Citty of Chester; so far as they were writt in the Booke of Mr. Glasier; but since added out of the Black Booke, tempore Henr. Gee, A. D. 1540. pag. 162.
48. Notes touching the Princes of Wales & their Creations; the Earles of Chester; & Dukes of Cornwall. pag. 163.

49. Petition of William Glasior Vice-Chamberlayne & Deputy to (Robert Dudley) Earle of Leicefter, Chamberleyn of the County-Palatine of Chester; to the Lords of the Priuey Councell, against Richard Dutton then Mayor of Chester; who is therein represented as a most vile Person pag. 164.
50. Articles of Contempt & Misdemeanures done by Richard Dutton in the tyme of his Maioralty, against the Queenes Court of Exchequer of Chester, the Authority thereof, and against the Officers of the same Courte. ibid.
51. The Answere of Richard Dutton Maior of Chester, with the Articles of Answere thereunto annexed, in Answere of the Bill & Articles by William Glasior Vice-chamberleyn, exhibited against him. pag. 166.
52. Notes concerning the Charters granted to the Citty of Chester; with a Censure on them, by the Exchequer. pag. 169.
53. A Letter from the Councell, in Aprill 1574, to Sir Walter Mildmay, Sir Francis Walsingham, Sir William Cordall Knight, & Thomas Bromley Esq; for the Hearinge of the Matter betweene the Vice-Chamberleyn of the Exchequer at Chester, &c. and Mr. Richard Dutton, Maior of the Citty of Chester. pag. 171.
This Copie is not entire.
54. Letter to the Lords of the Priuey Councell, by the said Honorable persons, in Answere of their Letter. Dated the 3d of April 1574. pag. 172.
55. Coppy of a Letter from the Queenes Priuey Councell, to the Maior, Aldermen and Citizens of Chester, for the Performance of their Lordships Decree, and of good Advysment, & Admonition for their former Offences. A. D. 1574. ibid.
In this smart Letter, they are told they must surrender up the Queen's last Confirmation of their antient Liberties; and take out a new one; wherein the Clause Præterea, which had been indirectly procured, & had been the principal Occasion of the late Broils among them, should be left out.
56. Notes for the Authority of the Exchequer of the County-Palatine of Chester; and the deniall of the Authority claymed by the Citty of Chester. pag. 173. (et vid. 96. B. 22.) pag. 182.
57. Notes of Records remayninge in the Exchequer of Chester, to proue the Authority of the sayd Exchequer, from K. Richard the Seconds tyme. pag. 174.
58. Actes of Parliament mayntaininge the Authority of the sayd Exchequer. pag. 178.
59. Obseruations or Notes taken out of the Charters of the Citty of Chester. ibid.
60. The Proceedinges of the Chamberleyn of Chester, in a matter in the Exchequer of Chester betweene Foulke Aldersey Marchant, & Thomas Greene Tallow-chandler, both Cittizens of the same City. pag. 179.
This Process ends abruptly; and, as it seems, it first began the Differences between the Officers of the Exchequer, and the Officers of the City. It happened A. D. 1562, when Richard Dutton was one of the Shireves.
61. A Writte of Resumption of Honors, Castles, &c. by force of an Act of Parliament in the County Pallatine of Chester, 6th September, 30 Hen. VI. pag. 180.

Dutton Alderman of Chester, 15 April, anno 5. R. Caroli 1. pag. 338. b.

There followeth some Notes, shewing what happened thereupon (as also a Bill of Complaint concerning them at page 340. A.)

103. Copie of the Order & Decree of Richard Vaughan Bishop of Chester, made 30 Aug. ann. 24 R. Eliz. & regulating the Affair of the common Stock (first given by one Goodicer of Barnston) for buying of Cows to the use of the poor Inhabitants within the 8 Towneships of the Parish of Woodchurch. pag. 338. A.

2010. A Book in fol. written by divers hands; and on the outside thus entituled, Cheshire Domes-day Booke; with an Alphabate of all the Townes in the said Shire. But in turning it over, I find therein the following Matters.

1. The last Randle Holmes List of the Things of Note in this Book.

2. Series Pontificum Romanorum a D. Petro Apostolo, usq; ad Pium iv. folijs transpositis descripta.

3. Alphabetical Table of the Names of all the Townes & Villages in the severall Hundreds of the County of Chester. fol. 179.

This is said to be taken ex Libro pergam. penes D. Will. Vernon remanente, scil. Collectorum Subsidij trium millium Marcarum per Comitatum Cestr. anno 5 Edwardi iv.

4. The Names of all the Townes & Lordships in eich Hundred within the County-Palatyne of Chester, with the Hamletts, Mansion-houses, & Free-holds; with other places of Note within euery Towne or Lordshippe: Anno 1662. fol. 181.

This is much enlarged by the last Randle Holme: but notwithstanding the foregoing Title, takes in only the Hundreds of Bucklow & Macclesfeild. Howbeit, there follow like Surveys of others, with other Dates; as

5. Wirral Hundred; anno 1668. fol. 193. b.

6. Namptwich Hundred; anno 1666. fol. 198.

7. Northwich-Hundred; Edesbery-Hundred; & Broxton-Hundred; anno 1671: and Chester-City, without date. fol. 202. b.

8. A trew Coppy of that Extract of Domesday-booke (so much as concerneth Cheshire) remayninge in the Custody of the Kinges Remembrancer, and belonginge to the Exchequer at Westminster; which booke is called the lesser Domesday-booke. fol. 230.

This the Second Randle Holme transcribed from Mr. Peter Leicesters Copie; which he examined with the Record, the 9th of July 1646. pag. 232.

9. Certaine Parcells (relating to Cheshire) transcribed out of the Greater Domes-dei-booke, remaininge in the Tally-Office, (i. e. the Office of the Chamberlaynes of the Exchequer) at Westminster. fol. 242.

In the two preceding Articles, the obsolete or Glossary-words are endeavoured to be explained. Within this Traēt I also find, but out of place, 10. The Complaint of the Men of Middle-Wich against the Abbat of Darnchale, &c. from the Records. fol. 250. b.

11. The Names and Number of all the Lords & Owners of Salt-houses in North-wich. fol. 251.

12. Verdict of a Jury touching the antient Customes of the Borough of North-wich; found 12 August 1641, and presented, in Order to be inserted in the booke of Customes & Orders for that Bur-row. fol. 251. e.

Num. 2010. — 2011.

13. Ex majori Libro de Domes-day; viz. de Terra inter Ripam et Merfam, quæ nunc est pars Agri Lancastriensis. fol. 252.

14. Some few Notes touching the Hundreds of Cheshire, by the Third Randle Holme. pag. 257.

15. Abstractum five Epitome Libri de Domes-dei (quantum scilicet ad Cestre-scire) secundum ordinem Villarum in unoquoque Hundredo; cum Nominibus eorum qui ejusdem Villas tenuerunt, tam tempore Edwardi Regis qui Confessor dicebatur, quam tempore Willelmi Conquestoris, sub cujus Regno iste liber factus est. pag. 258.

This, as the Traēts 9 & 13 above, is the Hand of the Second Randle Holme; and hath also the Corrections of his Son.

16. The Proportion of the Ould Hundreds in Cheshire, to the New Hundreds. pag. 277.

17. Notes relating to Domes-dei Booke, its Name, Use, &c. ibid.

18. Here are more Extraēts from thence, still relating to Cheshire; which being added to, or considered with what is above mentioned at §. 8 & 9. will afford a pretty good Copie of that most antient Record, so far as it relateth to this County. Which Extraēts the said Randle Holme the Second took from a Copie of Domes-dei as to this Countie, transcribed from the Record, for Mr. Peter Leicester & Mr. William Vernon, at the price of Eight Pounds, by Mr. Scipio l'Esquier then Under-Chamberlayne of the Exchequer, and was compared with the Record itself by the same Mr. Leicester. pag. 275. Here I cannot but wish, that honest Randle had been as good a Copist as Scipio l'Esquire was.

Now come some loose Papers lying at the End; being

19. The last Randle Holme's beginning of a Translation of the Cheshire in Domes-dei.

20. Names of Freeholders in divers Parishes or Hundreds in Cheshire.

21. Armes, in Blazon, of many antient Cheshire Families, who took their Surnames from Townes.

2011. An Heraldical Book in folio, consisting (for the greatest part) of a mixed Collection of Pedegrees, drawn out first upon large Papers, which have been since Cutt into lesser Pieces, and Bound up together as a Book of a moderate Volume. In the whole I observe,

1. The Second Randle Holme's Letter (as Deputie to the Office of Armes, in Cheshire, Lancashire, &c.) to the Lady Sherburne, late Wife to Sir Richard Sherburne Kt. Dated, 3 May 1638. fol. 1.

This was to demand the Fee due to the Office for Entering her Husband's Funeral Certificate.

2. The Genealogie or Pedegree of Sir Christopher Trentham of Rocester in the County of Stafford Knight; now livinge anno 1649; Collected & Drawne by (the same) Randle Holme of the Citty of Chester Alderman. fol. 1. b. 3. b. 5. b. 7. b.

3. The said Randle Holme's Receipt, for £3. 6. 8. as the Fee for the Funerall-Certificate of Rafe More of the Hall of Heath in the County of Chester, Gent. Dated, 26 February 1637. fol. 2. b.

4. Some broken Notes of Cheshire & other Descents, by Ran. Holme, &c. fol. 3. B. 3. D. 5. B. 7. A.

5. Quarterings of Sir Richard Houghton of Houghton. fol. 3. C.
6. A Descent expressing how the Lady Anne Sawyer is rightfull Heyre Generall to the Blood, auncient Patrymony, & Coate Armore of Humphrey Haughton of Manchester, her Great Grandfather: exemplified from the Records of the Heralds Office, 9 Aprilis A. D. 1627, by Jo. Philipott Somersett. fol. 3. C. b.
7. Funeral Certificate of Speed, made by John Aston. fol. 3.
8. Descent of John Manley of Huxley. fol. 5. A.
9. Randle Holme's Letter (imperfect) to St. Gilbert Houghton Knight & Baronet, desiring him forthwith to send his fathers Funeral Certificate, and £.6. 13. 4. being the Fee incidental to his Fathers Degree, which was that of an Esquire; or otherwise, laying before him the danger of contesting the Matter in the Earl-Marshalls Court. fol. 5.
10. Descent of Lacy Earl of Lincolne, with some Notes. fol. 6. A.
11. Descent of Bostock. fol. 7. B.
12. Randle Holme's Letter to Mrs. Manwaringe, Dated 9 March 1637, desiring her Husbands Funeral Certificate, & the Fee of £3: 6: 8. for Enrolling the same in the Office of Armes: being dew for a Gentleman, because He was buried with Armes; els it had byn but 40 shillings. Randle complains that one Dutton made the Escocheons, it being his own business, as Deputy, to do all matters of that kind; and therefore threatens poor Dutton. fol. 9.
Here are more Scraps of such like Letters from Randle to others; which I omitt, as being too imperfect.
13. A Print containing the Genealogy of the Royal Familie, from K. Edward IV. to K. Charles I. and his Son Charles Prince of Wales, afterwards K. Charles II. fol. 11. A.
14. Stemma Sacrum; The Royall Progenie. fol. 11. B.
This is another Print; engraven by Ægid. Fleming. It begins higher than the Conquest; and is carried on to K. Charles II. but not without several manifest Errors.
15. Pedegree of Cokeyne, done upon Parchment. fol. 12.
16. Descent shewing how Sir William Brereton of Brereton is Descended from Hugh Kiviliock Earl of Chester. fol. 15. B. (with other genealogical Notes prefixed.)

18. Pedegree of Cockayne. fol. 16. 18. 20. 21.
19. Les Maisons que, par Masles, sont fortis de la tres noble Maison de Lusignan. fol. 18. A.
This is a tattered old Printed paper, cut into pieces, but giving the Armes of the severall Houses; done, in French, by Estienne de Lusignan, Docteur de l'Ordre des Freres Precheurs; with an impertinent Dedication prefixed.
20. The Genölogie of the Worshipfull & Auncient Families of the Wynnyngtons & Leaftwiches of Leaftwich in the Countie of Chester; contynued vntill this yeare 1597. fol. 24.
21. Descent of Stanley Earl of Derby; on the back of the former.
22. Part of the Descent of Younge. fol. 29. B.
This belongs to those Papers above-mentioned

Num. 2011. — 2012.

- at §. 17. and has (on the back) some Notes written by the Hand of St. William Dugdale; as I before observed some others on the back of 16. A.*

30. The Third Randle Holme's Alphabetical Table of the Sur-names of Families mentioned in this Volume: but pointing to the same according to the Old Numeration of the Leaves.
2013. A Paper-book in folio (which I shall not call Poetical) relating to the severall Companies of the City of Chester; which I having partly run over, shall describe in the following manner.
1. The Proclömation for Whitsonne Playes, made by William Newall Clarke of the Pendice, anno 24 Henr. VIII. at the beginning.
It sets forth, that in ould tyme, not only for the Augmentation & Increes of the Holy & Catholick faith, and to exort the minds of common people to good Deuotion & holosome Doctrine; but also for the Comonwealth & Prosperity of this Citty, a Play & Declaration of diuers Stories of the Bible, beginning with the Creation, & Fall of Lucifer, and ending with the generall Judgement of the World, to be declared & Played in the Whitsonne weeke, was deuised & made by Sir Henry Frances sometyme Mooncke there; who gat of Clement then Bushop of Rome 1000 dayes of Pardon; and of the Bushop of Chester, at that tyme, 40 dayes of Pardon, to euery person resorting, in peaceable maner, to heare & see the sayd Playes: which were instituted to the Honor of God, by John Arnway then Maior of Chester, his Bretheren, & whole Cominalty thereof; to be brought forth, declared & played, at the Cost & Charges of the Craftesmen & Occupations of the sayd Citty, &c.
Underneath the Proclamation, the Third Randal Holme hath Written, that Sir John Arnway was Maior, A. D. 1327 & 1328; at which tyme these Playes were written by Randall Higgenett a Monk of Chester Abby, &c.
2. The Banes which are reade beefore the beginninge of the Playes of Chester, A. D. 1600.
Here, or in this Prologue, it is said
That some tymes ther was Mayor of this Citie Sir John Arnway Knight: who most worthilye Contented hymselfe to sett out in playe
The Devise of one Done Rondall Moonke of Chester Abbey.
This Rondall might be Hikeden or Higden, for ought I know (vid. N^o. 2125. fol. 272. b.) and it seems, that his Poetry & Language being grown obsolete, the Draught was altered for the Pageants or Playes (as they are called) which were to be publickly exhibited, A. D. 1600. and then this very uncorrect Copie seems to have been taken by one George Bellin, who perhaps might have acted some part therein. These Playes or Interludes are 24 in Number, and their severall Titles are these that follow.
3. The Tanners Playe, 1600. Pagina prima; (i. e. the first Pageant, or Pagin) De Celi, Angelorum, et infirnalium Spirituum Creacione. fol. 1.

 52. The State & Petition of the Cause touching the Deane & Chapter of Chester to the Commissioners, fol. 82.
This shews how Sir Richard Cotton having a Design to gett most of the Dean and Chapters Lands into his Possession, procured Deane Cliffe to be cast into the Fleete-Prison, & then caused him, with only two of the Prebendaries to grant the said Lands unto him in Ferme, at less than the old Rents: who having taken from the same all the Commodities he could, sold them to certeyn Gentlemen of Cheshire, at not above two Years Purchase. Hereupon, the succeeding Deans suing the Fermors, with the Good Liking of Queen Elizabeth; She at length order'd the Matter to be Heard by a Special Commission.

2019. A Theological Book in folio, written almost wholly by the Hand of Edward Shawe of Halton in Cheshire; who having been Curate to Mr. Jhon Brereton Parson of Meoustoke in Hampshire, in the Yeare 1576, became Chaplain to Sir John Savage of Baraver in the same County, Knight, as may appear in the Notes by him written in fol. 2. b. But more particularly I find therein, before the work which commenceth at the Leaf numbered fol. 1.

1. Two Notes relating to the said Sir John Savage, or his Family; Notes about a Comet which appeared A. D. 1577; about the Death of William Downham Bishop of Chester; and the Building of Frodsham Bridge: among much Scribble in the first unmarked page.

2. Some Notes about Baptisme; with an Astrological Table: on the next page transversed.

Then turning back 3 Leaves you may find,

3. A Preface of Hugh Kinge Musician, in Defence of Dauncing, and of Organs; against divers of the Puritanically-affected Clergy; seeming to have been copied from a printed book. Then turning the book, as before, we find

4. The Summe & Content of all the Holy Scripture, both of th'Old & New Testament.

5. Certain Theological Verses, & short Notes.

6. The Nature & Exposition of the 12 Signs of the Zodiac, applied to Mens Inclinations & Tempers.

7. Part of Wi. T.'s (Will. Tindale?) Preface vnto the Reader, giving the Somme & Contents of the Scripture (the wrong Side upward)

8. Notes of no Relation to one another; and of little moment.

9. Table shewing the Times of the moveable Feasts, from A. D. 1574. to 1590. perhaps taken from the Service-booke.

Then comes the principal Work of the Book, being.

10. An Explication of very many places or Texts of the Holy Scriptures, which seem to be repugnant to each other. fol. 1.

11. Part of a Table to the said Work. fol. 150. b.

2020. A Book in folio, written by divers Hands (but chiefly by that of the Second Randle Holme) on the Out-side thus Entituled, Deedes concerneing the Citty of Chester; the Citty-Lands, etc. which seeming too general; I shall take the Liberty of observing these particulars that follow.

1. The third Randle Holme's List of Things of Principal Note in this booke: made A. D. 1669. At the Beginning,

2. An Alphabet of Men's Names; or of the Names of Families, mentioned in this Book.

Then follow,

22. Draught of a Letter from the Magistrates of Chester, to some Lord (Perhaps, to the Lord-Treasurer Burghley) setting forth, that their Butchers having lately Enhaunfed the Prices of Flesh, they were constrayned to call in the Coun-trey-Butchers, by whose Repaire thither, the Cittie was better & more reasonably served. And because there was noe convenient place to erect any Shambles within that Cittie; and that the Ould Shier-Hall (adjoyninge to the same) beinge vncovered & in Ruyn, might be made very commodious for such a purpose: they humblie beseeche him to be a meane that the Cittie might haue the saied decayed Howse and Rowme, for suche Consideracon as should be thoughte reasonable. Intimating besides, that al-beit their habilites extended not to gratifie his Lordship in any Respecte as they ought; yet did they presume this Bouldnes to sende vnto His Honour half a Dozen of Cheshire Cheeses. Dat. 4 Febr. 1578. fol. 420.
23. Letter from Sir Hugh Cholmondley, to the same Lord Treasarer, & Sir John Fortescue Chancellor of the Exchequer; certifying, that the Mayor & Citizens of Chester having ob-tained their Sute for transporting the old Shire-hall into their Cittie, and making the upper part of it into a Garner to serve for the Stow-age of Her Majesties Corne, or other Provi-sions; and a Flesh-Shambles or open Markett underneath; which had been done with great Expense: there was come forth from their Honors a mean Proces against the Maior & In-habitants of the Cittie, for £ 40. for the Price of the said ould Shire-hall, as though the same had beene bought for soe much money. Dat. 25 May 1594. fol. 421.
24. Another Letter of the same, to the said Lord Treasurer, as it seemeth, certifying, that he had sur-veyed the Old Shire-hall, & found, in respect of the great Want of such a House, to serve for the laying up of the Corne & Victualls provided for Her Majesties Garrison in Ireland; and that the Building of the same would be very chargeable to Her Majestie, as it will be to the Citizens: His Lordship could not any otherwise haue so profitablie & honorablie bestowed the same; as well for the Benefitt & Furtherance of the Queenes Service, as to relecue the said Cittie with a Roome for an open Flesh-Shambles, which they stand greatly in neede of. fol. 421. b.
25. *The Lord Treasurer Burleigh's Letter to Sir Hugh Cholmondley Kt. Surveyor of Her Ma-jesties Lands in Cheshire. - in the Method observed in the next Work, is particularly ascribed. At the beginning.
2. An old Ordinary of Armes, roughly tricked; seeming not only to want two Leaves at the beginning; but is otherwise imperfect, & damaged by much use. fol. 3. fol. 91. 98. A great part of this, is of Mr. Scarlate's hand; and some Additions have been made thereto by the said Randle Holme and his Father.
3. Coates taken out of Fuller's Pisgah-sight, A. D. 1650 (the Gentlemen being all Cittizens of London.) by the same Randle Holme. fol. 60. b.
4. Armes of our Kings, from Edward 111. to Henry viii. inclusive; impaling those of their Queens; by Mr. Scarlate. fol. 84.
5. Armes of divers of our Nobility & Gentry, mixed; by the same. fol. 85. b. 97, 101, 111, 118, 149, 155.
6. Armes of many antient English Barons fol. 102.
7. Arms of Sir Walter Rawley, with 3 Hel-mets, as many Crests, and with Supporters; Printed. fol. 116 b.
8. Fanciful Arms of England, or rather of Q. Elizabeth; of many of our Nobility of the Royal Family; of Dukes, Marquises, Earles, Viscounts, & Barons since the Conquest: perhaps Collected from some Copie of Cookes Baronage. fol. 123.
9. Armes of Scots Nobility, hastily Trick'd by Scarlet above-mentioned. fol. 148, 151, 156. N. B. the Scots Armes seeme to be all Dashed out, by a cross stroke, or Diagonal Line drawn through every Escoccheon; which I understand not as if the said Armes are all false; but only that they were all fairly Entred from hence, into some other Book.
- 10 An Alphabetical Table of the Names of Families whose Coates are extant in this Booke. fol. 158.
2022. A Book in folio, written (with Tricks of Seales) by the Second & Thira Randle Holme, & by certain others; on the Outside thus entituled, Deedes of feuerall Cheshire families, &c. and wherein I find,
1. The last Randle Holme's Account of Things of most Note in this Book; at the Beginning.
2. Extracts out of Mr. Greene of Pulton-Lancelyn's Deeds. Coppyed A. D. 1654. fol. 1.
3. Extracts from certain Court-Rolls of Bebynton, Pulton-Lancelyn, &c. perhaps in the Possession of the said Mr. Greene. fol. 5.
4. Notes relating to the Family of Lancelyn, Greene, &c. gathered from certain Books marked with Letters; which I take to have been part of the Collections either of Mr. Vernon, or of Mr. Dodsworth. fol. 7. Among these are some Church-Notes, taken in Westminster, Luffwick & Greenes-Norton in Com. Northampton and Bebington in Com. Cestr.
5. Abstracts from Deeds in the Possession of Raph Lownes of Ashley, anno 1650. fol. 9. A. These concerne chiefly, the Family of Lancelyn; except the last, which is a sort of Pardon for Trespases done in the Forest of Wirhall.
6. Some Notes relating to the Family of Strange of Knocking, taken out of an old Leger-booke, belonging to the Abbey of Hagham, penes Ric.

CATALOGVS LIBRORVM MSS.

Num. 2023. — 2025.

2023. A Book in small folio, written by divers hands, and on the out-side thus Entituled, Liber Tenures in Com. Cestrie, etc. It was begun to be written long ago, and was in the possession of the Second Randle Holme in the year 1655, who hath taken much pains in noting down the Margins, the Proper Names of Persons & Places: and hath also prefixed the collectors Title to the whole Work, which seems to have been meant or conceived in the Words following.

1. Liber Feodorum Militum Comitatus Palatini Cestrie, per Thomam Greene Feodarium ibidem diligenter collectus ex Recordis in Scaccario Cestrie predictae remanentibus, et alibi: et Baron. & Hundred. separat. & per seinet ipfas collocat. Et Comitum, Dominorum, Militum, Armigerorum, et Generosorum, qui habuerunt aliqua Maneria, Mesuagia, Terras aut Tenementa, in Comitatu predicto, Nomina notata; et per quod Servitium Maneria, Mesuagia, Terre, et Tenementa predicta tenebantur: que omnia per Litteras Alphabeticas diuiduntur, quod citius inveniuntur. Et dedicatur et deliberatur honorabili Viro Willelmo Cecile Militi, principali Secretario Dne. Regine, et Magistro Curie Wardorum et Liberatarum Dne Regine, 20 die Octobris, anno Elizabethae Dei gratia Anglie, Francie, et Hibernie Regine, Fidei Defensoris, &c. Quarto.

Further, I find therein,

2. Index Virorum, or an Alphabetical Table of Persons Names; at the Beginning.
3. An Alphabet of Townes Names, for this Booke; made anno 1664; at the End.

2024. An oblong Book in small folio, consisting of a Collection of Prints, Drawings, & Paintings, mixed together; being such as was thought useful in the Business of an Armes-painter. They consist chiefly of Frontispieces, Compartments, Achievements, Armes, Devises, Supporters, Mantles, Helmets, Proportion of some Humane Bodies, Habits, Armor, Weapons, Bordures, Festons, Tombs, Alphabets, and other matters of Ornament.

2025. A Book in small Folio, written by the Hands of the Second & Third Randle Holmes; and on the outside Entituled, Fragments & Peeeces of Broken Rolles belonging to the Pentice & Portmote-Court in Chester: that is, Extracts, Copies, or Notes taken from such tattered Originals; not the Parchments themselves. In turning this Collection over, I observe,

1. The last Randle Holme's Account of Things of most Note in this Book. At the Beginning.
2. His Table referring to the Lands in Chester & else-where, mentioned in this Book.
3. The Collection it self, which begins at fol. 9.
4. Indenture made 8 May anno 27 R. Henr. VIII. whereby Edward Dimock of Chester Draper, covenanteth with Henry Gee Alderman & Merchant of the same Citty, among other things, to find an able Watch-man well Harnised, yearly, at the Watch which is and shall be used to be kept within the said Citty, vpon Christmase-Eue at night, and vpon St. Stevens day at Night. fol. 11. b.
5. Of a Suit between Ellen Plankney Administratrix to her Husband Edward Plankney Gentleman, & Edward Plankney Yeoman:

Num. 2025. — 2026.

concerning a considerable Estate (before Parcell of the lands belonging to the Nuns of Chester, & Monastery of Birkett (f. Birkinbede) anno 37 Hen. VIII. Lett to ferme unto the Deceased by John then Bishop of Chester, whose Lease was Confirmed by the Dean & Chapter. fol. 17. b.

6. Extracts from some Deeds, relating to lands once possessed by the Dean & Canons of St. John's College in Chester. fol. 18. b.

7. Some others, relating to Fishing in the River Dee. fol. 28. b. 32. 32. b.

8. Suits turned from the Judges of Chester, to be tried in the Cities Court. fol. 28. b.

9. Panells of old Juries in Chester. fol. 30. b. 34. 35. b. 37. 37. b. 38. 38. b. 39. 39. b. 40. 40. b. 41. b.

10. Persons presented for Forestalling the Market of Chester. fol. 33. (as likewise other Transgressors.)

11. List of the Bakers of Chester; and their Markes for their Bread: from a Note of Mr. Chalonsers A. D. 1589. fol. 41.

2026. A Book in small folio, seeming to have been Written & Tricked by the Hand of the Third Randle Holme; who (in his Later Time) wrote this Note at the Beginning thereof; This Book is my first Collections & Draughts for the Academie of Armory, Anno 1649. Which Date sheweth that he began that laborious Work when he was very Young. The First Part of the Work containing Three Books, was Printed at Chester for the Author. A. D. 1688. in folio: and (notwithstanding honest Randles manifest want of common Literature, and the numerous Errata of the Printer,) is really a very curious and useful Book upon many accounts, although now so much neglected & worn out of memory, as to be known to few People in these parts. And the vile price it hath been bought at, viz. Eight Shillings, being much below the Prime costs of Paper & Print, shew that the diligent Man must have been a great loser, after so many years Pains.

At the End of the Contents of The First Part, he hath inserted this Note. " Thus far have " I, with much Cost & Pains, caused to be " Printed for the Publick Benefit. What " remains (and is ready for the Press) is as " followeth in the succeeding Contents: which " (if encouraged by liberal & free Contributors) " may appear in the World; else will sleep " in the Bed of its Conception, and never " see the glorious Light of the Sun." And, indeed, that hath been its Fate; it is not yet Printed, and perhaps never can be, a great part of the Copy being lost since the Authors Decease. That the Book did not Sell, is imputed to Randles Original Sin; First in causing it to be Printed at Chester, a great Way off; and Secondly, for Himself; the worst Article of the Two. No wonder therefore, if the Booksellers combined together (in his Case, as in that of many others) to Damn a Book they were not concerned in.

But to return to the Manuscript now before me; I observe that the greatest Part of the Tricks or Drawings (as well as the Writing) is Dashed through; by which marks I understand that the same were Entred into some other Book or Books. Moreover, it may be remembred, that these Collections are loose and disjointed, & not in the same Order as they are Printed. Lastly, that divers of the Drawings belong to the Second or Unprinted part of the Work.

Num. 2027. — 2029.

I know not if it may be worth while to mention an original Letter fastened in this Book, written by one John Price Vintner, and Dated from Salop, 26 November 1617; wherein, amongst other Matters, he expresseth himself thus, "You say I take vpon me to be the Glory of the North for a Vintnour: to which I answer, It hath pleased God that I know non out of London or Bristoll retorne more money yearly then my selff: which Account is easieley to be sene; and have don this 7 yeares, more then Too thousand Pounds a yeare. And for aney Compackt or Desaytte, or frawdulent Combynation betwen Him & Me; Yff another man doo saye it, He lyes in his Thrott. I skorn that mind; and yff he say that I ame satisfyed, he is a velen-lyinge Raskall."

2027. A Book in small folio, Written, Tricked, and (in very many places) Dashed or Crossed like the former; being all done by the Third Randle Holme; who in his later Years inserted the following Note at the Beginning. This Book was my Second Collection & Draughts for the Academy of Armory. This is confused, and immethodical enough; and may contain some of the Matters by him intended for the Second Volume.

In turning this Book over, among other Things, I observe toward the End,

2. Explication of divers Old Terms used in Blazon of Armes.
3. Descent of Stanley Earl of Derby, down to the last Earl William.
4. Descendants from Thomas Mostyn; brought as an Instance for the Marshalling of Coates
5. Armes, or Achievement of Leukenore, in Colours; as Exemplified by Sir William Dethick, Garter, A. D. 1595.
6. Names of Writts used in our English Laws, explained.
7. Other Law-Termes explained.
8. John Watt his Accompts for what Proffitts hath bin raysed att Mortherden-Millnes since his last Accompts, being the 24 of June 1645, vntill the first of March 1646. (One of the Sequestrators?)
9. Terms used by Theological Writers, & Canonists, explained.
10. Order of proceeding at the Funerals of sundry Personages, or Estates.

2028. Another of old Randle Holme the Third's Volumes; by him thus Entituled, The first Book of the Academy of Armory, which only Treateth of the Honorable Ordinaries: that is, containing only the first Nine Chapters of the First Book, and adorned with the Printed Cutts, instead of Trickings. It comprehendeth also the Index to the First Book: and The Significations of all the Charges used in Herauldry, within his first Booke.

2029. Another like Book in small folio, written by poor old Randle Holme the Third, who (in his later time) gave it the Title following, The Manuscript of the Second Book of The Academy of

Num. 2030. — 2035.

Armory, to the Eleventh Chapter; as it was Printed. Here are no Trickings, but instead of them the Printed Cutts are inserted. Several of the Leaves are dammified by the Fire, that no less Fatal than Frequent consumer of Books.

I cannot forbear remarking (and this with Astonishment) that in the First Page, under the Title above-mentioned, is the beginning of the Lords Prayer, in Greek, erroneously written, but not by a Greek, or in what we call a Greek Hand.

Here the Third Article (if I may say so) is most impudently perverted thus, ἐλθὲν το (so it is written) ἡ βασιλεῖα πρὸς ἡμᾶς; an horrible Wickedness, in my poor Opinion.

2030. Another like book written by the same Randle Holme the Third, and by him thus Entituled, The Manuscript of the Second Book of the Academy of Armory, as it was prepared for the Printing; beginning with Chapter XI.

2031. Another like book, written by the same Hand, and thus Entituled, The Manuscript of the Third Book of the Academy of Armory, as it was Printed to the Sixth Chapter.

The Trickings belonging to this Volume, are inserted into some of the former; and are not supplied by Prints. In turning the Book over, I observe much Writing or Matter dashed out; which I suppose to be inserted in Places more proper for it.

2032. Another like book, written by the same Hand, and thus Entituled, The Manuscript of the Academy of Armory, Book III. as it was for Printing from Chap. vi to Chap. xiv.

This is in the same Condition with the former; and with this the Printed Book Ends.

2033. Another like Book, written by the same Hand, and Entituled, The Manuscript of the Third Book of the Academy of Armory, as it was for the Printing, from Chap. xiv. to the End.

It appeareth by many sure Marks, that this Volume was actually Printed; but then, why it was not Bound up with the former Part of the Work, I know not.

Some Paragraphs are Dashed out, because they were brought in elsewhere.

Here are but two or three Trickings, and those hastily done; and no Alphabetical Tables at the End.

2034. Another Book, being a Continuation of the former, and written by the same Hand. The greatest part of it seemeth to have been Printed (but whether ever published, I cannot now say) Here are some Trickings, hastily performed, and (for the most part) dashed out, as having been made use of. This Volume concludes the 22 Chapter of the Third Book.

2035. A parcel of loose Papers, written all by the same Hand, containing part of Randle Holme's Fourth Book of The Academy of Armory, being as yet unprinted: that is, Chapters IV, VI, VIII, IX, XI, XII, & XIII. or part of them. Here are some Trickings; but, generally, the Papers look as if the last Hand was not putt to them. They are followed by some others, whereinto honest Randle digested.

Num. 2036.

An Alphabet or Table of all the Names of all the Coats mentioned in the First, Second, & Third Books, according to their feuerall Folios. That is, taking in the Second Part of the Third Book.

N. B. This not being printed, diuers who haue the Book were obliged to be at the trouble of making such a Table to it, for their own use.

2036. A Paper-book in small folio, written by diuers Hands in the Law-French, but wholly relating to the practice of the Municipal Laws of England: seeming to be a Collection of Cases Argued in Westminster-hall, or extracted from the Plea-Rolls of either Bench there; all within the Reign of Queen Elizabeth. In turning it over, I observe the following Titles.

1. Term Trin. & Mich. anno 32 Eliz. in Banco Reg. fol. 1. This begins abruptly, the first Leaf being wanting.
In this Tract (at fol. 6. b.) mention is made of the Indictment of Sir William Dethick, for striking in the Palace of Westminster, and of his Plea. This had not been remembred here, but that I had been told before, that the Scene lay in St. Pauls Church-Yard.

Num. 2037.

2037. A Book in folio written by diuers Hands; and on the Out-side thus Entituled, Euidences & Old Deeds concerneing Cheshire Families, &c. to which I may add, both Families & Lands in Warwickshire, Kent, Leicestershire, Northamptonshire, Staffordshire, Shropshire, and other Counties; all which I chuse to describe briefly in the manner following.

1. The Third Randle Holme's List of those Per-sons Names, in whose Hands, he found the Deeds hereafter to be mentioned. At the Be-ginning.
2. Alphabetical Table of the Names of Fami-lies; extracted from the same Deeds. This fol-lowed by
3. Another like Table of the Names of Places.
Lest the Peruser of this Volume should unwarily give too much Credit to these Tables, honest Randle hath advertised us, that they are both in Confusion, many Names of Places being in-serted into the Alphabet of Sur-names; and many Sur-names into the Alphabet of Places.
4. Misterton & Pultney-Euedences. i. e. Short Notes extracted by the Second Randle Holme, from a great Number of Deeds, &c. relating to the Families of Pulteney, Napton, &c. and their Lands in Misterton, Pulteney, & elsewhere. fol. 123.
5. Shenly-Euedences. fol. 133.
These are like Notes, and seem also to have been taken, in order to the Laboring a Pedegree of Poultene.
6. Out-Land Euedences. fol. 151.
These Notes seem to belong to the same Work; and, with the former, include a great Number of Names.
7. Notes Extracted by the Second Randle Holme, out of the Deeds of Mr. Dauis of Aston, A. D. 1639. fol. 143. 148.
Here are some Tricks of Seals (The Notes relate chiefly to the Towns of Horton & Hertford, in Cheshire)
8. Extracts from 16 Deeds in the Hands of John Edgeley of Marley, made by the same, A. D. 1650. fol. 152.
Many of these (with others which immediately follow) relate to the Town or Manor of Merbury in Cheshire.
9. Notes uppon Review of the Deeds: relating to the Family of Aston. fol. 156.
10. Aston-Mondrem. fol. 157.
These Extracts relate not only to the Town of Aston; but to the Families of Crue, Myn-shul, &c.
11. Ashley-Evidence. fol. 159.
Extracts of Deeds relating to that Place.
12. Frodsham, Kingesley, and Norley. fol. 161.
i. e. Extracts from Deeds touching the Owners of Lands there.
13. Halton. fol. 165.
In the same manner; and so of 14. Chester-Euedences. fol. 169.
15. Minshull-Vernon, & Church-Minshull. fol. 175.
16. Another parcel of Extracts from Deeds re-lating to Chirton, Codington, Tilston, Farn-don, Clutton, &c. fol. 208.
17. Strange Euidences: i. e. like Extracts from other Deeds. fol. 234.
18. Aston Evidence: i. e. like Extracts relating to the Family of Aston; taken A. D. 1635. fol. 270.
19. Extracts

Num. 2037. — 2038.

19. Extracts from divers remarkable Deeds of the Old Earls of Chester, &c. by Mr. William Vernon that learned Antiquary; with an Original Letter of his to the Second Randle Holme, Dated 29 Maie 1639. fol. 300.
20. The same Randle Holmes Extracts from the Evidences of Capt. George Dimock. fol. 305.

Holme deceased. He put upon its outside this Title, Pedegrees of diverse Places: by which he meant, Pedegrees of Families dwelling in divers, or different Places; as well without, as within the County-Palatine of Chester. Many of these are illustrated with Tricks of Armes, & Seals, Extracts from Deeds, and other Heraldical Notes, & principally done by the Second & Third Randle Holmes. This might serve as a general Account of this useful Book, since a particular One of all the Descents would be too tedious: but that, according to custom, I shall yet acknowledge that in turning it over, I observed,

1. The Third Randle Holme's Alphabetical Table of the Pedegrees Entred into this Book. At the beginning.
 2. His Alphabetical Table directing to the Coates of Armes found herein.
 3. Dr. Humfrey Ridley's account of His Family, written by his own hand; inserted at fol. 178.
 4. Copie of the Certificate or Acknowledgement of the Atchievement properly belonging to Lieutenant Colonell William Smith; by William Roberts Doctor of the Civile Law, & Vluester Kinge of Armes of the whole Kingdome of Ireland. Dat. 14 July 1648. fol. 219.

Majesties Office of Armes in London, according as He was enjoyned by Oath, and Order of His Office, for the Benefitt of Posteritie. fol. 15.

This good Order taken by that Norroy, would have been of great Use, if it had been well followed; but although the Register appeareth to have been well begun, the Armes being Painted, the Certificate fairly Copied, &c. honest Randle Holme the First soon found those Laborious Articles to be unnecessary, there being but 5 Atchievements Painted: and with the second Instance he failed as to the Writing-part, there being no more of his Copies. But then, in Order to carry on the Register, he Pasted the Original Certificates (in like manner as was done by those of W. Grafton above-mentioned) upon another book; but not always in exact Order of time, These Certificates seem to be, for the most part drawn up by the aforesaid Randle Holme the First, as may appear, by comparing them with one Subscribed with his Name, at fol. 52. and some Emendations have been made to them, and Additional Certificates inserted by his Son the Second Randle Holme, as at fol. 23. 42. b.

3. The Fees to be demanded by the said Deputy to Norroy, upon these Mournful Occasions, are specified, at fol. 5. b.

4. The Book upon which all the Certificates are Pasted, is an imperfect Copie of Cooke's Baronage.

2042. A Book in folio, by the Third Randle Holme, on the Outside thus Entituled, Lancashire Deeds, &c. by which, we are to understand, copies of or Extracts from Seals, with other Notes, Papers, Tricks of Seals & Monuments, relating chiefly to Persons or Places in Lancashire; and Collected for the most part, by the said Randle, or by his Father Randle the Second. But, forasmuch as this Account may be demed too general, I shall take the Liberty of putting down what I particularly remark therein; as followeth,

1. The Alphabetical Tables of Persons & Places mentioned in this Book, are not here; but are to be found in another Volume of the Work whereof this is a part, now inscribed 96 C. 25.

2. The Third Randle Holmes Catalogue of the Things of most Note, entred into this Book; at the beginning.

3. List of the Free-holders Names throughout Lancashire; taken A. D. 1600. fol. 185.

4. Nomina Villarum infra Comitatum Lancastriæ. fol. 204.

5. List of the Parish-Churches throughout the County Palatyne of Lancashire, with the Hundreds they are in; and what Townships are in each Parish, Ex libro W. Vernon Gen. A. D. 1668. fol. 208.

6. Extracts from some Deeds, belonging to the Talbotts. fol. 213.

7. Carta R. Richardi III. quâ concedit Thomæ Talbott Militi, pro bono ac gratuito servicio suo, in captura magni Adversarij sui Henrici nuper de facto, sed non de jure, Regis Angliæ, sibi ac bonæ memoriæ Edwardi Regis IV. impenso, quadraginta Libras annuatim percipiendas de exitibus Comitatus Palatini Lancastriæ. Dat. 2 Augusti, anno Regni secundo. ibid.

Num. 2042.

8. Original Letter of Doctor Richard Keurden of Preston, to Randle Holme, Dated 10 January, 1664, desiring him to lend him what he had of Coll. Worden's Descent; and also to send him his old Role or Bundle of Transcripts concerning Fazakerley's & Walton's Lands. Adding that Mr. Townly and himself were in hott pursuit of their Countreyes Affaires, and in retriving the Glory of their Palatine out of Monumental Ashes: being able to proue their County a Palatinate Jurisdiction under Rog. Pictavenfis, before the grand Survey of Domesdays Record in the Exchequer, and forfeited before that time; restored againe in William the Second's time; forfeited again by Pictauenfis at the Battell of Tenerchbrey, in the beginning of Henry the First: bestowed then on Stephen before he was King; and continued for his Raigne in his Son Will. Comēs Boloniæ et Moritonæ, til about 5th. of Richard the First; then giuen to Jo. Earle Morton; afterwards to P. of Sauoy; and by Henry III. conferred on Edmund Crouchback their first Earle by Charter; though some of the latter had not their Jura Regalia, as at first. fol. 214.

9. Part of a List of the old Fines, or Pedes Finium remaining of Record, in the Exchequer of Chester, as it seemeth. fol. 215.

10. A Kalender of the Euidence of Roger Kirkby Esq; fol. 231.

11. Extracts from 3 Deeds of Colewyke & Byron with a Trick of the Seal of John Byrune. fol. 233.

12. A Trick of an old Picture of a Knight kneeling armed in a Shirt of Mail, with a Tabard over it, of an old Fashion, & without Sleeves. On the Tabard are his Armes, but not expressed as in an Escoccheon, or as in the way used in later times. Yet in his Left Hand he holds up an Escoccheon with his Armes according to the antient manner. fol. 233.

This is said to be taken from the North-Window of the Church of Colwick, in Nottinghamshire.

13. Extracts from the Notes incerted by Mr. Vincent in the Side of Standishes Pedigrey: one of which, is the Receipt of Thomas Carlton Vickar of the Church of Croston, which he gave for the Relique of St. Lawrence's Head, brought out of Normandy by Sir Rouland of Standish. Dat. 2 March, 1442. fol. 239. A.

14. Extracts from the Deeds of Mr. Maghull of Maghull, taken A. D. 1639. fol. 248.

Among these, divers relate to the antient family of Molyneux.

15. Notes relating to the Family of Biron, collected from the great Pedegree of that Family, which was labor'd for Sir John Biron Knight of the Bath, A. D. 1627. fol. 263.

16. Excerpta ex Collectionibus Rogeri Dodsworth de Hutton-grange in Com. Lancastr. 24 Maij 1629. fol. 272.

These are Extracts from Deeds relating to divers Families.

17. Extracts from the Deeds of Samuel Bispham of Billinge in the County of Lancaster, Esq; with his Pedegree collected out of Evidences, and other authentick matter of Record, by Sir Henry St. George K^t. Norroy King at Armes, Anno 1640. fol. 273.

Num. 2042.

18. Confirmation of the Armes, with a Grant of an Augmentation to the same, and a Crest, unto the aforesaid Samuel Bispham Esq; by St. Henry St. George Norroy. Dat. 1 January 1640. fol. 278. b.
19. Pedegree of the Family of Dauntsey. fol. 281.
20. Descent of the Family of Preston. fol. 282. Or rather, a Genealogical Scheme shewing the Descendants from Thomas Preston of Preston Patrick, & Leavens in Westmerland.
21. Short Descents of Byram, & of Byrom. fol. 284. b.
22. Descent of the noble Family of Ogle, down to William Duke of Newcastle. fol. 285. b. Part of this is said to have been copied from those Papers of Mr. Ogle which he took from his Deeds, A. D. 1611; and is continued to A. D. 1645.
23. Extracts from the antient Deeds of the said Noble Family; with Tricks of some of the Seals. fol. 286. b.
24. Indentura inter Willelmum More Arm. Majorem Ville de Leuerepole, et Communitatem ejusdem Ville, ex una parte, et Willelmum Molyneux Militem, ex alterâ; Dat. 5 die Octobr. anno 15 R. Henrici VIII. fol. 287. b.
25. Deeds Copied by me R. Holme of Chester Alderman, remayning in the Hands of Henry Beardswurth now of Chester & of Layland in Com. Lancast. 3 September 1650. fol. 288. To this Title, the same Randle, afterwards (being almost asleep, as I suppose) added these Words, written verbatim, for the very first of them begins thus, Sciant etc. ego Robertus — & others in the same manner; so that some of them are only Extracts, and not Written verbatim.
26. Descent of the Family of Beardsworth. fol. 288. b.
27. The same Randle Holme's Extracts from divers Deeds in the Possession of James Stopford, Esq; made in the month of March 1650. fol. 291.
28. Literæ Confraternitatis, quibus Johannes Prior localis Ordinis Fratrum Heremitarum S. Augustini Conventus Staffordie, accepit Johannem Bakehouse et Ciceham uxorem suam, in Fraternitatem ejusdem Domus. Dat. A. D. 1361. fol. 292. b.
29. Extracts from Deeds in Custody of Mr. William Rauen of Ellworth. fol. 308.
30. Extracts from Deeds in the Custody of Mr. James Jolly of Manchester, made by the said Randle Holme; A. D. 1652. fol. 309.
31. Extracts from Deeds in the Possession of Mr. Richard Jackson alias Keuerden, Doctör of Phisick, made by the same Randle Holme, in January 1653. fol. 316.
32. Notes Coppyed out of the same Dr. Jackson's Collections, that were written with his owne hand: by the same Randle Holme. fol. 326. b.
33. Coppies of Deeds taken by Dr. Jackson alias Cuerden. fol. 329. b.
34. Mundana mutabilia, ETHLESTOPHYLAX: A Declaration how God hath preserved the Family, Kindred, or Posterity of Etheleston (now called Elston) in a competent, though variable Estate, for a longe Tyme; as the same hath bin collected from sundry parcells of ancient Evidences by William Elstone. fol. 336.

Num. 2042. — 2043.

This Treatise was written by Mr. Elston A. D. 1625, as appears in fol. 338. b. & 339. but, in this Copie, is carried down no lower than ann. 2 R. Elizabethæ. The several Families of whom it treats, seem to have been of the lesser Gentry; and Mr. Elston himself seems, by his manner of Writing, to have been not only a Pious man; but also well skilled in the Laws of this Realm.

35. Extracts from old Deeds found in the Possession of several Persons, whose names are omitted. fol. 363.

These relate, principally, to the Families of Fazakerley & Walton; as also to divers of the old Inhabitants of the Town of Liverpool.

36. Walton Deeds. fol. 373.

These are Extracts from old Deeds chiefly relating to the Family of Walton: and also to those of Clayton, Preston, &c.

37. Collectanea de Honore Lancastriæ, ex libro Johannis Hide de Urmeston Arm. fol. 383.

2043. A Book in folio, consisting of divers Treats, partly Historical & partly Heraldical, bound up together in no good Order; many of which are neither perfect, nor written by the same Hands. However, they may be described thus.

1. The Third Randle Holme's List of the Things of most Note in this Book. At the Beginning.

2. An Alphabetical Table of the Families Names, whose Pedegrees may be found in this Book.

3. A like Table pointing to the Armes Entred herein.

4. A briefe Journal of the Seige against Lathom-Hall, Anno 1644. fol. 1.

5. Short Discourses upon these several Titles, viz. Gentleman, Knight, Baronet, Prince, & King; with some miscellaneous Notes, & an original Letter of one Samuel Clarke, intermingled. fol. 9.

6. Of the Antiquity & Constitution of our Parliaments. fol. 20. b.

7. A perfect List of the Names & Sur-names of the Knights & Burgeses for this County & Burrough of Derby, as they were chosen to attend that Parliament Holden at Westminster, 3 Nov. 1640. fol. 22.

8. An unfinished Draught of the Market-house of Lichfield. fol. 24.

This belongs to an imperfect Account of the besieging of Lichfield-Close, A. D. 1642. written by some Cavalier, who had more Zeal than Learning (et vid. plura fol. 38)

9. Names of the Knights & Gentlemen resident in Derbyshire, as returned into the Exchequer, anno 12 Regis Henrici VI. fol. 32.

10. A Fragment of an Account of the Siege of Lathom-House, A. D. 1644. fol. 36.

This was different from that abovementioned, at §. 4.

11. A List of those Leicester-shire Gentlemen, who compounded with the Parliament for their Estates, at Golesmith's Hall in London, during the time of the Civil War. fol. 38. b.

12. Part of a List of the Lords of the Privy Council to K Charles II. designed to set forth their Titles, Creation, Armes, &c. (but little is done) fol. 46.

13. Notes about John of Gaunt, & his Son K. Henry IV. (short) fol. 48

Num. 2043.

14. Descent of Stanley Earl of Derby (Imperfect at the End) ibid.
 15. Descent of Ferrers Earls of Derby. fol. 48.
 16. Imperfect Tricks of two Corporation-Seals. fol. 54. (perhaps of Kendal in Westmoreland. vid. fol. 91. b.)
 17. An Imperfect & un-learned Essay towards an History of the County of Westmoreland, and of the Noble & Worshipful Families therein Resident. fol. 56. (90, which follows 57. b.) 58. 84. 88. 90. (127, which follows 91. b.)
 18. Of the Lord Keeper Sir Edward Littleton (Lord Littleton of Mounslow) his exemplary Loyalty to K. Charles I. fol. 60.
 19. Descent of Lenox Earl of Richmond, with Notes. fol. 60. b.
 20. Descendants from Edward Seymour Lord Protector, down to Francis, Duke of Somerset; which Title he had not until the year 1675. fol. 63.
 21. Descent of the Family of Bertu. fol. 64.
 22. Some Notes touching the Family of Boyle, Earl of Burlington, as descended from that of Clifford. fol. 66. b. & 67.
 23. Others relating to that of Bouchier, Earl of Bath. fol. 68.
 24. ——— Wryothsley, Earl of Southampton. fol. 68. b.
 25. ——— Sackville, Earl of Dorset. fol. 70.
 26. ——— Cavendish, Earl of Devonshire. fol. 72.
 27. ——— Carey, Viscount Falkland; Earl of Dover; & Earl of Monmouth. fol. 73.
 28. ——— Hamilton, Duke of Hamilton & Earl of Cambridge. fol. 75.
 29. ——— Digby, Earl of Bristol. fol. 76.
 30. ——— Fane, Earl of Westmerland. fol. 77. b.
 31. ——— Howard, Earl of Berkshire. fol. 78.
 32. ——— Savage, Earl Rivers. fol. 78. b.
 33. ——— Dormer, Earl of Carnarvon. fol. 82.
 34. ——— Blount, Earl of Newport. fol. 83.
 35. ——— Howard, Duke of Norfolk. fol. 83. b.
- These last Notes are almost wanting. The principal Reason of treating of these Noble Families abovementioned, seems to be their Attachment to the Cause of their Sovereign King Charles I. and their respective Subscriptions made at York, for bringing each such a Number of Horse-men completely furnished to his Assistance.*
36. Larger Notes (but sometimes erroneous) touching the Descent of Nevil, Earl of Westmoreland (and seeming to belong to the Tract mentioned above at §. 17) fol. 84.
 37. Some others, relating to the Fanes Earls of Westmoreland: and likewise to the same Tract. fol. 88.
 38. Armes of divers of the Nobility, used in the Descent of Talbot Earl of Shrewsbury. fol. 92.
 39. Descents of many Staffordshire Families, with some Notes & Tricks; seeming to be taken from old Visitation-books of that County. They are placed partly in Alphabetical Order; and, the Leaves being transposed, the Tract doth not begin at fol. 94, where is the Descent of Fowler: but at fol. 186. b. where we meet with that of Adderley (vid. etiam fol. 104. & 172. 198. & 219. b.)
 40. Notes relating to Cumberland, and to several Antient Families there, being of the same inaccurate Person, who as above is said, did endeavor to write about Westmoreland. fol. 102. et vide fol. 164.

Num. 2043. — 2044.

41. Part of a List of the Cheshire Gentry who compounded with the Parliament, for their Estates, at Goldsmith's Hall in London, during the time of the Civil Warres. fol. 118. 128. (vid. fol. 167.)
 42. Notes illustrating the Discent of the Noble Family of Tufton, aliàs Toketon. fol. 120.
 43. Others relating to that of Poulet Baron of Hinton-St. George. fol. 132.

 47. ——— Mohun, Baron of Oakhampton. fol. 138.
 48. ——— Leigh, Earl of Chichester. fol. 139.
 49. A Catalogue of the Earls of this Towne of Nottingham; with a brief Historicall Collection, setting forth their Loyalty, Armes, Wives, & Deaths. fol. 140.
 50. Succession of the Earls of Derby; imperfect. fol. 144.
 51. A Note relating to the Honorable Life of George Savile, late Marquis of Halifax. fol. 144. b.
 52. An Account of the High Sheriffs of Derbyshire, during the Reign of K. Charles I. fol. 145.
 53. Notes relating to the Derbyshire-Baronets, and their Behavior toward K. Charles I. fol. 149.
 54. Notes, like those before remembred, relating to the Family of Paget, Baron of Beaufort. fol. 153.
 55. Like Notes relating to the Family of Rich, Earl of Warwick. fol. 155. b.
 56. ——— Belasyse, Viscount Falconberg, &c. fol. 157.
 57. ——— Brugges, Lord Chandos. fol. 158. b.
 58. ——— Capell, Earl of Essex. fol. 161.
 59. ——— Cary, Viscount Falkland. fol. 162.
 60. ——— Cromwell, Earl of Arglasse, fol. 169.
 61. ——— Leigh, Baron of Stonley. fol. 173. b.
 62. ——— Sutton, Lord Lexington (imperfect) fol. 181.
 63. Imperfect Notes concerning the Nottinghamshire-Baronets, and their Behavior toward K. Charles I. fol. 184.
 64. Notes like those above, relating to the Family Stanhope, Earl of Chesterfield. (imperfect.) fol. 196.
 65. De Episcopis Lichfeldensibus & Coventrensis: a Duina, usq; ad Ricardum Peche. fol. 208.
 66. The Printed Alphabetical Table to John Gwillim's Display of Heraldry. fol. 221.
2044. A Book in folio, consisting of several Tracts & loose Papers Bound up together, being written by the Second Randle Holme, and others; on the back-side thus entituled, Deeds of Abbeyes & Priories, &c. wherein I find
1. The Third Randle Holmes Account of the Things of most Note in this Book: at the Beginning.
 2. Index Locorum: or an Alphabetical Table of the Names of Places mentioned herein. Next, follows a large Collection of Notes and Charters, with Tricks of many of their Seals; gathered from many Persons and Places, and may be accounted for in the following manner.
 3. How Hugh Lupus Earl of Chester gave his Estate in Scipena to the Abbey of Abendon, manu cultellum cultellum Altari superponendo; with his Epistle to the Abbat Rainaldus, shewing upon what Terms he would part with it. Taken out of the Leiger of the Abbey of Abbingdon remaineing in Cotton's Library, & noted, Claudius C. 9. fol. 1.

Num. 2044.

4. Carta quâ Hugo cognomento Kivelioe Comes Cestrensis, concessit Ecclesiam Bettessfordiæ Priori et Canonicis de Trentham. ibid. This Copy (says the same Randle) I received from Sir Simon d'Ewes: whose Transcript of it may be found in this Library, at 37 B. 13. fol. 216. b.

5. Carta quâ Ranulfus Comes Cestriæ, dedit Gevæ Ridel filiæ Comitis Hugonis, Draitunam, in libero Conjugio, sicuti Comes Hugo ei in libero conjugio dedit et concessit. ibid.

This I receuied (quoth Randle) from Sir Simon d'Ewes, taken out of a Manuscript in Arundell-house, which belonged aunciently to the Barons of Stafford; wherein the old Charters of the Bassets of Drayton-Basset were inrolled, about the time of Richard II. (vid. 37. B. 13. fol. 248. 248. b.)

6. Copy of the Charter wherby Richard Earl of Chester gave an Hide of Land in Wdemundeslai to the Monastery of Abendon, anno 6 Regis Henrici I. fol. 1. b.

This Deed comes from the Cottonian ms. before-mentioned, and is also transcribed into 37. B. 13. at fol. 217. b. where a remarkable Note in the Cottonian book, is there omitted. It shews that this Earl nondum militari baltheo cinctus, as being under Age, had not a Seal of his own, but used that of His Mother.

7. Conventio inter Comitem Cestriæ, et Robertum Comitem Legecestriæ, et finalis Pax et Concordia quæ fuit concessa ab Eis, coram secundo Roberto Episcopo Lincolnæ, et Hominibus eorum, circa Burgum et Dominicum Castrum de Mount-Sorell, et Castrum de Ravenstona, &c. fol. 1. b.

Honest Randle found the Original of this, in Bibliotheca Cottoniana: i. e. in the book inscribed NERO C. III. Cart 4. where I have also seen it. vid. Smithi Catal. Bibl. Cotton. pag. 52. col. 2.

8. Old Deeds transcribed or extracted from the great Couchir-booke in the Duchy-Office at Grayes-Inne, London. fol. 2. b.

They all relate to the Family of the old Earles of Chester.

9. Ex Claus. 16. Hen. III. a Writt about putting Clementia the Widow of Ranulf Earl of Chester, in full possession of Her Dowry. fol. 5.

10. Conventio inter Ranulphum Comitem Cestriæ, et Llewelinum Principem North-walliæ, de indotatione Helenæ filiæ Lewelini: quam itidem in uxorem Johanni de Scotia, Comitis nepoti, tradendam promissit. ibid.

From the Original, in the Hands of Mr. Somerford Oldfield of Somerford in Cheshire, A. D. 1653.

11. Extracts from two Deeds relating to the Endowment or Settlement of the Abbey of Norton in Cheshire, which was removed thither from Run-corna. fol. 5. b.

12. De partitione hereditatis Ranulfi Comitis Cestriæ, inter tres filias suas. Ex Rot. Claus. 17. Hen. III. m. 17. ibid.

13. Extracts from the Public Records, & from the Bodleyan ms. LAVD. K. 84. concerning John le Scot Earl of Chester, and the Lands given to His four Sisters, as a Recompense for the County of Chester. fol. 6.

VOL. II.

Num. 2044.

These Mr. Holme owns that he had from the then Mr. William Dugdale; & likewise the same Records from Mr. Will. Vernon.

14. Notes relating to Cheshire, and to its antient Earls, from the same Bodleyan Manuscript; and from the same Mr. Dugdale too, as I suppose. fol. 6. b.

15. De Hugone & Ranulpho III. Comitibus Cestriæ, adnotationes binæ: ex Historia aurea Johannis Anglici sive Tinumetensis ms. in Bibliotheca Bodleiana. fol. 7. A.

16. Collectanea super Monasterijs de Parco-Creendun, Parco super Tamam, et de Maiden-Bradley, ex rotulo quodam dicto Rotulus de Crendon, penes Decanum & Capitulum Ecclesiæ Cathedralis Oxon. fol. 7.

18. Extracts from the Evidences of Mr Richard Bagod, principally relating to his Family, or to the Towne of Bromley-Bagod. fol. 10.

These were Copied from a book of Mr. William Vernons.

19. Collectanea ex Libro Prioratûs Sancti Thomæ Martyris juxta Stafford. fol. 12.

20. Collectanea ex Libro Ecclesiæ Collegiatæ B. Mariæ de Warwic. fol. 14.

I suspect that many of these Extracts from Deeds, included in the two last Articles, are taken from the Originals, & not from the Books above-mentioned (although due notice be not given) because many have Tricks of the Family-Seals, particularly that of Johanna the Relict of Sir Robert de Harley, bearing Date anno 49 R. Edw. III. as at fol. 15. b. et (vid. fol. 18. b.)

21. Collectanea ex Chartis Edwardi Aston de Tixhall in Com. Stafford. fol. 16. b.

Divers of these relate to Persons & Places in Warwick-shire, as well as others in Stafford-shire.

22. Extracts from sundry old Deeds relating to divers antient Families, as Frevile, Marmion, Montfort, Walshe, &c. perhaps by Mr. William Vernon. fol. 18. b.

23. Pars Cartæ Willelmi Comitis de Warennæ, de Fundatione Ecclesiæ S. Mariæ de Wodkirke. fol. 18. C.

This was a Cell to the Priory of Nostel in York-shire.

24. Pars Litterarum Patentium Regis quâ Concessit Henrico Wyat Militi, quod ipse Fundaret Cantariam in Capella Beate Mariæ Virginis apud Melton juxta Gravissende in Com. Kancie. fol. 18. C. b.

25. Collectanea ex libro Cartarum Prioratûs Sancti Thome Martiris juxta Stafford, per Sampsonem Erdeswycke Armigerum. fol. 26.

26. Collectanea ex Registro Cartarum Monasterij de Sibeton in Com. Norfolciensi. fol. 27. b.

Notwithstanding what is above written, and also asserted in the Monasticon Anglicanum, &c. some hold the Scite of this Monastery to be within the County of Suffolk. Among these Extracts, I more particularly observe,

I take the Custodia here, not to extend to a property, or legal Possession; because, 1. No such

- book of Sir Simonds D'Ewes came hitber; and*
2. such a Book as this, I have perused among the Norfolcian mss. in the Library of the Royal Society now settled in Crane Court in Fleet-street. I suppose therefore, that Sir Simonds Borrowed it of Thomas Howard Earl of Arundel & Surrey, or else of his Son Earl Henry: in like manner as the Kings ms. of Matthew Paris's Historia Minor, is cited (in this ms. fol. 64.) as in the Custody of the same Sir Simonds, 28 August 1648. which was afterward restored to the Library from whence it was taken; for, I myself, have divers times seen and perused it there.

49. E Cartulario Abbatiae de Kirkstid. fol. 87.
50. Ex quodam ms. penes Thomam Dnm. Brudnell Baronem de Brudnell-Stanton in Comitatu Leicestrensi, 30 Januarij 1647; cujus Titulus, The Leiger-booke of Doddington in the County of Huntington. fol. 89. b.
Here the Reader, from the Word Leiger-booke, need not think that Doddington was a Monastery, as it was not: but rather, that the said Book contained Copies of that noble Lord's Evidences, touching the whole, or part of His Estate; at least, such as related to Doddington, which he enjoyed, as being descended from Taylard, Grimbaud, & Kirkeby, the Owners thereof, for a very long time before.
51. A Note concerning the Lordshipe of Great Budworth in Com. Cestr. half of which, was given by Warburton of Arley, to the Priory of Norton. fol. 93.
52. Transcripts of Five Charters of so many of our antient Noble Men, that is, of the First William de Mandevilla, Earl of Essex; Henry de Lascy, Earl of Lincoln; Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Penbroc; William de Albini, Earl of Suffex; and Gualeran, Earl of Melent: with Tricks of their Seals, excepting that of the last. fol. 93. b.
Instead of the Seal of Earl Gualeran, are these Words, This Seale, with its Endorse, was not drawne in Mr. Dodsworth's booke.
53. Collectanea ex Libro Censuali, sive Registro Prioratus de Beluero, subordinat. Abbatiae Sancti Albani; transcripta per Thomam Baronem Brudenell. fol. 96.
Honest Randle Holme the Second, took this Monastery to be that of Beverley in Yorkshire; wherein he was widely mistaken. For it plainly appears to be that of Belvoir in Leicestershire.

56. A large Collection of Transcripts, or Extraets from Original Deeds, with Tricks of very many of their Seals; said to be taken from one of Mr. Roger Dodsworth's Books thus marked [B] of which, I think I need now say no more, (forasmuch as very many of the Originals, being bought of Sir Simonds D'Ewes now living, are yet remaining in this Noble Library) than that they relate to the Monasteries of Kirkeby-Monachorum, Studeley, Ellesham, Acornebury, Dora, Tunstall, Wederhale, Berlinges, Burewelle, Hacham or Haghham, Bulington, Kirkestede, Sempingeham, Bordesley, Neuhus, Grenefeld, Suwerk or Southwark, Tanregge or Tunregge, Coges, Sewardesley, Frisetun, Alnewyke; and that from them, many good materials may be had, toward Making out, or Illustrating the Descents of the Antient, Noble & Honorable Families of Mulbrai, Cantilupo, Kaynes (de Kaineto, Cheyne, or Cheney) Amundavilla, Clifford, Crevequer, Stafford, Haya, Nevilla, De Ayncurt, Kyma, Arsic, Welle, Orrebi, Taterfale, Fitz-Walter, De Arci, Bec, Monte-fixo, Marmium, Malet, Berner, Ros, Furnivalle, Foliot, De la Mare, Ruffel, Gosla, Laschi, Segrave, Someri, Dan-martin, Wenlok, Blount, Mon-chensy, Tybetot, Stapleton, Hoo, Bohun, Baiocis, Wake, Burgo, Port, Creun, Monte-begonis, Perci, Veschi, Wilgebi, Scoteni, Mandavilla, Ver, Gant, &c. fol. 105.
57. Colleetanea e Cartulario de Castel-Acre. fol. 144. Sir Simonds D'Ewes the Grandfather seems to have lent this valuable Manuscript to the second Randle Holme, not long before his Decease: And then honest Randle keeping the book as his own; no wonder it came not among the others bought of Sir Simonds D'Ewes the Grandson. But, in process of a long time; that is, after the Death of old Randle Holme the Third, it did come into this Library, & is now inscribed, 97 B. 2.
58. E Cartulario Prioratus S. Johannis de Pontefracto. fol. 146.
59. E quodam ms. manu recentiori scripto, penes Johannem Langley Armigerum, A. D. 1649 fol. 147. This Manuscript contained Copies of many curious Charters, with Tricks of the Seals; and might be of good Use now, if it were known where it remains.

48. A Booke of the Returnes of the Knights, Citizens, & Burgessees of this present Parliament (of Ireland) beginning the 14th day of July, A. D. 1634. fol. 519.
By divers of the foregoing Articles it appeareth, that part of the matters contained in this book, do relate to England; although not so noted by Mr. Holme.

2049. A Book in folio, containing a great part of an English Concordance to the Bible, with an Account of the severall Places mentioned therein. Written by a person who mentioned Mr. Newman & Mr. Wickens; and who, (notwithstanding he seemed not to have a prospect of Living to publish these his Papers himself) hath nevertheless prefixed a long & pompous Title to the same; which I here omitt, because of the Tediousness of it.

2050. An Heraldical Book in folio, consisting of many Fragments and single Papers, written by different Persons (for the most part, during the Reigns of Queen Elizabeth & King Charles 1.) and now Bound up together. It is, on the Back, Entituled Pedegrees of severall places; but I rather choose to account for it in the manner following.

1. Coates & Crests; i. e. an Alphabetical Table of the Names of Families, whose Armes or Crests are to be found in this Book. At the Beginning.
2. Transcript of a Letter of Attorney, whereby Mrs. Jane Shelley (the Heiress of Lengaine) late wife of William Shelley Esq; (who was Attainted) did authorise Richard Whittington Gent. & Richard Wynter Clerk, to manage all her Affaires relating to her Rectorye &

Personage of Taddington, & Mannours of Sutton alias Sutton-Frewne, & Weston, in the County of Hereford. fol. 310.

Then follows,

3. The Collection of Descents aforesaid; the greatest part of which relate to Cheshire-Families, but put together in no manner of Order; and being, all along, intermixed with those of Nobility & Gentry of other Counties. Among them, I observed some to be of the Hand of Sir Henry St. George the Elder, who was (in his time) Garter King of Armes; namely, at fol. 431. and in other places. Here are also some Church-notes, and a few Extracts from old Deeds illustrating particular Descents: and others of them are Continued lower, by the Third Randle Holme & others.

Interspersed among the said Descents, I find,

4. Divers Original Letters of Tenants, Servants, & Friends, to Mrs. Shelley above-mentioned (of which honorable Personage, much matter may be found in this Library) the principal of which, in my opinion, is that of her Cozen Hugh Walshe, at fol. 432.

5. Some particular Matters relating to the Name & Families of Botiler. fol. 448.

6. An Engraven Paper thus Entituled, An exact Genealogical Line of the Family of the Talbots of Bafhall, drawne out of their owne Evidences, Records, & other Writings of vndoubted Veritie; Composd by Mr. Roger Dodsworth in Anno 1653: and continued to A. D. 1657. fol. 454. b.

7. An imperfect Account of our Nobility, as Created by sundry of our Kings, with their Armes in Blason: partly in the Method of Cookes Baronage. fol. 533. b.

8. An Alphabetical Table referring to the severall Pedegrees contained in this Book. At the End.

2051. A Book in folio, without any Title on the out-side, as most of Randle Holme's have: but proves to be Part of a Law-Common place-book, begun in the Reign of K. Henry VI. and enlarged afterward.

2052. A Book in fol. written by the Third Randle Holme, and may be Entituled, A Discourse of the severall Religions practized by the people Inhabiting this our County & City of Chester: that is of the Religion of the Heathen Britans & Romans; the Practice of the Primitive Church Oriental & Occidental; of the Practice of the Church of England from the time of the Conversion of K. Ethelbert; the Institution of the severall Religious Orders who had any footing in England; the Foundation of the Cheshire Monasteries, &c. In this laborious Work, I believe honest Randal may have cited severall Greek & Latin Authors at second Hand; that is, without seeing them.

2053. *A Book in folio, consisting, for the most part, of Blank Paper. That which is therein Written, seems to have been done by the Hand of some young Lawyer, who began to make a Collection of Precedents, for his own future Use. Num. 2056. — 2057.

11. Like Alphabet for Westmerland. fol. 52.

12. Like Alphabet for Staffordshire. fol. 54.

These two last are sett down by the Third Randle Holme; that of Staffordshire, from a Visitation-book.

It is plain, that Mr. Holme as he went on in this Work, took notes of the Names of City Officers, &c. and of the times when they served, in order to compile Lists of them; as may be seen at fol. 26. &c.

17. A Book in folio, consisting of many loose papers and single Traets, written by particular persons, now Bound up together; and, on the out-side, by the second Randle Holme thus Entituled, The Maiors of Chester. The Charters of the Citty, with other things about the same: which I shall account for in the manner following.

1. The Third Randle Holmes's long Note of the most remarkable things within this Book. At the beginning.

2. How the Citie of Chester was governed before there was a Maior. fol. 1.

3. Magistrates & Corporation-Officers in Chester. fol. 2.

4. List of the severall Companies in Chester. fol. 2. b.

5. Endeavors towards an explication of certain old Words, as Gabell, Recordator, Maior, Sheriffe, Citie, & Guild. fol. 3.

6. Notes of divers old Matters tending to illustrate the History of Chester; by the Second Randle Holme, &c. fol. 4.

7. Auntient Customs in Games, vsed by Boys & Girles; merrily sett out in Verse: by the same R. Holme. fol. 10. b.

8. A Collection of the Maiors whoe haue gouerned this Citty of Chester, and the time when they gouerned: collected by William Aldersay Citizen & Alderman thereof. fol. 12.

This Traet gives a short Account of the Earles; of the severall Charters granted to Chester; with a Series of the Maiors & Sheriffes, from the first, i. e. from anno 26 R. Henrici III. (with notice of some remarkable occurrences happening in their times) to A. D. 1600. Which Series, in divers places, is corrected or supplied by the aforesaid R. Holme; and by him continued down to A. D. 1658.

Here inserted, I find, The Order of a publick Show, intended to have been made by the Citizens, upon the first of August 1621. fol. 31.

9. The Speeches & Passages betwixt the Earle of Arundell (Thomas Howard) and the First Randle Holme Maior of Chester, 19 July 1634. as they were reduced into Writing by Mr. Maior, and the Sheriffe his Sonne, i. e. Randle Holme the Second. fol. 32. 2. (vid. 97. B. 17. fol. 309. b.) The Sum of the Matter was this; His Lordship (then Earl Marshal) comes to Chester, and his arrival there was kept Secret. Mr. Maior not attending to welcome him; his Lordship sends for him by a Messenger with a Warrant. Mr. Maior coming with his White Staffe in his Hand, the Earl said, "Mr. Maior, I sent for you to tell you your Offence you haue committed, in not giuing your attendance as you ought; and now do you come with your Authority?" and, with that, suddainly tooke the Staffe out of Mr. Maiors hands, & laid itt in the Windowe saying, I will teach you to knowe your Selfe, and attend Peers of the Realme. Though I care not for your Obseruances, yet because you want Manners, I will teach you some; and you shall further heare from mee. I would haue you knowe, I haue power to Commit you, to teach you to knowe your Selfe and Mee; & to giue better attendance." After many Excuses on Mr. Mayors side, & Reprimands on the other, the Earl went away, and Mr. Maior paid the Fees demanded by the Earl-Marshalls Officers.

10. Ordinance of the Lords & Commons in Parliament (dated 1 Oct. 1646.) for putting all the Loyal Citizens from their Offices, and putting others in their Places; for pulling up the Causway through the Dee, & for pulling down Dee-Milnes belonging to Mr. Francis Gamull, and building other Mills upon the Rood-Dee; and for applying yearly £ 515, out of the Revenue of the Dean and Chapter of Chester, to some of their Clergy and Schole-masters there. fol. 54.

11. The Accounts of Thomas Lyneall, for paueing the Street without the Barrs, and for Hand-bridge, ann. 1589 & 1591. fol. 58.

12. Divers Proclamations emitted by Maiors of Chester, temp. R. Eliz. with regard to divers Bodies of Souldiers arrived & Quarter'd there, in order to their Transportation into Ireland. fol. 59. Among these, are some Proclamations in the Names of the Sheriffes, about the business of their Office.

13. Form of the Bond & Condition, to be entred into by each Clarke or Keeper of the Common-Hall. fol. 61. b.

Next follows an old Latin Traet, containing the following particulars, 14. Libertates et Privilegia Civitatis Cestrie cum Metis et Bundis ejusdem; et Expositione Verborum quorundam obsoleutorum, viz. Sac, Soc, &c. fol. 63.

15. Carta R. Henrici VII. Civitati Cestrie facta et concessa, anno Regni 21. fol. 65. b. et fol. 79.

16. Charters granted to the said City by the old Earls, and sundry of our Kings their Successors; and by Walter de Lasci. fol. 69. With these Charters the Traet aforesaid Endeth; and then come

17. Translation of King Henry viiiths Charter abovementioned. fol. 90.

27. Opinion of Sir Francis Walsingham, & others. fol. 112. b.

Then follow,

28. Certain short Notes extracted by the Second Randle Holme, from the Records of the Portmote of Chester. fol. 114. b.

Among them, One Sheweth, that a Difference arose between the Bowers & Fletchers on the one part, & the Cowpers on the other; about carrying their Lights in the Procession on Corpus-Christi-day: which was decided by the Maior, anno 15 R. Edw. iv. Another, that divers Wymen were Indicted for being Whores to seuerall Monkes of Chester; and their Abbat Indicted for taking away Citty-stones about Northgate, anno 21 R. Edw. iv.

29. Letter of the Magistrates of Chester, in Answer to an Honorable person, who had desired them to give Peter Proby his Servant the Reversion of the Place of Clerke of the Pentice (in which place William Knight had served them diligently 24 years) or else to make him Under-Sheriffe: wherein they shew Him, that they have no Charter, Record, or other Precedent to justify them in so doing; but would indeavor to provide for him some other way. Dat. 28 April 1587. fol. 115.

follows it; which is, a Narration touching the Dissolution of the Monastery of St. Werburg, and Foundation of the Cathedral Church of Christ, & of the Blessed Virgin Mary of Chester, by King Henry VIII. in the premisses of whose Letters Patents, the Word Cestrie (although afterward mentioned in the same) was unhappily omitted. It shews further, how Sir Richard Cotton Comptroller of the Kings Household procured the Imprisonment of Dr. Cliffe Dean of Chester, & of two of the Prebendaries, & by Threats obliged them, being no lawful Chapter, to grant him the Fee-Farme of the most part of their Possessions, at an annual Rent less than the Old Rent by £100 ^ƿ ann. Also how Mr. Walker Dean Cliffe's Successor prosecuted this foul matter, but died before Sentence given. Whereupon, the Cottons, perceiving their Fee-farme to be Voyde in Lawe, to furnish themselves with Money, & to strengthen their bad title with Friends, graunted the greatest parte of the same to sundry Gentlemen in Cheshire, for One or Two yeares (in monney) in hande paide. Who, after several hearings, being likely to lose their Cause, gave Six yeares Rent of the said Lands vnto Robert Dudley Earle of Leycester, & so got a Commission out, that some of Q. Elizabeth's privie Counsaile might haue the hearing thereof, whereby the right course of Lawe was stopped: and then Petition was made to Her Majestie for new Graunts of all the said Lands. In this Traēt there are likewise Copies of divers remarkable Writings, as 1. Serj. Popham's Opinion, to proue the Kings Patent of the Dotation, through the Omission of the Word Cestrie, to be voyde. 2. The Judges Answer to the Earle of Leycester, who desired their opinion in this matter. Dat. 1 Decr. 1576. 3. A breife Abstract concerning her Majesties Graunt of concealed Lands in Fee-Farme, to Peeter & Edward Graye. 4. So much of the said Queens Letters Pattents as concerne the Lands in Cheshire made ouer by the said Grayes, to Lancelot Bostock Esq; & Francis Hitchcock, &c. 5. A Deed of Purchase for Bostock & Hitchcock from the Grayes, enrolled in the Chauncery, &c. 6. The Rental of all & singuler the Mannors, Lands, & Tenements, &c. of the late Abbey of Chester, (except the Manour of Abbots-Coton, Church-Lawton, & Weston) Surveyed by William Bolls Esq; & John Wyseman, mense Junij anno 32 Hen. VIII. 7. The Commission graunted to the Lords of Her Majesties privie Counsell, to bear the Matter between the Dean & Chapter & the Fee-Fermors. 8. A Declaration of the Cause to the Commissioners, by the Deane & Chapter. 9. A Breife of the Cause declared by the Gentlemen to the Commissioners. 10. Articles of the Auditor of Cheshire's Report to Sir Walter Mildmay, &c. touching the same. 11. Petitions exhibited on the behalfe of the Gentlemen to the said Commissioners. 12. The Order sett downe by the Commissioners. 13. The Surrender to the Queenes Majestie from the Fee-Fermours. 14. Another Surrender from the Deane & Chapter, to the Queenes Majestie. 15. A breife Noate of the concealed Lands, Sold & Graunted in Fee-Fermie by Mr. Bostocke & Mr. Hitchcocke.

37. A Rentall of the Rectorie of Prestburie, taken anno 19 Elizabethæ Regine. pag. 120.
This is followed by divers Notes specifying the Value of severall other Rectories & Vicariges in Cheshire.
38. A Noate of such Lands, Tenements, Tythes, Rents, & other of the Concealed Possessions of the late Dissolved Monasterie of St. Werburg, now in the Possession of the said Deane & Chapter, and not conteyned in Hitchcocks Graunt. pag. 122.
39. Copies or Extracts of Original Deeds relating to the said Monastery, and in the Custody of John Edwards. pag. 123.
40. A few short Notes relating to the Family of Aston, collected A. D. 1639, by John Cowper, for Tho. Aston Baronet. pag. 127.
41. More Copies or Abstracts of old Writings, concerning the Abbey of St. Werburg of Chester. pag. 128.
42. Collectanea de le Cowcher-booke Abbatum Cestrie, in Custodia Decani et Capituli. pag. 135.
43. Copies of some Writings concerning the Monastery of Norton in Cheshire. pag. 138.
Among them, is a Survey of its Possessions, as given in to the Court of Augmentations, according as the same were found in the Account of John Birkenhead, 4 Febr. anno 28 R. Henr. VIII.
44. Abstracts or Copies of severall other Writings relating to the Monastery of Stanlow, or Whalley in Com. Lanc. to which place it was removed. pag. 146.
These were taken either from the Originals, or from the Chartulary of Whalley, (all in the Possession of Sr. Ralf Ashton) by Mr. Roger Dodsworth, A. D. 1627. They begin with a Traēt intituled De statu de Blackbourneshire, which sheweth that soon after St. Augustin of Canterbury came Hither (into England) the Church of Whalley was built, and how the Rectors thereof, were commonly called Deans, and were for the most part Married Men, leaving the said Rectory to their Children or Relations, as in hereditary Succession. Which custom prevailed not only during the time of our Saxon Ancestors, to the time of the Conquest, but long after, even to the time of the famous Council of Lateran (celebrated A. D. 1215, under Pope Innocent III.) by whose Canons, Celibacy was Enjoyn'd to the Secular Clergy. (See further in this Catalogue Num. 2072—21.)
It may be further Noted, that most of these Abstracts have relation to the noble Family of Lacy (and from which Mr. Dodsworth made out their Descent, which may be seen at pag. 154.)
45. E quodam Libro antiquo manuscripto, in custodia Ricardi Lacy Armigeri, reperto inter Evidentias patris sui: per Rogerum Dodesworth Generosum. pag. 152.

- the Portmote Court there, and here copied in a Sort of Method; namely those Mesuages or Tenements as were situated in such a Street, or in such a Lane, are here putt by themselves, under the Name of the said Street or Lane, as a proper Title. Had this Work been preserved intire, it would have been of much greater Value.*
2062. A thin Parchment Book in folio, consisting of 29 Leaves, and one Schedule, being a damaged Copy of an old Deed: and written by several Hands.
This Book is that Register of the Abbey of St. Werburg of Chester, which was formerly known (& distinguished from the others) by the two first Words, Sanctorum prisca, and contains Abstracts of the Original Deeds of the Founders, & Benefactors to that great Monastery, and Bulls of the several Popes Confirming the same. The Shortness of which Abstracts seems to shew, that they were not taken to remain in that House for ever, as Copies; but rather to serve the Abbats as Memorandums, on Occasion.
2063. A paper-book in pretty large folio, written by the Hands of the Second & Third Randle Holme and others; and on the outside thus Entituled, Deedes and other Writings of seuerall Places, &c. Familys, &c. By which is meant, Copies or Abstracts of Deeds and other Writings, together with Tricks of the Seals; collected or made by the same Mr. Holme, or by his Influence, from the Originals in the possession of several of his Friends. This Collection being large, I shall only give the following brief account of it.
1. The said Mr. Holme's Catalogue of the Things of Note in this Book. pag. 1.
 2. Lieutenant John Radinge's Account of Moneys he had receaved for the use of his Company, since 20 May 1645. delivered by him, upon Oath to the Commissioners, and signed by them. pag. 2.
At the End of the Bill he writes thus, For Free-quarter I leave to your fauorable Consideration. He received his Commission from Sir William Brereton, who having been the King's Ward, Sided with the Parliament.

 7. A Catalogue of all the Gifts & Grants to the Abby of Stunlaw; and afterward Confirmed to Whalley, when the Abby was translated there. fol. 332. These seem to be only the Titles prefixed to the several Charters as they were Entred into the Abbey-Registre, and are followed by some other Writings; copied, probably, from the same Book which was in the Hands of Mr. Richard Ashton of Downham, A. D. 1658. as appears in fol. 322. b.

CATALOGVS LIBRORVM MSS.

Num. 2064. — 2067.

Toward the End, I meet with

8. Index Virorum; or an Alphabetical Table of the Sur-names of Families mentioned in this Book.
9. Index Locorum; a like Table containing the Names of places, with proper References.

2065. A Book in folio Collected or Written by several Persons; namely by the Second Randle Holme & others; by one of whom it is Entituled, on the Out-side Inquisitions from Hen. III. to Edw. IV. of which, nevertheless, I shall give the following Accompt.

1. Index Locorum: an Alphabetical Table, like that mentioned at the book above described. At the Beginning.

Next after it comes,

2. Index Virorum, fol. 8.

I suppose these Tables not to be very exact; because the Third Randle Holme hath thus written with his black Lead-Pencil, Both Alphabets to be mended.

3. Another Index Virorum: being perhaps Names omitted in the former. fol. 17.

4. Then follow the Inquisitions themselves (that is, Abstracts of them) Collected from the Records in the Tower of London, the Treasury at Westminster, Chester-Castle, & the Exchequer in Chester, for the greatest part by Mr. John Maffly of Eggerley, sometyne Clerke of the said Exchequer.

The Collection seems to have been made wholly upon account of Persons holding Lands in Cheshire: but proceeds not regularly, some Leaves being transposed, and others added, at different times, by the second Mr. Randle Holme.

5. His Alphabetical Table, directing to the several Abstracts of Inquisitions extant in this Book. fol. 175.

6. An Index of Places, perhaps supplying the Defects in the First. fol. 178.

2066. A Book in folio, belonging to that last described, and on the Out-side, by the Third Randle Holme thus Entituled, Inquisitions from the Beginning of Richard III. to the End of Charles I. That is, Abstracts of Inquisitions relating to those Persons who held Lands within the County of Chester; collected as aforesaid.

The Book seems to be written by the same Hands as the former, and consists of these Traets following.

1. The Names of all the Persons whose Inquisitions are mentioned within this Booke. Collected by the said Mr. Holme, A. D. 1664. At the beginning.

2. Index Virorum; as in the former book.

3. The abovementioned Abstracts of Inquisitions, beginning anno 1 R. Richardi III. pag. 154.

4. The Third Randle Holmes Alphabet of all the Townes & other Places mentioned in the severall Inquisitions within this Booke. Toward the End. This is followed by

5. Another Index Locorum, or Table of Places.

1. An Alphabetical Table of those Persons Names whose Wills are either Copied or Abbreviated in this Book. At the beginning. Then follow,

Num. 2067. — 2071.

2. Nomina Virorum: or an Alphabetical Table of Persons Surnames. Then succeed,

3. The Wills abovementioned, putt together promiscuously, and without any Order of Time or Alphabet. fol. 1. A.

Among them, I find,

4. The Names of the Jurors (i. e. Lords assisting in the Court) vpon the Arayment of Märvyn Tuchet Earle of Castell-haven, at Westminster, 2 May A. D. 1631. fol. 6. A.

5. That Earles Profession of Faith. fol. 6. A. b.

6. Wills Copied out of the great Register-Booke remaineing in the Will-Office within the Abbey-Court, in the City of Chester. fol. 1.

Some of these are as high as the year 1519.

7. Other single papers (some originals) being Wills, or relating to Wills. fol. 279. A.

8. Nomina Locorum: toward the End.

9. An Original Probat of one Will; and a Transcript of another, loose; at the End.

2068. A Book in folio written by several Hands, and by the Third Randle Holme, on the Out-side thus Entituled, Fines from the Beginning of Edward I. to the End of Henry VIII. But I find in it,

1. An Alphabetical Table of the Names of Places; at the Beginning.

2. Copies of some few Fines Relating to Cheshire Lands, of the Time of K. Henry the Third. fol. 1.

3. Abstracts of Fines Levied in the Court at Chester, from the Time of K. Edward the First, to the Reign of King Edward VI. both inclusive. fol. 6.

4. Alphabetical Table of the Sur-names of Families mentioned in the aforesaid Fines; at the End.

2069. A Book in folio, Written by several Hands, and belonging to that last described. It is by the Third Randle Holme thus Entituled on the Out-side, Fines from the Beginning of Edward VI. to th' End of Q. Elizabeth. But in turning in over, I find its Contents to be

1. Index Virorum: or, an Alphabetical Table of the Sur-names of Families mentioned in the Ensuing Collection. At the Beginning.

2. Abstracts of Fines Levied upon Lands & Tenements within the County-Palatine of Chester, from the beginning of the Reign of Queen Mary I. to the End of that of Queen Elizabeth. fol. 1.

3. Index Locorum: or an Alphabetical Table of the Names of Places mentioned in the Fines aforesaid.

2070. A Book in folio, written also by several Hands, and belonging to the two former. It is on the Back Entituled, Fynes from beginning of Jacobi I. to Charles II. as containing,

1. Abstracts, or short Notes of Fines relating to Lands & Tenements within the said County-Palatine of Chester, Levied during the Reigns of K. James the First, & K. Charles I. to the End of April A. D. 1659. fol. 160.

2. Index Locorum: or an Alphabetical Table of Places Names; as usual: Toward the End, being succeeded by

3. Index Virorum: a like Table of the Sur-names of Persons mentioned in this Volume.

2071. A Book in Folio, as the former, written by several Hands; and by the Third Randle Holmes, thus Entitled, Deeds & other Charters of the Foundation & Donations to the Abby & Bishoprick of Chester. But this not being particular enough for the numerous Tracts and single Papers this Book now consists of; I shall describe it in the manner following.

Num. 2071.

1. The Third Randle Holme's List of the Things of most Note in this Book. At the Beginning. This is followed by
 2. Index Locorum: being indeed, an Alphabetical Table, not only of Sur-names, but of Matters also.
 3. Many Notes of the Second and Third Randle Holmes, putt down in Order to the compiling a Series of the Abbats of Chester. fol. 1.
 4. Carta Regis Eadgari qua fundavit Monasterium Monialium S. Werburgæ in Civitate Cestrensi, A. D. 958. fol. 3.
 5. Some Notes extracted from an old ms. in the hands of Mr. John Goulborne, by the Second Randle Holme, A. D. 1652; relating to the Church of St. John in Chester, and to Earl Leofric, who was a Benefactor to it. ibid.
 6. Copies or Extracts of many antient Deeds of the Old Earls of Chester, & others (with Tricks of the Seals) relating to the Abbey of St. Werburg of Chester, its Liberties & Privileges, &c. taken from the Originals in the Hands of Capt. John Whitworth, by the Second Randle Holme, A. D. 1649. fol. 5. et fol. 29. b.
- Among these I also find,
7. The Charter of Randulf the Third, Earl of Chester made to his Barons, Confirming their Courts & other Privileges. fol. 5. b.
 8. Letters Patents of K. Henry VIII. (bearing Teste at Walden, 5 August anno Regni 33) whereby he made the Conventual Church of St. Werburg, Episcopal, and placed a Bishop, Dean, &c. therein. fol. 11. b. et fol. 26.
 9. Qu. Elizabeth's Letters Patent Confirming the same, & somewhat enlarging the Endowment of the same Church. These bear Teste, 22 December, anno Regni 22. fol. 15. b.
 10. A parchment-fragment of a very good Chaturary of Chester-Abbey, consisting of but two Leaves. fol. 24.

2080. A Book in folio consisting of divers Tracts put together by the Third Randle Holme, who hath also given it this Title, Seuerall Testimonies of the Custome of Chester, concerning the takeinge-downe of Glasse and Wainscote: Which Custome I find described in the words following; vizt: That when, and as often as any Tenante haueinge an Estate for Terme of Life or Liues, or of Yeares of any Dwelling-house or Buildinge within the said City, for his owne convenient Use within the same House or Buildinge, should & did Erect & Sett up any Glasse, Wainscote, Inner Doors, Shelues, Formes, Dressers, & other such like Necessaries: In such Case, the Tenante, his Executors, or Assignes, might remoue & take away the same, or Sell & Dispose thereof, at His or Their Willis & Pleasures, without Disturbance of him that claymes the Reversion of the said House or Building. Which Custom, and the Litigations occasioned thereby have given birth, as I conceive, to many more Tracts than these that follow,

2081. A Book in folio, consisting of many single Tracts Bound up together by the Third Randle Holme, who on the Back hath written this Title, Dee-Millnes; Sutes about them. But I find therein,
1. The said Mr. Holme's List of the things of most Note in this Book. Loose, at the Beginning.
 2. Attested Copie of Mr. Francis Gamull's Bill exhibited to the Chamberlayne of Chester in the Exchequer there, against Edward Ruffel, & others, who had either sett up Wind-Mills, Water-Mills, or Horse-Mills of their own, in or near to the Citty of Chester; or, at least, carried their Corn to be Ground at the said Mills; in prejudice, as He asserts, to the Mills long before Erected near Chester-Bridge, upon the River Dee (whereof he was then Tenant) being commonly known & called by the Name of Dee-Mylnes, and which had, time out of Mind, the Right of Multure & Suit from all the Inhabitants of Chester, excepting only the Tenants to the Dean & Chapter, inhabiting without the North-gate. This happened about A. D. 1637. fol. 1. vid. fol. 158.
 3. An Order of Starr-Chamber (with the Seal Affixed) Dated, the 6 of May 1635. upon the Differences arisen between John Tyrer who had Erected Water-works about 30 Years before, at Dee-Mills belonging to Mr. Francis Gamull, to the great Commodity of the Inhabitants of Chester; but to the Prejudice of Mr. Gamull, as was asserted. Hereby, the Lords took care of the public Commodity of the People; and left both Parties to try out their private Matters of Complaint, in the Exchequer Court of Chester, according as they should see Cause. fol. 36.
 4. Interrogatories to be ministred to Witneses produced to be Examined on the Behalfe of Edward Whitby Esq; Recorder of the Citty of Chester, and Francis Gamull Esquyer & Alderman of the said Citty; against Phillip Manwaringe Esquyer, Robert Harvie & Thomas Aldersey Alderman, and others. fol. 38. It seems that Mr. Gamull's Grandfather, or Father, had permitted John Tyrer to Erect Water-Works in and nere their Mills principally to preferue the Right of Grist & Multure to the said Milnes; and accordingly, the said Tyrer did agree that all such as should haue Water from the said Workes, should be obliged to grind their Malte & Corne at the said Millnes; & that such as Refused, should be debarred from haueing of that Water, and their Pipes (if laid-in) to be Cutt-off; which Agreement had been observed, and Mr. Gamull's Rent paid. That, in proceffe of time, old Tyrer being dead, Mr. Gamull entred into Treaty with John Tyrer the Son, for buying his Interest in the said Water-works; but before this was brought to a Conclusion, Sir Randle Mainwaring late Alderman of Chester & the others, in Mr. Gamull's Absence, and without his Privity, purchased the same out of his Hands. That this Sir Randle and his Partners acknowledging the Place whereon the said Workes were Erected, & the Streame seruinge the same, to be Mr. Gamull's Inheritance, Mr. Gamull was to make them a Lease thereof, at Ten Pounds xx annum Rent, and They to performe all such Things & Covenants as the Tyrers had done. That after this, some of the said Partners, vttered & gaue-out Speeches against Mr. Gamull's Right of Grist and Multure, and said that it was a Slauery and Boundage that Men should be Bounde to grinde at any Mills; and that they would free & discharge the Citizens & Inhabitants of Chester from the same, &c.

5. Original Letter of Mr. Francis Gamull, to Sir Richard Grosvenor Knight & Baronet, his Father-in-Law, dated from Westminster, 25 May 1641. upon the public Occurrences of that Time; as also his own private Affairs. fol. 91.
6. Breviatts in the Sutes between Mr. Edmund Gamull & John Hankey, touching Dee-Millnes. fol. 93.
7. An Original Instrument whereby Mr. Alderman Gamull abovementioned, did Surrender to Thomas Gamull his Sonne & Heire apparant, all his Estate & Interest in & to Dee-Milnes, & all Fishings upon the Water of Dee, & in a certaine Poole called the Cage, with all the Water-courses, Flud-gates, Cawties, Tolles, Multures, Proffits, &c. to them belonging. Given, 20 Marche, anno 44 R. Elizabethæ. fol. 96. b. This Instrument is Cancelled.
8. Rough Draught of the Case touching the antient Custome of Multure at Dee-Milles. fol. 98. b. Then follow some transposed Papers, wherein are contained,
9. A summary Recital of a Proceff between Raph & Thomas Goodman, Tenants of Dee-Milles, Plantiffes; & Margaret Bavand, & others, Defendants: for the withdrawinge Multure from Dee-Milnes, and carrying Corne to other Mines. In this Suit, when honest Magaret happen'd to be Cast, & she warned by the Court to forbear such her unlawful Practices for the Future: the meek-spirited Woman thinking no harm in being as active in the Grinding-Trade as she could, unluckily fell into a Contempt of the Court; who (upon further Complaint) did on the 24th of March, anno 13 R. Elizabethæ, issue out an Attachment against poor Margery; Ordering, that att her Appearance she should be committed to Warde in the Castle of Chester, there to be punished for the Contempt aforesaid; and there to remaine, untill she should Enter into Bound, with sufficient Suerties, to performe the Order of the Court before made against Her; & further, to Content & Pay to the Plaintiffes 35 Shillings, for their Costs & Charges in this Suite sustained. fol. 109, and so to be read toward the beginning of the Book. Then follow,
10. Some other Papers, written pro & con, relating to the Suit between Mr. Francis Gamull, & Edward Ruffell & others Defendants: that one Dickinson & one Denson were in a fair way to be hampered, as Standing in Contempt, for Breach of severall Orders of the Court; and for fraudulent Practize to Defeate the said Orders. fol. 111. &c. Transposed.
11. The several Answere of Jane Davenport Widdowe, one of the Defendants, for Her parte; to the Information of Sir Walter Pye Knight, his Majesties Attorney of his Highnes Courte of Wards & Liveryes, Complainant. Dated the 5th of November 1623. fol. 120.

Num. 2081.

Here Mrs. Davenport represents that the sayd Information was Contrived & Exhibited against Her, by the onely meanes of Edward Whitbye Esq; (who had married Alice the Widow of Thomas Gamull Esq; which Alice had purchased the Wardship of her Son Francis, then an Infant) who vpon some causelesse Displeasure by Him conceived against Her, of Purpose to Vex & Trouble her, and to put Her to unnecessary Charges, without any just Cause at all. Which she the rather thinketh, because there are manye others named Defendants in the sayd Information with Her, yet none of them are served with Proceffe to Answer the same, but only Her self; who by Reason of the Weake (or Poor) State she was left in by her Husband, is least able to defend Suite. She owns that her said Husband, for his better Advantage, did Erect one Horse-Milne for Malte upon his own Land in Boughton within the Libertye of the Cittye of Chester, which he quietly held during the rest of his Life; & did receiue the Multure & Tolle thereof, & caused Malte to be Carried & Recarried into & out of the Cittie of Chester, as often as Occasion required, without any Disturbance. She further Disputes against the assertion of an Antient Custome of Grinding solely at Dee-Milles; pleading that all the other or Countrey-Milles were Free for any Man; & had been so, time out of Memory.

12. The Examination of Jane Davenport, Widow, taken 22 of September 1623, by Vertue of the Kings Majesties Writte of Commission out of the Prince his Highnes Courte of Wardes & Liveries to them (the Commissioners) directed, vpon the Behalfe of Francis Gamull his Majesties Warde. fol. 141.

Here the Widow can Remember, with much ado, several Matters which seem to make against Her; but in the main, keeps her Ground & her Right to the Mill, with Firmness enough.

13. *Compendium Inquisitionis cujusdam, ubi Juratores dicunt, quod Georgius Cotton fuit seistus in Dominico suo ut de Feodo, de et in Grangia vocata Stanlow-grange in Com. Cestr. 10. The State of the Cause concerninge the Milles & Cawsey at Chester. fol. 20.

Here it is shewed that Dee-Milles & Cawsey were sett up by Hugh Lupe, many hundred yeares before ever any Statute of Sewers was made; and never since called in question. That some Gentlemen of the partes of Wales having Milles within 4 or 5 Miles of Chester, & Groundes vpon the River-Side, doe now (after 600 yeares) earnestly Labour to destroy the same. To this purpose they procured a Commission of Sewers to themselves & others, which (vpon Pretence of some Annoyances supposed to be occasioned by the saide Milles and Cawsey) they doe soe vviolently prosecute, as to Impannell Juries, & receive Verdicts in forrayne Counties; that in the Citie, which is the propper Countie (where the pretended Nufance is) being against them. That the said Commission did not extend vnto the said Milles & Cawsey. That at the last Sitting of the said Commissioners, being the 17th of December, they did forbear to make any Order; and absolutely adjourned the Courte vntill the Saturdaie in Easter-weeke: notwithstanding which, some of the said Commissioners of Wales, fearing a Superfedeas, verie lately, in private, mett together againe, and contrary to the expresse Direction of the Lord Treasurer of England, and their owne Agreement, they made an absolute Decree for the Destruction of the said Cawsey & Milles, and published the same. Whereby the Welsh People are so encouraged, as to threaten to come very speedilye to Chester, with great Multitudes, to put the said Decree in Execution. So that the Memorye of that ancient Enmitye & Hostilitye which was sometymes betwixt the English & the Welsh is revived, and the myndes of the peaceable-affected, much disquieted. fol. 20.

Num. 2082.

Here he mentions his Father's late Sicknes on the Road; which Father could not be Mr. Thomas Gamull, because he deceased many years before; but was Mr. Recorder Whitby, who married his Mother. Mr. Gamull also complains of the Fishermen in Wales, who almost stopped up the River of Dee, and destroyed most of the Fish that should come up; and shews that he and Mr. Recorder intend to be Even with them. fol. 128.

68. Two Original Receipts for Moneys paid by Mr. William Gamull Merchant, A. D. 1628. upon the Account of Prize-Wines for himselfe & others. fol. 129.

69. A Note of such Fees as are claymied to be due & vsually taken by me John Moland Cleark of the Peace for the County Pal. of Chester; and also by them who haue formerly ben Clearks of the Peace of the same County. A. D. 1935. fol. 130.

70. Petition of Hughe Dod of Chester, Scrivener, to Mr. Recorder Whitby, to whom he had deliver'd sundry of the Records of the Pentice-Court, which were not Entred, as they ought to have been: & praying that hee may have one of his Desiers mentioned in the Petition delivered vnto Mr. Mayor, 27 June 1631. fol. 131.

71. Copie of the Petition last mentioned, which was to the Maior & Assembly of Chester. fol. 132. Here Mr. Dod (as in Consideration of Services done, by discovering the Truth & Grounds of the Demands of severall Fees taken in the Cities Courts in Chester) desires They would admitt hym their Phylazer in their said Courts; Hee therefore yeilding yearly (towards any good Vse) Fyve Markes in Money. Or else, their Consents, that he may have the Reuerfion of some Settled Place of Preferment, fyttinge for hym to have. In this Paper is also a Copie of his Notes about Fees, as aforesaid, which he delivered to Mr. Mayor; & which shew that some Corruptions had crept in.

72. An Act of Assemblie, which was houlden in the Common Hall of Pleas within the Cittie of Chester, 2 June 1618. fol. 134.

By this Assembly, Alderman Robert Whitby & Thomas Whitby his Sonne (whose Actions had been before taken into Consideration, at sundry times) were now finally, for their manifold Offences, Misdemeanours, & Abuses, cast from and out of their Office of Clerks to the Pentice, and never to be restored thereunto; and (in pursuance of certain Letters written from his Majesty) Robert Brerewood Learned in the Laws was Elected into the said Office; paying yearlie to the Cittie 20 pounds, and to the Sheriffes annually, vpon the endinge of their Office, 10 pounds, if the Lawes and Statutes of this Realme shall permitt the same payments to be made. This Assembly likewise Order'd that a Table of Fees should be made for Mr. Brerewoods Direction, by the Advice of Mr. Maior & his Brethren (whereof Mr. Justice Warburton to be one) whereby the like Extortion & Increasing of Fees heretofore used by the said Whitbies, maye hereafter bee avoyded.

73. Copie of the Cities Letter to the King, who had recommended one Hugh Mainwaringe to them for their Recorder. They remonstrate, that by the Charter of K. Henry VII. confirmed by himself, none can be Recorder, but one of the 24 Aldermen; and none can be Alderman, except he be a Free Citizen, which the said Hugh was not, nor ever offred himself in person to be made one, but was a mere Stranger to them & their Corporation. And that for the observation of the said Charter, and all their other Liberties, they had taken their Corporall Oathes. They therefore desire Leave to Elect a Man capable of the Office by their Charter, there being divers of the Aldermen who had done good Service to their Incorporation, and were euerie waie fitt for the Place, both for their Learninge in the Lawes; their Knowledge & Experience of their Orders & Liberties; & their Sinceritie in true Religion. fol. 136.

74. Copie of the Letter of K. Charles I. to the City of Chester, in answer to theirs last above-mentioned; whereby (being moued by a Prince-like & tender Care of the Weale & well Gouernment of that City) He is well-pleased to graunte vnto them their Election. Gyuen, 30 January, anno Regni 3. fol. 138.

75. Draught of a Letter to be sent to several Aldermen of Chester, who lived abroad, without paying Scot & Lot to the Queen or to the City, and avoiding the Charge of the Maiorality; to lett them all know, that if they did not come & reside there, by a certain day, and pay their Scot & Lot for the Time of their Absence, they must and should lose their Freedomes of the City. Dat. 27 October, 1593. fol. 142.

76. A Note of the Names of the Inhabitants of St. Oswald's Warde within the Cittie of Chester; taken 1 Junij 1630. fol. 143. b.

77. A like List for St. Olliues (Olaves) Ward. fol. 146.

78. Another for St. Gyles Ward. fol. 147.

79. Another for St. Maries Ward. fol. 149.

85. Another for St. Brigett's Ward. fol. 155.

86. List of the Bone-lace Weavers in St. Olave's Ward. fol. 156.

87. An Acquittance of the Church-wardens of Bowdon, acknowledging the receipt of 50 Shillings, being one Moitye of the Gifte of Dame Elizabeth Booth deceased, toward the Releife of the Poor of the Parish of Bowdon; from the Treasurers of the Cittie of Chester. Dat. 30 April 1633. fol. 157. loose.

88. Note about the seuerall Payments for Saughton & Huntington, temp. R. Elizabethæ. fol. 158. loose.

89. Draught of a Letter (perhaps from Mr. Thomas Wilcocke, above-mentioned at §. 65.) to the Lord Chancellor Ellesmere; desiring him to empower some Cheshire-Gentlemen to Hear the Matter touching Huntington's payment towards the Mizes, whether separately from Saughton, or not. fol. 159. loose.

2083. A Book in folio, consisting of many Tracts & single Papers bound up together; and by the Third Randle Holme, on the Out-side thus Entituled, The Suites with seuerall Cittyzens concerneinge their Grinding of Corne at Dee-Mills, and no where else: in the Description of which, I shall proceed in the usuall manner; viz. I find therein,

Num. 2083.

1. Mr. Holme's Account of the Things of most Note in this Book. At the Beginning, loose.
2. Interrogatories to be ministred to Thomas Denfon, one of the Deffendants, at the Suite of Frauncis Gamull Esq; Complainant, vpon Contempt & Breach of Order. fol. 390.
It seems that the Court made an Order that this Denfon & the other Defendants should Grind their Corne at Dee-Milnes, untill the Time that that Cause should be fully heard and determined: but Denfon was again prosecuted by Mr. Gamull, as combining with the others to overthrow that Order, and as grinding his own Corne, in the mean time at Boughton.
3. Th' Examination of Thomas Denfon one of the Defendants, at the Suite of Francis Gamull Esq; Complainant, Taken upon his Corporall Oath, in the Courte of Exchequer at Chester, the 14th of June 1637. vpon Contempte and Breach of an Order. fol. 417.
Here honest Mr. Denfon reapes great Advantage by a sudden Loss of his Memory, a sudden Misapprehension of Things & stupid Ignorance, join'd to a wretched Neglect in all his Servants & Friends. For, he really thought that the first Order (made long before) had obliged him to grind at Dee-Milnes, only 'till he should have putt in his Answer: So he Answered forthwith; and then ground his Corne at Boughton, as thinking himself fully discharged of the Order. That as to the next Order, no body (neither at home or abroad) had ever apprised him of it, till within a very few days last past. Yet he had happened, in this mean time, to buy great Quantities of Malt of Mr. Edwards the Milner of Boughton, and then of his Wife; and afterwards had bought Malt of others being ready ground: and this, not to evade any Order of the Court, in the least: but only because he conceived himself better used, by these People than by Mr. Gamul. As for raising any joint Sum, toward the overthrowing the said Orders; He knows nothing of it: only, upon meeting with Richard Dickinson accidentally, he did consent to give Mr. Edwards abovesaid 20 Shillings (the other Defendants doing the like) towards his Charges to London, to endeavour that the Defendants might be at Libertie to Grinde their Corne where they pleased. Nor did he pay that 20 Shillings himself, for his Brother paid it. Finally he knows of no Combination among the Defendants, to stand out against the Order of the Court; Only He is Resolved (and soe some other of the Defendants haue sayd they are Resolved) to stand out against the Complaynant in this Suite; and to free themseleus (if they can) from beinge tyed & bounden to Grinde at the Complainants Millnes: conceivinge the same (if they should be bounde thereunto) will be much to their Damage.
4. The further Joynt & seuerall Answeres of Andrewe Mynshull, Rychard Dickenson, & Thomas Denfon, Three of the Defendants to the Bill of Complaint of Francis Gamull Esq; Complainant; made unto seuerall Exceptions exhibited against Three former Answers on the said Plaintiffes behalfe. fol. 450.
Here they alledge, that by Edward the viith's Graunting the Fee-Simple of Dee-Milnes (to Sir Richard Cotton & Dame Joan his Wife) without Reservinge any Fee-farme-Rent to the Crowne; diuerse Privileges & Rights incident to the said Milnes, became to be Extincte, De-

- termined, & Ended; and ought not to be Claymed by any Person or Persons, by, from, or under them, or in their Rights. And therefore, they deny that Mr. Gamull ever was, or could be a Ward to K. James or to K. Charles, by Reason of the said Milnes. They acknowledge likewise, that they being Citizens of Chester, have, for many years, used to grind their Corne (except Oats) both out of & in the City, at their Pleasure. But the Quantities of Corne by them so Ground at other Milnes, they cannot specifie, because they kept no Account thereof.
5. The seuerall Answeres of Thomas Weauer, (one of the Defendants) for his parte, to the Bill of Complaint of Francis Gamull Esq; Complainant. fol. 459.
Here honest Thomas denies (at once) that he euer knewe, heard, or believed, that there euer was, is, or ought to be any such great Socke, Sute, or Service to Dee-Mylnes, as by the Bill is pretended; or that He, or any of the Inhabitants of Chester (except the Abbots Tenaunts) ought to haue used, tyme out of mynd of Man, to grinde all their Corne there. For he sayth (and soe hopeth yt wil be proved in the Event of this Suite) that there neuer was, is, or ought to be any such Custome for Grinding, or payment of Tolle, Customes, & Duties, at Dee-Mylnes, as in the Bill is vntuly pretended: for all, or most part of the Inhabitants of Chester & the Liberties thereof, haue ever used & bine accustomed to Grind their Corne, Mault, & Grayne where they pleased, without Interruption, or Clayme, or Challenge of any such pretended Custome. For this Defendant saith, that for Three Yeares last past, he hath Ground at another Mine, without any manner of Interruption or Gainsaying of the Complaynant, vntill nowe of late. But formerly, indeed, He, in Curtesie, and for his best Conueniencye, and vpon Threats to take away the Water from him, he did Grind at Dee-Mylnes: where he receaved greate Wronge & Prejudice; and had his Maulte cast, with Shouells, awaye before his owne Face; and was otherwyse abused by the Complaynants Mylners & Servants. As touching what Quantyties of Corne he hath Ground awaye from Dee-Mylnes, he is not able to give any dyrecte Answer therevnto. And therefore prayeth to be Dismissed with good Costes, for his wrongful Vexation in this behalfe most vnjustly stayned.
 6. The seuerall Answeres of Elizabeth Pemberton Wyddowe, one of the Defendants, for her parte, to the Bill of Complaint of Francis Gamull Esq; fol. 466.
Herein is little new Matter. She denies the Custome; & saith that aboute 40 Yeares before she was Servant to John Powell an Alehouse-keeper in Chester, who ground much Mault, & sent it all to the Milnes in and about Boughton; and so did all the then Neighbours. That, formerly, she was Tennant to the Complainant & his Predecessors; yet She did not then grind All, or the Greatest parte of her Malte at Dee-Milnes. And so for fixe Yeares & vpwards, she hath Ground Most or All her Malt at other Mylnes. And that many of her Neighbours Cittizens of Chester, who have sold Ale & Beare, & vsed to Grind much Malt for 20, 30, or 40 Yeares last past, have not sent any of their Malte to the Complainants Milnes to be Ground.

7. The further Joynt & severall Answeres of Elizabeth Pemberton, Henry Hazelwall, & Katherine Kinge. Three of the Defendants to the Bill of Complaint of Francis Gamull Esq; Complaynant; made vnto severall Exceptions against their former Answeres on the said Plain- tiffes behalfe. fol. 471.
This is to the same Purpose, and almost in the same Words with that at N^o. 4.
8. Original Letter of Thomas Corbin to Mrs. Alice Gamull, dated 18 July 1614. wherein he advertises her of his Masters and his own Dili- gence in Serving her, by getting a Letter & an Order from the Court of Wards against those who withdrew their Multure from Dee- Milnes. fol. 480.
9. Examinations taken in the Queenes Exche- quer, in Her Castell of Chester, on the Be- halfe of the Plaintiffe, the 21 of September, 1570. fol. 482.
This Plaintiffe was William Goodman then Fermor of Dee-Milnes, who sued Margaret Bavand Widow, for Grinding the Corne of the Inhabitants of Chester at Her Water-Milne called the Bach-Milne, and at her Wind-Milne without the North Gate of Chester. This Copie was made & Examined A. D. 1637.
10. Copie of the Bill of Revival for Goodman against the Widow Bavand; who notwithstanding the Order of the Court (made anno 9 R. Eliz.) for her ceasing to grind the Cornes be- longing to the Inhabitants of Chester, at either of her two Mills abovementioned; did in ma- nifest Contempt of the said Order, continue daily & openly the said wrongful Practise; and by such withdrawing the Multure from Dee- Milnes, took away great part of his Living. fol. 503.
11. E Compoto Ministrorum, de anno 23 Regis Henrici VII. fol. 511.
This Extract gives the Names of the Fermors of Dee-Milnes, and of the Kings Poole, anno 19 R. Henrici VII. and also the Rents then paid for the same.

 33. The Examination of Richard Dickinson, taken vpon his Corporall Oathe, in the Courte of Exchequer at Chester, the 7th of June, 1637. upon the said Interrogatories. fol. 579.
Here Dickinson owns, that hee, Thomas Denson, Andrewe Minshall, & Raphe Drinkwater (three others of the Defendants) did find themselves much agreed that they should be tyed to grind at the Complaynants Milnes ; conceyvinge the same to be much to theyre Damage. And they meetinge with John Edwards of Boughton Gent. (the owner of Boughton-milles) did intreat him to be their Solliciter, to helpe them that they might be at Libertye to Grinde where they pleased. And he was contented to take paynes for them therein ; and they then payd him 20 Shillinges a-peece for or towards bearinge his Charges. And he did indeed then say & resolve that hee would lye in Prison before hee would Grinde at the Complaynants Milnes ; and soe did some other of the Defendants say. But none of them said that hee or they would not obey the Order of this Courte, or vsed any words against this Courte. It seems this man was very Stubborn ; he sent his Corne to be Ground at Boughton, after the Order of the Court to the Contrary, and was therefore Attached & cast into Prison. This Examination is imperfect at the End.
 34. Original Lease granted by John Tirer to Godfray Wynne of Chester Butcher & Maude his Wife ; of the Water brought into his House from the Dee ; for Five years ; at the annual Rent of £1. 6. 8. Dat. 8 January, A. D. 1603. fol. 594. b.

Num. 2083.

Lords of the Privy Council, September, 1633, by whom he was directed to Hear the Matter between Alderman Philipp Maynwaring & others (owners of the Water-works at Dee-bridge) Complaynants; & Mr. Francis Gamul & Mr. Recorder Whitby, Defendants, Certifying the State of the same; and that hitherto he had not found Meanes to pacifie both Parties.

36. Order of the Lords of the Privy Council, in the Matter disputed between the Parties aforesaid: where their Lordships found that the Matters contested were of Natures Public & Private. The Points of a Public Nature, were the Water-works, Streames of the Dee-Water, with the Liberties appertaining to them: These they Resolved should continue for ever, to the present Purchasers & their Successors; they paying to Mr. Gamull the old Rent of £5 per annum, &c. and therefore they Order, that the Owners of the said Water-Workes shall have free Liberty, Ingress & Egress, &c. to repair & amend the said Works as often as occasion shall require, without any Lett or Interruption from the Defendants: they making good to the Defendants any Damage that shall come to their Mill, by reason of the said Waterworks. As to the Multure of Dee-milnes, Mr. Gamul his Agreement with John Tyrer, to oblige his Customers to Grind their Corne at the said Milnes; and the augmentation of Tirers old Rent now insisted on by Mr. Gamul: being the Private points in Question: their Lordships left them to be decided according to Justice, in the Exchequer-Court at Chester. fol. 597.
37. Mr. Francis Gamull's Claim against John Tirer's Fine for the Water-works of Chester. fol. 598.
38. Depositions, shewing that in February 1607, all the Water Mills around Chester, stood still by reason of the Frost, except only Chester-Milles, as Randle Holme observes. fol. 600. b.
39. Exemplification of an Order of the Assembly of Chester, made 19 March anno 25 R. Elizabethæ, upon Occasion of Alderman Edmund Gamull's prosecuting Alderman John Hankye for setting up an Horse-milne in Chester. Here the Assembly condescended to one part of Hankye's Request; namely to use their Endeavors to make Peace between them; and also to allow Hankies Counsell Access to their Booke of the Inrollments of their Charters; but they refused the other part, w^{ch}. was, to make his Cause the Cities. fol. 602.
40. Some few Notes taken from the Charters of the old Earles of Chester, relating to Dee-Milnes. fol. 603.
41. Others, concerning Dee-Milnes, & the City-Fee-Farmes, by Mr. Recorder Whitby. fol. 604.

A Book in folio, consisting of many little Tracts & loose Papers, bound up together by the Third Randle Holme, and by him, on the outside, thus entituled, The State of the Cawfie & Dee-Milles; and the Sute about them. In describing the same, I shall proceed in the usuall Method; as finding therein,
1. The said Randle Holme's Account of the Things of most Note, in the same. At the Beginning.
2. Descent of Aldersey & Leech of Chester.
3. Briefe of the State of the Cause concerninge the Milles & Cawsey of Chester. fol. 157. This is drawn up in opposition to the Commission of Sewers, which was Authorised by K. James I. concerning which, much matter may be found in the Books 96. C. 22. &c.
4. Answer to the Objections concerning the Decay of the Haven of Chester. fol. 161.
5. Exemplification of an Inquisition taken anno 28 R. Henrici VI. concerning the Decay of the River & Haven of Chester. fol. 163.
6. Precedents shewing how divers have been presented for obstructing the Rivers of Thames, &c. and were acquitted. fol. 165.
7. The Reasons of the Decay of the Channell at Moston-marke, in Wales. fol. 167.
8. Exceptions to the Case which was presented to the Lords the Judges, on the behalfe of the Commissioners of Sewers, that made the Decree against the Cawsay in Chester. fol. 169.
9. Petition of the poore Inhabitants within the Towneshippes of Farndon, Churton, & Aldford, to Sir Richard Grosvenor Knight & Baronet, Praying that John Boswell might be suffered to use his Corricles over the Dee, while Chester was besieged by the Rebels; that thereby Provisions might be carried into the City; and untill such time as they might all resort to Sir Richard's Ferry, as accustomed: This was presented, 7 June 1645. fol. 171.
10. Account del profit del Passage de Dee, quand le Bridge fuit erupt, anno 27 R. Edwardi III. fol. 172.
11. Original Examination of Robert Walton of Northwich; who sheweth the Cause of the Decay of the River, to have been by Sands, & not by the Cawsey. fol. 174.
12. How the Frost in January 1607, stopped all the Water-Mills round about Chester; so that People were forced, in that Extremity, to bring their Corne to Dee-Mills, to be Ground. fol. 176.
13. Certificate of Richard Hafslewall & divers other old Men, that the Cawsey hath not been raised by Mr. Gamull, or by any of the Goodmans; or any others that were owners therof. Dat. 1 January, 1607. fol. 178.
14. Notes or Collections gathered for the Vp-holdinge & Mentayninge of the Cawsey & New Kaye, againste all suche as are Impugners of the same; with Reasons & Allegations the better to prove the same. fol. 180. The Author of this Tract, I find, was Mr. William Aldersey, Alderman of Chester; and it seemeth to be of his own hand-writing.
15. Examinations of Witnesses, all consenting that the Cawsey is no Cause of the Decay

- of Chester-River; and that the New Key was very Serviceable for Shipps, A. D. 1607. fol. 182.
16. The Opyinion of me William Aldersey Merchant & Alderman of the Cittie of Chester; Sett downe & wrytten with my owne Hand, the 16th daye of December A. D. 1607, & in the 64th yeare of my Age. fol. 186. This is in Defence of the Causey, New Key, & Dee-Milles.
17. His rough Draught of the same Paper. fol. 188.
18. Draught of a Letter seeming to be of Mr. Aldersey's Hand, but as in the Name of the Commissioners of Sewers; to the Lord Keeper Ellesmere; proposing that an Hearing might be had before the Judges; in behalf of Dee-Milles, & the Causey. fol. 190.
19. Original Letter of Summons from George Lloyd Bishop of Chester & others the Commissioners of Sewers, to William Aldersey Alderman of Chester, & others, requiring their Appearance, to testifie their several Knowledges, about the said Milles, Causey, New Key, &c. Dat. 16 September 1607. fol. 192.
20. Draught of a Letter from the Dean & Chapter of Chester to the Lord Chancellor, in Behalfe of Mr. Gamull, about the Causey & Milles; out of which, they have 5 Pounds per annum. Dat. 3 Novr. 1607. fol. 194.
21. Original Letter of Sr. William Brereton to Mr. Thomas Gamull Recorder of Chester, who had desired him to certifie his Opinion in behalf of the Causey; but Sir William seemed to have been enclined against it. Dat. 24th of January 1607. fol. 196.
22. Copie of a Letter from the Lord Chancellor Ellesmere, to the Bishops of St. Asaph & Chester, Sr. Peter Warburton, & others the Commissioners of Sewers, apprising them how earnestly he had been moved by Mr. Recorder Gamull, to award a Superfedeas to their Commission, & what potent Sollicitations had been made in behalf of Dee Milles & the Causey, &c. He tells them, that in this so weighty a Matter they should regard only & wholly the publique good. That they were to Reforme all Obstructions & Noyances in the River of Dee, within the Lymitts expressed in the Commission, not ayming or pointing only or specially at any particular person, or at any particular Place or Matter. And therefore it ought to be indifferently & equally executed, for the publique & generall good of the Countreys adjacent to the same River; & not to be strictly or streynablie extended to theis Milles & Causey only, or specially & above all other Noyances in that River: nor to be remisslye or coldlye or partially handled for any private Favour or Respecte of Mr. Gamull, or of any other. In a Postscript He adds, that This Service is of greate Importance, and therefore ought to be attended; and They should see that Justice be equallye and indifferentlye done, for the generall Good: and not to absent or withdrawe themselves, nor to deale carelessly or negligently, as he is informed that some of them have done. Dated 29 November 1607. fol. 197. A.
23. Copie of a Letter from the said Commissioners of Sewers, to the Lords of the Privy Council; Dated 4 January 1607. acquainting

- their Lordships that they had by their Decree, Order'd half the New Key, and Ten Yards of the Causey to be pulled down, and taken away. fol. 198.
24. Copie of a Letter from the Maior & Citizens of Chester, to Robert Cecil Earl of Salisbury & Lord High Treasurer, in the behalf of the Causey and Dee-Milles. Dated, 31 October, 1607. fol. 200. 373.
25. Copie of a Letter from such of the Commissioners of Sewers, as were for the Preservation of Dee-Milles & Causey, to the Lord Chancellor Ellesmere: Dated... January 1607. fol. 202. 355.
- Herein, with the Reasons of their Opinion, they observe, that notwithstanding their Commission was in generall for the Reformation of all Obstructions in the River of Dee: yet there are dyvers other Causeys & Impediments, not Found or mentioned at all, in any of the late Verdicts; some of which were verie lately Erected, and are only profitable to the particular Owners thereof.
26. Copie of a Letter from Hugh Glaseour Maior, & the Aldermen of Chester; to the Lords of the Privy Council: Dated, 29 December 1602. advertising, that a Breach, above 20 yards broad, & 18 foot deep, had been made in the middle of the Causey, the last yeare, by the Violence of the Waters: whereby the going of Dee-Milles was stopped, and all whose living depended on them, in a fair way to be ruined. And that Mr. Edmund Gamull Fermor of the Corne-Milles there, had, out of his own purse, expended above £500. in repairing the said Causey; but that it would require above £100 more to finish the same. fol. 204.
27. Copie of a Letter from Thomas Sackville Earl of Dorset Lord Treasurer, to the Commissioners of Sewers; requiring them to forbear to intermeddle with Dee-Milles, or the Causey; not doubting but that much good maie be done to the River by other meanes, yf with Diligence & Indifferencie they be carefull to Execute the Authortie committed vnto them. fol. 206.
28. Draught of a Letter from the Commissioners of Sewers (above-mentioned at N^o. 25) to the said Lord Treasurer, upon the subject of Dee-Milles & Causey. But adding, that the greate Necessity of theise Mills is made more manifest & apparant to all that dwell in theise partes; there being no other Mills within Ten or Twelve Myles of Chester, that could grynde in this late Frost at all in Effect, by the Space of a whole Moneth together, for want of sufficient Water. fol. 208.
29. Draught of a Letter from Dr. George Lloyd Bishop of Chester, & First or Second of the Commissioners of Sewers, to Robert Cecil Earl of Salisbury & Principal Secretary of State; upon the old Subject of Dee-Milles & the Causey, which (he owns) some Gentlemen of his Country of Wales (devided from Him in Opinion) doe earnestly labour to Destroy. And now his Lordship being daily more & more confirmed in his former Opinion, as well by his owne further Observation, & Travells in this Service, for his better Satisfaction; as by the late greate Frost & other Accidents, whereby the Necessity of the said Milles is made more apparant vnto all, & that the Losse thereof would not onely tend to the Disherison of His Majesty in the ancient Rights & Royalties of the Earldome of Chester, & of the Deane & Chapter there, & of divers poore Companies, & particular Persons; without any certayne assurance of any Good to ensue: but also to the Impoverishment of the whole City & Country adjoyning, which are the better Supported, by meanes of theis Mills & Cawfy, with Bread, Cloth, Fish, Fresh Water, & other Necessaries. fol. 209.

30. Draught of a Letter from one Employed for the Citty, to the same Earle of Salisbury; importing, that now (after the Cause had been referred by the Lords of the Privy Council to the Three Lords Chiefe Justices, whereunto all parties then assented; & the Order was Penned & Signed: Exception is taken by the Gentlemen on the other Side, to the Lord Cooke, as not indifferent in the Cause, for that he (the Writer) hath some Dependency upon him. Which Exception, as it is very Strange against One of His Place; so, it is most untrue. fol. 210.

31. Original Letter of Mr. Edmund Gamull to his Sonne Thomas Gamull Recorder of Chester: shewing that his Adversary, Sir Richard Trevor is prosecuting a Suit de Idēota probandā against Mr. Puleston's Friend; and to that purpose, the Feodary of Cheshire & other Commissioners have taken an Office, wherein great Disorder hath arrysen among theym. That the Course the Welsh Gentlemen intend to take, to abate the Mylnes to a lower Streame, to th'end the Cause may be so much drawn the lower; which platt will do no good at all to any, except the whole were pulled downe. For now there is one Walk-Mylne, and two Corne-Mylnes cannot go, for want of Water. But this Devise was devised by Mr. Justice Warburton & others his Neighbours of Cheshire. fol. 211.

32. Part of a Draught of a Letter from the King to the Judges, before whom the Cause of Dee-Mills & the Cawsey was to be heard: which He commendeth to their Care & Consideration. fol. 212. et fol. 315. 323.

33. Letter of the above-mentioned Bishop of Chester, to the Lord Chauncellor Ellesmere; Dated 5 November, 1607. fol. 214. Importing, that He being named one of the Commissioners of Sewers in those Parts; did resolve to observe with all Diligence & Indifference, such things as he shold perceyve most materiall to be considered in the Service. And therefore made some Journeis along the Water-side downe into Wirhall & elsewhere for his better Satisfaction: and having reduced his Observations into some Order, in forme of a true Relation, he sends them to his Lordship, by John Tyrer his Lordships Servant, one of much desert in Chester, for his industrious Endeavours. And representing, that as the Matters fallen into Debate are of verey greate Importance: so, they are caryed on, on both parts with such Fervour, as that he could Wish, for the Good and Peace of both, that by his Lordships honorable Care & Wisdome, a good & peaceable Ende may be put to theis Begynnings; and those Humours allayed, which were vntymelie moved.

34. Original Letter of Mr. Thomas Crue of the Hole, to Mr. Recorder Gamull; informing him that, it had been proved before the Jurye, by credible Wytnesses Sworne, That the same Night the Causey did breake, the Watter dyd falle 4 Foote. And another did Wytnes, that wheras his Beastes dyd vsually Drinke at Dee, beinge on the Land; the day after the Breache, the Ryver was gone soe smalle that he was dryven with Faggots to make waye for them to go to the Ryver. And that whereas the Bottes at Eaton-Boate floting, over night, vpon the Ryver, the Morning after the great Breache, they were one Land, and the Ryver dyd falle at Eaton-Boate, a Yarde and halffe. He therefore desires (his own Land also lying on the same Side, & next to the Dee, & liable to Inundations) to be excused from giving Evidence on Mr. Gamulls Side, as he had promised; for if he should be obliged to appear, he should be constrained to declare what he had above wrytten; whiche wold be a forre Evidence against Mr. Gamull, whiche he wold be lothe to doe. And that he himself is hatted of all the Towne like an Owle ys of Birds, because he holds with Mr. Gamull. fol. 216.

35. Copie of a Letter from the Citie of Chester to the Lord Chancellor Ellesmere, Dated 31 October 1607. Setting forth, that certaine Gentlemen of Wales, intending to improve the Profitts of their owne Milles, had lately, upon a Petition, preferred in their own Names, as also in that of the Citty, but without the Cities privy, procured a Commission of Sewers to themselves and dyvers others; have entred into the Execution thereof, and earnestly endeavoured the Destruction of the Dee-Milles & Cawsey; pretending them to be the Cause of many great Annoyances, thoughe farre remote & distant from them. Also, that Sir Richard Trevor, one of the said Commissioners, contrary to the mindes of diuers others preceding him in Commission, hath taken vpon him to Keepe the said Commission; whereby, He and His Associats are enabled to meete together, & to make Lawes and Orders at their Pleasures, for the Destruction of the said Milles & Cawsey. They therefore give Reasons to induce his Lordship to give Direction for a Superedeas to be graunted, to Discharge the said Commission: or else to Exclude all such from intermedling therein as Judges, which haue any Grounds vpon the River-side, or are otherwise Interessed in the Cause, on either parte. fol. 218.

36. Opinions of several very eminent Lawyers, that the abovementioned Commissioners of Sewers, had not power to pull down, or prostrate the Cawsey; for the Reasons they give. fol. 219. 321. 352. These Gentlemen wrote their Opinions with their own hands; and subscribed their Names, Th. Foster, Jo. Walter, W. Brocke, Jo. Brydgerman.

37. Mr. R. Godfrey's Original Opinion, that the said Commission of Sewers should have passed vnder the Seale of the Countie of Denbigh. And that a Jurie of the Countie of Denbigh could not Inquire about the Cawsey, which was in the County of the City of Chester. fol. 223.

38. This Mr. Ry. Godfrey's Original Opinion that the Commissioners of Sewers might Abate, Correct, & Reforme, any Milles Erected to the Lett, Impediment, or Annoyance mentioned in the Statute of 23 Hen. viii. Cap. 5. fol. 225.

39. Question. If Six Commissioners of Sewers make Orders for the pulling downe of any Weare; and afterwards Six other of the Commissioners doe Order that the same shall be mainteyned: Are the Firſte Lawes repealed by the Second? or what maie the Owner doe, yf any Attempt be made to pull it downe? fol. 227. et 290. 338.
40. Another Question, whether a Mille or Weare of 500 yeares Continuance in one Countie; might be pulled downe according to the Opynions of Juries in other Counties. fol. 228.
41. Mr. Th. Foster's Original Opinion, that the Chamberlaine of Chester might grant a Superſedeas; and that thereby the Commissioners Authoritie would be determined within the Countie Palantyne. But then, whether it would be fitt & comelie for the Chamberlaine to grant a Superſedeas, without the Privitie of the Lord Chaunceler of Englande, or before his Lordship should awarde a Superſedeas, for the determininge of the Commission vnder the Great Seale, was to be concidered. fol. 229. et vid. fol. 317.
42. Question. Whether the Commission being Joint for all Three Counties, & not feuerall for the Countie-Palatine of Chester; it oughte to passe vnder the Seale of the Countie-Palatine? &c. fol. 230.
43. Original Opinion of Serjt. Richard Hutton, upon the Question, Whether the Commissioners of Sewers, or some of them might not revoke & repeal the Order & Decree by them made against the Cawſey: in the Affirmative. Dat. anno 1616. fol. 231.
44. Mr. Tho. Ireland's Original Opinion, upon the same Question; concurring with the Former. fol. 233.
45. Original Opinion of Sir Henry Hobart, upon the Case abovementioned at §. 36. and concurring with Mr. Foster, and the others. fol. 235.
46. Original Opinion of Sir Francis Bacon, in the same Case; and concurring with the Rest. fol. 237. & 319. 321.
47. Original Letter of Sir William Brereton to Mr. Recorder Gamull; as it seems, in behalf of one of those who had been prosecuted for withdrawing his Multure from Dee-Mills; & was now become willing to Compound for his former Delinquency, and Comply for the future. fol. 239.
48. Draught of a Letter from George Lloyd Bishop of Chester, to Richard Bancroft Arch-bishop of Canterbury; in behalf of the Dee-Mills & Cawſey; some time before that Cause was Heard by the Lords of the Privy Council. ibid.
49. Petition of Richard Cotton, Thomas Gamull, &c. to the Lords of the Privie Counsell: in Aunswere of one other Petition, lately preferred vnto their Honours by Sir Richard Trevor Knight & others. fol. 240. et vid. fol. 258.
50. Short Heads or Hints, perhaps putt down by the same Mr. Gamull, in Order to a Draught of that Petition, or of the following Papers. fol. 242.
51. Objections made by those of the Welsh Side, against the Dee-Milles & Cawſey; with proper Answers thereunto; which sufficiently discover their Self-Interestedness, and the irregular Methods they took in Endeavouring to Compass their Ends. fol. 245. et vid. fol. 253. et fol. 262. 280. 282. 288.

52. Notes from the Statutes concerning Weares. &c. fol. 250. 342.
53. That auneyent Calſeys are to be preserved; and newe Erections to be pulled downe. fol. 251.
54. Matters to be demanded of Mr. John Leighe, touching the overflowing of his Grounds by the Dee. fol. 252.
55. That Dee-Mills & Cawſey cannot lawfully be pulled downe or abated, by a Commission of Sewers. fol. 255.
56. Copie of the Bishop of Chester's Certificate to the Lord Chancellor Ellesmere, (abovementioned at §. 33?) shewing the Observations he had made at the Execution of the said Commission of Sewers, and the Objections & Answers of both Parties. fol. 266.
Some of these Papers seem to be of his own Hand writing.
57. A Collection of the Evidence of Witnesſes, & Confessions of the Commissioners, and other Noates materiall. fol. 274.
58. The Names of such as are to be Examined, and can prove the Matters alleaged in Defence of the Cawſey. With other Matters of this Case; by what they are prooved. fol. 276.
59. The State of the Cause concerning the Milles, Water-works, & Cawſay at Chester. fol. 284.
60. The Case of the Cawſey and Milles; with Reasons why the Commission of Sewers doth not extend to them. fol. 286.
61. Original Letter or Paper of Mr. Thomas Crue, giving reasons why the Cawſey at Chester, could not be the Cause of overflowing the Grounds near the Holte. fol. 292.
62. State of the Case relating to the said Cawſey; and of the Proceedings which had been thereupon. fol. 294.
63. The State of the Cause concerninge the Milles and Cawſey at Chester. fol. 296.
64. Other Papers written in Defence of the said Mills & Cawſey. fol. 298.
65. Letter of Mrs. Do. Powell to Mr. Carden; Dat. 1616. certifying that neither her Husband, Sonne, or her Selfe will agree that the Cawſey should goe downe. For if the Water should not come over their Ground, it would be nothinge but a stife Claye, and would not be worthe the fowrthe parte that it is now. That all the Hurt that is, was done by Sir Richard (Trevor?) by the turninge the River Allen, which cometh with Swifter Course then Dee, & drowneth them. That Mr. Gravesnor with his Weare dameth vp the River Dee ſoe, that she cannot haue Her free Passage, and floteth over all. And that yf other Men would looke to their owne Losses by the going downe of the Cawſey, they would not be ſoe haſtie to follow Sir Richard's Humor, as they shall finde the Smarte, yf it doe goe. fol. 302. et fol. 385.
66. Copie of a Letter from Sir John Bingley to his Brother Randle Bingley at Chester; Dat. 15 Julij 1619. blaming him for intruding vpon the Right of yonge Mr. Francis Gamull, by Fishing in the Cage-Chamber, which is his Inheritance. fol. 303.
67. Copie of another Letter from the same, Dat. 2 June 1614. desiring to desist from disturbing Mr. Recorder Gamull's Widow & Sonne in the quiet enjoying of some things, & in the usage of such Liberties at the Walke-Mills which Mr. Gamull heretofore had, either of Right, or by Permission. fol. 304.
68. Examination

Num. 2084.

68. Examination of Richard Hafslewall of Chester, Free-Mason; who Deposed that He was a Workman at the making up of the old Breach in the Cawsey; and was also present at the Reparrying of the last Breach. And is well assured that the Cawsey was not raised or Enhanced; nor at any tyme before, that euer he heard of. Neither did he euer knowe or heare, that there were ever any Flood-yates or Sluces within any part thereof. And further, that during the Tyme of the saide Breaches, the whole Current did runne throughe the same; and that no Water att all came neere either to the Fulling Milles, or Corne-Mills. fol. 306.
69. Draught of a Letter from Mr. Recorder Whitby & his Wife (who was Mr. Recorder Gamull's Widow) to Sir John Bingley, concerning a new Claim (principally devised by his Brother Randle Bingley) & insisted on by the Sher-men; that is, of a Right to Fish betwixt the Cage & the Walk-Millnes; for which End, they had bought Nets, &c. fol. 308.
70. Prooffes that the Cawsay was before the Tyme of K. Edward 1. and that it was never inhanfed, or made higher. fol. 309.

Dated 18 August 1607. apprising him of their having receaved the Commission, and of their Intention to meet, for the Execution of the same, at Houlte & at Chester, on stated days, whither he might repair if he thought fit. fol. 383.
Sir Richard Trevor's Hand is not to this Summons; and the first that Subscribed was Mr. Justice Warburton, whose Head, Heart, & Hand seems to have been ingaged in this partial Affair, all along.
92. Another Original Summons, of the same Commissioners, to Mr. Gamull, apprising him of their Intention to meet at Bangor in the County of Flint, in Order to put their Commission in Execution. fol. 384.
93. Notes about the Lands lying near to the River Dee, with the names of many of those that held them: taken by Mr. Robert Carden, &c. fol. 386.
94. Names of the Commissioners of Sewers; many of whom having Estates in these Low Lands, were consequently Interessed in the Cause, whereof they were made Judges. fol. 389.
2085. A Book in folio containing many Collections illustrating the History of Persons & Places in Lancashire, &c. all which seem reduceable to the following Articles.
1. The Third Randle Holme's Account of the Things of most Note in this Book. At the Beginning.
 2. Abstracts of many Inquisitions relating to old Lancashire Families. fol. 410. 439.
 3. Compota diversorum de Manerijis, Terris Abbathiarum, &c. Taken out of a Booke written by Edward Rigby, anno 31 Eliz. which was a Coppy of a parchment-booke remayning amongst the Records in the Dutchy-Chamber at Westminster, of the Tenures & Lands in Lancashire. fol. 412.
 4. A true Coppy of Barfey his Roles of Tenures in Lancashire; remayning in the Court of Wards at Westminster; taken by Edward Rigby, anno 31 Elizabethæ. fol. 413.
 5. Liberi Tenentes Ducis Lancastriæ, in Comitatu Lancastriensi. fol. 416. b.
 6. A true Copy of an antient Feodary-booke, taken by Edward Rigby, anno 31 Elizabethæ; conteyning Respites of Homage. fol. 421.
 7. A Copy of an Exemplification of a Record

Num. 2085. — 2086.

- remayning in the Tower of London (being the Inquisition taken after the Death of Henry Duke of Lancaster, anno 35 R. Edwardi III.) fol. 427.
8. Another Copy of an Exemplification of a Record, remayning in the Exchequer (called Particule Compoti Johannis Cockayn unius Collectorum Auxilij 40 Solidorum de singulis Feodis Militum in Comitatu Lancastrie, ad primogenitum Filium (R. Edwardi III.) Militem faciendum; anno regni sui 20.) fol. 428. b. et fol. 534. b.
9. Feodarium Comitatus Lancastriæ, transsumptum de Libro Feodorum in Scaccario Dni. Regis. fol. 429. b.
10. De Testa de Nevill, de Serjantijs Honoris Lancastriæ. fol. 431. b.
11. Abstracta Placitorum coram Rege, apud Eboracum; in Libro Brodshawe in Le Tallie-Office apud Westm. fol. 439. b.
12. Ex Cartis R. Rowthorne de Athertone Armigeri. A. D. 1660. fol. 443.
13. Escaeta. fol. 443. b. (being abstracts of Records touching Tenures of Lands) taken from the Inquisitions post Mortem. They begin about ann. 4 R. Henrici IV. and proceed not in good Order, untill the Reign of K. Henry VIII. and they conclude in anno 38 R. Elizabethæ.
14. Termini & Libertates Manerij et Villatæ de Mancestre, A. D. 1322. fol. 525. b.
15. Supervisio Manerij de Manchester, anno 16 R. Edwardi II. fol. 527. b.
16. Extenta Terrarum Comitatus Lancastrie in Wapentach. de Launsdale in Comitatu Lancastrie. anno 25 R. Edwardi I. post mortem Edmundi Comitatus Lancastrie. fol. 528. b.
17. Collectanea de Honore Lancastrie; ex Libro Johannis Hide de Urmiston, Armigeri. fol. 529.
18. Index Virorum: or an Alphabetical Table of the Names or Sur-names of those Persons who are mentioned in this Book; and also in that other inscribed 96. B. 7. fol. 537.
19. Index Locorum: i. e. an Alphabetical Table of the Names of Places found in this Book; as also in that other above-mentioned, whose Marks are 96. B. 7. At the End.
2086. An Heraldical Book in folio; on the Back Entituled thus, Lancashire Pedegrees: but within it I find,
1. An Alphabetical Table to the Pedegrees conteyned in this Booke. At the Beginning.
 2. The Third Randle Holme's Table, pointing to the severall Coats of Armes tricked in this Book. fol. 1.
 3. A Table of all the Places mentioned in all the Pedegrees & Matches which are in this Booke. fol. 2. b.
 4. The Visitation of the Countie of Lancastre made by William Flower Esquire, alias Norroy Kinge of Armes, anno Domini 1567. fol. 7.
This is all neatly written and Tricked by the elaborate Hand of Robert Glover Somerset-Herald; who also Assisted his Father in Law Norroy, at the said Visitation; as may appear by a little Note in fol. 12. b. And this fine Copie is also the better for certain Additions and Continuations inserted by other Hands.
 5. A Table of all the Names & Sur-names contained in the Matches of the feuerall Pedegrees within this Booke. At the End.

Num. 2087. — 2089.

2087. *A Book in folio, on the Back Entituled Inquisitions, &c. wherein I find*1. *An Account of the Five sorts of Inquisitions issuable, after the Death of the Kings Tenants: being in the Hand of Robert Glover Somerset-Herald. At the Beginning.*2. *Nomina eorum qui de Rege tenuerunt in Capite, per Servitium Militare; aut in Socagio, ad terminum Vitæ, per Magnam Serjantiam, Parvam Serjantiam, vel in Burgagio: a tempore R. Henrici III. usque ad annum 14 R. Edwardi IV. inclusive.This whole work is thought to be of the Hand-writing also of Mr. Robert Glover abovementioned; who hath likewise tricked the Armes of many Families in the Margins.*3. *Index Viorum: or an Alphabetical Table directing to the several Surnames of Families mentioned in this Book.A like Table for the Names of Places was designed to have been put at the Beginning; but it was not done.*2088. *An Heraldical Book in a thin folio; wherein I find only these few Matters that follow, viz.*1. *The Names of the Knights & Gentlemen of Cheshire, and their Coats Armors (in Blason) who, as it sholde seeme, liued about King Richard II. and later tymes. Copied verbatim out of an old Record found with Mr. Pulesdon. At the beginning.*2. *Cheshire Coates of Armes, of euery Hundreth; Painted. fol. 1.This Tract goes through with only the Hundred of Macclesfield, & part of that of Bucklow: but then the Names of Families in other Hundreds are sett down, and many of their Armes begun to be traced out with Black Lead.*3. *The Beginning or Design of an Alphabet of the Cheshire Gentries Armes, to have been Painted within Printed Eschocheons, like the Former. fol. 15.This Design proved Abortive, for the Names of the several Families go no further than the Letter I; As to their Armes there are none putt down.*4. *The Order of the Proceeding of Her Majestie from Somerset-House to the Cathedrall-Church of St. Pawle in London, 24 Novembris, 1588. fol. 49.This Book seems to have been done (so far as it goes) by Thomas Chaloner, Ulster King of Armes, about the year 1590.*2089. *A Book in folio, written (for the greatest part) by Mr. Thomas Chaloner abovementioned; wherein I find,*1. *Fifteen different Coats of Armes, borne by the Name of Molyneux; hastily Trick'd by the First Randle Holme, who caused this Book to be Bound A. D. 1634. & his Name to be stamped on the out-side, with Gilded Letters. fol. 1. b. looking for the Numbers of the Leaves at the bottom of the same, till further warning.*2. *Armes & Quarterings of Sir John Spenser, & Sir Charles Fox, hastily Trick'd. ibid.*3. Armes in Blason, of English auncient Earles. fol. 2.Among these, are some putt down, that are neither English, nor belonging to Earles.

Num. 2089.

4. *Armes in Blazon of many Kinges, Princes, & Countreys. fol. 3.Among these, I am affraid that some may be looked upon as fabulous.*5. *Arma Civitatum; that is, of some few Citties in England; & of a few places abroad. fol. 4. b.*6. *Series priscorum Cestrie Comitum. fol. 5.*7. Armes of the Nine Worthies. ibid.Here, instead of Godfrey of Bullen, I meet with Gwy Earle of Warwick, to whom are given those Armes which were said to bee Borne by Thomas de Newburgh, who was made Earl of Warwick about A. D. 1229.Then follows, A large Alphabet in Blason, to which the following Title which is putt to the Beginning of the Book, doth peculiarly belong, Coates Alphabet-wise in England, Ireland, & Wales; collected by Thomas Chaloner of Chester Gentleman, in 1588 May 1^o. and in other Yeares after, by the saide Thomas Chaloner, alias Ulvester principall Herehaught & Kinge of Armes for the Realme of Irelande. After, continued by Randle Holme of the City of Chester Alderman, Maior of the said City 1633. and by Randle his Sonne, also Maior of Chester 1643. To whom, I make bold to add the Third Randle Holme, because I discern his Hand-Writing in sundry places of the Book.To this Alphabet, the running Numbers of the Leaves are regularly putt at the Top, as in other Books.As to the Alphabet it self, it is a very large one, and fit to be consulted upon Occasion; but then it is so very irregularly put down, by Mr. Chaloner's making but one Letter of V. & W. and by his & the Holme's Enttring words or Names beginning with the same Letters in many different Places of the Book, that the Design of the Alphabet is thereby, in a Manner destroyed, and the Search after a Name rendred too tedious & irksome. I shall therefore make a sort of a Table to it, by which I hope it may soon become capable of being used, and those Eie-sores a little palliated.

The Table.

15. Responsio Johannis Ratcliffe Majoris, et Ricardi Leicester & Johannis Leech Vicecomitum Civitatis Cestrie, et Custodum Gaole de Northgate ejusdem Civitatis. fol. 14.
This Answer was drawn up upon a special Case; A Writt was Issued from the Chamberlayne of Chester to the persons above-mentioned, commanding them to deliver up the Body of Thomas Cowley, whom they detained Prisoner in Northgate: because none of the King's Subjects ought to be Arrested or Imprisoned in coming to or going from the Court of the County Palatine of Chester, by Writt from an Inferior Court. The Maior & Shireeves Answer, that this Cowley is Prisoner upon Three several Actions of Trespass upon the Case, & as many several Actions of Debt; and that therefore he ought to remain in Prison, according to the Custome of the City. After this, is a Clause, wherein it is observed, that it was not specified in the Writt, that Cowley had any business at that Court.

Hugh Aldersey was Maior of Chester, A. D. 1528. 1541. & 1546. As to these permitted Beggars, they being above 60 in Number, seem not to be all native Inhabitants of Chester, but many to have been Strangers, & possibly Sufferers by the Sea, or otherwise. Indeed the Names of several seem to be Irish; & others the Surnames of Gentile & honest Families.
38. Nomina Quadraginta-virorum Cestriæ; Nomina Servientium ad Clavas et aliorum Officiorum; Nomina Canstabulariorum, hoc anno 1 R. Elizabethæ. fol. 58.

46. Brief of, or for Hugh Williamson Alderman Plaintiffe, against Thomas Glaseor Esq; & Grace Glaseor Widowe Deffs.
This was in a Cause of Debt for Goods taken upon Trust, which the Defendants were unwilling to pay. So they putt in an Answer; & the Plaintiffe brings in his Prooves. fol. 120.
47. Draught of an Order of the Citie of Chester, confirming to Mr. Recorder Whitbie the Fees incident to his Office, which had been kept from him ever since Mr. Breerwood had been made Clarke of the Pentice. fol. 123.
48. The Aunswear of Sir Randle Manwaringe one of the Defendants. fol. 124. b.
This is upon Occasion of the Suit commenced by the Whitbies, after their being turned out of their Office of Clerk of the Pentice. And herein the Crimes & Enormities committed by Thomas Whitby, are pretty amply set forth.
49. Another Copie of the same Answer. fol. 136.
50. A Plea between William Morris who sued George Vanse Felt-maker in an Action of Assault & Battery. The Cause being tried the 30 March, anno 11 Caroli Regis. fol. 146. b.
51. A Commission of K. James 1. authorising the Maior of Chester, the Recorder & others, to Examine upon Oath, such as at the Port of Chester, come from, or go to the parts beyond the Sea: as also to minister the Oath of Allegiance, when it should be found expedient. Teste, &c. 16 Marche, anno Regni 8. fol. 164. b.
52. Original Certificate (signed by the proper Hands)

- of the Maior, Aldermen, Sheriffes, Sheriffe-Peers, Cytizens, & Inhabitants of Chester, on the behalf of Alderman William Gamull; and counter to the malicious Information of William Edwards, who had slander'd him as guilty of Oppression, Crueltie, Tyrannie, &c. Dat. in Marche, 1624. fol. 183. v. §. 60.
53. Richard Mutchell's Bill of Complaint, brought into the Exchequer at Westminster, against Alderman Edmund Gamull & Thomas Gamull Esq; his Son, Feodary of Handbridge: for violently taking away his Corne, and Endeavoring to putt him out of his House and Lands, which his Ancestors had held of the Kings Progenitors time out of mind. fol. 184.
This wants somewhat at the End.
54. The Brief of the Whitbies, in Opposition to Mr. Brerewood & others Defendants. fol. 200.
Here, contrary to what was suggested by Sir Randle Manwaring (vid. §. 48.) it is affirmed that the Clerk-ship of the Pentice is one Office, and the Clerk-ship of the Portmote is another; distinct & separate from it.
55. The State of the Case about the Clarkhipp of the Pentice, between the Whitbyes & Brerewood. fol. 201.
56. Original Paper or Letter of Defiance, directed to Henry Gee Mayre of Chester (A. D. 1533.) by Rychard Cowper Cytezyn & Groffer of the most Noble Citie of London. fol. 203. b. (vid. infra §. 59.)
It seems that he had imported there a large Quantity of Sacks, & other good Wines, in the Sale of which by Wholesale he had been much Hindred. And when he was willing to sell the same, out of his Cellar, at 8 d. per Gallon, he was likewise hindred by the Vintners there; who yet sold their own Wines, which were not so good as his at 12 d. per Gallon. Therefore, for that the Cytezyns of London ought to be intreyde & vsyde after the Preuelege & Libertyes that the Kyngys Grace hathe gyvone & grauntyd them in all hys Domynyons; he produceth a Certificate vndere the Seale off the sayde Citie of Londone, requyring that he may be quiete in all thyngys as hyt conteynythe. The contrarye doynge he protests to complayne off them vnto the Kyngs Grace & to His Ryall Consell for his Remedye; and to recouere of his Mastershipes Persone & Godez, all the Hurtez & Damages, that in this Cause he should susteyne.
57. Petition to the Mayre & Cominaltie of the Citie of Chestre, by Robert Barowe Alderman & Co-Cytyners; praying their favor that he might Inclose Five Buttys of Lande, of his awen Landes & Inheritaunce, at Flokers broke, & injoye the Fee-Ferme thereof. fol. 206.
58. Original Indenture, made 22 October 1574. between the Maior & Treasurers of Chester, concerning the Plate, & other things which were to be delivered unto him. (Torn.) fol. 207. b.
59. Copie of the Certificate of Sir Stephan Pecoke Lord Maior of London, in the behalf of Richard Smyth Draper, & Richard Cowper Grocer, Shewing that they were in-registred Citizens of London, & reciting some of the Privileges granted to that City by the Kings Progenitors: as that the said Citizens of London should be free from payment of all manner of Tolls & Customs throughout their Dominions. Therefore desyring that the said said Smyth & Cowper might be

73. The Answer of George Vernone to the Bylle of Complaynt of Thomas Strete. fol. 232.
74. Petition of Thom. Strete to the Maire & Aldermen of Chestre; praying their Masterships to call George Vernone before them, & compelle him to Delyver his Goods unto him, accordyng to Justice & the leasulle Custome off the Citie; or els to shewe before their Masterships gude & leasulle Matter, why he ought not so to do. fol. 233. b.
Here is a little Inventory of the said Goods, about which the Quarell arose.
75. Opinion of the Judges, 17 Junij 1636, upon the Abuse of the Writt of Habeas Corpus, which had been Petitioned for by divers Prisoners in the Plague-times: that the Warden of the Fleet & Marshall of the Kings Bench might remove their Prisoners to some good Townes remote from the Infection, which should be assigned unto them; where the said Prisoners should be kept sub arcta & salva Custodia, and not to be as House-keepers in their own Houses, and make the Infection a Colour to abuse their Creditors, & delude the course of Justice. And that no Keeper of a Prison is authorised by the Writt of Habeas Corpus to give Liberty to his Prisoners, but that the same is an Abuse against the Law, and an Escape in the Keeper. fol. 235.
76. Letter of Sir Thomas Coventrye Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, to Sir John Bramston Lord Cheefe Justice of England. Dated, 19 June 1636: acquainting him, that his Majestie did exceedingly approve the foregoing Opinion or Resolution, and will not recede from the same; but prayes all the Judges to observe it constantly. fol. 235. b.
77. Litteræ Patentes R. Jacobi I. quibus conce- dit Gabrieli Marshe Armigero, diversas Terras, Tenementa, &c. in Parochijs Omnium Sanctorum, S. Martini, S. Trinitatis, S. Michaelis, S. Johannis, S. deliuered no Opinion at all. Their Lordships had therefore required a particular Certificate of the Judges touching that matter: and did also require them to putt the Judges Opinion in Execution, without further Dispute or Disturbance. Their Lordships further give these Gentlemen to understand, that if their said Report should prove to be false, They should take just Cause of Offence at the said Letter, and against those that were the Contrivers or Counsellors thereof.

80. Draught of the Reference of the Cause about the Eastgate-Tolls, to the Decision of Thomas Viscount Savage Councillour & Chancellour to the Queenes Majestie, by Sir Ranulph Crew on the one side, & by the Major, Recorder, & of one the Aldermen, for the City. Dat. 23 February, 1630. fol. 263. b.
81. Minutes of the Assembly mett 25 January anno 6 Caroli Regis, wherein it was Agreed not to give possession of the East Gate-Tolls, &c. to Sir Ranulph Crew, as was Required by the Lords of the Privy Council; but to defend the Cities Cause, by Law. fol. 267. b.
82. Letter of the Lords of the Privy Council, to the Justices of Assise in the Countie of Chester; Dated the 9 of July 1630. Being the Letter abovementioned at N^o. 79. wherein, after a long Detail of the Matter, they Pray & Require them to Certifie particularly in Writing, under their Hands, what their Proceedings were in that Cause; and Whether they delivered any Opinion therein; and What that was. fol. 270.
84. Draught of an Indenture of Covenants, made . . . April, anno 26 R. Elizabethæ; between Thomas Liniall of Chester Merchant, and . . . Freight-masters & Merchants: whereby Mr. Liniall hired a good Ship to them, of 60 Tonnes Burthen, which they were to lade with their own Merchandises, and might conduct the same Ship into the Porte, Haven, or River of Bilbow, Vermew, or Sant Sabaſtyans: they paying Mr. Liniall for the Use of her 42 shillings per Tonne. fol. 271.
85. Petition of the Keeper of the Northgate-Gaole in Chester; desiring that it might be putt into good Repair, wholly at the Citties Cost, as had been accustomed, without chardging him with eny thing further, but the payment of the bare Rent. And the rather, for that he is both a yonge Beginner, and hath latlye Entred the Chardge, and hath not tasted eny fruyts of Thyrstynes therby, but only the Contentacion in settlynge himself in Service, where he purposeth to Shrowde himself duringe Lief. fol. 278.

same from Sir Randall. Their Lordships also advised the Cittie to accept a Lease of 21 Yeares from Sr. Randall of all Tolls payable at the Eastgate; and that some able & indifferent Persons should reduce to a Certainty what Tolls ought to be payd there, whereby the same might be specified in a Schedule, to be annexed to the said Lease. Their Lordships do also remember the Disrespect shewed by the Assembly to their Board, and their not conforming to the Certificate of the Judges nominated by themselves; and yet for this time pass by the said Neglects (for which they deserued Blame & Reproofe) vpon Expectation of their future Conformity. fol. 283.

89. Indentura qua Johannes de Vere Comes Oxonie, constituit Thomam Bildon & Hugonem Bildon Servientes suos, ad occupandum Officium unius Quatuor Servientium ad Clavem Civitatis Cestrie, pro le Eastgate-strete; post Mortem Patris eorum. Reddendo sibi annuatim, decem Solidos. Dat. 5 Decembris, anno 1 R. Elizabethæ. fol. 285.
90. Letter of the Lords of the Privy Council, to the Justices of Assise for the County of Chester, Dat. 20 November 1630. fol. 291. Again Recommending the Cause about the Tolls at Eastgate vnto them at the next Assises, for making Peace between both parties: and the proposition of the Cities taking a Lease for 21 yeares from Sir Ranulph of the said Tolls, vnder such Rents & Covenants as they should conceive should be fitt. And that as Sir Ranulph was very willing to embrace any such Course of Quietnesse: so their Desires were to Free him from Suites & Trouble in his olde Age.
91. Copie of a Petition of Richarde Litler Clerk of the Pentice of Chester: praying the Lords of the Privy Council, that they would not be his Vndoing, by inserting in their Letters to the Cittie, only one part of his Answer to their Lordships Question, and omitting that which he further added. fol. 292.
92. Original Letter of John Lord Talbot to the Maior of Chester, Dat. 6 December 1556, desiring at the next Christmas Watches to be called to do Homage for his House (being a Gable-Rent-House) in his own Name, & not in that of Alexander Cotes, or of any other Person. fol. 294.

3. Some Fragments of another Alphabet, in Blason. fol. 75. b.
2093. A Book in folio, consisting of many single Papers (as well Originals, as others) with some Parchments, all Bound up together by the Third Randle Holme; who, on the Back thereof, hath given it this Title, Chester-Busineffe: which, for the sake of more particular & better Light; I shall in turning over the same, observe the several Matters following.
1. The said Mr. Holmes account of the Things of most Note contained in this Book. At the Beginning.
 2. The saying of John Dauyson before Thomas Aldersey Maior of Chestre, consernyng the Rent of a Tenement demysed by William Glaseour th'eldre vnto Margaret Hofsalle, 17 Junij anno 4 R. Edwardi vi. fol. 1.
 3. Objections & Alligacions ayenst George Harebrowne, for fuche Fees as he demaundeth ayenst the May. & Citesyns of Chestre. fol. 3. This Harebrowne was of standing Counsell to the Citty, but in the time of the riotous Election of Piers Dutton to be Major; he stood & pleaded for Mr. Dutton & the Commons, against the Maior & Aldermen. So, when they had gotten the Better in that Cause, they were Resolved to turn Harebrowne out of that Place, which he had privatly crept and gott into. These Stirs arose about anno 8 R. Henrici viii. were heard by the King & Council; & Mr. Dutton with his Sheriffes were turned out.
 4. Notes, Transcripts & Remembrances in the Cause between Hugh Hynde Plaintiffe, versus Johannem Fernall Defendant, in Ejectione Firme. fol. 5.
 5. Original Bill of Rauff Done Esquier, desiring that the Action of John Tilston Alderman might be removed from the Pentice-Court, to that of Port-mote. fol. 9. It seems this Alderman Tilston had gotten a Bond of £90. for payment of a less Sum, from the Petitioner & William Chauntrell Esquier, who had offered to pay what was due, which Tilston would not accept, but Sued the other in the Pentice-Court before the Sheriffs there: minding throw the often Courts ther holden; and the Simplicities of the Common Jurors there; and the Absence of his Witnesses; sodenly to condempne Him & his said Surtie, in the said Action, contrarie to all Right & Justice. He therefore prayeth, the said Maior, by this Bill Signed with his Hande (which is Signed accordingly) to Commaunde the said Actione with alle the Circumstaunces, into the Court of Portmote, to be tried before his Worshippe accordinge to the auncient Custome.

- Then follows a Collection of Papers, putt up together, indeed, but all in Disorder; and relating to that important Affair of the Ship-money leavied by K. Charles 1. And here we find Sir Thomas Aston Baronet, Farmer of the Imposts of the French Wines brought into the Port of Chester, very Angry at his being rated by the City of Chester for his said Place, and blowing up a Quarrel between the County and the City of Chester; wherein he was supported by Sir Thomas Delves then the High-Sheriffe, Sir William Brereton, & other Gentlemen, some of whom afterward, in the Civil Wars ensuing, revenged themselves both upon the City & upon the King too. This matter being therefore so remarkable, I have thought it for the best to described the said Papers not in the Confusion they now are in, but rather somewhat toward their Order of time, whereby the chiefeest parts of that Transaction, may be the more easily gathered up, & retained. These Papers are, 63. Original Letter of Sir Thomas Aston, to Francis Gamull Esq; Maior of Chester, Dated 17 Sept. 1635. fol. 137.

- Desiring him to submitt to the Lords Instructions, and not to expect to Rate Men for their Lands lying in the County. The said Instructions, in that point, being so expresse, that he durst not admitt his Condition to exempt his Lands in the Countrey, in the Assessment of the County: it being of present Prejudice to the Inhabitants of the Countrey, & of dangerous President to the Kings Service in all the Countries of the Kingdome, wherein there are anie Townes Corporate, or Owners of Lands living out of the County.
64. Original Certificate of the Maior & Aldermen of Chester, Dated 7 February 1634. fol. 102.
- Testifying that Edward Whitby Esq; Recorder of Chester had paid £ 1 : 6 : 8. being his Rate toward the Ship-money, and therefore ought not to be charged in any other Place for that Service.
65. Original Letter of Sir Thomas Aston, to the Mayor, Recorder & Aldermen of Chester, Dated 28 Sept. 1635. fol. 139.
- This is objurgatory; & here Sir Thomas avers that the Gentlemen of the Countrey affirme that he justly stated the Case to them (viz. the Maior, &c.) in Chardging them not to Submitt to the Kings Writt, nor to the Lords Instructions. That the Differences arising between the Countrey & the City, from the various Interpretations of them, were, De Quanto, De Ubi, & De Modo. For the Quantum, they will not Trust Him the Sheriffe to Sett the Sum; but helpe themselves by the Instructions, they being favorable for the Sum of 300 pounds. As to the Ubi, He was, according to the Instructions, to Assess

Num. 2093.

Affesse all the Houses & Lands throughout the whole County: but that they having Houses & Lands lying therein, liked not the Instructions, but returned to the Writt, because of an Abbreviation therein, whereby they would interpret Terras tenentes in Civitate & in Membris ejusdem; into Terrarum Tenentes, or Landholders: in which Sense, if they lived in the City, they would rate them as to their said Lands, to pay with the Citizens, to the Countrey's Losse. That this they would make good, by raising the Third Difference, De Modo, of the Manner of this Assessment, which they would have to be a Personall, not a Locall Charge; at which Sir Thomas is very Angry, as being contrary to both the Writt & Instructions, as he endeavors to shew, at length. Concluding, that if they conceive the Lords have prescribed a wrong Course, they would doe well to Certifie them so much, that they may alter the Instructions throughout the Kingdom. Adding further, For doubtlesse, all other Corporations may plead the same Priviledge to Exempt theyr Lands in the County, as well as You; which if it were graunted, in what Case would the Kings Service be when noe Sheriffe could begin his Assessment, till All the Corporations had Assessed, Leuyed, & Certified, what Lands they would Exempt, &c.

67. Original Letter of the Lords of the Privy Council to the Mayor & Magistrates of the City of Chester; Dated the 10th of October, 1635. fol. 135.

Acquainting them, that the High Sherrieff (Sir Thomas Aston) had transmitted to them, two of their (the Cities) Certificates in the behalfe of Sir Thomas Smith Kt. & of William Allen Gent. wherein they took the Bouldnes to declare that noe person, though having Lands & Estate in severall places within the County, ought to be charged but according to the Estate only which he hath in the Place where he Resides. Under Couler whereof, They took upon them to protect others, for their owne Ends; though to the disservice of the King. Which Indiscretion & Presumption as they could not but exceedingly marvell at, & sharply reprove: So if they (the City) should persist therein, for that which should concerne Themselves, or mis-leade others by such their Conceyte & Example: Their Lordships would call them to a more severe Account, as well for their past as future Dis-Service occasioned thereby.

It is now required that they should Examine & make Certificate vnto their Lordships, with convenient Expedition, what the Cleargie hath been Assessed at, within the City, for the Shipping Money charged this last Yeare.

300 Pounds charged upon them, he being to make up his Accounts. And whereas they had charged him with Five Pounds, as Farmer of the Kings Customes in Chester: He says, he holds by Pattent from the King, discharged from any manner of Taxe, Charge, or Imposition, other then the Rent reserved to his Majesty; with Power of Defalcation of any Taxe whatsoever, that shall be imposed upon the same. So, that what they should Impose, or he pay, in this Kind, must be deducted out of the Kings Rent; who then would be paid with his own Money: and himself should be thought an ill Tennant; to permitt the Kings Customes to become contributory to their Charges. Therefore desires them to revoke that Assessment, that he be not constrained to complayne of such Injustice, as is neither offered to the Grand Farmers there (whose reape much more Benefitt then he does) nor to the Farmers of his Majesties Customes; in any Port of England.

71. Original Letter from the Lords of the Privy Council, to the Mayor & Aldermen of the City of Chester; Dated the 8th of February, 1635. fol. 133.

Acquainting them, that Sir Thomas Aston had complained to the Board, that He having noe House nor Lands at all within the Jurisdiction of the Cittie of Chester, was (out of particular Indisposition towards him) lately assess'd at Five Pounds, towards the Shipp-money, vnder pretence that he is Farmor of his Majesties Customes of French Wyne in the Northerne Ports, which he holds by Letters Pattents, &c. (as above in the last Letter) And that neverthelesse, They, in a disgraceful Manner, sent their Common Sergiants to leauy the same vpon Him. But the Board finding Cause to dislike their Proceeding, both for the Manner & Matter: and being satisfied that the Petitioner ought not to be charged in Relation to the Farming the said Customes, did Will & Require them to Discharge him of the said Somme, & to Leauie the same otherwise.

73. Original Letter from the Lords of the Privy Council, to the Maior & Aldermen of the City of Chester; Dated the 23 February, 1635. fol. 131.

Shewing that they had considered the Citties Letter of the 8th present, and approve their Care & good Endeavors, in the Business of Shipp-money, and would represent the same to his Majesty, vpon any good Occasion. Their Lordships require them to pursue their last Directions, touching Sir Thomas Aston. And shewing that concerning the Refusall of Sir William Brereton or his Tenants to pay their Assessments; they needed not to have troubled the Board: considering the Authoritie given them by his Majesties Writt, to Leauye the same by Distresse, or otherwise.

74. Original Letter of the Maior & Aldermen of Chester, to Thomas Bauand Esq; & Mr. William Edwards: Dated the 25 of March, 1636. fol. 90.

Thanking them for their great Care & Paines taken, & encouraging them to proceed. That they conceive the Farmors Certificate differs much from Sir Thomas Aston's Case. For they knowe not the Farmers Receipts, nor whether they gaine or loofe by their Places. But that the cleare gaine Sir Thomas Aston receiues in that Citty, might be demonstrated; and thence They took their Computation for his Affeffment. Nor doe they conceiue anie Difference; but that Sir Thomas ys as well lyable to the Affeffment, for his cleare gaines there for his Farme (being for certaine Yeares) as the King's Tennants or Farmours of his Mannours, or Lands are.

75. Original Letter of Mr. Will. Edwards, to Mr. Recorder Whitby: Dated from London, 4 April 1636. fol. 92.

Shewing the Trouble he had met with in this their Difference with Sir Thomas Aston; against whom the Lords of the Council would receive no more of their Petitions. That however, he had deliver'd one, kneeling, to the Lord Keeper, who said that He & the Rest of the Lords would mooue the King vpon Sunday; when he attended, and found means to proffer another to his Majestie, and procured this Answer, That Sir Thomas Aston must pay the Five Pounds affeffed on him (nolens volens, in English, against his great Hart. That Sir Thomas, when he could avoyd yt noe longer, Petitioned against Him; upon which, the Lords appointed Sir William Beecher, & Mr. Nicolas to examine his Profe. For at a Meeting with Sir Thomas, when Mr. Bauand was present, he said these Words without Passion, viz. Sir Thomas, yt were better all the Houses in Chester were in the Riuer, then the Kings Seruice should be neglected.

76. Copie of Sir Thomas Aston's Petition to the Lords of the Privy Council, against Mr. Edwards, written by him, & inclosed in the Letter last abovementioned. fol. 94. A.

Shewing that He being, by feuerall Orders, discharged from an Affeffment putt vpon him by the Citizens of Chester; and that after being by them Required to pay the same, he did it to Mr. Secretary Windebanke. But that since, His Majestie being Satisfied that noe Farmers of his Customs in England, haue been Affeffed in any Port where they Liue not, only the Petitioner, was pleased to Cause the Money to be restored. Yet such is the Malice of Will. Edwards Merchant, Solicitor for the Cittizens, That he giveth out, He will stay this Seaven Yeres but he will haue yt. That he will follow the Petitioner cloffe at the Heeles, and neuer leaue him, but will haue yt. That he had rather see the Citty, Houses, Walles, & All in yt, downe the Riuer, then He would goe home without yt. Together with some Complaints against the Magistrates, as prosecuting him out of Spleene, &c.

This is Signed by Sir William Beecher, one of those Clerkes; who wrote underneath, Aprill the last 1636; Vpon Report made to their Lordships of this businesse, theyr Lordships did not think fitt to make any further Order therein.

79. Draught of the Petition of the Maior & Citizens of Chester, to King Charles I. fol. 147.

Setting forth, that where Sir Thomas Aston, Farmer (by Lease, for above 25 yeares to come) of the Imposts of French Wines, within the Port of Chester, at a certain Rent; was (vpon full hearinge befor the Lords of the Privie Councell) directed to pay £. 5. affeffed vpon him in the said Citty, towards the Ship-money: yet neuertheless, he refuseth to pay the same. Whereby, diuers Officers within that Cittie, whoe haue willinglie made payment of their Affeffments, doe conceaue themselves to haue bene vnduly Affeffed; and may hereafter refuse to pay the like Affeffments. They therefore Pray that Sir Thomas may forthwith make payment of the said Five pounds Affeffment.

80. Copie of the Letter from the Lords of the Privy Council, to the High Sheriffe of the County of Chester, Dated the first of October, 1636. fol. 158.

In this Letter are contained the Advices and Instructions, which He was presentlie to communicate with the Head Officer of the Corporate Townes, in that County. The County Palatine was to provide one Shipp of Three Hundred Tonnes, furnished with Men, Tackle, Munition, Victuals, &c. the Charge whereof their Lordships conceived, would amount to 3000 Pounds; of which Sum they thought the Citty of Chester might well beare 260 pounds. That such wealthy Men as had little Land, should be particularly Taxed; in order to ease such as having Lands, were of weaker Estate. Here are ample Directions, how to make the Affeffment easy & equal to All: but then, if any should Refuse or Neglect to make payment: the Kings Writ, sent with these Instructions, was to be Executed upon Him. That it was to be perticularly expressed how much euerie Clargie-Man is rated at, for his meere Ecclesiastical Possessions; and what for his Temporall & Personall Estate. That forasmuch as the Privileges of the Clergie were not certainly declared; his Majestie is pleased, that for the present, they should be taxed, & make payment, as his other Subjects: but then, a due Respecte must be borne both to their Persons & Callinge, not sufferinge any Inequalities or Pressures to be putt vpon them. His Majestie resoluinge that these Affeffments & Proceedings shall not be prejudiciall, in the future, to them, or to any of their Rights & Priviledges, which vpon further Search, shall be found due vnto them. Here are also, other plain Instructions for the Leavying the Money; and divers Cases which had happened Complaining of Sir William Brereton, who protested his Tenant in his Disobedience to the Kings Proclamation, by Refusing to contribute toward the public Watches: and further, because Sir William had refused to paie his Assessment for the late Shipp-money (although he was rated very low) by reason whereof diverse others who have promised payment, are unwilling to give any Satisfaction, untill Course be taken with Sir William.

82. Copie of a Letter from Sir Thomas Delves the Sheriffe & many of the Justices of the Peace of the County-Palatine of Chester, to the Lords of the Privy Council: Dated, 28 December, 1636. fol. 162.

Complaining, that Sir Thomas Aston beinge Asses'd by the Countie toward the present Service of Shippeinge for his Farme of the Impost of French Wynes brought into the Countie & Port of Chester, &c. and having paid accordingly: the Citizens of Chester doe pretend to ascribe & draw to themselves the Ease & Benefit of this Assessment, intending againe to Taxe him in the Summe of Five Pounds, in Affront for the Service hee did when he was Sheriffe, and by way of quit-tance with the Countrey, who would not Suffer them to discharge their Lands in the County. These Gentlemen do therefore assure themselves that their Lordships would not have his Majesties Service disturbed with such differences, nor the Countrey Discontented by such an Injury, whoe doe already conceive themselves overcharged, in respect of their Neighbour-Counties.

Here, his Majestie being present, it was Ordered, upon the Petition of Sir Thomas Aston, & the Certificate of the High Sheriffe of Cheshire, that the Difference between Sir Thomas & the City of Chester should be heard, at the Board, the 7th of May next: and, in the mean while, the Cities Assessment upon the Petitioner, to be Suspended.

86. Copie of a Letter from Sir Thomas Delves Sheriffe of Cheshire, to the Maior of Chester, 6 March 1636. fol. 108.

Num. 2093.

Concerning the Notice he had given to the Cittie of the Order abovementioned: and that there were yet other differences betwixt the County & the Cittie: vizt. about the Cities Clayme of Glouers stonne, being exempted in the Citties Charter; their Buyeing of the old Shire-hall, which they had made a Common Hall of. Their Assessment of the Lord Bulhopp of Chester; besides the particuler Greeuance of Sir William Brereton. That for the Glouers Stone, Sir Thomas Aston, & the Clergie, he would seeke to protect them; and therefore desires for the Assessing of the Clergie they would please to Forbeare: otherwise he must complayne of the Countreys wronge, as likewise of the Clergies Sufferings.

87. Original Letter from Sir Thomas Delves, to Mr. Recorder Whitby. Dated 6 March, 1636. fol. 173.

Here he enlarges upon the particular matters by him specified in his Letter to the Maior; withall giving his Reasons for the Counties Claim to the Glouers stone, & to the Old Shire-hall: with a desire that Peace might be between the Countie & the City; & also between Sir William Brereton & them.

88. Draught of an Answer from Mr. William Edwards Maior of Chester to Sir Thomas Delves High Sheriffe of the County of Cheshire: Dated, 9 March 1636. fol. 167.

Importing, that the City knew noe Difference betwixt the County & Them. That as to Sir Thomas Aston, his Opposition to their Assessment, drew the Question to the Privy Council-Board; where, after many Hearings, it was Ordered (his Majestie then Sitting in Counsell) that Hee ought to paie the said Assessment, and did pay the same accordinglie: which the City had reason to thinke had made a final Determination. That for the Assessment of the Inhabitants at & about Glouers Stonne: they formerly paid Subsidies with the Cittie, Contributed to the Royall Loane, and were Assessed vpon the Two First Wrytts for the Shipp-moneys, & Paid accordingly; and are now againe by them Assessed vpon the Last Wrytt. But these being priuate & particuler Mens Cases, one of Sir Thomas Aston, who is little Resident in the County; the other of Sir Gilbert Ireland & his Successours, who are Inhabitants in another Countie; they knowe not how they should be made Causes concerneinge the Countie, being not before so taken by any former High-Sheriffe. As for their Assessment of the Clergy, they conceive they were Directed so to do, and did so, & have Leuyed the Money, and will be accomptable to the Lords for their Doeinges. As for Sir William Brereton, they finde him, in his Disposition, inclyned to Suits against them. As for Peace, they desire it with all Men: and if He (Sir Thomas) can take Course to settle these Matters in the same State wherein He found them: They shall readily giue way to any fittinge Course for Accommodation.

89. Mr. Recorder Whitbie's first Draught of an Answer to Sir Thomas Delves's Letter. fol. 164.

Herein he defends the Citties Right as to the matters of the Glouers Stone, & the old Shire Hall.

90. Mr. Recorder Whitbys second Draught of an Answer to the same Letter. Dat. 10 March 1636. fol. 166.

Here, those two Matters are omitted.

91. A Note of Mr. Recorder Whitbie's Hand, shewing when the 3 Writts for Ship-money came out; The Sums charged upon the County of Chester; & upon the City & Liberties thereof. And that by the Third Writ, the County was not charged so high by £460. as it was by the Second. fol. 101. b.

92. Authentic Order of the Privy Council, made (His Majestie being present) 14 May, 1637. fol. 145.

Here Sir Thomas Aston's Case (who was Assessed by the High-Sheriffe, for his Farme, at £6: 13: 4. and by the City of Chester, for the same Farme, at £3: 6: 8.) being taken into Consideration: Vpon a full Hearing of Councill on both sides, & Serious Debate, & Consideration, it was Ordered, that in Regard the Custome-house, is scituate within the Liberty of the said Cittie, Sir Thomas should forthwith pay the £3: 6: 8. vnto the Maior of the same. And that the High Sheriffe of the County do take off from him the £6: 13: 4. and lay it elsewhere. And that henceforth, Sir Thomas & his Successors, Farmers in that Port, shall always be Assessed, & Pay, in that Cittie.

93. A Copie of the preceding Order of Council. fol. 113.

94. Copie of a Letter to the Lords of the Privy Council, Subscribed by many of the best Gentry of the County, against the City of Chester. fol. 117.

Here they Complain very heavily of the Countie being injured by the Incroachment of the Cittizens vpon their Rights, in the Cases of the Bishop of Chester, who being Assessed by a Committee of the Clergie, in the Countie; and also in Lancashire, where he Resided: was nevertheless rated by the City at 20 Nobles, where all he received was but 40 Shillings per Annum, which (because the Bishop had paid, with some Addition) these Cittizens would make a President of. In the Busines of the Glovers-stone; though they allow the Inhabitants to pay with the Cittizens the Church-duties, Poors Rate, and other Layes which concerne not the Country; yet they insist upon their Holding one of their Quarter-Sessions there, which if it be part of the County of the City, many of their Acts were Void, as being done extra Comitatum. But They were informed, that in a Case of like Nature, concerning part of the Countie, within the Cittie of Winchester: their Lordships expressly Ordered the Inhabitants to pay with the Countie, & not with the Cittie. That as to Sir Thomas Aston, his Case was peculiar; noe other Farmer of his Majesties Customes, in any Port of England, being Asses'd but only where they Live. Therefore they conceive this to be done in Spleene & Affront, for his Service done when he was Sheriffe, and by way of Quittance with the Countrey, because their Lands were not Excused. With further Insinuations on their own behalf, and against the Cittizens.

95. Another Copie of the same Letter. fol. 96.

96. Copie of an Order of the Privy Council, made

Num. 2093.

(the King being present) 29 October, 1637. fol. 115.

This is upon Reading the Letter abovementioned, appointing a Copie thereof to be delivered to some of the cheefe Magistrates of Chester; and Resolving to giue a Hearing to both Parties, by their Councill, the 4th of February next, sauing those Poynts as haue bin already Setled; vpon full Hearing of both Sides.

97. Another Copie of the same Order. fol. 94.

98. Original Letter of Sir Thomas Delues, to the Maior & Aldermen of Chester; Dated, 21 December, 1637. fol. 98.

Herewith, he sent the Copie of the Gentries Letter against them, and the Order of Council last abovementioned.

99. Copie of a Letter from the Maior & Aldermen of Chester, to the Lords of the Privy Council; Dated the 13th Day of Januarye, 1637. fol. 100.

Shewing, that their Lordships having twice Ordered (his Majesty Sitting in Counsell both tymes) that Sir Thomas Aston should pay with the City: They could not Expect that Hee, or any other, would haue taken that Boldnesse to haue certified their Honors, that they still doe conceiue Hee ought not to pay with the City. For the other two Matters complaind of, they conceiue they were but added to accompany Sir Thomas's Complaint; who not only drew the Letter, but also by himselfe & servants laboured & sollicitd for Hands vnto it. Wherein, for what concernes the Glouers stone, They deny it to be excepted out of their Charter; or that any Quarter-Sessions of the County are Holden there. That the Inhabitants there doe pay Church-Duties, Releefe for the Poore, & other Layes with the City; and have heretofore likewise payd with the City Subsidies, the Roiall Loane, & Shipp-money vpon the Two first Writts; vntill about the time Sir Thomas raised the Question concerning himselfe, the Difference was likewise raised concerning the Glouers Stone, whose Inhabitants were assessed by the Sheriffe, att no more than 15s. 2d. That as to the Bishop of Chester, they had proceeded respectfully towards him, and according to the Power given them, they had Assessed Him, upon the two former Writts, & he had paid both the Assessments; and have now Assessed his Lordship, upon the last Writ, as they conceiue they may lawfully doe; haueing made noe Complaint against him, nor knowing of any He had made against Them. As for the Spleen & Affront to Sir Thomas; the Injuries, Incroachments, & Abuses to the Countrey, & Disservice to his Majesty, They deny all; and shew that Sir Thomas's Good Services were nothing worth: That when he was first Assessed in the City, he made the Case for Himselfe, and all his Majesties Farmers of England; and being ouer-ruled therein, He raises the Question, that he ought to pay with the Countrey & not with the City; whereby he putt Them to great Charge & Trouble, which he ought to reimburse. And they pray that they may Execute the Writt vpon him for his Assessment, he haueing noe Cause of Complaint at being Assessed Five Pounds for that, which he hath long clearly gayned £1000th annum, by; and for the present yeare, will will gaine £1500 about his Majesties Rent. Lastly, they humbly pray to be discharged of Attendance att the Board, vntill their Lordships shall be certified what the Earle of Derby and the Judges shall doe (at the Assizes) vppon their Lordships former Reference of these Matters to them.

100. Copie of an Order of the Privy Council, made (His Majestie being present) 27 May 1638. fol. 123.

Here, when the Gentries Petition or Certificate against the City was taken into Consideration, & the fresh Matters heard on both Sides: they came to that part relating to Sir Thomas Aston; whose cause having been twice before heard at that Board & Determined, His Majestie being both Tymes present: It was more expressly Ordered by His Majestie and their Lordships, that the said Sir Thomas Aston shal be Required to obserue the said former Orders in that behalf, and that he shall not henceforth presume to trouble His Majestie or the Board any more with the said Busines or Differences: and hereof the said Sir Thomas to take Notice, and to conforme himself accordingly.

101. Sir Thomas Atons Answere to Mr. Richard Litler Clerke of the Pentice, vppon the Demand of the 20 Nobles Assessed vppon him for Ship moneys, within the Citty of Chester (Written by Mr. Litler) 4 Junij 1638. fol. 119.

That the Lords having Order'd him the Money back, which he had payed to the County; he hoped he should not pay this, before he receiued that. And likewise hoped itt was not the Lords Meaning that he should pay it to the City there; but here (in the County) where he was Assessed. And if his Answere liked us (the City) not, We (the City) might take the Benefitt of the Writt, or what other course we thought fitt: for he was a Subject.

102. Original Letter of Sir Thomas Alton to Mr. Litler; Dated, 4 June 1638. fol. 121.

Giving his Answer in Writing to the Message or Demand abovementioned; the Substance of it being That he does not disobey the Orders of the Privy Council, but (as farr as in him lyes, hath conformed himselfe to them; as he shall make manifest to their Lordships, if they please to call him to any further Answere. As to the Five Markes imposed vpon him by the Mayor of Chester; He says he will not oppose any power given Mr. Mayor by the Writt: but wishes he may take Satisfaction at Chester, according to the Direction of that Writt.

103. Authentic Order of Council, made (His Majesty being present) 15 July 1638. fol. 141.

Upon the Petition of the Mayor & Citizens of Chester, shewing that Sir Thomas Aston hath not hitherto payed the severall Assessments for Shippe-money Charged vpon him, notwithstanding that the same hath bene severall times demanded, according to Three severall Orders formerly made: His Majesty & the Board having considered of the said Complaint, do straightly charge & require the said Sir Thomas, forthwith to pay to the Mayor of Chester the said Assessments, without further Delay, as he will Answere the contrary at his perill.

Mr. Bavand, sans Date; concerning a Letter of Attorney to be sent by the City, Empowering Him & Mr. Walker to Receive Sir Thomas Aston's Shipp-money, with Directions how to make the previous Demand upon Sir Thomas (since Mr. Litler had made some Blunder in the Business) and how to use the said Letter, in Case of Sir Thomas's Refusal. fol. 111.

105. Original Letter of Sir Thomas Aston, to Mr. Walker, sans Date. fol. 125.

He is sorry to have been absent, when Mr. Walker came to shew him the Lords last Order for his Payment of the Money. But hauing seene a Coppy of the Cittyes Petition, wheerevpon it is grounded (which he finds suitable to the rest of theyr allegations agaynst him, Malitious & Vntrue) and knowing that the Kings Seruice is not concerned; (his Money being all payd) he has not oppos'd the Three Orders, as is falsely suggested. Nor does he deny the Legal Power of his Majesties Writt, but wish'd Mr. Mayor to take Satisfaction at Chester. And hauing already satisfied the Writt by paying a greater Proportion in another place, which cannot be repaid: He must, in this Case putt him selfe vpon the Justice of the Board, & humbly refer him selfe to theyr Lordships Censure.

106. An Open Note, without Date, written by Sir Thomas Aston to Mr. Walker: Desiring him to leaue a Noate of the Date of his Letter of Attorney, and the times of the Two Assessments, as expressed in the same; that He might drawe an Acquittance accordingly; and the whole Money should be paid. fol. 125. A.

107. Sir Thomas Atons Draught of the Acquittance above-mentioned, Dated 6 August 1638. fol. 152.

By the payment of this Money, amounting to no more than £8: 6: 8. I suppose an End was putt to this tedious & costly Difference; concerning which, there being no more Papers in the present Book: I shall proceed to describe what Remains, in the Order as they succeed one another. Thus, the First which occurs, is 108. Original Letter from the Lords of the Privy Council, to the Maior of Chester, Dated, 28 Febr. 1624. fol. 177.

Requiring Prouision to be made of twoe Barques for the transportation of Ten Cartloads of Armes, & Apparell for 550 Men (in the same manner as is to be done at Leuerpoole) to the Ports of Dublin & Knockfergus in Ireland, before the 20th of Marche next, being the day of the Souldiers Rendezvous.

- 109 Original Letter from the Lords of the Privy Council, to the Mayor of Chester, Dated 18 Febr. 1624. fol. 179.

Requiring the City to provide Shipps & Victualls sufficient for the Transportation of 550 Souldiers into Ireland, by the 20th of Marche, at the Rate of 2s. 6d. a Man for Transportation, & 2s. 6d. for Victualls; and in Case of unforeseen Delay, to Victual them at 8d. a Man per Diem, dureing their Abode. They were also to provide Barques at prices reasonable, for the Armes & Apparell, mentioned in the last Letter: and to Certifie the whole Charge to the Councell of Warr, in Order to be repaid by the Treasurers of the Subsidie Moneys.

18. The Second Randle Holme's Draught of a Letter to Sir George Boothe Bart. Dat. 3 Novr. 1656. fol. 20. A.
Sir George was desirous of having the History of His Family drawn up from antient Evidences & other Muniments, in the same Manner as divers Noble Persons have caused theirs to be done. In Order to this, he caused Mr. Holme to make what Searches he could, and to collect together all the proper Materials which occurred. Mr. Holme avers, that by the great Pains he had taken in this tedious Business, for two Years together, he can prove Sir George to be descended from about 300 Great, Noble & Antient Families, in England, Scotland, Irland, Spayne, France, & other places. But, having no Learning, he was not able to digest his Notes, into proper & regular Method & Style; and was, therefore, much more bent upon receiving his Money, & being discharged.
19. Armes Quartered by Sir George Booth: many of which are impugned by Mr. Holme. fol. 20. B.

Gent. and William Felles of Arrowe, Yoman;
10 May 1609. fol. 9.

For a Lease of the Manor-House & Parke,
&c. of Bidstone in Wirral, which Kelly held of the Earle of Derby; for which, Felles was to pay Kelly £140. per annum; and a Chief Rent to the said Earle of £38 : 5 : 8. Felles was Bound in a Bond of £1000. for performance of the Covenants. Here are also two Original Instruments of the same Mr. Kelley; by the former, bearing date 12 July 1610. he appoints Thomas Gamull Esq; Recorder of Chester to receive his Rent. And, by the other, upon Mr. Recorders Decease, he appoints William Gamull Alderman of Chester, to do the same.

10. Papers relating to the Vexatious Affaire of the Lease of Bidstone abovementioned, which William Earle of Derby, & Margaret the old Countesse his Mother, had Granted to Lusher. But Sir John Egerton coveting the Premisses, did (at length) by very undue meanes, procure another Lease of the same to himselfe of, having promised to procure Lusher's Lease, which he could never Effect. fol. 13.

The Lease which Sir John procured, was Signed & Sealed, but not Deliver'd, being by the Earle committed to the Care of Mr. Ireland his Servant, untill Lusher's Lease should be produced; and this of Sir John's amended in certain mateterial Points. But Sir John Sueing Ireland for the same, gott it out of his Hands; and stood all tryals at Law (against Christofer Themilthorpe, to whom Lusher Lett it; against his Widow & Executrix after his Decease; & against Anthony Randle her Second Husband, for full Eleven years together, and to the Impoverishment of the Plaintiffes. And when, at last, after all his Arts used for Delaies, he could hold it no longer: He Leased out the same to the Eatles of Oxford & Salisbury, who seem to have made no great Matter of it, since it was in Kellies Hands so soon as A. D. 1609. It seems, that Sir John had attempted to invalidate Lusher's Lease, as not good, for some reasons; the Plaintiffes Counsel therefore Observed, among other particulars, That the Lease it Self was vnder the Countesse & Earles Hands & Seales of Armes: which were enoughe without Witnesses. For euery Earle is a Prince, and his Deed a Patent: Teste meipso might suffice.

58. Sir Peter Leicester's Opinion (delivered in his Book. fol. 37. a.) concerning Amicia, daughter of Hugh de Cyvelioc. 533.
Namely, that She being Illegitimate, could not be a Coheir: and consequently, that Sir Randle Mainwaringe (Sir Peters own Grandfather by the Mothers side) had no Right to Quarter the Armes of the old Earls of Chester, although this Amicia was Married to his Ancestor, and Sir Randle descended from her.
59. Answer of Sir Thomas Mainwaring to Sir Peter Leicester. ibid.
Here Sir Thomas is pretty warm; and proves that since what Hugh Kevelioc gave with this Amicia to Ranulph Mainwaringe, was giuen in Freemarriage (in Libero Maritagio) it certainly proves that Amicia was Lawfull: because a Bastard is not capable to receive any thing that Way: with other Arguments: most of which are as strong for Geva the Daughter of Hugh Lupus: whom Sir Thomas owns to be Illegitimately begotten, & whose Cause Sir Simonds Dewes defends. vid 38. C. 8. fol. 30.

CATALOGVS LIBRORVM MSS.

Num. 2100.

2100. An Heraldical Book in folio, on the outside, by the Third Randle Holme, thus entituled, Pedegrees of severall Familyes, with the Quartered Coates. It is rather a Rhapsody of Heraldical matters, mangled & in bad Condition, for the greatest part, done by several persons; and of which I think no more need be said, than this that follows,
1. Pedegree of the Royal Family of England, deduced from Adam to K. James 1. by some Welshman perhaps. fol. 1. b.
Intermixed with this, I find,
 2. The Pedegree & Armes, with Quarterings of Langford, as I take it; by the Second Randle Holme. fol. 6. A.
 3. Divers Welsh Pedegrees, sett down by the same. fol. 7. A. and elsewhere in this Book.
 4. Quarterings & Crests of Salusbury; as painted on the Wanscot in the perlar, at Mr. Salusbury's of Ruge in Comitatu Merioneth. fol. 7.
 5. Pedegree of Eyton. fol. 8. A. (vid. Armes of Eaton of Eaton, with 142 Quarterings, said to be too few by 20. fol. 12. C.)
 6. Pedegree of Edwyn. fol. 10. A.
 7. Pedegree of Coll. Robert Soutly, who died 5 Sept. 1653. fol. 13. A.
 8. Descent of Heaton of Heaton in Llevenny. fol. 13. b.
 9. Pedegree of John Broughton, made by the Second Randle Holme, A. D. 1651. fol. 15.
 10. Pedegree of Mr. Hugh Nanny of Merioneth Shire, made by the same. fol. 17.
 11. Armes Quarterable by Gerard; collected for the Lord Gerard's Sister by the same. A. D. 1636. fol. 19. A.
Then follows,
 12. The Genealogie or Pedegree of the Honorable Charles Worsley, Major-Generall, &c. to Oliver Cromwell; Collected, as well out of the Deeds of the auntient Family of the Worsleys of Worsley, in the County Palatine of Lancaster, as out of other authentic Records & Collections of diuers Pedegrees of Noble & Worshipfull Howses in severall Countyes; and Contynued: by the same Randle Holme. fol. 32. (within this I find.)
 13. Pedegree &c. of Legh of East-hall. fol. 32. b.
 14. Pedegree & Quarterings of Rowland Hill of Soulton Esq; & of Rowland Hill of Hawkestone Gent. transcribed or Collected by John Salusbury de Gebysteck A. D. 1667. for Mr. Holme. 35. A. loose.
Mr. Salusbury says that he transcribed this Descent out of the Bookes of Owen Salusbury of Rûg Esq; Robert Davyes of Gwyfaney Esq; Peter Ellis of Wrexham, Arthur Kynaston of Sant Gent. & George Owen Harries booke of the Genealogie of K. James in Print, a°. 1604. and out of the Books and Collections of the ancient Welsh Bards.
 15. Pedegree & Quarterings of Mr. John Lee of Lee; by the said Randle Holme. fol. 40. b.
Worsleys Pedegree is followed by 16. The Pedegree of Hârbert, Wynne, & Vaughan of Lloddyard: by another Hand. fol. 46.
 17. Pedegree of Piers Davies of Chester Linen-draper; truly Collected, gathered & sett downe according to the auntient Records of Wales, and the bookes of the best approved Authors of the Britishe Genealogies, by Evan Lloid of Paley in the Com. of Merioneth, Gent. alias, Evan Lloid Jeffrey, A. D. 1634. fol. 58.

Num. 2100. — 2101.

- It seems very hard that so many Crowns, Coronets, Royal & Noble Names as adorn this true Pedegree (forsooth!) at the Beginning, should dwindle into a Linen-Draper in the End.*
18. Pedegree of James Philipps of London, with the Armes. fol. 68.
This is of the same honest Randle's drawing up, and is thus subscribed by him, This Pedegrey was collected out of auntient Records & warrantable Authores by Randle Holme of the City of Chester Esquire, Deputy to the Office of Armes, anno 1633. June 28.
 19. The Third Randle Holmes Alphabetical Table of the Pedegrees extant in this Book: at the End.
 2101. A book in folio, consisting of many single Papers, with some Parchments and particular Traits, bound up together by the Third Randle Holme; and, by him (on the Outside) thus entituled, Deeds of Abby's & Priory's, etc. of which I shall give the following brief Account.
 1. The said Mr. Holme's List of the Things of most note in this Book. At the Beginning.
 2. The Answer of William Bennet & Sibill his Wife, to the Complaint of Sir William Brereton Baronet, in a Plea of Trespass. fol. 164.
The Occasion of the Suit was this; Sir William being no Free-man of Chester sends two Sacks of Oats to sell in the Corn-market there; from which Bennet & his Wife (being the City-Officer) took two Quarts, as a Toll.
 3. Sir William Brereton's Reply: shewing that those Oats grew in a certain Close called Le Jeoffreys Halke, which formerly belonged to the Nuns of Chester; and being, in their time, Toll-free throughout England, was not then liable to any Toll at all. fol. 164.
These two Pleadings are loose.
 4. A State of the Revenue of St. John's Hospital in Chester; and, in part, how to be applied. fol. 170.
 5. Letter of the Magistrates of Chester to Robert Johnes, Master of the said Hospital; requiring that he should sustain 13 poor Men there, all of their Community; without admitting of any Strangers. ibid.
 6. Mr. Johnes's Answer: shewing that the Hospital was not able to maintain 13 poor men; but if it was so, that the Inhabitants of Chester had a Right to a Preference there; it should be so for the future. fol. 170. b.
 7. Notes touching Lands, &c. parcels of the Possessions of several Monasteries, granted to Sir. Christopher Hatton Knight, anno 28 R. Elizabethæ. fol. 171.
 8. Note about the Grant of the old Shire-Hall in Chester, to George Ireland; 25 May, anno 25 R. Elizabethæ. ibid.
 9. Part of the Grant of the Rectory & Church of St. John Baptist in Chester, to Alexander King, for 21 years; he paying the annual Rent of 53 s. 4 d. and allowing £ 13 : 6 : 8. annually to the Vicar. fol. 171. b.
 10. Mr. Recorder Whitbie's Draught of a Petition to K. Charles 1. for Mr. Thomas Powel, who had a Right to the Ferry over the River Mersey, from the Priory of Birkenhead to the Town of Liverpool; wherein he was interrupted by Edward Nicholson & William Jematte. fol. 172.
 11. Mr. Recorder Whitbie's Draught of a Certificate to the King, concerning the said Ferry. fol. 173.

Num. 2101.

12. Original Letter from Mr. John Ratclyffe Maior of Chester, to Sir William Brereton Baronet, Dated the 28th of October, 1628. fol. 174.
This is about a Suit which Sir William had commenced against the City (contrary to his Promise) in the Court of Wards; upon their distraining for Murage, at the Nunnery in Chester.
13. Mr. Recorder Whitbies Copie of the Depositions taken in that Cause. fol. 175.
14. Extracts from divers Charters, & Royal Patents, touching the Foundation & Privileges of St. Maries Nunnery in Chester. fol. 117. 180. 188. 193.
15. That the Kings of England, after the Conquest, exercised no Dominion within the County-Palatine of Chester, untill the Death of Johannes de Scotia, the last of the old Earls. fol. 179.
This was taken out of an ould Vellom-booke of John Goulborne of Goulborne, A. D. 1610. & transcribed by the Second Randle Holme.
16. The Gabull-Rents which the Sheriffs be Charged with; Vewed & set forth in the first Maioralty of Henry Gee, A. D. 1533. fol. 186.
17. Copy of a Lease, whereby Margery Pasmyche Priorefs of the Nuns of Chester, dimised to Thomas Croghton, one Mesuage in Chester, for 70 years; at the annual Rent of 20 Shillings. Dat. 10 December anno 16 Regis Henrici VIII. fol. 192.
18. Extract from a Deed of Sale of an house in Bridgestreet, formerly belonging to the Nuns of Chester; by John Poole & his Sons, to Mr. Edmund Gamull: 26 May, anno 33. Elizabethæ Reginae. fol. 196.
19. Abstract of a Deed, whereby Agnes de Dutton Priorefs of the Nuns of Chester, Lett to perpetual Fee-Firme a Place of Land in Bridge-street. Dat. in vigilia S. Cedde, anno 48 R. Edwardi III. fol. 196. b.
20. Mr. William Noyes Opinion, that Sir William Brereton's holding the Scite of the Nunnery of Chester, did not discharge him of Murage, when Levied by the City. fol. 198.
21. Writt of K. Charles I. to the Maior & Citizens of Chester, commanding them not to vex or molest the Hospital of St. Giles without the East Barres of their said City, upon the account of Murage, Pannage, or Pontage. Teste, &c. 9 Septembris, anno Regni 5. fol. 200.
22. Confirmatio Gregorij Papæ IX. facta Monachis Cestrensis, super Appropriatione Ecclesiarum de Prestbury, de Bruera, de Neston, de Eastham, de Bunnbrough & de Kirkby. fol. 202.
23. De Donatione Ecclesiarum de Bruera & de Pulford, Monasterio S. Werburgæ. fol. 203.
24. Deeds relating to the Suit between the Abbat of Dieulacres & William de Ipstones, upon the Claim made by the said Abbat of Right of Common in the Pasture of Ipstones. temp. R. Henrici III. fol. 204.
25. Writt of Prince Edward as Earl of Chester, commanding the Maior & Shireves there to apprehend & committ to Gaol, Ralf Etone, for his bad abearing toward Master William Thomas Clerc & Warden of St. John Baptists Hospital in Chester. Teste, &c. 18 Julij, anno 17 R. Edwardi V. fol. 205. b.
26. Notes relating to certain Religious Houses, taken from some of Mr. Roger Dodsworth's Writings. fol. 205. c.

Num. 2101.

27. Notes touching certain Privileges granted to the Priory of Byrkenhed. fol. 208.
28. A blank Letter of Confraternity, under the Hand & Seal of Antonius a Mutina General of the Capuchines. Printed. fol. 210.
29. Copie of the Letters Patents of K. Henry VIII. whereby he Dissolved the Priory of Canons of the Order of St. Victor, observing the Rule of St. Augustin, scituate near the Cathedral Church of Dublin; and refounded the Prior and Canons thereof into the Dean & Chapter of the said Cathedral. Teste, &c. 10 die Maij, anno Regni 33. fol. 211.
30. The seuerall Debts of such Tenants as pay Rents vnto the Deane of Christ-church in Dublin; and which are due vnto the Honorable Sir George Radcliffe Kt. by vertue of a Sequestration of the said Deanrie, from the right Honorable the Lord-Deputie & Council. fol. 213.
This is Signed by Henry, Bishop of Elphin: and seems to be wholly of his Hand-writing.
31. A Lease of the Tithe-Corne of Berneton, made 12 June anno 3 Edwardi VI. to John Basnett by Peter Shakerley Esquier, for 36 years; at the annual Rent of £2: 6: 8. fol. 218.
It seems that the Deane & Chapter of the Cathedrall Church of Criste in Oxford had Sett to the said Peter and one Bryan Trauers the Rectorie & Personage of Budworthe, with the Chappell of Witton & Pever, for 40 years (to Commence after the Expiration of the Lease which the said Dean, &c. had granted to one George Cotton Esqr;) at the annual Rent of £82: 2: 8.
33. Rentale cert. parcell. Terrarum & Possessionum nuper Hospitalis S. Johannis Baptiste extra Novam Portam Civitatis Dublin. confectum, A. D. 1583. fol. 225.
This is written upon Parchment & is authentic. At the bottom, is a Warant Signed by the then Lords Justices in the behalfe of Thomas Coppingier of Youghall, to whom 2. Elizabeth, (in Consideration of his greate Losses) was willing to grant an Estate of Fee-farme in so much of Her Lands in Ireland, as would amount to the annual Rent of £14: 2: 0.

- By this, the Chester-Brewers were obliged to Sell their best Beere at the Rate of 4 Shillings the Barrell, holding 36 Gallons.
74. Certificate, to the Lords of the Privy-Council, from the Earl of Derby & the Justices of Assize, Dated at Chester, the 18th of Aprill 1636. fol. 438.
- This is in pursuance of that mentioned above, at N^o. 66. and Certifieth that they conceived it fitt that a great Number of Inns should be allowed there, the Keepers whereof might have Libertie to Brew Beere & Ale for their Guests. And that the rest of the Inns & Ale-houses should not Brew, but take their Drink of the Brewers.
75. Copie of an Order made by the Lords of the Privy Council; Dated 5 August 1635. fol. 440.
- This is in behalf of the Brewers; and directing the Chamberlayne of Chester to Chastise, by Imprisonment or otherwise, those who should presume to contravene the Patent of Incorporation, which the same Brewers had lately obtained.
76. A Brief in the Suit between the Brewers of Chester; & the Maior & Sword-bearer: Febr. 1634. fol. 442.
- It seems that the Defendants caused the Brewers to pay sundry Sums of Money in the Name of Coldish? or Marygallon? out of every Brewing; and what other Sum they pleased for driving Carres through Streets, loaden with Beer.
77. Copy of a Letter from the Earl of Derby Chamberlayne of Chester, to the Lords of the Privy Council. fol. 444.
- Shewing that the Brewers had obtained their Incorporation-Patent vpon vntrue Grounds; and without the Knowledge or Privitie of the Maior or his Brethren. And that it was conceived to tend much to the prejudice of the Cittie, especiallie to the Poorer Sorte, which are not able to Subsiste, nor to maintayne their Families if they be restrayned from Brewinge.
78. Subscription of Monye graunted by the Companie of the Yron-monggers; to be payd by them weeklye; towards the makinge vp agayne of the Haven: the thred daye of Aprell A. D. 1571. fol. 446.

- all the daie after Idely, in Vice & Wantones; then yeuon themselves holy to Contemplacion & Praier. And also, that no maner person do go abrode a Mumminge in any place within the same Citie, their Faces being Couered or Disguised: or Plaie at any vnlawful Games. fol. 322.
26. Distribution of the Chester-Poor (with their Names) according as the Almes were appointed for them in the severall Wardes of Chester. fol. 323.
 27. Account of some family-disbursements, about A. D. 1587. fol. 324. b. et 331.
 28. Narration of the Proceedings on both Sides, upon the Chester-Bakers Refusing to comply with the Affise of Bread appointed by Mr. John Webster then Maior, viz. 14 November 1557. with Copies of the said Bakers Bill of Complaint to the Council of the Marches of Wales; Mr. Maior's Answer to the same, &c. fol. 326.
 29. Orders made by the same Maior, A. D. 1557: about Moneys to be Collected for the better setting forwards of the Woorke of the Haven. About the admission of Forreigners into the Freedom of the City. For the Sale of Malte in the open Market. And how the Joyners or Carvers should Buy & Sell their Tymber, Bords, Sparres, &c. fol. 332.
 30. The Book of Assessment toward the Relief of the Chester-Poor, made A. D. 1574. by Richard Dutton Esq; then Maior, & his Brethren, Justices of the Peace. fol. 333.
 31. Short Annals of Chester, imperfect at the Beginning; whose chief Scope was to give a Succession or Series of the several Maiors of Chester. fol. 345.
This Tract now begins with Alexander Hurrell, who was Maior A. D. 1348. and is Continued down to William Bird, who was elected A. D. 1580.
 32. Entrances of Pleadings in the Courts of Portmote, &c. Thomas Grene being Maior, annis 7 & 8 Regine Elizabethæ. fol. 359.
 33. Original Letter of Thomas Lord Viscount Sauage, to William Gamull Maior of Chester, 7 Febr. 1620. fol. 363.
Upon occasion of the Suit depending, upon the two Whitbys being turned out of the Office of Clerk of the Pentice: in which Cause, his Lordship was not their Friend.
 34. Another, from the same noble Lord, to the same; Dat. 9 February 1620. fol. 365.
Shewing that the said Cause was determined in favor of the City; & consequently, that Mr. Brerewood would not keep his Place. That Mr. Whitby & Sir Randle Manwaringe were both angry; although if they would but think of a Starr-chamber Suite, they might thank God, on their Knees, they were so well rid of it.
 35. Copie of Sir John Bridgeman & Sir Marmaduke Lloyd's Letter to the same Lord Viscount Savage. fol. 367.
Upon Mr. Brerewood's being Sequestred from his Office of Towne-Clerke, or Clerke of the Pentice, for some Negligence or Remissenes in his said Office; and desiring, that if he had given any Offence to his Lordship, by any intemperate Carriage, or any other Meanes; vppon his humble Submission, His Lordship would be a Meanes to the Cittie to restore him; for the Reasons they give.

Num. 2105.

36. Mr. Recorder Whitbys Notes, upon certain irregular proceedings of some of the Chester Sergeants at Mace; who arrested divers, & carried them to their own Houses, & not to Prison. fol. 369.
37. Original Opinion of Sir Edward Littleton Recorder of London, upon the Case putt to him; how certain Common Cheaters & Coffiners should be tried, who plead Not Guilty; but will not putt themselves vpon the Countrey. fol. 371.
38. Original Opinion (as it seems) of Mr. Justice Jones, upon the same Case. fol. 373.
39. Original Note under the Hands of Robert Brocke Maior of Chester, & his Brethren Justices of the Peace, Dated 24 of February 1588; who Imprisoned & Fined Roger Hammer, & others, for making a Forcible Entry. fol. 375.
40. The Case of Ellice Johnes Citizen of Chester, who was Arrested in his own house, for Debt, by Virtue of a Warant from Sir James Croft, directed to the Knight-Marshall, & to his Deputie & Deputies. fol. 376.
41. Copie of the said Warant, dated from the Court at Westminster, the 18 of December 1581. Subscribed by many of the Aldermen, & other principal Citizens of Chester, as a true Copie. fol. 377.
42. Relation of the Proceedings of Mr. Richard Bavand then Maior, upon the said Arrest; who finding the said Warant to be insufficient, the Arrest vnlawfull, & the manner of the same not to be lett passe without Punishment; in the Prefence, & by Consent of those who Subscribed the Copie of the said Warant, Committed William Harbard who made the Arrest, to the North-gate Prison. fol. 377. b.
43. Draught of a Bill of Complaint from the Maior & Citizens of Chester, to William Earl of Derby Chamberleyne of the County-Palatine, against William Hodges of London Merchant; who importing divers Wares there, agreed to pay them £3 : 5 : 6. for the Customes thereof; but having Sold the same there, would not fulfil that his Agreement, fol. 379. (Herein, many of their particular Customes, as Tonage, Poundage, Murage, &c. are specially sett forth)
44. Copie of the Letter of K. James I. to the Corporation of Shrewsbury, recommending to their Choise for the Reversion of the Office of their Towne-Clerke Thomas Vnton; who had bene for divers Yeares at the Vniversity, where he had taken Degrees of Scholes; and likewise at Innes of Courte; and did then Attend about one of His Right trusty & Well-beloved Counsaylours. Given A. D. 1604. fol. 384.
45. Copie of the humble Answer of the Bayliffes & Burgeffes of the Towne of Shrewsbury, by way of Petition to His Majesties Letter, for th'Electinge of Thomas Vnton vnto the Office of Towne-Clerke there, after the Death of Adam Mitton, who then held the same. fol. 384. b. (Giving their Reasons why they could not make such Election)
46. Letter from the Lords, &c. of the Privy-Council, to the Earl of Derby, the Bishop of Chester, the two Justices of Assize there, & to the Dean of Chester, Dated, 11th of August, 1627. fol. 385.
Referring to them, the Hearing of the Cause

Num. 2105.

- of Robert Brerewood Esq; Towne-Clerke of Chester, who was accused by the Maior & Citizens there, of Misdemeanor & Vndue Carriage in that Office: concerning the Maner of the said Brerewood's Sequestration; the Causes for which he was Sequestred, and his Mis-carriage since: & to retourne the Examinations of the Witnesses on both Sides to the Board, with their Opinions of the Whole.
47. A Minute of the Common Council, held the 15 of March 1580. about certain Plates being Redeemed from the City, by Helyn and Rathburne. fol. 387.
48. Draught of an Acquittance from the Corporation of Chester, owning thereby the Receipt of a Silver Cup and Cover, gilt, weighing 80 Unces & vpwrd, with the Case therevnto belonging, bequeathed vnto them by Robert Offley th'Elder, late Citizen & Haberdasher of London, to be Vsed in Remembrance of Him in the Howse comonly called the Pend-hows of the said City. Dat. the 4 of June, anno. 38 Elizabethe Regine. fol. 389.
49. Mr. Robert Brerewood's Opinion, that the Inrollment of a Statute-Merchant (wherein the Clerk had erroneously Entred £50: instead of £40: might be amended, & made agreeable to the Statute it Self. fol. 390.
50. Three Draughts of a Letter from many of the Aldermen & Common-Council of Chester, to the Lord Keeper, amended, & sent away from Chester, the 8th of February 1601. fol. 392.
This is in arraigning the Proceedings of Mr. John Radcliffe the then Maior, who made Mr. Robert Whitby Clerk of the Pentice, against their Consent. (vid. infra n. 98)
51. Instructions in my Case, when the same is to be determined in the Assemblie at Chester. fol. 400.
This seems to relate either to Mr. Recorder Whitby, or to his Predecessor Mr. Thomas Gamull; who fell into the Displeasure of some humorous Maior, that alledged he did not Rise up to do him Reverence, once when he came into the Church; nor was, at another time, present at the Bynding of the Ale-houses: and therefore ought to be putt out of his Place. Mr. Recorder has drawn up this Paper very artfully; and has shewn that he would not be thrust from his Office, upon every vain fancy of a Maior brim-full of Pride & Ill Nature.
52. Draught of the Bill of Complaint exhibited to William Earle of Derby & James Lord Strange, Chamberlen of Chester, by the Maior & Citizens of the City of Chester, against Euan Jones & Richard Warmisham. fol. 402.
It seems that when the Accompt of William Fisher late one of the Sheriffes of Chester was Audited, he was found Debtor to the City in the Sum of £4 : 4 : 1½. which Sum he promised to pay, but died before he did so; leaving Jane his Wife his Executrix. The Widow likewise promises to pay, but obtains a Term of Forbearance; and deceases, leaving the Defendants her Executors. They, at first, faithfully promise to pay; but perceiving that the City had not such precise proof of the particulars of the said Accompt, & other Circumstances which would be necessary to convict them at the Common Law: fly off, and oblige the City to have recourse to Equity.
53. Draught of a Bill of Complaint to the same Chamberlayne

Num. 2105.

Chamberlayne of Chester (Signed by Robert Brerewood Esq; who afterwards succeeded Mr. Whitby in the Recordership of Chester; was Knighted, & made a Serjeant at Law) made for Jane Penny, who claimed an House in Chester, as heiress to her Brother Jerome; which he enjoyed as heir to his Brother Rauffe, the Eldest Son of their Father William, who Entered into it, upon the Decease of his Father, long before. The Bill is against Thomas Eaton & one Welsh; who having gotten the Writings into their Hands, Entered into the Premises, pretending to have bought the same of the Complainants Fathers Sisters. This was A. D. 1634. fol. 405.

54. The Demurrer, Answer, & Aide-praier of Thomas Eaton Defendant, to the Bill of Complaint of Jane Penny Spinster: Sworn to, 23 Febr. 1634. fol. 407.

This is Signed by Mr. Recorder Whitby; and alleages Matters directly contrary to the former Bill.

55. Original Submission of William Tesh, an Officer in the Court of Yorke, who had reviled Mr. Maior of Chester, Mr. Recorder, &c. and was therefore committed to Ward, A. D. 1637. fol. 411. (vid. infra. N^o. 86.)

He alleages, that coming (drunk) from some Company along the Rowe, some of the Shue-makes & Cardmakers abuessing him, rought suche a Confusyon or Distemperature in his Brayne, that they made him halfe Mad (yet more drunk) in soe much that he was not his owne man.

56. Mr. Recorder Whitbys Draught of a Petition, to the Marquis of Buckingham, in the Name of his Father Robert & Brother Thomas, Clerkes of the Pentice, who were accused of some Crimes & Misdemeanors committed in that Office; for which, they were afterward putt out. fol. 413.

Herein it is prayed that they might have an indifferent Trial; that they might have the Liberty of bringing in their Witnesses; & that their Accusers might not be their Judges. Indeed, I find elsewhere, that their Pride, as well as their Extortion, brought a general Odium upon them.

57. Mr. Recorder Whitbys Draught of another Petition, to Prince Charles, as Earle of Chester, in the Names of his said Father & Brother. Praying, that no Commission or Warrant out of his Highnesse Court of Exchequer may be awarded against them: or if that anie be already issued, a Superfedeas may be thereunto granted, & that the Petitioners might quietly enioie their Office, vntill a legall & Due Examination, & Tryall.

58. A Rought Draught of the last Petition, corrected by the hand of Mr. Recorder Whitby. fol. 416.

59. Mr. Recorder Whitbys first part of a Petition, in the Names of his said Father & Brother, to K. James I. fol. 418.

60. Another Draught of the same Petition, amended by Mr. Recorder, &c. fol. 420. et fol. 430.

Praying that his Highnes Attornie & Solicitor may direct an indifferent Course for triall of their pretended Misdemeanors in any His ordinary Courts of Justice, where none of the Parties are Judges. And that in the meane time, they may enjoye their Office without Disturbance.

Num. 2105.

61. An Original Deed of Gift, whereby Mawde Banyster Spinster, absolutely gives, without possibility of Redemption, to Jane Cotgrave her Aunte, and to Alyce Wyrthen her Sister, her ownely & especiall Friends; who do care for Her well-doinge: all Her Money, Goods, Cattalls, Jewells, Ymplements, and other things whatsoever, bequeathed to Her by her Father: and putts them into actuall Possession of the same, by the Delyuery of one Shilling of Syluer. And all this, without any Proviso for her Maintainance. Dat. the 26 of June, 1583. fol. 422.

The main Motive to this extraordinary Gift, is thus expressed, For that I feele my self somewhat weake of my Senses, & therefore not fytt to Marry, or otherwise to Rule & Govern my self, and such portion of Goods as my faide late Father hath bequeathed— to me. And rather to them, then to eny others, whoe may or shall hereafter Entise, or Perswade me to eny Enconvenyence, ether of my self, or my faide goods.

Annexed to this, remains.

62. The Original Letter of Administration, of all & singular the said Goods, Granted by Doctor David Yale the Bishop of Chester's Vicar-Generall to William Cotgrave, to the intent that they should be equally divided between Ellen the Daughter of him & Jane his Wife above-mentioned: and the said Alyce Wyrthen. Dated, after the Decease of the said Mawde, the 17th of September, 1589. fol. 421.

This is Subscribed by Randle Cotgrave, as Register of the Bishops Court, and the whole seems to have been of his Writing. This Randle I take to be Author of the French & English Dictionary; a book especially useful to him who is desirous of understanding the old French.

63. Another Draught of the Petition above-mentioned at N^o. 60. and likewise amended by Mr. Recorder Whitby. fol. 424.

This has an Answer; dated from the Court at Theobalds, 4 Junij, 1618. importing, that if they found themselves aggrieved, they might seeke their Remedy by Course of Law in any Judiciall Court.

64. Copie of the Sentence promulgated by William Awbrey & William Clerck LL. DD. Judges (Auditors) in the Arch-bishop of Canterburys Court of Audience against Robert Yardeley the Surviving Executor of Elizeus Broughton, for detaining from Francis Broughton the Legacy bequeathed to him by the Deceased. Dat. 20 Nov. 1578. fol. 426.

In these Papers is a Schedule of the Goods so bequeathed to Mr. Broughton, with their Valuations.

65. The abovementioned Whitbys first Petition to the King, upon their being turn'd out from the Clerkship of the Pentice; praying his Majesties gracious Letters for their Re-establishment: which, it seemes, was granted in part. fol. 432.

This Draught was also amended by Mr. Recorder Whitby.

66. A former rough Draught of the last mentioned Petition; amended likewise by Mr. Recorder. fol. 434.

67. Minute of the Assembly of Chester; shewing,

CATALOGVS LIBRORVM MSS.

Num. 2105.

that when they made Mr. Brerewood Clerke of the Pentice, they meant not to prejudice Mr. Recorder Whitby; or to take away any of the Rights & Fees belonging to his Place. fol. 436.

This was upon Complaint that he had received no Fees or Profits (but only the Citie-Fee) since Mr. Brerewood come into his Place.

68. Copie of an Order of the Lords of the Privy Council; Dated the 21 of November, 1627. fol. 438. 444.

Upon hearinge the Cause concerninge the Sequestration of Mr. Brerewood from his Place; that the Heads of his Charge be deliuered unto him, and that there be another Hearing, vpon the Matters laid against him.

69. Narration of the foul & treacherous Practices of the abovementioned Francis Broughton & Robert Yardley, against Elinor the Relict & Executrix of Edward Broughton, the Elder Brother & one of the Executors of Ellis Broughton. fol. 439.

This is imperfect, but opens a Scene of great Villany.

70. Copie of another Order of the Lords of the Privy Council; Dated the 5th of December, 1627. fol. 442.

Blaming the Proceeding of Mr. Brerewood in getting of Hands to a Paper drawn up against the Assemblies Order for Sequestering his Place, & Mr. Gamull for putting his Hand to the same. Both whom having submitted themselves to be Order'd by the Lord Savage (who hath the place of an Alderman in Chester) his Lordship was to take Cognizance of the whole Matter, & direct what is fitt to be done; especially with regard to one Tarleton, who had cast scandalous Aspersions vpon Mr. Recorder Whitbie, & others who had menaced him with the loss of his Place: and to report his whole Proceedings to the Bord.

71. Copie of Mr. Brerewood's Surrender of his Office of Clerk of the Pentice, into the Hands of the Maior & Cittizens of Chester. Dated, the 9th of December, 1627.

His Pretence for Resigning is thus: Finding my selfe by reason of my other employments not able to attend my said Office in my owne person, and withall finding by experience the great inconvenience that hath redounded vnto me by my trust heretofore reposed in my servants for the execution of the said place.

72. (Imperfect) Agreement between the Guardians of Rauff Radford, & Alderman William Aldersey touching their respective Rights to the Possession of Boughton-Chappell with its appurtenances. Dated the 25th of August, anno 11 Elizabethe Regine. fol. 446.

Hereby, they were to putt their Writings into the Hands of Edward Halsall Esq; Lerner in the Lawes; and after he had Considered the same, to Stand by what he should award between them.

73. The Charge against Mr. Robert Brerewood; deliuered to the Commissioners the 15th of December, A. D. 1627. laying open his Misdemeanors before his Sequestration, & since. fol. 447.

This is, indeed, very great & heavy; and sufficiently shews him to have been a very wicked officer.

74. Declaration of Margaret Aldersey Executrix of Joan Aldersey, against Hugh Dutton Gent. who having borrowed Ten Pounds of the said Joan, in the 3d Year of Q. Mary, refused to pay the same. fol. 449.

Num. 2105.

75. Declaration of Ranulph Maynwaringe Esq; &c. Executors of Peter Leicester of Tabley, Esq; against Laurence Leicester Gent. Administrator to William Leicester of Toft, Esq; in an Action of Debt, to Two Thousand Pounds (temp. Elizabethe Regine) fol. 450.

76. Petition of the City of Chester to the Lords of the Privy Councill; 21 August, 1627. fol. 451.

Desiring that their Cause might be heard before their Lordships, & not by Commissioners: and that before the Election of a new Maior: because Brerewood & Alderman William Gamull had given out, that if they could passe over this Yeare, they would choose such a Maior, as should restore Brerewood, displace the Recorder, question the now Maior & others for Sequestering Brerewood, & complaining to their Honors, &c.

77. Certificate of the said Maior (Nicholas Ince) & Magistrates of Chester, to the Lords of the Privy Council, touching the Insolent & Tumultuous Behavior of Foulke Salusbury (whom their Lordships had sent for up, by a Pursuivant, for former like Behavior) of Alderman William Gamull, & others, at an Assembly in behalfe of Brerewood before mentioned. And praying that some Course might be taken, to prevent the Disorders they suspected such Carriage might produce. fol. 453.

78. Copie of a Letter from Mr. Ince Maior of Chester, to the Lords of the Privy Council; 14 August, 1627. fol. 455.

Certifying, that he had bound over Mr. Brerewood to appear before them; and had sent Mr. Recorder Whitby & Alderman Drinkwater authorised & instructed to attend them, to give Information, & to make Proofs as well of his Miscarriage in his Office, before the Sequestration, as of his vndue Practises since. Complaining likewise of Alderman William Gamull & others, who spake injuriously of him, for drawing this Business concerninge Mr. Brerewood out of the City.

79. Copie of a Petition from the Maior, Aldermen, &c. of Chester, to the Lords of the Privy Council. fol. 457.

Shewing, that when Brerewood was Sequestred, the Lord Viscount Savage was present, as Alderman of that City. That Brerewood & his Friends had laboured, indyrectly, to procure Voyces & Hands for his Restitution; to sett deuision in the said City, and to worke his Restitution by stronge hand. Praying therefore, that their Lordships would take such a Course, that the Office of the Pentice or Towne-Clerke, might be rectified; the Justice of the Courts preserved; & Peace in that auneynt City settled.

80. Narratio pro Roberto Conway & Cristofero Conway Administratoribus Bonorum & Catallorum que fuerunt Willelmi Mutton nuper defuncti, querentibus: versus Willelmum Walle Aldermannum Defendentem, in placito Debiti, Librarum 28, et Denariorum octo. fol. 458.

81. Narratio pro Margareta Hewer Administratrice Bonorum & Catallorum que fuerunt Johannis Hewer defuncti, Querentis: versus

100. Original Letter of Administration, granted by Mr. Francis Magson Deputy of Dr. Edmund Mainwaringe Commissary of Richmund, to John the Father Richard Lewteth. Dat. 23 November, 1632. fol. 491.
This is also Signed by the Writer thereof John Dickonson; who appears to have been but a very ignorant Notary-Publick.
101. A Note touching disrespeful Words spoken by George Warrington abovementioned, 29 April 1635. of the then Maior of Chester. fol. 493.
102. Note of some of that Cities Deeds & Charters deliver'd 22 April, 1634. to Mr. Recorder Whitby, to be considered. fol. 494.
103. A Note of some others, delivered to Mr. Recorder & Mr. Brerewood to peruse. fol. 496.
104. Minute of an Assembly holden the 30th of April 1581. for electing a new Yoman of the Pentice; and touching their constant Attendance. fol. 497.
105. Original Certificate of many Citizens of Chester, touching the good Behavior of William Taylor, who was then in Election for an Officers place to the King's Sherriff within the same Cittie, 14 Marche, 1614. fol. 499.
Upon this Certificate he was admitted, & sworne, the same day.
106. Copie of a Letter from K. James 1. Given the 22 daie of November, anno regni 3. to the Corporation of the Citie of Chester: Recommending to them for their Recorder Hugh Mainwaringe of Grayes Inne, an Utter Barrester of good Standinge. fol. 501.
107. Copie of a Letter from Robert Cecil Earl of Salisbury to the said Corporation, Dat. 2 Febr. 1605. fol. 503.
Acquainting them, that his Majestie having received their humble Petition, imploring his Pardon, & Leave to proceed to the Election of a New Recorder, according to the Lymitts prescribed vnto them by their Charter: which is, to Elect some sufficient Man of their own Corporation, which Mr. Maynwaring is not: is graciously pleased to forbear to presse them any further in this Suyte; and the rather, in that they have so dewtifully & discreetly behaved themselves towards him, in delivering their Excuse.
In this Affair, the City of Chester seems to have followed the Precedent sett them by the Town of Shrewsbury (vid. supra, n°. 45.)
108. A fairer Copie of the preceeding Letter. fol. 505.
109. Attested Copie of a Minute of the Assembly holden the 21 of May, anno primo Caroli Regis, touching the Repayre of the City-Walls, and levying the Rate of the Assessment, by way of Distresse, upon any Inhabitant that should refuse to pay the same. fol. 507.
This was shewed to the Witneses for the Sheriffes of Chester, 16 January 1627. upon occasion of the Suit between the Sheriffes, and Sir Walter Pye Master of the Court of Wards; in behalf of Sir William Brereton.

- vileges of the City, by executing the Office of Justice of the Peace in the Parsonage-house of St. Maryes in Chester, out of an erroneous Conceat that the sayd House is not within the Libertyes of the sayd Cittye; by constitutinge & authorizinge of a Cunstable within the Libertyes of the Cittye, and indeed, over some parte of the Countye of the said Cittye, where there was never any before, but as appointed by the Cittye; & by claiming a quantity of Ground as belonging to the County-Palatine, which was really part of the County of the City of Chester.
111. Original Letter of Mr. Dutton Maior of Chester, & of divers of the Aldermen his Brethren, to Mr. Recorder Whitby, upon Occasion of the Writt ad audiend. Judic. issued out of the Courte of Wards, att the Suite of Sr. William Brereton, & served vppon the twoe Constables that made Distresse vppon his Goods, for not paying toward their late Assessment for Murage. fol. 511.
Here they desire him to make up the Matter with Sir William; but if that could not be effected, to spare no Costs in defending the City; and what should be disbursed, would be repaid. This seems to have been about the beginning of the year 1628.
 112. Original Opinion of Sir Heneage Finch Recorder of London, that All Inhabitants & Resiants in London are liable to the publick Charges; and might be distrained upon in pursuance of the Acts of Common Council. Also, that Subsidies are Assessed & Levied in all places within the City of London, notwithstanding any Privilege or Exemption from the Jurisdiction of the City. 23 Febr. 1629. fol. 513.
 113. Presentment of the Jury of Chester, as to the Misdemeanors of many persons. fol. 514.
 114. Original Petition of the Company of Clothiers of Chester, to Sir Thomas Smith then Maior, &c. fol. 516.
This was against the Company of Shar-men & Cloth-workers, who had lately raised their Prizes for Working and Dressing of their Clothes.
 115. Petition of Hughe Dod to the Assembly of Chester; preferred in October, 1624. fol. 518.
Praying, that he might have the present Vse of the Office of a Philözer; or the Clerk-ship of the Pentice, in Reversion; or of Attorney of Record, in Reversion; at the usual Rents.
 116. Copie of a Letter from Mr. Thomas Gamull Recorder of Chester, to William Stanley Earl of Derby: Dated the 28th of August, 1610. fol. 518. b.
Recommending this Hugh Dod to his Lordship's Favor, so as that he might have the place of an Attorney, after the Death of any of the four Serjeants of Chester; whoe have byn vsually appointed by suche to whom the Custody of the foure Gates of that City by Inheritance did belong; whereof his Lordship was one. Yet, although that Noble Lord did allow of this Nomination: poor Hugh was putt by when the next Election came on.
 117. Copie of a Letter from K. James 1. to the Assembly of Chester: Given the 2 of July, anno regni 14. fol. 519.

Written upon occasion of the Spreading of the Plague; & directing them (in his Majesties Name) to put-off their next Michaelmas-Fayre, giving publique & tymely notice thereof. And to cause all such Londoners & others coming from Infected Places, & vending their Wares in the Villages within 5 Miles round about Chester, to be shutt up (at their owne Charges) in the Howses wherein they should abide; and alsoe, the Howses where such their Wares should remayne, as if they were Places infected.

121. Copie of a Letter from the Maior & Aldermen of Chester, to Sr. Edward Broughton of Iscoyed Knight; Dated the 4th of March, 1636. fol. 526.

In answer to an unkind Letter they received from him, who claymed an Interest in the Lands left by Mr. Alderman Valentine Broughton, the Nomination of Tenants, &c. and threatened them with Law suits, if they did not comply with him.

122. Original Letter of the Maior, &c. of Chester, to the Earl of Northampton, Lord President of Wales. Dated the 21st of December, 1620. fol. 528.

Shewing their willingness to have forwarded the Election of Sir Henry Carye, for their Burgesse (although they feared much opposition in the Commynaltie, by reason he was not enfranchised) but having receyued certeine Intelligence, that Sir Henry was already Elected a Knight for Harfordshire, they found themselves to be unworthy of him. (et vid. fol. 535.)

123. Attested Copie of the List of those who voted at the Assembly holden the 5th of October, 1629. when the Question was putt, Whether Mr. Robert Brerewood should be of the Citties Counsell to assist Mr. Grene, Yea, or No? fol. 529. b. Then 31 Voted for him, & 32 against him.

124. Original Letter of William Earl of Northampton, to the Maior & Aldermen of Chester; Dated from Ludlowe-Castle, the 27 of December, 1620. fol. 531.

Recommending Sir Henrie Carewe Comptroller of his Majesties Household to be one of their Burgesse; upon the earnest Entreaty of the Prince his Counsell, brought to him in his Highnes Name.

125. Draught of a Letter from M^r. William Gamull Maior of Chester, &c. to the Princes Council, A. D. 1620. shewing how ready they were to Eleet Sir Thomas Edmunds for one of their Burgesse in Parliament; but that Mr. Recorder who seemed to comply therewith, & did give Sir Thomas his Vote, by bringing a multitude of the baser people from the Suburbs, such as

Num. 2105.

Laborers & hyred Workmen, Common Beggars, Apprentices, & Forreigners, who had no Votes, and others his Tennants & Servants; & by pressing the Statute of 1 Hen. v. for the Electing of Citizens infranchised & resiant, disabled Sir Thomas, & caused himself to be Elected, together with Mr. Ratcliffe his adherente, a man never employed in any publique Affaires, but euer noted for a Countenancer of Factions, and who had ben convented before the Ordynary for his Non-Conformity. fol. 533.

126. Draught of another Letter from the Maior & Aldermen of Chester, perhaps to the Earl of Northampton; Noted to have been written A. D. 1620. fol. 537.

Shewing their willingness to Eleet (Sir Henry Carewe) the Person recommended by the Princes Council; yet finding him to be vncapable, in regard of the Lawes & Statutes of the Kingdome, the Tenor of the Writte of Election, and the Vsage of that Cittye; they advertise him thereof, that in Case of a Disappointment, His Highnesse might not esteeme them ether Neglectfull, or Vnwillinge to performe his Pleasure.

127. Original Letter from Sir Randle Mainwaring to Mr. Gamull Maior of Chester, 23 Jan. 1620. fol. 539.

Letting him know, that notwithstanding the late Election (if the time had not been overslipped) new Writts might have been procured, according to the Opinions of Sir Robert Heath the Kings Sollicitor, Sir Francis Moore the most antient Star-chamber-man, Sir Thomas Hughes a very antient Council, & Sir Thomas Coventry the Kings Attorney. But now desiring a Certificate from him & his Brethren, as to the Number of Voyces giuen for Sir Thomas Edmonds, or to M^r. Sauvage, or Mr. Recorder, or Mr. Ratcliffe, severally, whereby both the Number & Quality of them so giuen, might haue beene seen exactly.

Here is a Postscript written by the Lord Sauvage, by way of Complement to M^r. Maioreffe.

2114. A thin Heraldical Book in folio, at one End whereof I find,
1. A generall Cathologue of all the Knights made by King James, gathered into a perfect Alphabett, with the place of their Knighthood, the Yeare of our Lord, and the Day of the Moneth; truly Marshallled in their Rancks, from the first Yere of his Majesties Raigne, vntill this present . . . day of March, 1616-17. By turning the Book, & beginning at the other End, I find
 2. Part of an Original Registre of the Officers of Armes, wherein are Entred their Partitions among themselves of Severall Soms of Money which came to them by way of Largeſs from Queen Elizabeth, upon usual Days; or as Benevolence from Noble & Worshipful Persons, upon their Attendance at the Juſts: or as Fees upon the Creation of New Knights: from Twelfth day, 1558-9. to Twelfth day, 1560-1. both included.
- Here Mr. Norroy, (whom I take to have been Laurence Dalton) was accused of having the foule Disease, and of communicating the same to his Wife; and was therefore excluded sometimes from the whole of his Dividend, sometimes from part of it; from going to the Court; & appearing at their Chapters. And here are Instances of the Cutting-off part or the whole Shares of other Officers, as Occasions happened.
3. At fol. 8. is a Copie of a Bill, whereby Raphe Thorowton of Chester Tanner acknowledged himself Debtor to Thomas Tomlinson Cowper, in the Sum of Ten Pounds. Dat. 1 Maye, 1619.

2115. A Book in folio, written by divers Hands, both Antient & Modern; & consisting of several Traſts & loose Papers now bound up together; being, on the outside thus Entitled, Halton-Priviledges, & severall Inquisitions, with other Records concerneinge Cheshire, etc. Of which I shall proceed to give the following brief Account.

1. The Third Randle Holmes Catalogue of the Things of most Note in this Book. At the Beginning. This is followed by
 2. His Fathers Alphabet of the Names of Townes or Lands in Com Cestr. & alibi, as also of other Notes mentioned in this Book; made in December, 1639. And
 3. His Alphabet of Sur-names for this Booke; made the same year.
- What is said of their Making, is to be understood of their being Begun; but since that time they have been finished by other Hands.
- These being dispatched, we come to the Book itself; the First part whereof contains a large & numerous Collection of Writings or Precedents, of different Kinds, relating principally to the County-palatyne of Chester; the most remarkable of which, I take to be these that follow.

2116. An Heraldical Book, consisting of several Rolls & Tracts now bound up together in a small folio opening like a Musick-book. They are,

1. The Armes of our English Nobility, temp. R. Elizabethæ; painted on a narrow Roll of Vellum, now cutt into the Shape of Leaves. fol. 1.
2. Another Roll of Paper, broader than the former; and like it, cutt into Leaves; wherein are the Armes of K. Edward the Confessor; of the King of England; the old Armes of France & Spain; of the old Earls of Chester; and of many antient Cheshire-Families, are rudely depicted. fol. 17.

3. Les Nomes & les Armes des Barons & Chevaliers d'Englitterre en le Temps del Roy Edward le Premier. fol. 23.

These are Painted; and are followed by the Names & Armes of old English Knights, put down according to the Counties wherein they Resided, in the following Order, viz.

4. Norfolke. fol. 30. b.
5. Southfolk. fol. 33.
6. Cambridgeshire. fol. 35.
7. Essex. fol. 36.

34. Staffordshire. fol. 55. b.
35. Northumberland & Cumberland. fol. 56.
36. Chester-shire. fol. 57.

Then follows another Roll cutt into Leaves, containing

37. The Names & Armes of some Foreign Kings; of sundry of our antient Nobles; and of many Worshipful Persons, rudely Written & Painted. fol. 58.

Num. 2116. — 2117.

Among these, I find,

38. Two short Descents of Stanley; and a Note of Armes found in Rayneforde-Chapell. A. D. 1592. fol. 65. b.

Then Come,

39. Armes of the Yorkshire-Gentry; sett down, in Trick, by Way of Alphabet. fol. 74.

40. The Third Randle Holme's Alphabetical Table to the Armes abovementioned. At the End.

2117. A book in small Folio, written by divers Hands, but mostly by the Second Randle Holme & his Son; who, on the out-side, has thus Entituled it, York-shire Deedes, &c. Which being somewhat too General; I shall describe it a little more particularly, as in the following manner,

1. Index Locorum; or an Alphabetical Table of the Names of Places mentioned in this Book. At the Beginning.

2. The Names of the Townes of Yorkshire, with the severall Liberties & Weapontackes wherein they stand. fol. 212.

3. Abbreviationes de Terris in Comitatu Eboracensi; ex Libro de Domesday in Scaccario. fol. 227.

To this Tract is prefix'd an Original Letter of Dr. Richard Keurden (perhaps, to the Second Randle Holme) shewing that he and Mr. T. (whom I take to be Mr. Towneley) were taking great Pains in Collecting the Pedegrees of Cheshire-Families, &c. To which End he had perused the Book of Domesday; and hoped likewise to borrow some Volumes of Mr. Dodsworths Collections of the Lord Fairfax: perhaps, by the meane of Mr. Tilleyson, who is here mentioned.

4. Abstracts of Nine Deeds relating to the Priory of Drax, or to the Church of Bingley; made from the Originals in the Possession of the third Randle Holme, by himself, A. D. 1667. fol. 266.

5. Abstracts of old Deeds relating to Yorkshire, collected by the Second Randle Holme from Mr. Roger Dodsworth's Book marked AA. fol. 269.

In this Tract I likewise find,

6. The Names of fundry Fryeries, Guldes, Chantries, in & adjoyning to the City of Yorke, in former Ages. fol. 274.

7. Nomina quorundam Abbatum Monasterij Ste. Marie Ebor. fol. 274. b.

Then follow,

8. Like Extracts from old Deeds, entred into Mr. Dodsworth's Book BB. fol. 293.

It seems that these were first Collected by St. Lo Kniveton Esq; & then Copied by Richard Gafcoigne Esq; and do concern many other Counties as well as that of Yorkshire; being also taken from Books, and other Records, in part.

9. Collectanea ex Libro composito de Inquisitionibus de Officio captis in Scaccario, ex parte Rememoratoris Regis. fol. 309.

10. Abstracts of Pleas, out of MSS. now in the hands of Mr. Roger Dodsworth, 24 May, 1632; being in Paper in folio, with this Marke Δ in dorso. fol. 314.

11. Abstracts of Pleas, taken from that book of Mr. Dodsworth's above-mentioned at §. 8. fol. 320. b.

Among these Abstracts of Pleas, several might have been particularly noted in this short Catalogue, had not these Abstracts been too concise, or too erroneously Written. However, I take leave, by the by, to just mention two or Three Trials, vizt.

12. That held at the Halymote of Colne, anno 35 R. Henrici vi. before Richard Nevil Earl of Salisbury, then Steward of the Court: where it was pleaded (upon a Claim of an Estate) how Agnes the Widow of John Banastre of York, dicto Johanni viro suo nequiter, perverse, et non feminè disposita, sed calide & subtiliter imaginans qualiter Causam quomodo a Consortio dicti Johannis Separari poterit, acquireret: ita quod per Legem Ecclesiasticam, a Mensa & Thoro suis divorciari poterit: She imposed upon John Bishop of the Isle, by procuring Him to receive & accept of Herself as Com-mater, at his Confirming of her Daughter (whereby, she contracted another Relation to her Husband) fol. 319.

13. That held anno 34 R. Edw. i. when William the Son of John del Heith lost his Estate to his Uncle, quia convictus est per Assisam istam, quod predictus Johannes del Heith nunquam disponavit predictam Katherinam in facie Ecclesie; per quod sequitur, quod predictus Willelmus nihil Juris clamare potest in predictis Tenementis. Yet a Sort of Mariage had been celebrated between them. For John being Sick, the Vicar of Plumstede advised him, for his Souls health, to marry the said Katherine his Concubine, by whom he had two Daughters: Whereupon, this John, in his own House, coram Vicario, predictam Katerinam spontanea Voluntate sua affidavit, et Annulum digito ipsius Katherine imposuit, et verba consueta ad Matrimonium contrahendum, absq; Missæ celebratione, pronuntiavit; eo quod, propter debilitatem, ad Ecclesiam accedere non potuit; et ipsam ex tunc, ad totam Vitam ipsius Katherine, pro Uxore tenuit; et postea procreavit filium, nomine Willelmum, de ipsa Katherine. fol. 339.

The last I shall now mention, is

14. That of John Devereux, who (anno 29 R. Edwardi i.) would not be compelled by Margery the Daughter of Philip de la Walles, to Marry her, against his own Will. fol. 341.

2118. An Heraldical Book in smal folio, written by divers Hands, during the Reign of K. Charles i. as it seems to me; and by the third Randle Holme, on the Back, entituled Yorkshire-Pedegrees: wherein I find,

1. A Collection of Pedegrees of Yorkshire-Families, which are ranged together in Alphabetical Order, (as the Heralds & Armes-painters understand it) that is, regarding only the first Letter of their Sur-names. fol. 1.

2. A like Collection of Pedegrees of good Families residing within the Bishoprick of Durham. fol. 35. b.

3. Yorkshire Descents Alphabetically: that is, a larger and different Collection from the former, ranged in the like Order. fol. 48.

It may be observed that the said Randle Holme has made divers Additions & Continuations to each of these Traçts; and has brought down some of the Pedegrees as low as the time of the Restauration, or lower.

2119. A Book in smal folio, consisting of Papers as well Loose, as Bound; written by many Hands, and on the out-side, by the third Randle Holme, VOL. II.

Num. 2119.

entituled Cheshire-Pedegrees, &c. which Title, although it may give a Notion of the Subject-matter treated of therein, in the general; I shall, nevertheless, endeavor to describe the same somewhat more particularly, in the manner that followeth. As,

1. Notes touching the severall Heraldical Visitations of Cheshire; when made, & by whom. fol. 1. b. & fol. 6.

2. List of such Gentlemen whose Decents seem to have been Registred Gratis, at the Visitation of Shropshire, A. D. 1663. fol. 2. according to my new Numeration with black Lead; as are all that follow.

3. List of some of those Persons names who were concerned with the Lord Cobham against K. James i. and in the Gun-powder-Treason-plot. fol. 2. b.

4. The Names of such Esquires as Entred their Descents & Armes, in the Visitation of Shropshire taken anno 1663 (by William Dugdale Norroy) some of them having that Title, as Justices of Peace. fol. 3.

This is begun by Sir William Dugdale's own hand; and continued by that of another.

5. The Names of such Esquires as did Enter their Names & Armes, in the Visitation of Cheshire (made by the same Norroy, & by Mr. Elias Ashmole Windsor-Herald, his Son in Law) anno 1663; some of them having that Title as Justices of Peace. fol. 3. b.

This is Written & Continued by the same Hands as the former.

6. List of some Cheshire-Gentlemens Names; like that above-mentioned at n^o. 2. & by the same Hand. fol. 4.

7. Alphabetical Tables containing the Sur-names of those Families whose Pedegrees were described in certain Rolls belonging to the third Randle Holme of Chester. fol. 8.

8. Pedegrees written within several of the said Mr. Holmes Books of Deeds. fol. 15.

Then follows

9. The main Collection of Cheshire-Pedegrees, begun by the Second Randle Holme, & carried on by divers others; with Continuations to late Years by Randle Holme the Third. fol. 18.

Among which, I observe,

10. The Names of the Manors, Lordships, Townes, & Lands, which Sir Geoffrey Sonne of Adam de Dutton gave away among his Gentlemen, Yeomen, &c. fol. 19. b.

This was on the back-side of Duttons Pedegree, which the second Randle Holme had of Sir Thomas Aston.

11. A Descent of Dutton, noted to be Very False, though it was Confirmed by William Flower Norroy, & by Chester Harauld his Marshall. fol. 20. b.

12. Original Letter of Henry Travers to the Third Randle Holme, or his Son, Dated 16 November, 1699. and exhorting him to be just to his young Nephew George. fol. 29.

13. Copie of the said Mr. Holme's Certificate touching the Truth of Alderseys Pedegrees; 11 Jan. 1699. fol. 29. b.

14. Copie of the Patent of Laurence Dalton Norroy, granted to Sir Thomas Venables Knight, Baron of Kinderton, whereby the Armes (with the Augmentation of a Dragon) and the Crest, being a Demy-Dragon, were Confirmed to him & his Family: 2 November, 1560. fol. 36.

Num. 2119.

Here it is fabled, that in the time of Thomas Venables of Golborne in the County of Chester Gentleman, hitt chancyd a terrible Dragon to remayne & make his abode in the Lordshippe of Moston in the County of Chester; where he devowred all such persons as he layd hold on. Which the said Venables hearinge tell of, confyderinge the pittypfull and dayly Destruction of the people, without Recouery (in following the Example of the valiant Romaines, & other worthy men; not regarding His own Life, in comparison of the Commodity & Safegarde of his Countrey-men) did in his one person valiantly & couragiously set-on the said Dragon. Where first he shott him throw with an Arrow, and afterward, with othere Weapons, manfully slewe him: att which instant tyme, the said Dragon was devowringe of a Child. For which worthy & valiant Act, was giuen him the Lordship of Moston, by the Auncestors of the Earle of Oxford, Lord of the Fee there. And also euer since, the said Thomas Venables & his Heires, in Remembrance thereof, haue used to beare as well in his Armes, & in their Crest, a Dragon. —

Upon occasion of this Story, I beg leave to make one Reflection; which is, that sundry Families of great Antiquity & Splendor, & well known to have been in chief rank in their several Counties, for many Generations; with which Glory their Posterity might have been well contented: have, nevertheless, attempted to out-shine their Neighbours, by adding a glistring & false Light to their native Lustre, borrowed from Ignorance & Imposture; and which upon the first attentive View of any Judicious Person, not only disappears, but leaves a sort of misty Doubtfulness, upon what was before apparent, granted, & respected: as in the Case before us of Venables & his Dragon. Which I shall endeavor to match by another Dragon-quelling Story, which is too gross to need any Confutation. I find it in the MS. No. 2118. at fol. 39. and it is in the Words following. Sir Jo. Conyers de Stockburne Knt. whose slew the monstrous, venom'd, & poyson'd Wiverne, Ask, (Asp?) or Worme, which overthrew & devour'd many People in Fight. For the Scent of the Poyson was so strong, that noe Person was able to abide it. Yet He (by the Providence of God) overthrew it; and lyes buried at Stockburne, before the Conquest. But before he did enterpryse it (haueing but one Child) he went to the Church in compleate Armour; and offer'd up his Sonne to the Holy Ghost. Which Monument is yet to See; and the place where the Serpent lay, is called Graystone. — Thus, in the same MS. at fol. 34. the Family of Welby is said to be derived from Jo: d'ns Cayston alias Welby, who took part with Iptney Earle de Reilvoir contra Willelmum Conq. anno Domini, 1066. — Thus in the Narrative Pedegree of Hamden of Hamden, (to be found in the Visitation-books of Buckinghamshire) I find these Words at the Beginning, Hit was soe that there was a Commission at Hampden, directed to Hampden as a Commissioner, to helpe to putt out the Danys — Thus, the Family of Ashburnham derive themselves from one Bertram de Ashburnham, whom they pretend to have been King Harold's General of the Horse, against William the Conqueror; and caused a Print, as of his Effigies to be inserted into Blome's Edition of Gwyllim's Display of Heraldry, which came out A. D. 16.. where this valiant Bertram is represented in Armor, with a Scarf upon it, and a sort of Collar-Band; all as usually worn in the Reign of K. Charles the First. I could mention several other Pedegrees remarkable in this Way, (without examining into the Roll of Battel-Abbey) but think what is now remarked, may suffice.

1. An old Law-Common place-book, in Law-French.

2. The Answer of Reliēt of Richard Bagnall, to the Exceptions taken against her Husbands Estate. At the End.

2124. A Book in small folio, incorreſtly tranſcribed per Jacobum Miller, A. D. 1607. being a Copie of the Plays or Interludes which were wont to be publicly performed by the Citizens of Cheſter; of which I have before made ſome Mention, in my Deſcription of the MS. 96. A. 1. where the Plays are the ſame as in this Exemplar (the Prologue or Banes excepted, which are not here) and therefore need not be repeated in this Catalogue; there being likewise a Table referring to them all at the End of the Book.

To this Book ſome-body hath prefixed a ſort of Title & Tradition (different from that which the ſecond Randle Holme added to the other) which are expreſſed in theſe Words. The Whitſun playes firſt made by one Don Randle Heggnet o Monke of Cheſter Abbey who was thiſe at Rome before he could obtaine leaue of the Pope to haue them in the Engliſh tongue. The Whitſun playes were playd openly in pageants by the Cittizens of Cheſter in the Whitſun Weeke. Nicholas the fiſt then was Pope (in the year of our Lord 1447, added) Sir Henry Francis ſometyme a Monke of the Monastery of Cheſter, obtained of Pope Clemens a thouſand daies of pardon, and of the Biſhop of Cheſter 40 dayes, for euery perſon that reſorted peaceably to ſee the ſame playes and that euery perſon that diſturbed the ſame to be accuſed by the ſaid Pope, vntill ſuch tyme as they ſhould be abſolued thereof. This ſeems to have been written An^c, 1628.

2125. A Book in folio written by ſeveral Hands (but principally by the ſecond and third Randle Holme) and treating almoſt wholly about the City of Cheſter & its Affairs: wherein, not to inſiſt upon every minute Article, I find,

1. The third Randle Holme's Catalogue of the Things of chiefſt Note in this booke. At the beginning.

This ſeems to have been taken with a View of uſing the Book as a Cheſter Man, who was curious as to the Hiſtory & Antiquities thereof: which I not thinking to be ſo proper to be followed here; ſhall make only theſe Obſervations, in turning over the ſame.

2. A Liſt of certain Learned Men borne in Cheſter; & of ſome of our Engliſh Hiſtorians born in other places. fol. 180. b.

3. Breife Notes of the Antiquitye of the famous Cittye of Cheſter: with the Succeſſion of Mayors & Sheriffes ſince Sir Walter Lynett Knighte was Firſt Mayor; with many Additions, and Continuations of Tranſactions, by the ſecond Randle Holme, to the 5 of October, 1651. fol. 181. (et vid. fol. 258. & 268. et vid. fol. 271. & fol. 346.)

Then follows the Annals of Chester, or Succession of the Maiors & Sheriffes abovementioned at No. 3. and which may be a little faulty, especially at the beginning. It is called Geo. Bellen's Catalogue. fol. 197.
The last Tract is succeeded by another containing much what the same Matter with what hath been mentioned before in several Articles, where (to avoid Repetition) I have referred to this. Yet I find here, fresh,
14. Some account of the ould Churches in Chester, now ruinated. fol. 267.
In another Series of the Maiors & Sheriffes of Chester (beginning at fol. 271.) from A. D. 1257. to A. D. 1705. being continued by the Second Randle Holme, his Son, Grandson, &c. with Notes of remarkable Occurences, like the former, I observe, 15. A Lampoon made by Mr. Geo. Bostock of Churton, upon Mr. Edward Button, who was Maior of Chester, A. D. 1616. between the Leaves 305. & 306. loose.
16. Original Letter of the Lord Viscount Savage to the first Randle Holme then Maior of Chester, Dated 9 Aug. 1634. fol. 308.
He writes very kindly; and promises to interpose his good Offices with the Earl Marshall (Thomas Howard) in Case he should have conceived any disagreeable Thoughts towards the City in General, or him in particular.
17. Narration of the Matter of Fact, as it passed, whereby that Great Peer thought himself affronted by Mr. Maior above-mentioned (as to which, more may be seen in the Book 96. B. 22. fol. 32. 2.) fol. 309. b.

1. His Account of the Things of most Note in this Booke; taken, anno 1668. At the Begining.
 2. A Collection of the Maiors who haue governed this Cittie of Chester. fol. 471.
It may be observed that the Collector hath prefixed to it, many Notes relating to the Scituation & Description as well of the Shire, as of the Citie; and to the Antiquitie of the Cittie, with the Priveledges & Grauntes to the same, both from the Erles thereof, and allso from the Kinges of this Realme: which he hath borrowed from Speeds Chronicle; the Chronicle of Wales; Stowe's Chronicle; the Collections of the Worthie & Grave Citizen Mr. William Aldersay the Elder, Marchant; and other Authorities.
The Succession of Maiors has a short Preface prefixed by the said Randle Holme; and begins at fol. 487. The Method observed by the Writer all along, is different from that of other Books of this kind. He divides his Work into Eight parts, and putts the same into as many Columns, which are wider or narrower, according as the Matter required. Into the First, he putts the Year of our Lord; the Second, gives the several Months of the Year; the Third, shewes Easter-Day & the Dominicall Letter; The Fourth, the Goulden Number. The Fifth, declares the Day of the Month the Kings Yeare began, The Sixth, offers the current Years of the Kings Raigne; The Seventh, remembers you of the Number of Years passed, at the Time when these Annals were made; & the Eighth furnisbeth you with elsewhere in Cheshire, within five Miles of the said City; and all Arrearages of Rents due for the same Lands. As alsoe to receive all such Sommes of Money as are due to Citizens of London as are Rebels, or to others in Rebellion, or adhering or contributing to the Rebels. All which Moneys they were required to dispose & distribute to & for the maintenance of his Garrison in the City & Castle of Chester; and likewise towards the Entertainment of Sir Abraham Shipman Knight, Commander there.

2. Original Letter of that Lord Digby (as it seemes, for his Name is not subscribed) to the same Mr. Holme Maier of Chester, Dated from Oxford, 9 November, 1643.

Shewing that the Kings entrusting them with the whole disposing of the Estates of disaffected Persons, was a thing of so much Consequence, that if it were well Husbanded, it would very farre exceede the ordinary Pay & Charges of the Garrison. And that His Majesty had said that He (Mr. Holme) who was Treasurer so well for the City last Yeare; must needes be a good Treasurer for Him & the City this yeare.

3. Original Letter from His Majesty, & Counter-signed by Sir Edward Nicholas, to the Maier, Aldermen & Inhabitants of Chester; Given at Oxford, the 13th of November, 1643.

That, upon the approach of the Rebels, he had giuen Order to Sir Abraham Shipman to command in Cheif there. That for their releif, he had designed considerable & present force, which he hoped would be tymly with them from feuerall parts; not doubting but that they would take Course by all waies to defend the Citty; and that their owne Observation had taught them that it had bin costly & disadvantageous to those Citties, who hauing bin lost, haue (vpon necessity of the Place) bin regained by Him.

4. Original Letter of James Butler Earle of Ormonde, & Lord Lieutenant of Ireland: Given at the Castle of Dublin, the 3d of February, 1643. to the same Maier of Chester. fol. 1.

Recommending a Band of Souldiers sent from Ireland, to His good fauour & Care, for their fitting Accommodation, in Case the Lord Byron should be (vpon any imployment abroad) absent, at the tyme of their Arrivall.

5. Draught of a Letter from the Kings Commissioners appointed to Sell the forfeited Estates of the Rebels in or near Chester; to Sir Thomas Smith, Sir Orlando Bridgman, Sir Robert Brerewood, K^{ts}. & to Colonell Francis Gamull, then with K. Charles 1. at Oxford. fol. 2. Complaining of the heavy Burden lying upon the Citizens by the Free-billeting of 1000 Souldiers upon them. That the Nobility, Gentry, & Clergy, utterly refuse to contribute toward the maintenance of the Garrison: that the Irish Strangers are excused; that the meaner Sort being now grown unable; and the forfeited Estates producing little; the burden lay upon the remaining Citizens, who likewise would be soon undone. That as to the Commissioners, some utterly refused to Act; others were Absent; Mr. Maier Sick; and the daily execution of the Commission devolved upon four of them, who therefore were obliged to neglect their own Affairs. For which reason, the

Num. 2135.

Citizens desired to be eased as to the Free Quartering of Souldiers upon them; and that a new Commission might be issued out, and a greater number of Commissioners appointed.

6. Draught of a Letter from the Maier, Aldermen, & Sheriffes of Chester, to Prince Rupert, then at Shrewsbury. fol. 5. b.

Upon occasion of his Warant to the Commissioners of Array, for Impressing of 500 Men within the City & County Palatine of Chester, for his Majesties Service. Representing, that K. Henry the VIII. had, by his Graunt (anno Regni, 14.) exempted their City from any such Impressing; and that they found, when it was last beleaguer'd, that they wanted Men sufficient for the Defence of the Works; although its Situation was such, as to be the Key of Ireland, & the Bulwark of North-Wales.

7. A printed Representation from the Commissioners of Scotland; Dated, 24 February, 1640. fol. 7. b.

Shewing their Detestation of Episcopacy; and that they long to see Justice done upon the Lieutenant of Ireland (the Earl of Strafford) it being better that One perish then Vnity: That is, than their Combination with the Seditious here should cease.

8. Original Letter of Earl of Ormonde, to the Second Randle Holme Maier of Chester; Dated, 15 November, 1643. fol. 8.

Requiring him to take Care that the Souldiers vnder the Command of Sr. Fulke Hunnckes, Sir Michell Ernle, Collonell Gibson, & Collonell Byron (upon their Landing from Ireland) be conveniently Quartered, and accommodated with such Necessaries & Provisions as are fitt: whereby they may be the better inabled & encouraged to doe his Majestie Service.

9. Original Letter from the same noble Lord, to the same Maier; dated 1 December, 1643. fol. 10.

Recommending to his Care, another parte of his Majesties Army, vnder the Command of Collonell Robert Byron, & Collonell Henry Warren, upon their Landing at the Port of Chester.

10. Copie of a Letter from Prince Rupert, to the Bishop of Chester: dated from Leuerpoole, 16 June, 1644. fol. 11.

Desiring him to promote a Collection throughout his Diocese, for the Relief of the Kings Officers & Souldiers wounded in the late Service; and to pay the moneys so collected, to Sir Francis Gamull Lieutenant-Governor of Chester. And that since the Kings Army was to be withdrawen from those parts, if the Rebels should attempt to take possession of the Countrey, his Clergy should exhort all persons to prepare for their own Defence; and not to adhere to, or partake with the sayd Rebels in their Persons or Estates.

11. Copie of the Kings Letter to the Cittie; Given 4 Decr. 1645. fol. 12. (from Oxford)

That he would, with all possible Speed send the Lord Ashley or Sir Charles Lucas, or both, with considerable forces, to their Assistance, being Besieged. But, it seemes, this was not done.

12. Copie of his Majesties Brief, Given at Oxford, 27 May, anno regni, 20. fol. 14.

This was for applying all Moneys collected for the Relief of his British Subjects in Ireland and remaining in the Officers Hands (by the mean of John Watson Arch-deacon of Leighlin) toward the Support of Trinity-College in Dublin, which was then in such a distressed & miserable Condition that without speedie Reliefe, it was like to be Dissolved.

13. Attested Copie of King Henry VIIIths Placard (abovementioned at No. 6) against the Impressing of any of the Inhabitants of the City of West-Chester. fol. 15.

14. Original Letter of Thomas Wilbraham, to his Cousin Dated 9 October, 1642. fol. 17.

That upon the quelling of the Tumult lately raised at Namptwich, besides the Losse & Terroure that Towne had sustained by the late devouring Troopes; the King had imposed a Fine of £2000. upon it, without making any Distinction betweene the Innocent & the Guilty. And that it was thought that at the Assizes, the Towne would be Indicted, and severely proceeded against. That his Name had been foisted into the Catalogue of the Guilty, although He could prove that He & all his Servants were absent at the time of the said Tumult. He therefore desires his Cousin to draw up a petition to the King, setting forth his particular Services, to the End that he might be sever'd from the Delinquents, and not pay for their fault.

15. Original Letter of John Lord Byron to the Kings Commissioners & Sequestrators, for the Cittie of Chester. Dated at Chester, 29 Aprilis, 1644. fol. 18.

Desiring them, from the Money remayning in their Hands of the Profitts of Delinquents Lands Sequestred, to pay £60. to Sir Abraham Shipman, in part of the Moneys due unto him.

16. Original Warant of Prince Rupert, to the Maior & Sheriffes of Chester; dated at Leuerpoole 18 June, 1644. fol. 20.

This was for making Proclamation of a late Imposition by way of Excise, laid upon Commodities, by the aduice of the Lords & Commons assembled at Oxford, and putting the Book of Rates, & the Kings Patent relating thereunto, into Execution.

17. Original Letter of Prince Rupert, to the Maior, Sheriffes, & Aldermen of Chester, dated at Whitchurch, 19 May, 1644. fol. 22.

Requiring them to receive his Sergeant-Major & Generall of his Ordnance William Legge, as Governor of their City; and punctually to obserue & follow such Instructions as he should deliver vnto them for the regulating of that Government.

18. Original Warant of Prince Rupert, to the Maior & Aldermen of Chester; Given at Liverpoole, 11 June, 1644. fol. 23. b.

Commanding them to make & settle a Rate & Assessment upon all their Inhabitants, for the Maintenaunce & Pay of the Souldiers of the Regiment of the said Cittie, & the Officers of the same; as likewise of the Officers & Mynisters of the Garrison; and to pay the Moneys to their Govenor.

19. Draught of the Kings Commission appointing the Maior of Chester & others to be Sequestrators of the Delinquents Lands & Estates, and the Money thence accruing, to be for payment of the Garrison there. fol. 25.

Num. 2135.

20. Original Letter of Sir? William Legge to the Maior & Aldermen of Chester, Dat. 17 April, 1644. fol. 27.

Acquainting them that Prince Rupert did very well allow of their Exemption from Pressing any the Inhabitants of that City. Only he desired them to take Order with such loose persons as were fled thither from other Quarters, & liued out of Command, that they should be sent to such Companies as they formerly serued under in his Majesties Service.

21. Original Warant of Prince Rupert, to the Maior & Sheriffes of Chester, & to the Constable of the Castle of Chester. Given, at Chester, 13 March, 1643. fol. 29.

Requiring, that the Prysoners in the Castle of Chester be removed into another Prison. That they should punctually obey all Orders they should receiue from John Lord Byron his Feild-Marshal Generall: And to give an Accompt of all the Money raised out of the Delinquents Estates, which was appointed towards the raising & mainteyning the Fortifications of their Cittie, to the said Lord Byron.

22. Original Letter of James Bishopp, & others (Signed also by the Bishop of Meath) to the Maior & Aldermen of Chester, Dated from Trinity College in Dublin, 6 November, 1643. fol. 31.

In the Behalf of Dr. Robert Maxwell, &c. who endeavoring to Collect Moneys for the Relief of that then miserably-afflicted College, were traduced as if they acted without the warant of the said College.

23. A small Tract written by the Second Randle Holme, shewing by particular Faets, 1 How the Cittie of Chester came to be so greatly impoverished. 2. What great Grievances the Citizens had suffered. 3. Proposals for Redresse of the same. fol. 33. (see more of his Papers relating to the same Affairs, at fol. 46.)

24. Original Letter of Mr. Robert Brerewood Recorder of Chester, to the Maior & Aldermen there. Dated at Oxford the 15th of February 1643. fol. 36.

Acquainting them that the King had made him one of his Judges of the Kings Bench, by reason whereof he was to attende in the Lords House of Parliament as an Assistant, and therefore desires them to excuse his Absence as Recorder. That the Kings Proceedings are approved by the greater parte of the Lords and Commons there assembled; soe that that Sclander cast vpon his Majestie, that he proceeded by ill Councillours, is cleerly taken off. That of the House of Commons there were about 140. and at London but 117. whereof 17 were looked vpon as malignant as any at Oxford. That there were 45 of the Lords House; and at London but 18. or thereabouts.

25. Original Letter of Sir Francis Gamul to Randle Holme Maior of Chester. Dated at Oxford, 13 February, 1643. fol. 38.

Shewing that he had receiued a faythful assurance of his Majesties Grace & Favour to the Cittie. That his Expressions were full of indulgent Regard to all who haue acted their Alleigeance there. But if any should draw back from theare Dutye, & suffer a small Occasion (i. e. a late defect by Fairfax) to raise a high

- Discontent; they might helpe to destroy a good Cause by wilfull Negligence, or stubborne Disobedience. That when Prince Rupert should come to Chester, he would answer just Petitions with Wisdome and Favour; having nobly promised to respect the Citty, &c.
26. Original Letter Patent of the above-mentioned Lord Byron, to the Maior & Aldermen Commissioners for the Garrison of Chester. Dated the 25 of March, 1644. fol. 40.
Requiring them to pay to Sir Abraham Shipman Lieutenant-Governor of Chester, the halfe Yeares Rents & Profitts of St. William Bretons Sequestred Lands, lying neare to the Coye.
27. A Breviat of Examinations for clearing the Maior, Aldermen, & Citizens of Chester from the Plott. 22 June, 1648. fol. 42.
This is Signed by Robert Duckenfield. The Plott, it seems, was affirmed to betray the City & Castle; but nothing is fastened upon the Maior or his Brethren.
28. Copie of a Letter from K. Charles I. to Prince Rupert, Given at Oxford, 13 February, 1643. fol. 44.
Recommending Collonell Francis Gamull (who raised a Regiment of Foote for his Service; and with the same had, with much Faithfulness and Resolution, defended the City of Chester, when it was attempted by the Rebels) to the Princes Care and Favour: willing that the said Collonell might not suffer any wrong or Disadvantage, in his said Regiment during his Absence. And that if the Prince should thinke fitt to make him Governour of Chester, He should very well approve of the Choice.
29. A Remonstrance or Declaration of vs the Inhabitants of the County Pallattyn of Chester, whose names are Subscribed, and of many more. fol. 51.
For the maintenance of His Majesties Royall and Sacred Person, Honor, & Prerogative; and preservation of the Parliament, & the Priviledges thereof; and of our true & undoubted Religion, Lawes, Properties, & Liberties.
30. Copy of the Kings Instructions to Prince Rupert: for taking fines of Delinquents, in Order to their Pardon and Restitution to their Estates: for Sequestering the Lands of Rebels; for taking Accompts of his anticipated Revenues; for receiving all publique Moneys remaining in the Hands of Collectors, &c. for leavying Monethly Contributions. Given at Oxford the fifth day of February, A. D. 1643. fol. 52.
31. Copie of the humble Petition of diverse of his Majesties Loyall Subjects within the Cittie of Chester, to the Lords and Gentlemen now in the Commission of Array, to be Executed in this Cittie. fol. 55.
Shewing, that they hearing of the said Commission, and conceiuing it to be in the Judgement of the Parliament, Illegal, contrary to Their expresse Ordinance and Orders; as alsoe of very dangerous Consequence: doe humbly pray that the Execution thereof may be stayed.
32. A Note of the joyfull Assent given by many who putt themselves into a Posture of Armes, at the Seditious Training at Knutesford, 30 June, 1642. for none other End and Purpose but

Num. 2135.

- for the joynt Defence of his Matie. & the Park together. fol. 55.
33. Original Letter of the Earle of Ormonde, to the Second Randle Holme, Maior of Chester, as it seemes: dated from Dublin, 2 December 1643. fol. 56.
Recommending another Band of Soldiers sent for the Kings Service in England, to his Care for good Accommodation; and requiring his Assistance and Furtherance toward the Reviuall of the Fleet that should bring them.
34. Copies of some Letters from E. to Sir William Brereton, during his Seige of Chester, in January, 1645. all relating to his Summoning, and the Surrendring of the same. fol. 57.
35. Original Letter from Sir William Legge the Governor, to Mr. Randle Holme the Maior of Chester; 24 Aug. 1644. fol. 60.
Acquainting him that he had given Order to Stoppe all Cattle & Prouision from goinge out of Towne; and desiring him to haue a speciall Eye to the preservation of the Markett. fol. 60.
36. Copie of a Warant, perhaps of the Governor & Magistrates of Chester; Given, 24 June, 1644. fol. 62.
Requiring the Inhabitants of all the Townes adjacent, to bring in their Provision of Victualls (as Butter, Cheefe, Bacon, Muttons, Veales, & Corne) for the Support of the Garrison, & the Releife of them that, by the Enemie shall be enforced to forsake the said Townes.
37. Original Warant of John Lord Byron to Randle Holme Alderman, & William Williams Muster-master, in Chester. Given, the 19th of November, 1645. fol. 63.
Requiring them to seize all Horses vnfit & vn-able for the Service, or Dutie in that Garrison, and to turne them into the Roodee, where they would be able to liue till the Citie be relieued, and preuent the vnneccessarie Destruction of the Provisions.
38. Original Petition of Ralph Wilcoxon, to the Second Randle Holme Maior of Chester. fol. 64.
It seems that this fellow had thrown down the Cross at Chester, or endeavored so to do; for which he was laid in Gaol; he pretends to have been a Sufferer for the Royal Cause; and that being a Stranger in Chester, he knew not the Situation of the Crosse, and (being in the Darke) did not discern any forme of a Crosse, much lesse of any Crowne, or Armes thereon, and how infirme the Crosse was.

 5. Alphabetical Table, to the Armes of Families extant in this Book. fol. 146. b.
 6. Table of the Names of those Families, whose Armes are abovementioned at §. 1.
 7. Alphabetical Table to the Pedegrees Entred into this Book. fol. 153.
 8. Order of the Funeral of the Lord Mordant, at Turville in Bedfordshire, 16 Maye, 1571. fol. 155.
 9. The Names of all the Gentlemen, being In-heritores, within the Countey of Lincolne. fol. 156.
Here is likewise a Valuation of their Estates; I suppose, according to what they were Taxed; for none exceed 500 Markes.
 10. List of the Shireves of Lincolneshire, down to ann. 17 R. Jacobi 1. fol. 158. b.
2146. An Heraldical Book in folio, written by several Hands, but principally by that of the Second Randle Holme; whose Son, the Third of that Name, hath (on the Out-Side) bestowed this Title upon it, Pedegrees of severall places. And I, in turning it over, do find therein,
1. The Third Randle Holme's Alphabetical Table, directing to the Pedegrees here Sett down. fol. 1.
 2. His Alphabetical Table of the Names of those Families whose Coates of Armes are Entred here. fol. 4.
 3. His Alphabetical Table giving the Names of Places here remembred. fol. 7.
Then comes
 4. The Collection itself, which is very numerous; and afford's both shorter Descents & larger Pedegrees of Families of many Counties (especially of Cheshire and Staffordshire) in no Order, but mixed all together; some of which are strengthned with Notes taken from Old Deeds & Records; and in some places, with Church-Notes. fol. 11.
Among these I also observe,
 5. A Confirmation of Armes & Crest to Robert Gardiner of Lankashire Gentleman, & Yemon for the Mouth to the King, by Gilbert Dethicke al's Norroy principall Herauld & King of Armes. Yeuen, 15 April, anno 3 R. Edw. vi. fol. 24.
 6. Original Letter of Mr. Ed. Bromley to the Third Randle Holme, but without Date of the year. fol. 70. A.
Shewing his Displeasure in that Mr. Holme had sent him Escocheons, with a Difference in his Armes, which he bare with none.

- Holme, for his Trumpet-Banners. 15 February, 1694. fol. 72. c.
10. Two Original Letters of Mr. Edward Legh of Bagulegh, to the same; June, 1680. fol. 72. d. About his Trumpet-Banners, and some Mistakes Mr. Holme had made about them.
 11. Original Letter of J. Lowe, to the same; dated 12 April, 1692. fol. 95. b. Shewing that Exceptions had been made, & Complaints to the Heralds Office above, at the Interment of Mr. Mottershed with Escocheons, notwithstanding that he had left a very full & plentiful Estate, and his Ancestors use of the like; therefore desires that some Enquiry might be made.
 12. Original Letter of Joane Hollinshed, to the same; dated, 5 April, 1692. fol. 95. c. About the same Affair.
 13. Mr. Holmes Answer, in favor to that Family, and their Right to bear Armes.
 14. Original Letter of Sir Peter Leicester, to the same. Dated 20 November, 1672. fol. 108. c. Desiring a Descent of Mobberley, (from whom he was descended) as judging that the account he had given thereof in his Book, was imperfect. fol. 108. c.
 15. Another from the same, to the same. Dated 24 February, 1672. fol. 108. d. Randle had desired Mr. Leicester to help him to one of his Bookes at an easy rate; which would not do: the other directs where he might, for his Money be supplied. Then he desires Randle to search again about the Descent of Mobberly; I suppose for nothing.
 16. Confirmation of Armes & Creaft to Henry Muskett of Halston in the County of Suffolke, Gent. by Robert Cooke, Esq; alias Clarencieux, principall Hereaulte & Kinge of Armes; 13 September, 1576. fol. 120.
 17. Original Letter of Sylvanus Morgan, of London, Painter-Stainer, to the same; dated, 20 December 1681. fol. 128. A. Here is a Descent of Naylor, with the Armes of those of Kent, & of Huntingdon.

2147. A Book in folio; seeming, in the Time of Queen Elizabeth, to have been the Debt-Book of Laurence Walden a Corn-Merch^t. at Kings Lynne in Norfolk; after whose Death probably, it came into the Hands of Jacob Chaloner, & so to the Second Randle Holme, and afterward to his Son; who has on the Outside thus entituled it, Descents & Coates of Divers Shires. These three persons last mentioned have written much on the vacant Places of the said Book, and also pasted upon, or otherwise added many Pedegrees, Descents, & Fragments, written by themselves & many others, among which I can perceive some of them to be of the Hands of Augustin Vincent, Sampson Lennard, Richard Mundy, &c. So that the whole may be called
1. A Rhapsodical Collection of Descents, & Armes, English, Welsh, & Irish; with some other Notes Miscellaneous.
At the Beginning, is

Agmen etiam cogit
 3. Ejusdem Index Locorum, à folio 53. pariter incipiens.
2149. A Book in folio, written chiefly by the Second Randle Holme, and finished by his Son, or by his Direction; who also hath on the Out-side given it the Title following, Aunciant Euidence, and other Writtings concerninge severall Cheshire Familyes, &c. all which I shall briefly account for under these heads.
1. The third Randle Holme's Table of those Gentlemens Names whose Evidences are here abbreviated.
At the Beginning,
 2. His Table of other Remarkables to be found in this Book. ibid.
Then follows, the
 3. Index Locorum; begun by his Son, or Apprentice, as it should seem; & finished by himself. Now comes the Work itself, which seems to have been begun by the Second Randle, A. D. 1636.
Herein I observe,
 4. Some Texts of Scripture alledged by him to evince the Lawfulness of Pedegrees & Armes; the Right of Inheritance; that Townes & Villages took Names from the Possessor: Examples of Burialls & Monuments: with two Notes, one from Mr. Lambard against them that take away Coat-Armors, or Grave-stones from Churches: the other from the Proclamation of 5 Hen. v. against Usurpers of Armes. fol. 1.
 5. The Second Randle Holmes Descent of divers Honorable Families who have shared in the Barony of Wich-Malbank (i. e. Namptwick) by reason of the Division of the same; as he made it for Robert Viscount Cholmondeley, A. D. 1632. fol. 2. b.

CATALOGVS LIBRORVM MSS.

Num. 2150. — 2152.

38. An Account of the Seals, Books, & Plate deliver'd to William Sparke Maior of Chester, by the Treasurers there, 12 Oct. 1632. fol. 341. b. 344. b.
 39. Another, to Mr. William Ince, Mayor. Dat. 14 October, 1642. fol. 346. b.
 40. Draught of an Inscription to be putt upon the Picture of Mr. John Vernon Merchant of the Staple in London; wherein his Benefactions to the City of Chester, where he was borne, are particularly recited. fol. 349.
 41. Notes about his, & others Benefactions to the same City. fol. 350.
 42. What the severall Companies gave, towards a Bell or Cup, to be Run for at St. George's Race. fol. 354.
 43. The manner of the Showe to be exhibited publickly, on St. Georges day, 1610. fol. 356. (by Robert Amory)
 44. Translation of K. Henry VIIths. Charter to the City of Chester. fol. 357.
 45. The general Assessment made A. D. 1576. for a Stock for the Poore, when the Howse of Correction or New-howse was Erected, according to the Statute of 15 of Eliz. fol. 368.
 46. The auntient Forme & Payments toward the Mid-somer Watch or Shew. fol. 372. Here are other Papers about that Shew; with some Originals about the Giants, &c.
 47. Original Letter of John Williams to the Third Randle Holme, Dated 28 June, 1703. desiring him to marke out vpon a peice of Paper Sir Paul Pyndars Fathers & Mothers Armes: which he did accordingly. fol. 387.
2151. An Heraldical Book in folio, almost wholly written & Tricked by the Third Randle Holme, who on the Back hath entituled it Cheshire Monuments. Indeed here is a large Collection of Armes, Epitaphs, and other Inscriptions found in Cheshire; many of which may now be lost & perished. Part of these Mr. Holme copied from the Books of Mr. Sampson Erdeswike & others; the rest he added from his own Eie-sight, as occasions offer'd. I shall say no further of it, than that it contains,
1. His Observation or Division of Tombs into sundry Ranks or Classes; taken from the Cutts of them in Printed books, such as Dugdales Warwickshire, & St. Pauls, Thoroton's Nottinghamshire, Wright's Rutlandshire, &c. within the first Cover.
 2. His Table or List of the severall Churches, which have afforded Notes to this Collection. At the Beginning.
 3. Names of the Halls & Houses, wherein he took other Notes. On the next Page.
 4. The Collection of Church-Notes, beginning with that of Aghton alias Acton, 21 April, 1596. fol. 1.
 5. The Notes taken in Halls & Houses; beginning with Lawton-Hall, A. D. 1587. fol. 150.
2152. An Heraldical Book in folio, written by divers Hands, and (by the Third Randle Holme) on the Back, entituled, Pedegrees: wherein I find,
1. An Alphabetical Table to the Pedegrees Entred within this Book; made anno, 1669. At the Beginning. This Alphabet would have been better, if it had taken in all the Surnames of Families mentioned herein; thus, in fol. 410. b. I find mention of

Num. 2152. — 2153.

- St. Robert de Harley, anno 17 Edw. III. and of Malculin de Harley, anno 29 of the same Reign, both being witnesses; yet the Name of this Noble Family is not in the Table abovementioned.*
- Then follows*
2. The Names of the Heads of many Welsh Families, with their Armes in Blason; with a short Account of their Descendants, and where they have Settled; as in other Books of this Sort. fol. 260. Intermingled with these, and also succeeding them, I find
 3. The Collection of Pedegrees mentioned before, being of Families both Welsh & English, though seeming to have been written by a Welsh Man. As to those of English Families, they are principally of Herefordshire & Shropshire; with a sprinkling of others in Worcestershire, Cheshire, & Staffordshire all jumbled together. fol. 260. b. Among these are some Church-Notes; and a few Copies or Extracts from old Deeds.
 4. Among these Pedegrees, namely at fol. 340. I find a Note relating to Natural History, & not to Heraldry. It is a short Account of a Tree that grew in Ashperton-Parke in the County of Hereford; which was 60 foot before it had any Bough. Then one Bough grew out so longe that a Man that stood vpon the Ground might touch the End of it with his Hande. Then it was fiftene Foot & halfe before it had any more Boughes. The Body was 3 Fadomes in Compass, and it grew very upright, &c. The Pedegrees are succeeded by
 5. The said Randle Holme's Alphabetical Table to the Coates of the cheife Houses in Wales, as contained in this Booke; which he made Anno 1669. fol. 413. b.
 6. Another Table directing to the Coates & Crests. At the End.
2153. An Heraldical Book in folio, written (for the far greater part) by the Second Randle Holme; and by his Son, on the out-side thus Entituled, Pedegrees of seuerall Places. Herein I find,
1. The Third Randle Holme's Alphabetical Table directing to the said Pedegrees. At the Beginning.
 2. The Collection itself, which is large & numerous, and both Adorned & Justified with Tricks of Armes & Seals, many Extracts from old Deeds & other Writings, and some Church-Notes. Moreover, it may be observed, that the Third Randle hath enriched the same with many Additions, Emendations, & Continuations; in some places, down to the year, 1703. fol. 13. In this Collection of Pedegrees, which although it be mixed, yet chiefly relates to Cheshire-Families. I take notice of
 3. Confirmation of Coate & Crest to William Allen of Brudley in Com. Cestr. by Rich. St. George Norroy, Dat. the 22 day of August, 1613. fol. 26.
 4. Original Letter of Thom. Heape an Armes-painter, to the Third Randle Holme as Deputy to Norroy, Dat. 15 Oct. 1660. fol. 49. A. Offering his Service, to Act under him within the Hundreds of Salford, Derby, & Blakeburne in Lancashire.
 5. A Descent of Broster, sett down by Sir William Dugdale, A. D. 1663. fol. 55. c.
 6. Grant

BIBLIOTHECÆ HARLEIANÆ.

Num. 2153. — 2154.

6. Grant of a Crest to St. George Beverley Kt. by Daniel Molyneux Ulster Kinge of Armes of Ireland. Dat. 20 of January, anno 2 R. Jacobi 1. fol. 83. b.
Here is a pretty distinct Trick of Ulster's Seal of Office.
 7. Grant of a Crest to John Cranach Gent. by Rich. St. George Esq; Norroy. Dat. 22 August, 1606. fol. 124. b.
 8. The Third Randle Holmes Alphabetical Table of the Names of Places mentioned in the preceding Collection. At the End.
2154. A Book in folio, written by different Hands, upon the Outside of which, the Third Randle Holme hath put this erroneous Title. Creation of Nobility; Robert Cooke, Glover Somerfett, & Jacob Chaloner Authores, &c. In it I find,
1. A Coppey of Robert Cooke al's Clarencyeux Roy de Armes his Booke. fol. 1.
This is that which is called Cookes Baronage. The present Copie is but indifferently written, & the Armes as indifferently painted; but yet, over & above, Emblasoned. The Second Randle Holme hath corrected or noted it in many places; and perhaps the whole Tract may have been written by him when he was a Lad or Youth.
Then follow,
 2. Creations of Dukes from temp. R. Edwardi III. and of Marquises from Rich. II. Earls, from the time of William the Conqueror; Viscounts à tempore Regis Johannis; and Barons from the Time of the said Conqueror; with their Armes in Blason. pag. 59.
This Tract may be of the Hand writing of Thomas Chaloner, who was Ulster King of Armes.
 3. His Notes about K. William the Conqueror; Sir Geoffroy Charney & Sir Amerye de Pavie; with the Armes in Blason of the Douglas of Scotland. pag. 116.
 4. His breeffe Noats out of Polichronicon, touching our Nobility. pag. 117.
 5. His Succession of English Earls, according to their Counties, partly in Alphabetical Order; written A. D. 1585. pag. 127.
The Second Randle Holme hath put this Note upon it, This is to be incerted with Jacob Chaloner's Notes in Confutation of Yorke.
 6. His Notes concerning the Children of our Kinge. pag. 179.
This Tract is Crossed almost all along, as having been transcribed, perhaps into the said Mr. Holmes long Roule of Kings.
 7. Descents of some Kings & Queens of France, in French; by the same Hand. pag. 193.
 8. Armes in Blason of the Lords Barons of England sithence the Conquest; by the same Hand. pag. 195.
 9. Part of a Descent of Talbot Earl of Shrewsbury; by the same Hand. pag. 209.
 10. List of the Knights of the Garter, in some time of Qu. Elizabeth's Reign. pag. 210.
 11. Episcopal Sees in England (These two last by the same hand as before) ibid.
 12. Orders & Degrees of Nobility in England. pag. 211.
 13. Procession of the Nobility, &c. to the Parliament, A. D. 1578. pag. 213.
 14. Abstract of the last Will & Testament of K. Henry VIII. pag. 215.
Then follows another Copie of Cookes Baronage, or Treatise
- VOL. II.

Num. 2154. — 2155.

15. Of the Creation of all the Nobilitye of Englande, sithence the Conquest, vntyll this Yeare of our Lorde God, 1586. Wrytten by Thomas Chaloner of Chester, in October. pag. 235.
This seems to be of the hand so often mentioned before; & by the Crosses, seemes to have been transcribed; or at least, a great part of it. The Armes are only in Blason; and here & there the Second Randle Holme has been Noting & Amending.
 16. Manner of the Creation of Edward Seymor Duke of Somerset. pag. 308.
 17. Of the Cloathe of Estate & other Ceremonies of Honour for Noble Personages, according to the auncient vsages. pag. 308.
 18. The Order of going to the Parliament. pag. 309.
 19. The Order of Batteile. pag. 312.
 20. The Assise of Armes. ibid.
 21. The Order of the Obsequie of Sir William Garrett Kt. late Lord Maior of London. pag. 313.
Most of these little Heraldical tracts above described, may have been taken from Mr. Robert Glovers Books. Lastly comes 22. An Alphabetical Table to the whole Book. At the End.
2155. A Book in folio, almost wholly written by the Third Randle Holme: who hath, on the Back, given it this Title, Barons of Cheshire; & Chester-Siege. It does indeed seem to consist of two Parts, and much of the first is a Sort of Skeleton towards an History of Chester, consisting partly of these unfinish'd Heads,
1. His Defence of Bruite; i. e. that there was such a Man as Brutus, who conquer'd this Land. But his Arguments are not convincing. fol. 1.
 2. Succession of the British Kings from Brute to Caffibelan. fol. 4.
Honest Randle says that he wrote this A. D. 1693. from a MS. of Dr. Williamson.
 3. Acts of the Brittish Kings ruleing in Brittain during the Roman Conquest. fol. 7. b.
 4. List of those Emperors of Rome, to whom the Brittaines were tributary. fol. 11.
 5. A Catalogue of the Roman Lieutenants in this Land, during the Britains Subjection to the Roman Government. fol. 11. b.
 6. British Kings after the Romans Departure out of Brittain. fol. 15.
 7. Of the Diuision of Brittaney or England into 7 Kingdomes, called the Heptarchy. fol. 18. b.
 8. Of the Kings of Mercia, or Merce-land. fol. 19.
 9. Of the Monarchy of England. fol. 21. b.
 10. Of Hugh Lupus Earl of Chester, & his Authority. fol. 25.
 11. Some short Notes concerning Battles fought in our late Civil War. fol. 28.
 12. How K. William the Conqueror gave the Earldome of Chester to Hugh Lupus. fol. 29.
 13. Brief Notes concerning the Families of Dutton & Harecourt, &c. fol. 33.

2161. An Heraldical Book in folio, mostly done by the Hand of the Second Randle Holme; whose Son hath much enlarged it by his own & others Performances, and (upon the Cover) entituled it Descents & Coates of diuerse Shires, &c.
In it, I find,
1. The third Randle Holme's Alphabetical Table to the Pedegrees contained in this Book. At the beginning.
 2. His Table to the Coates of Armes given here, Following the former; and is succeeded by

Num. 2161. — 2162.

3. The mixed Collection of Descents & Pedegrees abovementioned, adorned with many Tricks of Armes & Seales, extraets from old Deeds & other Instruments, together with many Additions & Continuations, even down to the year, 1699. fol. 175.
Among these I shall also particularly mention,
 4. An Original Letter of Mr. John Downes to the Third Randle Holme, Dat. 16 October, 1663. fol. 175. C.
Shewing his Concern that Mr. Dugdale Norroy would not allow him to be of kin to the chief branch of the family of Downes; nor to bear their Armes with a Difference. Intreating him therefore to sett the matter right, & to Satisfie Mr. Norroy; and he would give him 40 Shillings, or more if required.
 5. A Trace with Black Lead, in Order for a Painted Atchievement of the Armes of Peter Warburton Esq; Alderman of Chester. fol. 236.
This belongs to that imperfect Tract in the MS. No. 2163. which beginneth at fol. 71. (in the Catalogue §. 8.) This Mr. Warburton was afterward Knighted, made a Serjeant at Law, and came to be a Judge in Westminster-hall.
 6. Original Letter of Thomas Hulse of Clive Esq; to the Third Randle Holme. Dat. 29 July, 1692. fol. 240. c.
Concerning the Quarterings he pretended to, but could not well make out.
 7. Original Letter of Tho. Wood, to the Third Randle Holme, Dat. 9 August, 1669. fol. 243. b.
Shewing that honest Randle had not made good his Agreement with Mr. Dugaale Norroy, & was in some tribulation therefore.
 8. Original Letter of Sir Henry St. George Garter, to the Second Randall Holme, Dat. 9 April, 1641. fol. 244. b.
About the Fees due to him, as then Norroy; and requesting his Assistance, touching the Families of Povey, & Orpe or Orve.
 9. Original Letter of Tho. Meare to the Third Randle Holme, Dat. 3 November, 1698. fol. 248. A.
Desiring him to rectifie some Mistake in his Pedegree.

 12. The Third Randle Holmes Alphabetical Table to the Names of Places mentioned in this Book. At the End.
2162. A Book in folio, written (almost wholly) by the Hand of the Second Randle Holme; whose Son, upon Binding of it up, on the Back, gave it this Title, Pentice, Port-mote Courts Pleas. I shall say no further of it, (although it be worthy the perusal of a Cheshire Antiquary) than that I find therein,
1. The Third Randle Holmes Table of the Things of most Note in the same. At the Beginning.
 2. Abstracts out of the Records in the Threasury of the City of Chester, according to their Presses: i. e. Collections from the Rolls of the Courts

Num. 2162. — 2164.

Courts of the Pentice & Port-mote, from anno 53 Hen. III. to ann. 18 Edw. II.

2163. An Heraldical Book in folio done by several Hands; and by the Third Randle Holme, on the Back, entituled Coates & Pedegrees; wherein I find,

1. Armes of Welsh Princes, Nobles, & Gentry, rudely Tricked. fol. 1.

These are all Crossed out; which shewes that they have from hence, been Entred into some other Book.

2. Descents of Welsh Families; some in Welsh, others in English (vid. ante fol. 1.) fol. 10. b. 47. b.

Most of these are also Dashed out for the same Reason as the former.

3. Armes of some of the Irish Nobility, rudely Tricked. fol. 12. b. et fol. 13. b.

These are likewise Dashed out, for the same Reason.

4. Atchievement of William Warner of Marf-ton-hall in Com. Warwick, a Major of Horse for K. Charles I. fol. 14. c.

5. Some Pedegrees of English Families, intermingled with the Welsh abovementioned. fol. 15. b. 19. b.

These are also Crossed out.

6. Copie of an auncient Recorde founde in the Church of Buldewas in Shropshire. fol. 17. b. This relates to the noble Family of Burnell; and is Crossed out as the former.

7. Pedegrees of Shropshire taken Narratively. fol. 19. b.

This is all Crossed out as the former; and seems to be an Original Visitation-book of that County taken A. D. 1591. by Thomas Chaloner; who at the End thereof hath putt down some Notes relating to Cheshire-Families.

Then follows,

8. Fragment of the Original Visitation-book of the Cittye of Chester, taken A. D. 1591. by Thomas Chaloner for the Office of Armes; and seeming never to have been finished. fol. 71.

Fragments of this very Book appear in divers others. See No. 2161. fol. 236. and in the present MS. fol. 14. c.

The Pedegrees in this Tract are taken Narratively; and some of the Magistrates who gave the Information touching their Respective Families, have Subscribed their Names to the same.

9. The Third Randle Holme's Alphabetical Table to the Coats, Crests, & Pedegrees in this Book. fol. 99.

10. His Alphabetical Table of the Names of those Families, whose Armes are rudely Tricked, in the 2 first Leaves, and in the 8 last Leaves of this Book. fol. 102. b.

11. List of the Aldermen of Chester, in anno 1590; with the Names of 5 others who succeeded. fol. 104. b.

2164. An Heraldical Book in folio, wherein are contained,

1. An Alphabetical Table to all the Pedegrees in this Booke. At the Beginning.

2. An interleaved Copie of Raphe Brooke's Catalogue of the English Dukes, Marquisses, Earles, & Viscounts, Printed at London, A. D. 1622. from pag. 47. with the Armes Colored by Jacob Chaloner, & the Errata of the Press amended.

VOL. II,

Num. 2164. — 2166.

The same Jacob Challoner hath added many other Corrections, Explanations, New Titles, Pedegrees, & Armes; so that the Book may be said to be improved & carried on to the Year 1628. After which, there are yet some more by the same Hand; When this Book, so augmented, came into the Possession of the Second Randle Holme, he enriched it further with more Notes & Descents in very many places; which notwithstanding, did not hinder his Son from adding some more.

Toward the End, comes

3. The Third Randle Holme's Table of the severall Catalogues in this booke. fol. 409.

Which is followed finally, by

4. His Alphabett of all the Titles of Honor, whether Dukes, Marquises, Earles, Viscounts, or Barons; together with all the Surnames in this Booke: made A. D. 1670.

2165. An Heraldical Book in small folio, consisting chiefly of loose Leaves, or smaller pieces of Paper, (replenished with Heraldical Notes, useful in a Collection) pasted in an old Accompt-Book; which I shall but briefly describe.

1. At the Beginning is a Table of the Names of the Coates, Crests, or Quarterings in this Book; made by the Second Randle Holme, A. D. 1634.

2. Badges attributed to Brute, Cadwalyder, St. Edmond, St. Edwarde, Englande, Walles, Irlande, Marche, Vlfster, and Chester. fol. 1.

3. Badges, or Supporters of the Kings of England, from K. Edward III. to Queen Elizabeth, inclusive. fol. 1. b.

4. A large Collection of Armes both in Trick & Blason, sometimes with & sometimes without Quarterings; with many bare Lists of the Names of Families whose Armes were Quartered by the first Names of those Lists, &c. fol. 2.

Among these I take some Notice of

5. The Armes and Crest of Pierpoint coloured, fol. 3.

6. The Armes & Crest of the Lord Scrope of Bolton, painted by the same Hand; i. e. by Jacob Chaloner. fol. 4. b.

7. Trick of the Atchievement of Albrecht Lord of Puegheim & Horn, A. D. 1558. fol. 11.

8. Armes in Blason, of the Heads of many Welsh Families. fol. 14. & fol. 15. b.

9. An Engraven Print of the Lord Mordant's Atchievement. fol. 17. b.

10. Armes in Blason, borne by different Families of the Name of Wood, Woodward, Irby, & Ayleff. fol. 20. b.

11. Again, as to Jackson, Gibson, & Gybes. fol. 21.

12. Impressions of Wax from the Seales of Smyth. fol. 25.

13. Armes in Blason of the Knights of the Bath, made at the Coronation of K. James I. A. D. 1603. fol. 28.

2166. A Book in folio, upon whose Out-side the Third Randle Holme hath written the following Title, Namptwich-Hundred. The Sequestration-book of Delinquents Estates, for being true for the King of Happy Memory Charles I. within these Townes, Namptwich, Wistaston, Wouf-ton-Wood, Alveston & Leighton, A. D. 1644. 1645. 1646.

At the Beginning is, theless of some Use; and have from hence been Entred into some other Book.

2. Two Medicines against the Sciatica. fol. 69. b.
 3. A Table to the Armes abovementioned, begun by Jacob Chaloner, and finished by the Second Randle Holme: At the End.
2170. A Book in folio, wherein is contained, Part of a Law-Common-place-book, written in the Law-French.
2171. A Book in folio, wherein is also contained, Another part of the same Law-Common-place-book; by the same hand.
2172. A Book in small folio, written by severall Hands, but principally by the Second Randle Holme; whose Son hath on the Out side, given it the following Title, Deeds, Leases for Lives, & Fee-farme-Leases, made by the Maior & Counsell of such Lands as belonged to Chester. In it I find,
1. The Third Randle Holmes Table of the Things of most Note in that Book. At the Beginning.
 2. His Table to the Lands belonging to the Citie, set in Fee-farme, and paying small Rents: In the next Leaf.
Then follows
 3. The Collection of Deeds & Leases abovementioned, which are only Abstracts, & not Transcripts; and since they relate wholly to the Business of that City, I judge it not material to say more of it here, but rather refer the Reader to the Book itself.
2173. A Book in folio small, written by the Second Randle Holme & others; on the Cover of which, the Third Randle Holme hath written the following Title, What Writtings & Deeds are in the Maiors, Trefurers, & severall other Chests & Desks, in the Pentice of the Citie of Chester. Some of these seeming to be more remarkable than those in the last Book, I shall (notwithstanding my intended Brevity) make particular mention of some of them in these Articles following.
1. The Third Randle Holme's Table to the Things of most Note in this Booke, made A. D. 1669. At the Beginning.
Then follows

Explaining himself about his puttinge downe the Maiors Sword in the Cathedrall; professing that he only reverently layd his Hand vpon the Sword, without either Holdinge or Grippinge the same: So that, if the Sword was bare, it was the gladness of the Scaberd, not the Violence of his Hand, that caused it. For He thrust it not downe, but touching it reverently, said only these words, I pray you forbear in this place.
25. Order of the Bishop of Chester, & others, the Kings Commissioners, 11 Febr. 1606. fol. 13. b.
That Mr. Sharpe should declare himself sorry for this Act; & Mr. Maior to repair to the Cathedral, with his Sword, as formerly; and no Door to be shutt against him. This to endure, untill further Order should be taken.
26. Judge Warburton's Letter to the Maior, Dat. 3 March, 1606. fol. 14. b.
About a Reconciliation between the City & the Prebendaries of Chester.
27. Mr. Hugh Glaseours Letter to the Maior, Dat. at London, 20 March, 1606. ibid.
That Judge Warburton was of Opinion, that the City should be contented with the Order lately made; and so was the Lord Chancellor at first; untill Mr. Glaseour shewed him some Remarks he had made upon it. Then he said that he would write to the Justices of Assize to take the hearing of the Cause, and to Sentence the right on both sides.
28. Original Letter of Jo. Young to the Maior, Dated the last of October, 1633. fol. 15.
That the Cause between Sir William Brereton & the City, about the Privileges of the Nuns of Chester, had been solemnly heard. And altho' He shewed far more ancient Charters, then were produced for the City; some of them without Date, some from Hugh Lupus, & others of newer Tymcs; yet the possession of the Toll being proved by the taking thereof, for the Use of the Cytty, for many years, gave such Satisfaction to the Court, that Sir William fell far short of his Expectation.

Num. 2173.

29. The Kings Letter to the Lord Maior of Yorke. Given 2 July, 1637. fol. 16.

Commanding him to frequent the Cathedral Church there vpon Sundays & Holydays, without vsing the Ensignes of his Authority therein. This Letter was sent by the Bushop of Chester, to provoke the Maior & his Brethren to come to the Choir in Chester; but Reasons satisfactory were given, that the Maior of Chester is not so tyed, &c.

30. Letter of the Chester Magistrates, to the High Commissioners at Yorke, A. D. 1631. fol. 16. b.

Shewing that their Poursuivants, by wronge Information, did from day to day apprehend, vnder pretence of Delinquency, such who had no private Conference with Will. Prynne, when he was at Chester (who was justly Censured for a Schismatical Person) but saw him only to observe the Person of him; & others who saw him not at all; to the great Disquiet and Expence of many, and to the Subversion & Vndoinge of others.

31. Order of the King & Council, made the 6th of June, 1636. ibid.

Commanding the Lord Maior & Citizens of Yorke to Surrender up their New Charter; by pretence whereof they excluded the Deane & Chapter there from many antient privileges, and prejudiced many of his Majesties Tenants; in Order to the passing of another Charter to them, whereby what might be fitt should be granted to them.

32. Another, made 13 March, 1636. fol. 17.

Upon hearing the Cause between the City of Winchester, & the Dean & Chapter there, it was Resolved by his Majesty, that the Cathedral Church, the Bishops Palace at Wolvesey, the Church-yard, and the Close of the said Church, are & ought to be exempted from all Jurisdiction, Power, & Authority of the said Citty: and the Maior to be restrayned from Carrying vp his Regalia in the Choir or any other part of the Cathedral Church; but to have Leave to beare those Ensignes of Authority in any part of the Precinctes or Libertyes therof.

Randle Holme observes thus, This was sent for the Maior of Chester to peruse & follow; but to no purpose: For our Privileges are far beyond theirs. For we do, as of old, Assess the Clergy; and haue Power to come with our Sword vpriight before the Maior in any part of the Church.

33. Another, made 25 January, 1634. fol. 18.

Upon the Dean & Chapter of Canterburies Remonstrance, that the Magistrates there had Assessed the Clergy & all other the Inhabitants within the Precincts of the sayd Church, toward the Shipping-money: that the Clergie there should Assess themselves & Inhabitants; as they haue formerly done.

Hereupon Randle Holme observes that This was sent to the Maior of Chester, to induce him to yield to the like Privilege; but it did no good; for the Bishop & Clergy were Assessed by the City the same year.

Num. 2173.

34. Letter from Alderman Robert Sproston & Mr. Litler, to the Maior of Chester; Dat. 27 May, 1638. fol. 30.

Upon the full Hearing which their Causes had before the King & Councill, where they found so many & great Enemies, that had not His Majesties most gracious Favour been toward the City, and the Lord Keeper & Privie Seale proved its Nole & fast Friends, all had been lost. That the Matter of the Bishop & Deane & Chapter of Chester, whether they should be Assessed as belonging to the County-Palatine, or to the County of the City is to be referred to the Hearing of the Earle of Derby and two Judges. That the Cause touching the Gloverstone is lost; it now being to be noe parte of the County of the Cittie. But that Sir Thomas Aston, the onely Engener & Cause of the Cities Trobles, is Ordered to paye his Ship-money in the Citty, and neuer further to trouble the Boarde in that particular.

Here are divers other material Letters & Papers about these Matters, but the purport of them being (from other books) already specified in this Volume of Catalogue; I chuse here to omitt them.

35. The Cities Breefe concerning the Gloverston, shewing their Opinion, that all Inhabitants of the City, should pay all Taxes, Layes, &c. with the City. Confirmed by the Judges & other great Lords Opinions, and by the Custome of the City of London. Read at an Assembly, A. D. 1638. fol. 34.

47. A Warant from the Court of Admiralty to the Constables of Chester, requiring them to warne all Saylors to appear before the Judge of that Court. Geoven 1 of October, 1635. ibid.
- Randle Holme observes that it was not obeyed, because the Maior is Master of the Sea within the Liberties: so the Judges Power was soon quashed, & he stirred no further therein. vid. fol. 113. b.*
48. Letter of the City to the Lord Lea, Lord High Thresaurer of England. fol. 74.
- Shewing that the Sum of £ 330. charged upon several Citizens there by Privy Seals, was too much, after such Services as they had done, and especially considering the late great decay of their Trade: They desire therefore, that the said Privy Seales may be recalled, and only one to be directed to the Maior & Citizens for £ 100. and they would readily Lend it.*
49. An Order of the King & Council, Dated 6 June, 1635. fol. 34. b.
- Upon some Difference between the Deane & Chapter of Chichester, & the Maior & Citizens there; the Corporation were to surrender their Charter of the 19 Jacobi, and a new one to be passed to them, with all Privileges, &c. contained in the former, save that the Church & Close of Chichester should not be included as part of that City, but to be left as part of the County, as aunciently they were. Moreover, that the City should bee ingaged not to disturbe or affront the Deane or his Deputie, or their Successors in the Church or Close, for matter of Precedencie; nor to have the Mace borne before him in the Quire.*
50. Another, Dated 17 January, 1635. fol. 75.
- Upon the said Cities Assessing the said Dean & Chapter, & other Inhabitants in the Close, toward the Ship-money, & Levying part of it from them, when as they were likewise Assessed* 2180. A Book in small folio, being all upon the Subject of Heraldry, as containing,

1. A large Collection of Funeral-Certificates, being an Original Book, begun by the First Randle Holme in the Year 1616. and carried on (but not without several Interruptions) by his Son and Grandson to A. D. 1680. The Intent of the Certificates was to preserve the Memory of the Name & Family of every person who bore Arms within the Limits of their Deputation, viz. Cheshire, Lancashire, & North-Wales; the Time of their Decease, their Matches, Posterity, &c. A Matter of very good Use; undertaken by Direction from the Office of Armes, and fit to be for ever continued. But how it happened I know not, (perhaps by the unwillingness of people to pay a small Fee, when their own business is transacting, or by Negligence, or both) very many of the Armes are not painted with Colors, but only Tricked with the Pen, others only traced with Lead, and many wholly Omitted. In many Certificates likewise, the Original Hands of those Relations who gave the Information touching their respective Families, have not been putt; and several others are plainly Copies: Yet this Collection is valuable, and fitt to be consulted, upon Occasion. fol. 1.

Herein, I find,

2. The Order of Mr. Hugh Leighs Funerall; by the Second Randle Holme. fol. 125. b.
3. The Order of the Funerall of Humphrey Chetam of Cleyton, Esq; by the same. fol. 126. This Collection of Certificates is succeeded by some Papers mostly written upon certain squabbles happening between some Chester-Gentry, or their haughty Wives, about taking Place one of another; being
4. The Answer of Sir William Segar Garter to a Question propounded touching the point of Precedency between an Alderman of Chester, in Chester, and a private Gentleman, A. D. 1619. fol. 137. Here Mr. Garter gives his Opinion for the Aldermen, but not for their Wives.
5. Opinion of Sir Richard St. George Norroy, in the same Affair; Dated 18 July, 1619. fol. 137. b. That Mr. Roger Hurleston had been too forward in affronting Alderman William Gamull,
6. His Opinion about their Wives taking Place, Dated the 21 of February, 1619. fol. 138. Clearly for Mr. Hurleston in Respect of her Husbands Gentility.
7. An Order of both the Kings abovementioned: Given, the 29th of May, 1620. fol. 138. b. That Mr. Hurleston & all Gentlemen of his Ranke should, within the City, give place to an Alderman: and that Mr. Gamull having proved his Pedegree for thirteen Descents, and shewed a Deed of the time of K. Edward 11. Sealed

- by his Auncester with a Seale of Armes of the same Coate, which now he beareth: and his Brother and Himself enjoying the same Lands which their paternal Ancestors enjoyed in the tyme of K. Henry 111. Mr. Hurleston should produce his Pedegree and Proofes, or they would give Mr. Gamull precedency of Gentry before him.
8. The said Norroy's Order to Mr. Hurleston, to make no further Question or Contestation in that Matter; he having omitted the making proof of his Pedegree, Dated the 21 of August, 1620. fol. 139.
9. Original Note of one Honnyng to Mr. Penfon the Herald, desiring a President of a Knight & Baronet's resigning his Knighthood to another. fol. 141.
10. Precept of Thomas Howard Earl of Arundel & Surrey, & Earl-Mareschal, for Summoning Thomas Griffeth of Pantyllongdy in Com. Flynt, Esq; to appear in the Painted Chamber at Westminster, to Answer for his not giving in a Certificate to the Office of Armes after the Decease of His Predecessor, Dat. 30 June, 1638. fol. 142.
11. Letter of Griffith Hughes Deputy to the Office of Armes, to the said Mr. Griffith, Dated at Llanverres in Yale, 4 Aug. 1638. fol. 142. b. About serving him & others with Monitions from the Earl Marshals Court for not making the Certificate abovesaid. Here is also a printed Black Ticket, issued upon such Occasions.
12. Original Letter of Sir Richard St. George Norroy, to the First Randle Holme, Dated 31 July, 1619. fol. 143. Importing, that he had receaved Mr. Gamulls kind token, with half a hundreth Waight of Cheshire Cheses. That as to the Question between him & Mr. Hurleston, he had given his Opinion, under his Hand to Sir Thomas Savage. But concerning Aldermen & Justice of Peaces Wives, he could say no more but that Offices & Places of Majestacy can give no place to their Wiues. And that the Chese of 16 Pounds which Mr. Holme had promised to send his Son Henry St. George was not com up.
13. More Notes about this same weighty Affair of Precedency. fol. 144. b. et vid. supra. fol. 141. b. et fol. 149.
14. Original Letter of Mr. Sampson Lennard Bluemantel, to the first Randle Holme: 26 Nov. 1627. fol. 145. In answer to a Case put, as to the Case of Precedency of Barons eldest Sons, their Wives & Children. It seemes to have been for the Satisfaction of Sir Anthony St. John (who was a Peers Son) or of his Children. vid. fol. 139. b.
15. Original Letter of Sr. Richard St. George Norroy, to the same Mr. Holme: Dat. 26 February, 1620. fol. 146. About granting a Crest to Bridgman, whose Armes he was loth to Confirm untill he had seen the Grant of them. And about the Case of Sir Anthony St. Johns Children.
16. The Duty of a Serjeant at Armes, in French. fol. 147.
17. Original Answer of Sir John Borough Garter, William le Neve Clarencieux, and Henry St. George Norroy, Dated, the 21 June, 1638, to the Question about Precedency between Conquest at fol. 2. be looked upon as part of it. But in the next page, is another Title, viz.

1. The Armes & Descents of all the Dukes, Marquises, Earles, Viscounts, & Lords, that have been Created in England since the tyme of William Conqueror, untill this present day. fol. 2. b.
That is, this is either the Original Book, or a good Copy of COOKES BARONAGE, ending with the Lord Norris. The Armes are all Tricked in the Margins; and with the Armes of each King from Edward III. their several Badges are putt down.
2. Armes of some Princes of our Bloud Royal; shewing their Differences from the Kings Armes. fol. 2. b.

2191. An Heraldical Book in folio; wherein I find,

1. Armes of some few of our Nobility created by King Henry VIII. only begun to be traced with black Lead, without any Notice taken of their Owners, excepting only the Lord Ruffel. fol. 1.
2. Unfinished Armes of Nobility created by K. Edward VI. with the Names of four of them. fol. 4.
3. Armes in Colors, of Nobility created by Qu. Mary, but unfinished, & without their Names. fol. 9.
4. Armes in Colors, but unfinished, of many Nobles either Created or Summoned to Parliament by Queen Elizabeth; with their Names, & Notes of the same. fol. 12.
5. Among these, is a Relation made of the Petition of Sir Thomas West Lord La Ware, anno 39 Eliz. for an higher Place in Parliament, and of what ensued thereon. fol. 15. b.
6. Armes of Nobility, either Created or Summoned to Parliament by K. James I. with their Names, &c. fol. 18.
Of these, some are finished, others unfinished, and the rest only begun to be traced-out; or not so much as that.
7. The like for many of the Nobility Created, or Summoned to Parliament by K. Charles I. fol. 38. to the End.

2192. A Book in folio, wherein are contained,
